The slogan, "Give the bass a chance to grow," adopted by the Fish and Game Department of the Ontario Government should be echoed by all true sportsmen whether resident fishermen or members of the tourist army now swarming over the Province.

The genuine angler will make the message count for something by religiously adhering to the regulation limiting the day's catch to six and by returning to the water bass that are under the legal limit.

There is no particular satisfaction in catching little bass, and while there is a strong temptation when the fish are bitting hard and fast to keep on after them even when the day's catch has been taken, good citizens will recognize the fact that if fishing is to be preserved and if the hard-fighting bass is not to be wiped out completely it is necessary to obey the law.

The shortening of the season and the cutting down of the day's catch will do much to save the black bass from extinction, provided there is general co-operation with the department in making these changes fully effective.

A PITTSBURG INVASION.

Peterborough is to have an opportunity over the coming week-end of entertaining the Pittsburg Automobile Dealers' Association, the members of which are to hold their annual outing in this city and in the Kawartha Lakes area.

The visit of this large Pittsburg delegation is regarded as a splendid piece of publicity for this section of Ontario, and undoubtedly the favorable impressions it is hoped they will carry away with them will react to the distinct advantage of Peterborough in particular and the Kawartha Lakes in general.

Automotive dealers naturally make many contacts among the people most likely to be interested in this part of Ontario as a summer playground for tourists, and the Pittsburg visitors will go home, it is expected, with glowing reports of what the Kawartha district has to offer in the way of beautiful scenery, fishing facilities and other attractions for holiday seekers.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Automobile Club, the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs are co-operating in the arrangements for the entertainment of these visitors, who arrive in Peterborough by special C.P.R. train at 9 o'clock on Sunday morning.

Arrangements for their reception include a boat trip, and an automobile drive around the city and to Lakefield and Chemong.

SAM CLARK GONE.

By political foe as well as by political friend, the death of Sam Clark, veteran Northumberland politician, is deeply regretted.

Mr. Clark had the faculty so useful to men who engage in public life of making and holding friends, and it was characteristic of him that he numbered about as many among those people who opposed his policies as among the members of his own party.

A successful campaigner with a ready eloquence and the ability to make his audience think as well as sometimes to laugh, Mr. Clark's record in elections was without a defeat.

He was for many years a member of the Legislature where his friends were legion, his twenty-eight-year tenure of office making him the dean of the Ontario House when he retired from politics two years ago.

Eight triumphs in provincial elections were not his only election successes, inasmuch as Mr. Clark served his fellow-citizens for four years as Mayor of Cobourg, nine years as a Town Councillor there, and a member of the Town Trust Commissioners.

His passing will bring sorrow not only in his home town but over a large section of the Province, where his personality had made its imprint upon hundreds of citizens who were glad to call him friend.

BETTER THAN EVER.

It is a somewhat popular theory, especially among older people, that the young folks of to-day are deteriorating physically, that they could not stand the hardships that had to be endured by the pioneers, and that humanity is softening as the years go by.

Sometimes there are superficial signs that offer some excuse for such a theory.

But, on the other hand, the war showed that modern youth could endure privation and hardships, and face death as gallantly as the people of any other age, and the records of sport provide indisputable proof that the race is not degenerating.

In spite of the jeers of middle-aged critics, the young people of to-day continue to break world's records in every line of sport.

They swim at a speed that in the past would have been regarded as impossible.

They sprint faster, they run the middle distances faster, and they cover the marathon grind in shorter time than the athletes of yesterday dreamed of.

The records of the pole vault, the high jump, the shot put and other field events have been repeatedly broken.

Within the last week Olympic candidates in the United States and in England have smashed world marks, and Canadian athletes have broken Canadian records and equalled the world's best performances.

It is certain that in the Olympic contests at Amsterdam many outstanding performances will help to sweep away the idea that the youth of to-day is inferior in physique to anything produced in the past.

FOR THE "GOOD OF SCIENCE."

The truth is out concerning the motives behind many of the attempts which are now being made to span the oceans by aeroplane or dirigible, to penetrate areas of jungle or ice and generally, to embark upon adventures which carry with them extreme hazard and exceptional notoriety. Ostensibly many of these undertakings are being attempted for the addition to scientific or other knowledge which their success will make. Aviators speak self-sacrificingly of risking their lives for the advancement of aviation and explorers hand themselves pats upon the back by referring in glowing terms to the good that will be done to geography or to science through their discoveries, if they manage to survive the perils that confront them. Not a few of these men and women are undoubtedly sincere, but there is growing evidence that a great many more are induced to risk their lives for the notoriety that they will receive and the price that newspapers are willing to pay for the stories of their exploits.

A representative of one of the largest news-gathering organizations on the continent, interviewed by Editor and Publisher, declares that "since Lindbergh flew to Paris last year, an average of one aviator a week has come to us with some daring idea which they want us to buy and exploit. It has become a money-making proposition, very largely. The old-time suggestion that lives were being risked for the 'good of aviation' or for the 'sake of science' is being discarded now as bunk. An editor cannot deal directly with the man who has an adventure story up his sleeve. He has his press agent, his literary agent, his manager, his lawyer, even his board of directors. In a very blase fashion these supernumaries tell us they expect their client will receive $100,000 for the newspaper rights. They won't deal with one editor alone. They want to know how much he will bid. Then they carry that offer to another for a boost."

This practice has induced news-gathering organizations and certain of the more influential newspapers to call a halt to the heavy expenditure incurred in obtaining these stories (very often written by members of their staffs rather than by the particular celebrity whose name is attached to them) and to decline to enter into any negotiations for the purchase of such stories until the success of the venture is assured. And, as a result, according to the testimony of the New York Times, which has been the principal buyer of the stories concerning trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific flights, "the market is steadily going down." "Soon we will cover trans-Atlantic flights," says an executive of that newspaper, "just as we report 'city briefs,' merely stating the time of starting and the hour of arrival." And when that time comes, unless we are very greatly mistaken, there will be an enormous decrease in the number of individuals who are now jeopardizing their lives in making trans-oceanic hops, generally "for the sake of science" or "the good of aviation."—Brockville Recorder and Times.

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

During their recent annual convention, Illinois bankers discussed in formal session the decline of the savings bank in popular favor. This appears to have arrived coincidently with the development of the craze for stock market speculation, and among the suggestions considered was a proposal that a savings account should be sold to wage-earners and farmers as a gilt-edged investment, liquid in the extreme and paying three per cent. interest because of certain interest advantages that no bond, no matter how good, could possibly possess. In the meantime, however, interest in the larger centres of population is being directed towards the possibility of reviving the cult of the savings account, now that the speculative wave has spent its force. Observers with the finger on the public pulse reason that the small speculator having had the unpleasant experience of seeing his paper profits disappear with even greater celerity than they arrived, will now revert to an ultra-conservative mood. These authorities judge that the disillusioned get-rich-quick prospectors will shun future stock exchange ventures as the burht child dreads the fire.

But equally shrewd judges doubt if the savings account will ever return to its pre-war status. Whether for good or ill, a very large percentage of the wage-earners have found that stocks can be bought and sold with ease, and that the yield on most of these issues is far more than offered by the little pass-book that was once regarded as the financial cornerstone of any family in moderate circumstances. There will be occasional grief through unwise investments, but once the pleasant thrill of a quarterly dividend has been experienced, it is hard to forego. The savings account of the future will be the repository of funds for emergency purposes, or for accumulation that new securities may be bought, but the old days of hoarding at 3 per cent. are on the wane.

All this is regarded as leading to a new trend in banking. The larger financial institutions in the United States have long since sensed it and expanded accordingly. Some of the smaller banks have only just become aware of it. The bank of the past relied for its profits largely on the difference between the interest received from its own investments and the interest paid on deposits made by its customers. The bank of the very near future will be dependent rather upon its ability to originate and retail securities to the steadily increasing army of small investors.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

SEEKS R. T. BIGGS

Massey Station,

July 5, 1928

Editor, Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir.—I am coming to you for help. There is a party by the name of R. T. Biggs of Peterborough, who owns a parcel of land in a local township. This land was given him for services rendered in the Boer War. I have been trying to locate him for several years, and so far have failed. I am coming to you now to see if you can help me.

Thanking you, I remain,

Yours truly,

J. Harry Caldwell.

Sporting Editor, Examiner, City.

Dear Sir.—It might interest our local disciples of the rod and line to hear that while rowing on Chemong Lake, near the island, with Mr. A. Warne, we noticed floating on the surface a pickerel about nine inches long.

This is, I think, the first seen of the fry placed in the lake some three years ago, and it is to be hoped there are plenty more of them as with a couple of years more growth and the natural increase in numbers they should materially improve the sport at this popular resort.

Yours truly,

W. J. Hopwood.

The Question Box

P.D. — Q. Does Peterborough or Oshawa use more electric power?

A. Oshawa. Latest H.E.P.C. figures give the peak load in horsepower: Peterborough 5,467.8, a decrease in 1927 from 1926 of 247.9; Oshawa, 6.933, an increase in 1927 over 1926 of 917.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord hath made known His salvation: His righteousness hath He openly showed in the sight of the heathen. He hath remembered His mercy and His truth toward the house of Israel: all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.—Ps. 98: 2-3.

Almighty God and Heavenly Father, Who, through Thine only-begotten Son didst sanctify the ties of marriage and home, we heartily thank Thee for Thy loving care and watchful providence over us from the beginning of our lives to this day. We praise Thee for all our happiness and joys; for the gifts of affection and sympathy towards one another; for any chastening of sorrow or tribulation with which Thou hast seen fit to visit us. And we beseech Thee to continue Thy gracious goodness towards us. Give us grace to do our daily duties faithfully, as parents or children, as members of Thy Church, and as citizens of the nation Pardon all our offences, and make us sorry for them with the godly sorrow that worketh repentance unto salvation. Comfort the distressed, bless the work of the clergy and all other servants of Thy Kingdom. Bring the nations into Thy fold, and add the heathen to Thy inheritance, so that righteousness and peace, truth and justice, fellowship and goodwill may prevail among men, to the honor and glory of Thy Name, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Thought

BEAUTY.

Love is the one lovely thing in life. It is beauty, it is poetry. Call it passion if you will — what would the world be like without it? A place where every human heart would be an island standing alone; a place without children, without joy, without merriment, without laughter. No, no!

Heaven has given us love, and we are wrong when we try to put it away. We cannot put it away; and when we make the attempt we are punished for our pride and arrogance. It ought to be enough for us to let heaven decide whether we are to be great men or little men, and to decide for ourselves whether we are to be good men and happy men.

And the greatest happiness of life is—love. Heaven would have to work a miracle to enable us to live without it. But heaven does not work such a miracle, because the greatest miracle of heaven is love itself.—Hall Caine.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 10 (Canadian Press). — There was a slight improvement in the foreign demand for grain here yesterday, and on the decline in prices in the Winnipeg market local exporters were in a position to accept quite a few of the orders received for both wheat and oats, and a moderate amount of business was done

A feature of the local market was the improved demand from exporters for grain and sales of Manitoba No. 6 and feed wheat were made at c.i.f. prices, and several loads of No. 2 Canadian Western oats at 3½c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 2 feed at 4½c over, c.i.f. Montreal. Owing to the break in prices for oat futures in the Winnipeg market, a weak feeling developed in the local market for cash oats and prices were reduced 3c per bushel.

There was no actual change in the prices announced for spring wheat grades of flour, but the undertone to the market was weaker in sympathy with the weakness in cash wheat at Winnipeg. There was no improvement in the volume of business in any direction. The trade in winter wheat flour was also of a limited character, but prices were maintained on account of the small supplies available on spot.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were steady, with a fair demand from local and country buyers for small lots in mixed car orders to meet immediate wants. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats showed no improvement and the market was dull at $3.75 per bag of 90 pounds, delivered to the trade.

The undertone to the egg market was firm, with a good steady demand from dealers for the top grades and sales of Ontario fresh extras were made at 36½c, and firsts 33c per dozen, f.o.b. while Vancouver sellers asked 35c for extras and 33c for firsts, f.o.b., and Edmonton offered extras at 34½c, and firsts at 32½c, f.o.b. and Manitoba asked 35c for extras and 33c for firsts, f.o.b. shipping points. A firm feeling prevailed in the jobbing trade, but the volume of business was small. The receipts were 2,835 cases.

Owing to the very warm weather prevailing and the liberal supplies of new crop American potatoes coming forward, there was little demand for old crop Canadian potatoes, but as the receipts were small and stocks on spot in first hands light, a steady feeling prevailed in the market and prices showed no further change. Car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at 70c to 75c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 65c to 70c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track. On the other hand there was a good, steady demand for American new crop potatoes and sales were made at $3.10 per barrel, ex-track.

The condition of the market for imported beans was unchanged, the prices again being steady, with a small trade passing in choice hand-picked grades at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store, while car lots to arrive were quoted at $3.20 per bushel, ex-track.

The feature of the butter trade continued to be the strong undertone and another advance in prices of ¼c to ½c per pound was established yesterday. The volume of business was not large owing to the fact that buyers in some cases were not disposed to operate to any extent at the present level, and the market on the whole was rather quiet. The receipts were 1,888 packages.

In sympathy with the sharp advance in prices established for cheese at the country boards at the close of last week, spot prices yesterday were marked up ¾c to 1c per pound. The market was very quiet after the activity of last week, which was said to be due to the fact that English importers showed little or no interest in the offers made by exporters over the week-end at the advance in prices. The receipts were 6,268 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 10 (Canadian Press) — Grain values suffered an all-round break yesterday, the sharpest in several weeks. New low price records for the season were reached in wheat, corn, oats and rye. Arrivals of newly harvested wheat south-west were on a big scale, ideal growth conditions for corn prevailed, and cutting of the new oats crop was making headway fast.

Wheat finished heavy, 3¾c to 4¼c net lower; corn, 2¼c off; oats, ¾c off to 5¼c down, and provisions showing 10c to 35c decline.

Oats prices were the first to give way under increased selling. Reports were at hand that with favorable weather the oats in Central Illinois would be moving to market in time for delivery on July contracts here. Under such circumstances oats values went rapidly downgrade, and selling pressure spread to other grain, especially corn, which was reported to be showing more rapid growth so far in July than during the whole month of June.

Many standing orders to sell out and stop losses at various fixed limits were forced into action in all of the grain pits as a result of the sudden downward swing of prices. Early delivery of oats fell to the lowest level yet this season, but in other cereals the December delivery was only one that outdid bottom figures. Little rallying power was shown in any grain

Closingp rices for wheat were about the lowest of the day, weakness of wheat being accentuated by an official estimate that the Kansas wheat yield would amount to 200,000,000 bushels. Four leading markets in the south-west received 3,392 cars of wheat yesterday, against 1,617 cars a year ago, and export demand was slack, although a little hard winter wheat appeared to have been bought at the Gulf of Mexico for shipment to Europe.

Provisions sympathised with the weakness of grain and of hog prices, and cotton as well.

AFRICAN LABORITES EXPEL TWO LEADERS

CAPETOWN, July 10.—(Canadian Press).—As a climax to bitter quarrels in the South African Labor party, the National Council of the party met at Durban yesterday and expelled from the party Col. F. H. Creswell and Hon. T. Boydell, members of the South African Government and leaders of the party.

This action was the result of their activity in convening an unconstitutional conference at Bloemfonta, where a committee was appointed ousting the National Council of the party. The South African Cabinet is a coalition of Labor and Nationalist party members.

A HOME FROM HOME

What is a bungalow camp? It is indeed very easy to sum up. A home from home. It is not a tent-like encampment as we often imagine it to be, indeed no cheerier atmosphere could be found than amidst one of these rustic yet luxurious camps, filled with life, brimming over with a determination to get the best out of the surroundings, and indeed, life itself. Let us consider the French River Camp, situated in the heart of the rugged and beautiful country such as the province of Ontario possesses. Here is an ideal vacation for the canoeist, fisherman, golfer, the tennis enthusiast, and above all there is the privacy of a house of your own to sleep in. Again, there is a Devil's Gap Bungalow camp, amid equally delightful surroundings, a few miles from Kenora. All kinds of aquatic sports are available, including excellent fishing. Mention must also be made of Nipigon River camp, which lies deep in the north woods.

FREAK OF NATURE EXHIBITED HERE

Calf Has Two Heads, Two Tails and Eight Legs.

When the average human says "it would take a man with two heads to answer that one," he usually means that a man with two heads would be extremely fortunate and gifted with unusual intelligence. And by the same token, there is a simile sometimes used, however ungraceful it may seem, that "that fellow is as lucky as a dog with two tails." And there is the fairly logical, if not often applicable, contention that since a man can do the hundred yards in ten seconds flat, and yet only move two feet, he should, if nature provided them, be able to attain a much greater speed with twice the number of natural pedals.

However, were the three notions mentioned above embodied in a single creature, the resultant theory that the possessor would be gifted with more intelligence, luck and speed would be "all shot" by the experience of a calf, some six weeks deceased, whose unusual remains are exciting much interest while on exhibition on the side verandah of the Grand Hotel, George street.

Isaac Richardson, of Millbrook, is preparing for an extensive run of business, particularly on July 12, through the exhibition of this Nature's freak. The calf was born on the farm of Cyril M. Moore, of Cavan Township, its mother being a registered shorthorn Durham. But, alas, apparently it could not stand prosperity—it died, leaving a body boasting two perfectly formed heads, a white star on the forehead of each, four legs on which it might have stood, two tails, and a second set of four legs growing out of its back. The various parts of the body were normally developed, even to the hoofs. Next!

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, JULY 11, 1928.

Many benefic influences are active today, according to astrology, which reads in the skies much that is favorable to dwellers on the Earth.

Under this rule there should be foresight and wise vision, making for success in whatever project is undertaken.

This should be an uncommonly lucky date for ocean sailings and great throngs of European tourists from America will enjoy vacations abroad, it is foretold.

Money matters are subject to stimulating influences under this direction of the stars. It is an auspicious day for interviewing bankers or even creditors.

Foreign Bonds

Sound, Attractive and Well-Secured Investments

Interest rates, in most parts of the world, have declined to lower levels than those which have prevailed, at any other time, since the war. Many foreign countries, hitherto heavy borrowers in outside markets, are developing the capacity to supply their own capital requirements. So, it appears likely that, the trend of interest rates on long-term investments will continue toward lower levels. In view of this situation, the current market is most advantageous for acquiring long-term investments which provide attractive income returns.

HOLD ANNUAL DECORATION DAY

portals which open into everlasting and eternal life."

"We are here to battle against wrong, and to propogate good; and the best honor and the highest respect we can show to the memory of those whom we lovingly recall today, is to so elevate our Order to the noblest plane that we shall ever be building up a Christian citizenship in the Commonwealth of the great British Empire."

Rev. John Riddell, pastor of Grace Presbyterian church, addressed the gathering after the singing of the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," basing his remarks upon John 15, which he had read as a Scripture lesson.

The obligation the present generation is under to those who paid the supreme sacrifice in the great war, as well as the generations to come, was stressed by Mr. Riddell in his remarks. "They perpetuated the legacy of freedom left us by our forefathers, and exemplified comradeship, which after all is a very good definition of life."

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend," said Cihrst, and in his death on Calvary revealed in the finest degree the love wherewith the Father hath loved us. "These whom we honor to-day died for a principle, and a service to all mankind; generations to come will reap the reward of their laying down their lives in unselfish sacrifice."

"Let us stand for the principles for which they stood, 'Lest we forget' is the keynote of this annual service, and Oddfellowship is to be commended for stamping more clearly on our minds, each year, our debt and our responsibility to the men we honor to-day."

Preceding the service a beautiful floral pillow had been placed at the base of the Cenotapn by Brother W. E. Hall, P.G., and an impressive feature of the program took place when Brother H. A. Fallis, P.G., read slowly the names of departed brethren, and as each was mentioned, six members of the lodge, Brothers R. I. Fallis, E. Armstrong, W. Elzon, T. H. Bradley, A. J. Henderson, and N Belch, in turn laid bouquets of roses on the memorial pedestal. Immediately afterward the 'Last Post' was sounded by a member of the band.

The closing address by the Noble Grand, prayers by the chaplain, the hymn, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and the National Anthem brought another Decoration Day ceremony to an appropriate close.

A departure from the usual custom of holding the service in the Presbyterian cemetery, and having different committees drive afterward to the separate burial grounds, was made this year, the committee in charge, Brothers R. I. Fallis, P.G., W. E. Hall, P.G., D. Sheppard, N. G., Cecil Sutton, V.G., and C. C. Garside going in the morning and laying flowers on the graves in the various cemeteries, the public service being in the afternoon. The graves decorated included:

25 YEARS AGO TO-DAY.

Friday, July 10, 1903.

Petition circulated about the city for public meeting to discuss question of public postal delivery.

A local livery man was fined for failing to carry out promise to take party to the depot after promising to do so.

Among the Santhal natives, marriages take place at night and the bride is conveyed to her husband in a basket.

ACCUSES AIMEE.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy Says Evangelist Planned Raid in Temple.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 10.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy said here Sunday night that she sent a telegram to her daughter, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, from Kelso, Wash., a few days ago accusing Mrs. McPherson, who is in Los Angeles, of "scheming" to mortgage church properties for personal gain.

"I sent the telegram to protect my own interests," Mrs. Kennedy said. "Aimee had told me in letters that she planned to mortgage Angelus Temple for a quarter of a million dollars."

ATTRACTS ATTENTION.

Sign That Was On Display in Teco Store is Now at Pittsburgh.

Word has been received at the Chamber of Commerce from the district passenger agent at Pittsburg of the Lake Erie Railway Company in which he acknowledges receipt of the large hand-colored map of the Trent Waterway-Kawartha Lakes, which, prior to its shipment to Cleveland in May, was on display in the Teco Store window in this city.

The passenger agent at Pittsburg states that the sign is attracting considerable desirable attention to the district which it pertains to.

MUTUAL LIFE HAS RECORD MONTH

Agents Put Forth Extda Effort to Honor Chairman C. M. Bowman.

June 1928 was the most outstanding month which the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada has experienced in its fifty-eight years' history. The best efforts of the representatives of the company were put forth in an attempt to do honor to Mr. C. M. Bowman, chairman of the Board of Directors, and as a result every record was surpassed, the final total being fifty per cent. in excess of the previous record for one month. Mr. Bowman is a son of the first president of the Mutual Life, and the sterling tribute paid to him is not only an indication of the esteem in which Mr. Bowman is held but also indicates the confidence and trust which Canadians place in the company he represents, which now has assurances in force of over $400,000,000.

FALSE OBITUARY.

Being reported dead is no new experience for Jack Munroe, famous figure of the north country, ex-prize fighter and football star. When another Jack Munroe's body was found in a Rouyn cabin the other day the cables sizzled with the news that it was the one-time mayor of Cobalt of silver rush fame and original "Princess Pat." But now report has it that Jack is hale and hearty in Red Lake. This is the second time he has received a premature obituary.

Prices Remain Firm Less Activity Shown

TORONTO, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Standard Stock and Mining Exchange showed less activity to-day than yesterday. Though prices on the whole held fairly firm, declines were suffered by a number of the recent leaders. Central Manitoba, Sherritt Gordon and Hudson's Bay continued to drop. Sherritt closed at 7.25 for a loss of 35; Hudson Bay dropped 25 to 19.50 and Central Manitoba was down 12 at 1.08. Hollinger, on light trading, advanced 23 to 13.75. Sudbury Basin scored a substantial gain of 45 to 9.90. Malartic showed the most intense activity of the list, and advanced 6 to 1.41. San Antonio was also active and was up one at 45.

Noranda, the sensation of last week, to-day was quiet, dropping 1.00 to 52.00. Moffat Hall had a heavy turnover and was down one at 25; Potter Doal, another low-priced issue was also active and dropped 1 to 15.

Changes Are Fractional Stocks Go Into Slump

TORONTO, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Dullness continued to be a dominating note on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Trading was very light, and price changes were all fractional and mostly downward. Even International Nickel, which has maintained a show of activity recently went into a slump to-day, with only a few sales, the close was at 95⅝, down a point. Second preferred issue of the Canadian Canners had the largest turnover and was up a fraction at 22⅞; First and Common were unchange dat 92, and 19¾ respectively. Brazilian dropped ⅛ to 60. Massey Harris was up ⅛ at 41½, and Hayes Wheels was unchanged at 32.

In the curb section, British American Oil showed most activity, and was fractionally lower at 38⅝. Other oil stocks were steady or slightly lower. Canada Dry and Rights were down a little at 76½ and 1.50 respectively.

Just An Opinion On the Market

The theory of easier money rates and higher stock prices in the late summer and early fall has many proponents. Possibly this disposition to view the long term outlook with confidence accounts for the ease with which the market has rallied in recent weeks although the fundamentals of the credit situation need further correction.

We think the stock market has displayed a sounder inside technical position than generally held possible after so much wild public speculation earlier in the year.

It is not easy for the banks to force stock market deflation when there is no deflation of inventorics, commodities and general business to be accomplished. Speculators are being asked to get out of securities because they are too high and because loans are too big, but at the same time they are being told that business is prosperous and active and will get more active as the year advances. Speculators, therefore, probably will not go nearly as far as conservative authorities think they should in restoring ideal credit conditions.

If stocks are to be acquired on a bargain basis, the market will have to go substantially lower and brokers' loans will be reduced a great deal more, but the general business outlook is far from being dismal. A trading market is indicated for a time, with various uncertain shares working gradually lower, but with the better class of stocks meeting good buying on recessions and experiencing smart rallies from time to time. Since the peak of money rates has apparently been seen for some time to come and since the market has been controlled largely by the money situation, the best stocks have perhaps already registered their lowest prices for the present phase of readjustment.

The following securities may be included in the category of better grade issues: —Brazilian Traction, British American Oil, Winnipeg Electric, Asbestos common, Lake of the Wood, Canadian Industrial Alcohol, International Nickel, Imperial Oil, Abitibi, etc.

Victor Talking Machine has been under accumulation by interests expecting the stock to follow the example of the leading mail order shares in the United States in climbing into new high ground. It is pointed out that Sears-Roebuck is up because its June sales ran 32% ahead of a year ago and Montgomery Ward's up 15%. Victor's earnings for the last quarter ran 50% ahead of the corresponding 1927 period. The high for the stock this year was 104¾ and the 103 52%. Current sales are around the 90-mark.

Brazillian Traction can safely be purchased on any sharp reaction below the 60-mark. Those who have been actively interested in the stock are again aggressively sponsoring it and the opinion prevails that Brazilian Traction will see 75 before the year is over.

AN OPINION ON ASBESTOS.

It is felt that all those who buy the common shares of Asbestos Corporation, Limited, at present-day prices, put it away for a number of years in their safety deposit boxes, and disregard stock market quotations for the above-mentioned stock during this period, will receive substantial remuneration for their patience.

Asbestos Corporation is the leading factor in the asbestos industry of the world. This company has acquired the most important producing properties of asbestos in Canada, and ing with its affilations, has eighty-five per cent. of the world's supply in its grasp. This fact is of tremendous importance as it places the Asbestos Corporation, Limited, in a similar relation to the asbestos industry as International Nickel occupies in the nickel industry. What with further amalgamations on the horizon, especially as concerns the Keasby-Mattison Company, to perceive the bright future ahead for this company needs no great stretch of the imagination.

The asbestos industry seems to be only on the verge of real expansion. Constantly, new uses are being found for asbestos. The greater use of the raw material will undoubtedly absorb any surplus that in the past adversely affected prices for this commodity, and centralized control should be able to handle the situation for the advantage of the producers. Asbestos is essential for important and extensive uses, such as insulation of heat, brake linings and other parts for automobiles, protection from fire, coverings for roofs, fire-proof clothing, electrical apparatus, etc., and new uses are opening up constantly. In this connection the Asbestos Corporation has recently opened up a research department, which is expected to discover many new uses for asbestos, and this, in turn, is bound to find favorable reflection in the corporation's earnings.

The fixed assets of the corporation are valued at $20,598,156. Adding to this amount net working capital, which stands at $2,932,812, total assets have a value of $23,530,968. Deducting outstanding bonds, there remains available for the preferred stock $15,720,826, equal to well over $200 per share, while the common stock has a book value of more than $40 a share.

We have it on good authority that Asbestos common has been under steady accumulation for some months past by insiders. The buying has been done with the intention of holding the stock for the long-pull.

As there are only 200,000 shares of common outstanding, it is apparent that the steady buying is continually improving the technical position of the security. At the present time there are not more than about 25,000 shares in brokers' hands—a very small total. Whilst the immediate outlook is bright, yet the future possibilities of the company and industry are tremendous. Those who favor the stock are convinced that a price of $100 a share for the common can be expected before two years time.

Reactionary Effect After Early Strength

NEW YORK, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices turned reactionary to-day after an early display of strength. eFars of higher money rates, intensified by the marking up of call money renewal rate to 6 per cent and calling of about 15,000,000 in bank loans cast a damper on the bullish enthusiasm. Early gains of 1 to 6 points were cut down or wiped out, and replaced by a number of declines ranging from 1 to 4 points in active issues, and much more in a few of the high-priced specialties.

Selling pressure was effective against such issues as Montgomery, Sears Roebuck, Wright Aeronautical, Warner Pictures, A Radio, Jones Manville, Curtiss and Greene Cananea Copper, all of which sold 2 to 4 points below yesterday's final quotations.

Operators for the advance succeeded in lifting a few specialties to new high records, but they had difficulty in attracting outside following in the general list.

Black Rust Reports Stimulate Wheat Price

CHICAGO, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Owing largely to more serious report about black rust, wheat prices averaged higher early to-day. Relative firmness of the Liverpool wheat quotations had also a bullish influence. Opening unchanged to ¾ up, Chicago wheat sagged a little in some cases, and then scored a general advance. Corn and oats developed firmness also, with corn starting at ¼ decline to ¾ gain, and later showing some loss all around, but afterward turning up-grade. Provisions were easy.

Insurgents' Outbreak.

MEXICO CITY, July 10 (Canadian Press)—An Excelsior printed despatch to-day from Patzcuaro, State of Michoacan, saying that the Insurgents had hanged Carrasco Sandoval, Federal deputy, his brother Carlos, and Mayor of the town of Tacambero.

BOMB OUTRAGE IN SOVIET CAPITAL

Reports Say Several Were Killed When Officer Explodes Bomb.

MOSCOW, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Tass, a Soviet News Agency, announces that Michail Ivanov, a Red Guard, was killed July 6, when a bomb was exploded by two alleged White Guards in the Bureau of Permits of the Soviet Secret Police.

Berlin newspapers say that a witness to the bomb outrage in Moscow July 6 believes that there are numerour dead and injured from the explosion. It is also reported that many arrests of political opponents were made.

FOUNDER'S DAY IS CELEBRATED

say that he was never for a moment indifferent, the work of hand always had his full attention. One thing he often said when questioned as to the qualifications of a Salvationist or of a Christian. He said: Earnestness first, earnest second, Earnestness first, earnestness second, and earnestness fifth.

"He was an earnest man, always wishing to do work for the kingdom of God. To-night there is a call to young men and women, to the older folks, to the children, to take upon their hearts the burden of souls. There never was a time when the need was greater than in these days and I wish you here to be most earnest in your Christian life and service."

During the evening the Ensign dedicated a new organ for use of the local Songsters, emphasizing the power of music as a means of blessing and comforting and prayed that the blessing of God be upon the Songsters in the ministry of song in the city.

CATHOLICS ARRESTED.

MEXICO CITY, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Secret service police arrested fifty Roman Catholics, including Jose Reveles Rodarte, a priest, in a private residence which the police say was fitted with an altar and all necessary vessels for conducting Mass. The prisoners were charged with violating the religious laws.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1927, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 23

The following question is one that usually puzzles the average player, therefore any light that can be thrown upon it should be useful and interesting. Suppose Z holds five diamonds to the ace jack and his partner, Y, holds four to the king, viz:

Diamonds — K, 7, 6, 2

	Z

Diamonds — A, J, 8, 5, 4

Should Z play for the drop, that is, play the ace and then the king, in the hope that the queen will fall or should he finesse the jack on the first or second round? One of the writer's correspondents has just submitted a mathematical analysis of the question:

"Let us suppose that B is the player against whom it is proposed to finesse.

"Now for every distribution of the cards among Y and Z so that they have nine cards of a suit between them, there are 10,400,600 ways of distributing the remaining cards between A and B. B will hold:

(1) Q, x, x, x ..... in 497,420 hands
(2) Q, x, x ..... in 1,939,938 hands
(3) x, x, x ..... in 646,646 hands
(4) Q, x ..... in 2,166,296 hands
(5) x, x ..... in 2,116,296 hands
(6) Q ..... in 646,646 hands
(7) x ..... in 1,939,938 hands
(8) None ..... in 497,420 hands

"The finesse will clearly win the Q in cases (2), (4), and (6), that is in 4,702,880 hands; the 'drop' will win in cases (3), (4), (5) and (6), that is in 5,525,884 hands.

"Thus it will in the long run be more profitable to go for the drop. Approximately the odds are 11 to 9 against winning if a finesse be attempted, and 9 to 8 if the drop be played for."

For those of our readers who have a mathematical mind, the writer would suggest that they test these figures and, if they find them incorrect, send me a letter to prove their point. It should be noted that the finesse, if taken, should be taken on the second round, not the first. That is, the king should be played first and then if the queen doesn't fall, finesse the jack on the second round. There is really no set rule for this play, however. The player should be on the lookout for singletons and if he notes that there are one or more in the suits already played, he will probably get better results by finessing in the above situation. On the other hand, if no singletons have shown up, he should play for the drop.

Example Hand

Hearts — A, K, J, 8, 4
Clubs — A, K, 10, 7, 5
Diamonds — Q, 6
Spades — 10

A		B
	Z

Hearts — none
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — A, J, 10, 7, 4, 2
Spades — A, K, J, 9, 7

In this hand as played, there was no score, rubber game. The bidding was as follows: Z one spade, A pass, Y two hearts, and B pass. Z three diamonds, A pass, Y three no-trump and B pass. Z four diamonds, A pass, Y five clubs and all passed. There was some dispute as to the proper bidding, and the writer was asked for his opinion, which is as follows:

Z's hand is a freak hand so should be bid in the first instance to give his partner as good a picture of it as possible. For that reason I would bid one diamond so that when I bid spades later my partner would realize that diamonds was the better suit. If you bid spades first and then diamonds with Z's hand, your partner has to guess as to which is the better suit. The best way to eliminate guess-work is to tell him the facts at once, and this can be done by bidding the diamonds first.

Y should then bid one heart and Z one spade. Y could then bid one no-trump. Such a bid should indicate to Z that Y has less than normal help for diamonds and spades and also has tricks in the club suit. Z's hand, however, is of such a freak type that he is not justified in leaving his partner in with one no-trump. He should, therefore, bid two diamonds and it is now Y's duty to pass. He has a wonderful hand to help the diamond bid and game should certainly result. After Z has bid two suits and rebid the diamonds it should be apparent that he has ten or eleven cards in these two suits and therefore no help in clubs. Y must pass the two diamond bid which should be the final bid.

The writer also was asked what would have been the proper bidding by the partners if Z started the bidding with one spade. Y should then bid two hearts and Z should bid three diamonds. Y is then in the position that an original diamond bid would have avoided; that is, he is forced to guess as to the nature of Z's diamond bid. Personally, I would prefer to try for game in diamonds, but would not criticize his bid of three no-trump. Z, of course, must bid four diamonds over the three no-trump. His hand is of such a character that it should be played at one of his suits. At this point Y should have passed and allowed Z to play the hand at four diamonds.

The bidding indicated at least eleven diamonds and spades in Z's hand, so that he could not possibly hold more than one or two clubs. Y's five club bid, for that reason, was very bad; the only one, however, that can justly be criticized. After it, Z should have bid five diamonds. I would never allow my partner to play five clubs with that hand and that bidding. Z's failure to so bid five diamonds is also subject to criticism. It is an interesting hand.

The house that advertising built

You've seen it. It's not large. Nor is it small. It's just comfortable. Every line of its architecture shows the hand of a master. It is built of splendid, lasting materials. From cellar to attic it is perfect. It is completely equipped with modern labor and time-saving devices—oil burner, washing machine, vacuum cleaner, electric irons, electric fans, etc. Everything needed to make living a pleasure is there.

It's the house that advertising makes possible. Everything in it from the asbestos shingles on the roof to the concrete foundation blocks is advertised—even the plan itself, made by a famous architect, can be bought for a nominal sum. And because so many people read the advertisements for the different things going into this house—because so many buy them—the price of this house is well within your reach.

The advertisements make it possible for you to live better

PICNIC PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Murray Township Sunday School Hold Annual Picnic.

SPORTING EVENTS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WOOLER, July 10. — The township of Murray Sunday school picnic held on Saturday was a grand success. Many large tables were filled to capacity by people from Wooler, Stockdale Tabernacle and Mount Zion. Many prizes were purchased for the races, beginning with the kiddies and on up to the adults. Sunday school officers. The "Merry-go-round" was an attraction which interested the children while others crowded around the ice cream parlor, while still others enjoyed the bathing beach. The sports continued for more than an hour in the spacious ball grounds and many remained and had tea under the beautiful maples.

The drive along the Murray canal is marvellous as well as a good sand road, leading out from the park to the main road from Trenton to the Carrying Place.

Friends' Picnic.

On Wednesday the "Friends" Sunday school from Wellington and Wooler united at Presquile Point on the lake shore, at a picnic.

Many visitors from the different communities were present. Mr. Hate of Hollywood, California, and the Rev. Mr. More and family of Toronto, were with the party of 150 who sat at the tables at the noon hour. A real social time was spent in renewing old acquaintances.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jarvis of Burlington spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bryant.

The Juniors of the United Church were entertained at a tea party on the church lawn on Thursday evening. The Rev. H. B. Neal arranged the sports for the children.

Mrs. Runciman of Meyersburg visited Mr. and Donald McColl during the week.

The Misses Elsie and Evelyn Runciman of Meyersburg, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Donald McColl, Miss Elsie remaining for a week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Putman attended the garden party at Stockdale on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson, accompanied by Mrs. Arnley Masters and Miss Eva, spent Wednesday evening at Presquile Point.

Mrs. C. R. Terrill and Miss Jane McColl of Port Perry, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Huycke of Oriand.

Mr. Jas. Fraser of Rochester, N. Y., has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs John McIntyre.

Mr. James Forester of Toronto, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs S. L. Terrill. He attended the Sunday school at the United Church, and gave a short address of inspiration to the young people. Mr. Forrester is teaching in a mission of foreign people in the city and is reaping wonderful results.

Mrs. Snider, who has been on duty as a nurse with Mrs. Esli Terrill for two months, is returning to her home in Trenton. Mrs. Terrill is living in a porch now in the sunshine and fresh air.

Mr. Stuart Woods of Saskatoon, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terrill.

A gathering of the McColl clan spent Sunday at Wellington at the home of Mrs. Ellen Murray, Lake Shore. S. D. McColl, Mrs. Mary McColl of Trenton, and five nieces with their families: Mrs. W. W. Crews, Robert, Evelyn, Lillian and Edith; Mr and Mrs. Donald Purdy, and Marion, of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dafoe, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jenks and Catharine, of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Covell of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Covell of Toronto spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Covell of Toronto, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Miss Edith Valentine has been appointed as a delegate by the Canada Yearly Meeting of Friends to attend the International Young People's Congress to be held at Brussels, Belgium, August 9 to 16. Miss Valentine will be privileged to attend the World's Yough Peace Congress at Erde, Holland, August 19 to 26. Canada is entitled to ten delegates and the United States 80. There will be 500 delegates in all. Miss Valentine sailed on the "Ascania" on July 7.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson, attended the garden party at Stockdale on Thursday evening. The lawn was lighted by lanterns and was filled with tables and chairs. The ladies of Stockdale served sandwiches, cake and coffee. A booth containing ice cream, candy and bananas, was well patronized. The Kiltie Orchestra, with the bagpipes, entertained.

Catchacoma News

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CATCHACOMA, July 10. — It will interest the public to know that the increasing desire of people to spend a portion of their holidays at the excellent tourist resorts at Catchacoma has prompted Mrs. Lehner, of the Westlake Inn, to run a stage for passengers to any point at Catchacoma, and that by addressing communications to Mrs. Lehner, 260 Reid Street, Peterborough, they can be conveyed to any resort there for about half the usual fare.

Tourists from Buffalo have been staying at the inn enjoying the excellent fishing.

The beautiful Mississauga Lodge is now also in full running order.

The Government gangs on the Buckhorn Road are putting it in excellent shape for Catchacoma tourists and for the Windovers' and other places down the line.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

A PROPOSAL

It was a flung-down challenge, but before Jennifer could find words with which to reply he had shut the door and the cab started away. Jennifer lay back with closed eyes. She felt faint and sick with dread, for she knew that unless she sent for Gaunt and let him bend her will to his she would never see him again.

She was late at the office in the morning but Mr. Gurney made no comment, and just before she went out to lunch Jennifer said:

"I should like to take my holiday from next week, if that will suit you, Mr. Gurney."

"Do, by all means!" he answered heartily. "Where are you thinking of going?"

It was on Jennifer's tongue to say that she did not care where she went or what became of her, but she checked herself.

"I thought of Cornwall—there's a little place called Porth—I've been there before."

She tried to speak cheerfully, but there was unconscious desolation in her voice and Mr. Gurney's eyes grew concerned. "Going with friends?" he asked casually.

Jennifer shook her head.

"No. I always go alone."

Mr. Gurney cleared his throat vigorously, and pushing back his chair rose and began pacing the room.

Finally he came to a standstill beside Jennifer's desk.

"Five years ago, Miss Fry," he began with extreme nervousness, "I believe I told you that I was not a marrying man."

Jennifer raised bewildered eyes. During the past few weeks she had lost all interest in her kindly employer. He was no more to her now than the office furniture.

Mr. Gurney went on determinedly.

"I've changed my mind, and if you will marry me——"

He paused, reading the quick refusal in her eyes.

"You won't?" he asked bluntly.

She tried to say she was sorry, and to thank him.

"Oh, Mr. Gurney——" But he cut her short.

"Not a word! Not another word! Forget it, as I shall." He held out his hand. "But we're friends still, eh?"

"Of course."

He went back to his desk.

"And everything's just the same?" he insisted.

"Just the same."

"Good! Now, if you'll kindly take down these letters——"

He had not written to her, or made any attempt to see her, and she had not written to him.

Much as she longed to give into him she did not dare; she could only hope for the best.

Mr. Gurney gave her a ten-pound note and said he hoped she would enjoy herself.

"Pity you're going alone though," he said regretfully. "Haven't you got a friend you could take along?"

"I'm used to being alone," Jennifer said.

But the night before she went her courage failed her. Supposing she never saw Gaunt again? He had so many interests in his life to crowd her out, supposing the time came when there was no longer a place for her? After all, what would it matter if they spent their holidays together? There was nobody to whom she was responsible for her actions and he was man of the world enough to decide for himself what he should do.

She had never done such a thing before, and she shook with nervous fright as she waited for the number.

But Gaunt was not at home—a servant told her that he was out of town and they did not know when he would be returning.

Her limbs trembled as she left the stuffy telephone box and walked back home.

Out of town! Perhaps already he had definitely shut her out of his life.

"I was a fool, a fool!" she told herself passionately.

"Why didn't I let him come with me? It would have meant happiness for a little while anyway."

She left London in hot sunshine the following morning, but the fair weather changed as the train carried her further west, and when they reached Newquay it was cloudy and grey, with a heavy sea-mist shutting out the landscape.

Jennifer took a jingle and drove the three miles to Porth. She had written to the cottage under the cliff where she had stayed before, but had received no reply.

"Is Porth very full?" she asked the jingle boy as they trotted along the wide cliff road and turned down the steep hill into Porth.

"Not so full as last year," he answered stolidly. "The weather's been so bad."

"It's been lovely in London," Jennifer said. They drove up to the little cottage, all hung about to-day with the grey sea-mist.

Jennifer shivered as she stood at the cottage door waiting for her knock to be answered. The grey mist and the crying gull seemed an ill omen.

The Mrs. Jilly, who owned the cottage, appeared. She was a typical Cornish woman, dark-eyed and olive-skinned, with a pleasant smile and a cultured voice.

She had not had time to answer Jennifer's letter she explained, her other lady had only left that morning. But the bedroom was ready and high tea set in the sitting-room.

"You're having bad weather?" Jennifer said.

She went to the window and looked out, but even the open sea was shut out by the mist, and the little village seemed deserted.

"It'll change soon," Mrs. Jilly said cheerily. "I hear you've been having the sun in London. Maybe you'll have brought it with you."

But the sun refused to shine and for three days Jennifer wandered about in thick boots and a rain-proof coat, with a chill east wind blowing, and her heart in tune with the dreariness.

She had left her address in London with the woman in the flat below, for letters to be forwarded, but the only letter she wanted did not come.

"I shall never see him again," she told herself despairingly as she walked along the wet, wonderful sands, and she thought what it might have been had he been here with her. No weather would have mattered then—in her heart the sun would always have shone.

At the end of the first week she caught a severe chill. Her head ached badly, and her face and hands were feverish. Mrs. Jilly made her stay indoors and lit the sitting-room fire. She liked Jennifer and was sorry for her evident loneliness. She brought her hot milk and a pile of magazines which a sister in Fulham had sent her.

But when Mrs. Jilly had gone she took up a copy of a weekly magazine and opened it at a page of society photographs.

"Lady Edith Gaunt on the Lido."

It was an unkind freak of Fate, and the bitterness of death was in Jennifer's heart as she looked at the cold loveliness of Edith Gaunt's face as, in bathing costume and with a Japanese sunshade over her head, she rather impudently faced the camera.

Was it true that Nicholas did not love his wife? Could it be true that he preferred a woman who had to work all day for her living and who had never worn a really pretty frock in her life?

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HELPS COMMISSION

Women Help Protect and Improve the Warkworth Community.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, July 10. — The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Corey Zuefelt, with an attendance of fifty.

Mrs. David Massey, president, had charge of the meeting. The business part of the meeting took up most of the time. It was decided that a donation of ten dollars be given to the Police Village Commissioners toward paying for the fence which protects the young trees which were planted this spring; also that a donation of ten dollars be given the committee who are building the fence by the Catholic Cemetery. It was agreed upon to have fence built by the cemetery which was voted upon last year.

The report of the district annual which was held at Campbellford was given by Mrs. Harry Kelly and Mrs. David Massey.

Misses Lucille Palmateer and Amy Meneilly gave a vocal duet and a guitar duet, which were thoroughly enjoyed. A dainty lunch was served at the close.

Personals.

Mrs. William Isaac, of Castleton, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. John Beatty.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Ireland and family, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. Edward Shannon, of Trenton, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Baker.

A.Y.P.A. HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Members of Society From St. John's Church Gather at Hague's Point.

DISTRICT NEWS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 10. — The annual picnic of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church was held to Hague's Point (Lakefield Park), on Thursday with a good attendance present, and a jolly time was spent. Messrs. Laurence Charlton and Milford Hampton were captains for a game of softball, which was the sensation of the afternoon, and the record score rolled up showed that some innings were veritable merry-go-rounds for the winning side. The picnic goes down into the association's annals as one of the jolliest ever held.

Large Fish.

Messrs. Fred C. Crawford and R. H. Hunter, who were out fishing on Tuesday evening, were successful in landing a fine maskinonge weighing 23 pounds. It measured 46¼ inches long and 17 inches in girth. As this is the largest fish caught this season here, the lucky gentlemen are the envy of all disciples of Izaak Walton in the locality.

The Prince of Wales' gift of peonies to Lakefield are flowering beautifully and evidently have taken kindly to their new surroundings. Every village and town in Canada was remembered in this beautiful way by the Prince in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation.

Dr. Sherwin W. McIlmoyle was successful in passing the examination of the Medical Council. Dr. McIlmoyle graduated in the 1927 class at Queen's University.

Personals.

Rev. and Mrs. James Ross left on Thursday for a month's vacation, which they will spend in Hamilton, Guelph and Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Pakenham and Miss Gwelda Pakenham, of Peterborough, were in the village on Wednesday.

Mrs. Ray Anderson and daughters Audrey and Marjorie, of Trenton, are visiting the former's parents, Captain and Mrs. Frank Morin.

A wedding of local interest took place in Edmonton, Alberta, on June 29th, when Gladys Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cox, became the bride of Mr. Blake McCutcheon, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McCutcheon, of Maribank, Ontario. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cox were former residents of Peterborough, and the bride, who was born here, has many relatives and friends in the city and district. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, the bride wearing a French gown of rose glow crepe with yoke of Alencon lace. Her hat was a large shape of mohair in contrasting shades and she carried a bouquet of Ohella rosebuds showered with sweet peas. She wore a choker of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. After the ceremony, a dainty buffet luncheon was served from the dining room, which was suitably decorated with white satin streamers draped from the table and held in place by tiny silver vases containing rosebuds, and centred with the wedding cake. Later, Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon left for a honeymoon at Banff, the bride travelling in a smart ensemble of beige Rodier kasha with hat to match. The young people were recipients of many beautiful presents, among them a case of Roger's silver, the gift of the Canada Biscuit Company, and a silver tea service, the gift of the office staff of the same company, with whom the bride has been associated for the past two years.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

A NEWLY-BUILT home in Peterborough has the cutest breakfast nook I have seen—but I'm not going to eulogize dining alcoves, breakfast rooms, or what have you, to-day. In many houses where one of these conveniences exists, the completely-equipped dining room is used only when guests are present or on some special occasions. Most of the time the family dines and lunches as well as breakfasts in the breakfast nook.

It is a convenience, and the housewife has perfectly good reasons for wanting a regular dining room as well as the smaller eating place. But it has occurred to me that this saving of the dining room, which I know exists in many city houses, is on a par with the saving of the "parlor" that was general a generation ago, and which seems to us at present so absurd.

You know how it was—probably you had one when you were little—women had a best parlor, which, furnished with the choicest furniture, carpet, pictures and ornaments, was then left with windows closed and shades partly drawn, to be used only for very formal calls. It was called, by our generation, a room saved for "weddings and funerals."

And now, having after many years learned to live in the living room, a good many housewives are contracting for themselves and their families the custom of not dining in the dining room.

A certain little Miss in a west-end home has the most delightful toilet-table set imaginable, all painted with pink roses and green leaves. But the painting, her mother told me, was not done by hand. All the pieces were purchased at a certain cheap store, coated over with a special preparation giving an antique color, and the pretty flowers were stamped on with rubber stamps. All the articles (even glass perfume bottles) are said to be washable so long as soda is not used in the water.

Do you like home-made canned fruit? Something in the way of relishes that are unusual? If you do, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Marion for this week's home help and she will send it to you at once: it is a group of recipes for unusual and appetizing fruit and vegetable relishes.

Last week's household help consisted of directions for making pot-pourri from fallen petals of roses, and a number of fragrant mixtures made from the sweet petals of summer flowers grown in your own garden. A few of the recipes are left—and you may have yours by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

And when writing for one of the above, why not scribble out that favorite recipe of yours and slip it in the envelope to be passed on to other readers of The Whatnot? Thank you.

At a picnic at Jackson Park the other day one lady had iced tea so delicious that I asked for the recipe. She called it Russian Iced Tea, and here is how to make it: 1 teaspoon tea; 1 tablespoon concentrated orange juice; 1 clove; piece of mace; a few grains of salt. Steep the tea in one cup boiling water for three minutes. Strain, and add other ingredients. When chilled, serve well iced, garnished with a spray of mint and a maraschino cherry. This will make an individual portion.

There is to be found in the city now a wet-proof electric heating pad. The outside of this pad looks very much like the ordinary electric pad, but there is an inside water container which may be kept warm for heating purposes in the sick room.

A delicious sandwich which I enjoyed last week was made with canned corned beef cut into thin slices across the grain, spread with mustard and chopped pickle.

While on that picnic, by the way, I saw two couples strolling along in view of dozens of holiday makers. Nothing unusual in that, you say? No, but in each case the young man had his arm around the young lady's neck. All the world is supposed to love a lover, but . . .

One wonders what the etiquette book would have to say about it!

• • •

And will some up-to-date miss tell out-of-date me whether that is the "necking" about which one hears so much?

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:
I am taking a correspondence school course in French to help me in my work, and up to July 1 studied hard. Now I am thinking of letting my books go during the Summer so that I may enjoy myself. I have a long time to study in life and only a short time in which to enjoy my youth. How can I convince my mother that I should not study this summer?
Vacationist.

No help, my dear girl, from me, because we know that the habit of studying must not be destroyed by your summer whim. You are paying out good money and you should get a return. Only a few of those who start correspondence courses have the stamina to finish—which makes it all the easier for them to win promotion over the laggards. Don't let the good sense which you have already shown in starting this course in French be destroyed by a rising thermometer.

"Dear Marion:
I am thinking of starting a little semi-open dining room decorated in Spanish style. Can you suggest a Spanish name?
Mrs. M. J."

Why not call it "Comedor," which is that language means dining room.

• • •

"Dear Marion:
I have enjoyed reading both the 'Whatnot' and the letters which you receive, and I wondered whether you could suggest a cure for that very plebian affliction, a shiny nose?
Wonderling."

For some obscure reason that is a puzzle and an annoyance, nature seems to have been unnecessarily lavish in supplying oil for the nose. We know that natural body oils are essential for keeping the skin smooth, healthy and pliable. But who wants a pliable nose?

The best way to go at a cure is from the ground up. The nose, together with the rest of the face, should be treated to a thorough cleansing at least once each day. For the shiny nose, the cleansing should be followed by the application of a mild astringent to close the pores. A dash of tincture of benzoin added to a witch hazel is good.

Now comes the powder, after drying. It should be the merest film. In purchasing powder, if your nose is inclined to shine, ask for a make that is specially prepared for oily skins. Always remove every trace of previous powdering. Laying one layer of powder on top of another is certain, sooner or later, to lead to more serious trouble than the shine.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

An appropriate mourning costume of black and white printed chiffon frock and black coat lined with the printed chiffon. The hat is light-weight black straw. Sheer black stockings and dull black shoes were chosen.

There is or should be a definite though sometimes quite subtle distinction between the black costume worn merely from choice—and the black costume worn for mourning. To be sure, many persons with good reason refrain from mourning black—but others see an advantage in the custom.

It certainly is disconcerting to wear what you consider a decidedly festive-looking black ensemble and then to have some old friend meet you, assume a look of deep sympathy and tactfully ask you concerning your bereavement. To avoid such possible confusion many women waring black from choice always add a touch of color obvious enough to make any misunderstanding impossible. To a discerning observer, however, there are differences besides this bright touch of color that ought to be enough.

For instance, with mourning apparel stockings should always be of black. They may be as sheer as you like but still they should be black. Shoes should be all black— with buckle or ornament of dull black. The black material chosen should be of dull surface and jewelry if worn should be confined to dull silver, dull jet or pearls—and the pearls should be untinted and small. Usually the only diamonds permitted are those in the engagement ring.

Save in deep or first mourning it is permissible to wear combinations of black and white, but they should not be of the striking magpie sort. Some of the black and white printed chiffons and dull silks may be chosen for the frock, though the coat is preferably all black. And the figure of the print should not be of staring, startling design.

The sketch shows a mourning ensemble in excellent taste, the frock and lining of the coat consisting of black and white chiffon printed in a softly shaded design. The hat chosen was all black light-weight straw and the fur collar was silver fox—black with white tip on the tail.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

PEACH WHIP.

1 package jelly powder or jello
1 cup boiling water
1 cup peach juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup crushed peaches, sweetened and drained
2 or 3 drops bitter almond flavoring

Disolve the jelly in boiling water. When cool add peach juice. When cold and slightly thickened, whip with rotary egg-beater until consistency of whipped cream. Fold in whipped cream, peaches and flavoring. Chill until firm. This serves eight persons.

Something in Exchange.

By Edgar T. Monfort.

"Now, just don't people have the hardest time of anybody?"

Clarice Makay addressed this remark to the walls of her back hall bedroom. The room was frequently, and for long periods, her sole companion and listener since she had been sick and out of a job, so she conversed freely as she lounged in the shabby old chair by the window, her gray-blue eyes looking rather wistfully at the weather-bitten brick walls that faced her across the way.

After two weeks of sitting by that window she had learned a great deal about the families around her. She knew that there were five little tow-headed tots in one of the apartments that backed up close to her window; children ranging in age from a tiny baby up to a little girl not more than seven or eight. She knew that the father always shaved by the kitchen window, that the mother was small and energetic and always laughing, and that she flitted around the little apartment like a bird.

One day Clarice was interested to know why there was so much bustling and excitement over there. The children seemed noisier and happier than ever, they ran around all day tugging at each other and tumbling about, squealing with laughter and chanting some ridiculous tuneless thing over and over: "Unkie tomin' today. Unkie tomin' today. Unkie tomin' todaaaay!" She could hear it through the open windows. The mother flew around from room to room but seemed to be concentrating her efforts in the kitchen Clarice could see her mixing something in a bowl while the children stood excitedly around the edge of the table, then with a deft movement pouring it into a pan and putting it in the oven.

"Cake!" said Clarice to her room. "Somebody's coming to supper, I bet. Company! And I'm so lonesome!"

She tried to turn away from the window and concentrate on the book in her lap, but it was useless.

At last she threw down the book and leaving her chair put on her hat and went to the cafeteria three blocks up and two across, for an early supper. She wasn't hungry, but she thought it might help to kill time and she simply couldn't stand to look out the window any more. She wished she had her old job back, but her boss had said that he could not turn off the substitute until she'd finished out her month. Beside, he told Clarice that more rest would be good for her.

When she returned to her room after supper the light was on in the apartment across the court and she had scarcely seated herself by the window when she saw a tall, youngish man walk into the tiny kitchen, followed by the father. He was greeted by wild screams of delight from the children, who dashed across the room and frantically hugged his legs while the mother went over and gave him a gay little peck on the cheek.

The happiness and warmth of the family scene went through Clarice like a stab and she felt the quick tears rushing into her eyes. Jumping up she threw herself across the bed in the dark.

It was some time later that she heard a tap on her door, followed by a quick entrance and the voice of her landlady speaking as she found the button and switched on the light.

"Here's somebody to see you, dear," she said as Clarice looked up and recognized the little woman across the court standing behind the speaker.

"I'm Mrs. Watson. I grew up in the country," she laughed apologetically as she came into the room, "and I guess it's still sticking to me and makes me feel neighborly. I've been trying to come over and visit you for days. We've seen you sitting by the window and I knew you were sick and you seemed to be alone. My brother's just come to visit us for a few days and the children wouldn't give me any peace until I came over and asked you to have supper with us. I guess you think I'm crazy."

"Crazy!" echoed Clarice with a little catch in her voice. "I wish I could tell you how glad I am to go."

It was a hilarious evening that the girl spent in the Watson apartment. The children were too excited to be sane. They showed Clarice the toys Uncle Jack had brought them and played with her as if they'd known her all their little lives. After they had gone to bed the four grown-ups settled down to a game of bridge and it was nearly twelve o'clock when Uncle Jack finally escorted Clarice back home.

He had only planned to spend the week-end at his sister's, but the days dragged out into a week and it was on the last evening as he was taking Clarice home that he turned and took her in his arms.

"Clarice, I guess you think I work fast," he whispered, "but, honey, I must go back tomorrow and I want to find out where I stand with you before I leave. I know you have a wonderful job and maybe you'd rather live in town than out on the farm with me—but—I do love you with my whole heart and I'd do anything in the world to make you happy. Can't you love me a little?"

"I feel that if I did give up my job and city life I'd be getting something—well worth while in exchange," she said simply.

And he—oh, well, you know the rest.

Perfect Strawberry Jam or Jelly every time the Certo way

CAN you think of anything better with hot biscuits or toast than delicious Strawberry Jam, with the delicate, delightful flavor of the fresh fruit? Or strawberry jelly on tarts? The short boiling time which the Certo method makes possible preserves the delicate, natural flavor and color of the fresh fruit.

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal of Miss Farmer's School of Cookery, Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says: "I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because: It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better—No flavor boiled away. Better color—Not darkened by long boiling. No worry—Never fails to set. It's economical—Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

FREE—New booklet, beautifully illustrated in color! 24 pages of new ideas about the making of jams and jellies—new and interesting ways to serve them. Mail this coupon.

The NEW and IMPROVED KOTEX

Acclaimed by Women
Endorsed by Doctors Scientifically Deodorizes*

IN every drug, dry goods and departmental store in the country today you will find the New and Improved Kotex.

The New Kotex is unbelievably comfortable. It is softer than ever before, cool and light to wear. Yet its absorbency is unchanged, its effective area the same.

It is comfortable because it fits like a garment. Corners are tapered and rounded to avoid awkward bulkiness. In Kotex you have a soft, pliable napkin that can be adjusted to suit your own ideas of thickness.

The old features of Kotex are unchanged. The same high absorbency that gives absolute protection—same deodorizing—same simplicity of disposal.

Deodorizes*... and 4 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pliable filler absorbs amazingly;

2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection;

3—*Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly, by a new patented process;

4—Adjust it to your needs; thinner, thicker; narrower as required;

and

5—Easily disposed of; no unpleasant laundry.

The New Sanitary Napkin Which Deodorizes

*Kotex is the only sanitary napkin that deodorizes with scientific accuracy. This ends an important fear—that of offense to others.

MOOSE LODGE HOLDS PICNIC

RACES AND SPORTS.

A very successful picnic was held by The Peterborough Lodge number 813 of the Loyal Order of Moose at the Pines at Curve Lake recently. A large number of the members with their families, friends and visiting members from Belleville Lodge left the rooms on Hunter street shortly after 10.30. On arriving, many enjoyed bathing and games before lunch. After lunch all participated in the various sports arranged for the occasion. There were softball games, races and horseshoe throwing. Much fun was created by the men's obstacle race and the ladies' boot and shoe race. A large number of children lined up for the many races. The prize winners were:

Boys and Girls, 3 to 6 years—Joyce Lasenby, A. Nokes.

Girls, 6 to 8 years—Joyce Lasenby, Irene Poolman.

Boys, 6 to 8 years—A. Lasneby, O. Driscoll.

Boys, 8 to 14 years—M. Harbison, D. Self.

Ladies' Backward—G. Rogers, L. Nokes.

Ladies' Boot and Shoe race—M. Nokes, Mrs. Bears, of Belleville.

Visitors race—Pat Regan, of Belleville.

Boys 8 to 12 years—O. Driscoll, A. Roberts.

Boys, 12 to 16 years—Dineson, A. Roberts.

Men's obstacle race—W. Cross.

Little Tots race—One prize to each of the three in the race.

After the races every child was given an ice cream cone. The ball game scheduled between the Moose team and a visiting team was not played because the visitors were unable to arrive in time.

Everyone, especially the children, returned home feeling they had a good time. The committee in charge of the arrangements and the ideal weather made the first picnic held by the Peterborough Moose a great success.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

Did you notice today that your tongue is beginning to get coated? Your friends may also tell you that your breath does not have a pleasant odor. Remember! You are going through a vigorous bodily cleansing, and as the poisons are being thrown out into the alimentary canal, your tongue will become furred and your breath will be full of obnoxious gases which your lungs are throwing out in the body's effort to eliminate poisons.

By this time you have probably lost your appetite, and you will be surprised at this, but I assure you that this is only natural, as you have not been hungry, really, for a long time, but have been catering to your appetite for tasty dishes. This is entirely different than being really hungry.

As soon as you get out of the habit of using regular food for a few days you will realize that you did not have a real hunger. You will be surprised, if you continue to fast, that this real hunger will not return for three or four weeks. No, I am not going to ask you to live that long on orange juice, although, in my private practise, I often have patients take an orange juice fast for fifty and even sixty days. People who have been very fat, will reduce over a pound a day under this orange juice fast. There is no danger of your starving if you live only on orange juice, as it is one of the most nourishing foods it is possible to obtain.

Eight ounces of orange juice contain as much vital food value as a whole quart of milk. I have been referred to, commonly, as the "Orange Juice" Doctor, and I have often been accused of having a financial interest in the Fruit Growers' Association because of my zeal in prescribing these fruits, but I assure you the only interest I have is in watching the wonderful effects produced by those who have learned to use the oranges intelligently. I have been so impressed with their value that I have spent a good deal of time in research work with various laboratory tests on patients to better determine the chemical value of oranges from the standpoint of health and disease.

The orange is an exceptional fruit which may be used by everyone if not taken in improper combinations with other food. The organic vitamins in the orange are in the purest form Nature has been able to produce. These vital principles are so combined in the orange that they are not incompatible and, therefore, we can use the orange juice as a definite medicinal food, the action of which, in the body, is always the same and always beneficial.

Tomorrow is the last time that I am going to ask you to live on the orange juice exclusively.

Repeat the orange juice diet tomorrow, however, the same as I have given you before, taking an eight ounce glassful of orange juice every two hours all day, with whatever water you desire.

Do not forget to take the two enemas, and your warm sponge or shower bath twice daily, morning and night.

It will be a good plan for you to take two or three walks during the day, which will help you reduce your weight and increase your circulation.

BOYS NARROWLY ESCAPE DROWNING

Driver Leaves His Truck On a Hill, Boys Release the Brakes.

Two young lads had a narrow escape from drowning at Arnold Dales, near Thurstonia Park, on Sturgeon Lake, yesterday morning. A truck was stopped on the steep hill that leads to the lake, while Hazil Thurston, the owner, left it for a few minutes. The two small boys climbed into the standing car and managed to take off the brake, which caused the truck to start down the hill for the lake. Mr Thurston noticed the car moving and rushed down the hill after it and was just able to leap on the side of it and steer it into a tree before the car went into Sturgeon Lake, saving the foolish young lads from a terrible death.

MISS VANCOUVER PASSES OVER TRENT

Boat Passes Through Trent Waterways On a Canada To Canada Cruise.

There passed through Peterborough early Saturday morning a smart "Runabout" type steam's powered Ditchbourn built 35 foot launch, enroute to no less a place than Vancouver, B.C., via Oswego, Albany and New York, N.Y.; Atlantic City, Norfolk, Va., Charleston, S.C.; Miami, Fla.; Kingston, Jamaica; Panama Canal Zone; San Jose de Gautamala; Manzanilla, Mexica; Mazatlan, San Diego and San Francisco, Calif., Seattle, etc.

The two British Columbians aboard, Sidney A. McQuillan and J. McArthur, expressed the hope that they might be the first Canadians to make such a trip, which had been attempted unsuccessfully and unofficially, by United States boating enthusiasts, they said. The purpose of the trip, Mr. McQuillan stated, was to try out a new type of boat and engine designed for British Columbia waters.

Mr. McQuillan remembered visiting the Trent Waterway-Kawartha Lakes booth of the National Motor Boat Show, New York, last January, where he received many offers from American manufacturers of boats, to use their craft for the trip, which he ordered, feeling, as a Canadian that he should try out Canadian equipment. His investment in the experiment, including preparatory expense extended over the best part of a year ran well over $15,000 stated Mr. McQuillan. On the successful completion of the trip Mr. McQuillan hoped to manufacture similar craft in British Columbia and in the East as well.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THREE BOYS

I've seen a lot of monuments
To men, I've even seen a few Erected at a great expense
To certain noble women, too.
But there's a woman they have missed
With all their bronze and bright alloys,
The one who ought to head the list—
The woman who has raised three boys.

Men always speak of Joan of Arc
And talk of Florence Nightingale;
They put their statues in the park,
And books about them are for sale.
She plunged into the battle's tide,
But what knew even Joan of noise
And conflict and the like, beside
The woman who has raised three boys?

Miss Nightingale had men to nurse,
And I admit that's weary toil;
But here's a woman who had worse—
To give three youngsters castor oil.
The shouting and the tumult dies,
A nurse at times no task employs—
But she has found it otherwise,
The woman who has raised three boys.

All done in bronze I'd have her stand
And hold aloft a brush and comb,
A skillet in her other hand,
And have the band play "Home, Sweet Home."
And then, her victory to crown,
To give her unaccustomed joys,
I'd let her now and then sit down,
The woman who has raised three boys.

INCREASE IN AUTOMOBILE FATALITIES

In Canada Last Year There Were 864 Accidental Deaths From Automobiles..

606 IN 1926.

British Columbia Leads With a Mortality of 13.4 Per 100,000.

OTTAWA, July 10. — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports 864 accidental deaths credited to automobile accidents in 1927, as against 606 in 1926, an increase of 42.6 per cent. The death rate from this cause for Canada as a whole was 9.1 per 100,000 population in 1927, as compared with 6.5 in 1926. In the United States for 1926, the latest year for which figures are available (basing figures for the whole country on the records for the registration which comprised about 90 per cent. of the total population) deaths assigned to automobiles numbered 23,264, a death rate of 18.2 per 100,000 population or double the rate for Canada in 1927, and about three times the Canadian rate of 1926.

That tourist traffic contributes to the death rate from automobile accidents, appears to be borne out by a comparison of the death rates in the central provinces and British Columbia and those of other provinces. British Columbia had an automobile mortality rate of 13.4; Ontario, 12.1; Quebec, 9.7; New Brunswick, 5.8; Nova Scotia and Alberta, each 5.7. In the Province of Quebec, Montreal was responsible for one-half of all automobile deaths. Toronto's contribution in Ontario was only 23 per cent. of the total.

From 1926 to 1927 Toronto increased its automobile death rate by 93.3 per cent.; Montreal by 55.6 per cent.; Vancouver, by 54.5 per cent.; and London, by 50 per cent. In the other cities listed there was no unusual upward movement. It is, however, to be noted, that the uncorrected figures of death from automobile accidents in cities tend to be too high, as in the case of fatal accidents occurring outside city limits the injured are frequently hurried to city hospitals and thus unwarrantably increase the city death rate.

WESTERN CROPS REPORTED GOOD

Robert Harstone Says He Never Saw the Crops in Better Condition.

ACREAGE LARGE.

Robert Harstone, who has extensive farming interests in the Canadian North-West, and whose knowledge of Western conditions, both from personal contact and through reports of his agents is about as correct as it is possible to get, says that he never saw the West in better shape for a bumper crop. He expects this year's production, both in acres under crop and yield per acre to make a record. He states that there is almost enough moisture to ensure the crop, but of course draws attention to the fact that there are weeks of dangerous periods yet before harvesting starts. But comparing the state of the crops with their condition and prospects at the same time over a period of years, 1928 yield looks most promising.

DONATIONS RECEIVED.

The ladies in charge of the Children's Camp at Jackson Park wish to acknowledge with thanks several donations already made to the Camp, which opened last week: Miss Laura Davidson, toys; the Thursday Club, $10, and Miss L. W. Hamilton, ice cream.

The Kiwanis Club is again carrying on the work of the Camp this year, as they did last season, paying all expenses in connection with its upkeep.

CROP REPORTS.

Spring Grains, Although Late, Are Very Promising.

The latest crop report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that crop conditions are good. It states there was heavy rainfall generally over Ontario for the month of June, the pastures are in excellent condition and the milk flow is at its peak. The spring grains are very promising, but while meadows have improved they are not yet up to normal. Haying was general about the end of the week. The early wet weather retarded seeding in Eastern Ontario and some of the spring crops are backward. One-third of the fall wheat was winter killed, the rest is now headed out and proves promising. Seed acreage for alfalfa is below normal. Alsike is short but with suitable weather the prospects are good.

WILL INSPECT SEVERN RIVER

Delegates Who Are Interested in Completion of Trent Valley Canal to Make Trip.

VISIT MIDLAND.

To-morrow, July 11, representatives of the various municipalities interested in completion of the Trent Waterway, will motor to Midland, where they will be the guests of the town of Midland and whence they will depart for a day's cruise through the uncompleted Severn River section of the waterway—this, through the courtesy of Mr. Hanly, of Midland, who will place his cruiser yacht at their disposal.

Peterborough will be well represented in the part which will number fifteen or twenty persons, and it is hoped that a more accurate conception of the advantages to be derived from the completed waterway, will be gained for presentation in the event of the Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, coming to inspect the waterway in accordance with an invitation from the Trent municipalities.

Three closed cars seating sixteen in all will leave the local Chamber of Commerce at 8.30 a.m. and expect to to arrive in Orillia at 11.30 a.m.

A New Car .. A New Car Style .. A New Zenith of Low Priced Car-Luxury and Performance

New slender profile chromium-plated radiator—Long, low bodies.—Generous room for 2 to 5 passengers, according to body model.—Luxurious deep upholstery and appointment detail.—New "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, for use with any gasoline. —Smooth speed up to 60 and more miles an hour.—Chrysler light-action internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes—no other car of this price possesses this feature.

All Chrysler research, engineering and manufacturing have been inspired by the fundamental motive of giving ever greater quality and value for each dollar of car cost. Public recognition of this principle, in four years advanced Chrysler from 27th to 3rd place in sales in the N. A. C. C.

With a new product—the Plymouth—Chrysler is the first to give, at so low a price, the advantages of performance, riding ease, dependability and full adult size which characterize fine cars of higher price.

The new Chrysler-designed and Chrysler-built Plymouth is so revolutionary an advance over other low-priced cars, it is such conclusive evidence that the past year's strides in the science of manufacturing have multiplied the purchasing power of the motor car dollar, that you will surely want to see it and drive it.

And above all, you must see its beautiful lines and finish, and stretch at ease in its deep-upholstered, full adult-size bodies, to comprehend how completely the Plymouth surpasses cars heretofore sold under $1500.

The Plymouth is today displayed by every Chrysler dealer. He wants you to see it and to ride in it.

Please submit the Plymouth to this trial. We believe you will discover there has never been a car anywhere near its price that can approach the Plymouth for power, pick-up, smoothness, easy handling, safety, quietness and roominess—nor that can equal it in beauty and style.

DeLaval Add Another Victory To Their String

WIN FROM NORTH-ENDERS BY 12-6 SCORE

Victors Gain Four Runs in First Inning to Hold Lead.

FIELD SLIPPERY

Northmen Find Errors Costly — Play During Downpour.

De Laval trimmed Harrison's Northenders in the Monday night softball fixture to the tune of 12 to 6. The Separators doubled the score to increase their winning streak, as they haven't lost a game yet. Rain tried hard to stop the game twice, once in the last half of the first innings when the sudden downpour sent all the spectators scurrying for cover, and again it started gently to continue through the game after the fourth. This made the field slippery and the paths around the bases hard to travel.

It was the old, old story of errors and non-support that accounted for the downfall of the Northmen. It was their off night and they couldn't seem to get started and did not have scoring punch. The De Laval started off in the first by getting four runs to the Harrison's one and from then on there was no question which team would win. The Northenders never were dangerous.

Jake Hall caught Walton napping when Hall stopped a fast one and made as if to throw the runner out on first but held the ball and when Walton, who was coming to third, realized Jake still had it, it was too late.

Frick was the heaviest hitter, getting two homers in consecutive innings, long drives out in left field nearly past the war memorial. Ecobichon, who is now working in Lindsay, came down especially to play the game and turned in a very nice card.

Montgomery, at centre field for Harrison's, did very good on a couple of long drives that he caught to perfection, while Walton also was one of the best on the field for the same team.

Bob Miller, De Laval catcher, kept up a running line of chatter all through the game and was on his toes through the whole frame. Fowler at second also was pretty nice, while Ken Miller caught the odd long fly to his part of the country.

The Softball game is improving and while a few more errors were seen in this game, perhaps the slippery field can be blamed. It was a good game of ball to watch. The line-ups were:

Harrison's—Dundas, p.; Lonsberry, r.f.; Smith, 1b.; Ecobichon, c.; Walton, 3b.; Montgomery, c.f.; E. Vinette, l.f.; H. Vinette s.s.; Dobson, 2b.

Carruthers pitched a great game for the factory, as well as handing many grounders to Frick. He had in this game four strike-outs, while Dundas did not get any. The only home runs were Frick's pair. Score by innings:

Harrison's	100101021— 6

W. Jackson at the plate, and Alex Kay on the bases.

St. Louis Cardinals Increase Lead In National League Race

PIRATES WIN FROM GIANTS

Waner's Homer in Fifth Aids Pittsburgh Take 5-3 Decision.

CARDS INCREASE LEAD

NEW YORK, July 10 (Canadian Press).—The Pirates took the final game of the series from the Giants at Pittsburgh yesterday, 5 to 3, making it three out of four played.

Burleigh Grimes pitched a steady game against his former team-mates and with the aid of Lloyd Waner's home run in the fifth inning with one man on base, scored his third win of the season over the New Yorkers.

The deciding play of the game came on Waner's homer when Welsh misjudged the hit and allowed the ball to go over his head and roll to the flagpole in centre field. On the hit Welsh ran in, then tried to retrace his tracks, but failed to get near the ball.

Brooklyn made it three out of five from Chicago when Dazzy Vance pitched the Robins to a 6 to 2 victory over the Cubs at Chicago.

The Cubs got 11 hits off Vance but did not have the punch with men on bases to turn them into runs. Bancroft made one great stop to save Vance some trouble and on two other occasions double plays checked Cub rallies.

The Robins bunched five hits in the fifth inning to score four runs off Pat Malone. Harvey Hendrick accounted for two of the runs with a home run with one man on base. In the same inning Bambridge drove out a triple, Bancroft a double, and Carey a single.

Ray Kolp did a good day's job yesterday while pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 5 to 4 victory over Philadelphia at Cincinnati. His single in the sixth brought in two runs to complete the Reds' scoring. Philadelphia had the edge on total hits by taking twelve off Kolp, but the Reds placed their nine safeties to best advantage. The Reds made their 102nd double play in the second inning, Dressem to Critz to Kelly.

The Cardinals increased their lead over the Giants to four and a half games, as the latter were losing, by defeating Boston here yesterday, 8 to 5, and clinching their third victory of the four-game series.

Outhit by 12 to 9, the league leaders scored five runs on the two homers, Bottomley's nineteenth of the season which brought in two besides himself, and Harper's with one on base. Sisler, erstwhile manager of the Browns, hit for the circuit with one on, and added two hits.

TAKE OVER YACHT.

United States' Ambasador Secures Use of Deceased Senator's Yacht.

OTTAWA, July 10.—(Canadian Press).—United States legation here announced to-day that through courtesy of Mrs. Fulford, of Brockville, widow of the late Senator Fulford, the U. S. Minister, Hon. William Phillips, has arranged to take over the steam yacht "Magedoma" for a cruise on the St. Lawrence River. The Minister will be accompanied by Mrs. Phillips and a small party of friends, and will leave Brockville on July 15, proceeding down the river to Quebec and Murray Bay and up the Saguenay River. Mr. Phillips will return to Ottawa about August 1, and shortly after will go to the United States on leave of absence.

A MARATHON SPEED QUEEN

Miss Ethel Hertle of New York City, a prize winner in last year's Canadian marathon swim at the C.N.E., Toronto, has again filed her entry with Elwood Hughes of the Canadian National Exhibition for the third Marathon to be held in Toronto this August. Ethel, who gained the title of world's speediest woman swimmer, from her performance a year ago, is five feet seven inches in height and weighs 148 pounds. She uses a stroke which for grace, beauty and strength has never been equalled by any other woman competing in Canada. Discussing food consumed in her long grind last year, she said: "What helped me most was pure honey. I took two tablespoonfuls every once in a while. And I believe it did me more good than anything else." Miss Hertle's time for a fast mile is around 27 minutes but in a long swim she slows this pace down to about 34 minutes, her natural arm stroke being 48 to the minute. She also cuts this down to about 40, but this pace seems almost slow motion for her, though it surely seems to get her there.

Harvey Is Winner Of Challenge Cup

CALGARY, Alta., July 10 (Canadian Press).—Captain F. M. W. Harvey of the Strathcona Horse, was the winner of the Guides' Challenge Cup in the point-to-point race at Sarcee Camp here Sunday, making a perfect score out of a possible 260 in an event open to officers from all parts of Canada. This race is an annual event, run alternately in Eastern and Western Canada, with the purpose of training officers in finding their way across country without the aid of charted instructions.

Major J. H. Beatty, 15th Canadian Light Horse, was second, with 245 points; Lieut. C. P. Beach, of the Strathcona Horse, third, with 231 points, and Captain F. C. Powell of the Strathcona Horse, fourth, with 208 points.

YANKS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

Divide Series With Browns By Winning One and Losing One.

SOX TAKE DOUBLE

NEW YORK, July 10 (Canadian Press).—The Yankees and the St. Louis Browns divided their six game series here when each team won one game of a double-header yesterday. The Yankees took the first by 4 to 0, and St. Louis batted out a victory in the second contest, 12 to 6.

Herb Pennock shut out the Browns with six scattered singles in the first encounter with only thirty men facing him. In the second the Browns broke loose and battered four Yankee pitchers for twenty hits. Ogden also was hit hard, but was saved by the long lead his team-mate gave him.

Lou Gehrig was put out of the game by Umpire Barry for disputing a decision. Meusel hit a homer in the first game and Paschal got another in the second.

The Red Sox took both ends of a double-header from the Detroit Tigers at Boston, 4 to 0, and 8 to 2, thereby earning an even break in the series. The first game was a pitching duel between Earl Whitehill and Jack Russell. Whitehill allowed only four hits, but received poor support.

Ed. Morris turned in his twelfth victory against four defeats in the second game. Carroll opposed him, and although he was hit freely he also was given ragged support by his mates.

The Athletics had a merry batting orgy yesterday, clubbing George Grant and Billy Bayne for twenty-three hits that defeated the Cleveland Indians, 14 to 4, at Philadelphia.

George Grant, who had a string of seven victories without a defeat, had his record smeared and failed to last three innings. Three of the Athletics turned in perfect batting averages. These were Bing Miller, three doubles and two singles; Sammy Hale, three singles and a double; and Ossie Orwoll, two singles and a two-bagger.

Hunnefield's single, followed by Clancy's triple and a double by Reynolds, gave Chicago a lead in the first inning of yesterday's game that was never relinquished, the White Sox beating the Senators 3 to 1 at Washington. Clancy hit a homer in the sixth. Washington got its lone run in the eighth, when West tripled and scored on Bluege's single.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

Lockworks and Kiwanis in a Junior group fixture at James Stevenson Park to-morrow night. Game will be called at usual time.

The Lockworks will meet the C.G.E. to-night at Confederation Park instead of DeLaval as was published yesterday. A meeting of the city softball league executive will be held in the Belmont club rooms immediately after the game to-night.

* * * * * *

The third game in the week's schedule will be played in King Edward Park on Friday night when the K. of C. and Teco are slated to clash. The game will start at 6.30 sharp, all players are requested to be on time.

* * * * * *

The Lockworks are all primed up to meet the Kiwanis Juniors in a junior fixture to-morrow night. Having held the club boys in their last encounter, the factory crew are out to repeat their performance again.

* * * * * *

The intense heat, followed by rain, did not put a stop to the ball game last night, although the downpour made the field very slippery which might account for the many errors in the game.

* * * * * *

The DeLaval crew added another victory to their string when they defeated the North Enders by a 12-6 score. Harrison's players seemed to be having their off-night, lacking the scoring punch in the critical moments.

Paddock Absolved Of "Pro." Charges

NEW YORK, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Charles W. Paddock was absolved last night of charges of professionalism growing out of his personal appearance with an athletic film, and automatically became eligible to accept a place on the United States Olympic team, which he earned in the tryouts last week.

Daniel J. Ferris, chairman of the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union and national secretary of the union, announced that since "no new charges had been made, his committee had decided to accept the "certification of the Southern Pacific Association of the A.A.U. as to Paddock's standing as an amateur athlete and his eligibility for membership on the American Olympic team."

In addition to Ferris, only Robert S. Weaver, president of the Southern Pacific Association and member of the registration committee, attended the two-hour conference with Paddock, which ended in the California sprinter's complete vindication of the charges brought against him.

HOLDS EXCURSION TO SOUTH BEACH

St. John's Sunday School Goes On Annual Boat Trip.

On Friday the Sunday School of St. John's held their excursion to South Beach, with an excellent attendance, there being approximately two hundred and fifty members of the school besides their parents and friends on board the Stoney Lake, when it steamed out from the George Street wharf at 8 a.m.

The weather was perfect and after a delightful trip up the river all disembarked with their lunch baskets and soon were enjoying a hearty meal on the grounds.

A large number took advantage of the swimming beach, after which the sports were run off, but owing to the shortage of time some events had to be omitted. To substitute for these, treasure hunts were arranged on the way home, much to the delight of the children, who found this somewhat of a novelty. In place of the teachers' race on the program, a slow-time race was held on the boat, which caused much amusement.

Dr. Blagrave, who was present, stated that he "considered it one of the most enjoyable and successful picnics in the history of St. John's," and judging from the happy faces and activities of the children, they certainly seemed to vouch for it.

A great deal of the success of the picnic was due to the sports committee and the entertainment committee who had carefully planned the arrangements and carried them out in such a capable manner.

The sports committee consisted of Mrs. L. H. Deyman, Mrs. G. S. Parlour, Mr. Bachelor and Mr. Warren Turner.

The excursion was made possible through the efforts of the Friendly Bible Class, taught by Mrs. DelaForce, who provided so generously for the trip, and Mr. E. Sorby, the superintendent of the school on behalf of the officers and staff thanked them for their great assistance in providing such an outing for the members of the Sunday School.

They arrived home at 7.45, tired but happy, and all hoping to go again next year.

The following is a list of winners in the sports program:

Girls' Running, 12 and under.—Beverly Rogers.

Girls' Swimming, over 12—Margaret Rogers.

Girls' Swimming, 12 and under.—50 yard; 1, Bernice Williams; 2, Betsy Scott.

ORIOLES HOLD BISONS 6-3

READING DEFEATED 13-6

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 10 (Canadian Press).—With Johnson hurling in fine form the Baltimore Orioles had no trouble thrashing the Bisons here yesterday, 6 to 3, squaring the series at two-all. The game was featured by home run drives, Lamotte and Brower clinching laurels for the Birds when each slammed a circuit blow with a man on. Brower's homer was his nineteenth of the year. Fisher also hit a homer with a man on.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 10 (Canadian Press).—Rochester defeated Reading in the final game of the series between the two clubs here yesterday, 13 to 6, bombarding three Reading hurlers, Harrison, Lautenbacher and Potts, for sixteen safe blows. Gus Felix had four safeties.

MONTREAL, Que., July 10 (Canadian Press).—A 6-2 victory over the Jersey City Black Cats gave the Montreal Royals a 6-2 edge in the series concluded here yesterday afternoon. Bob Shawkey pitched masterful ball for the locals and but for an error by Fewster in the eighth, after two were out, would have chalked up a shutout victory. In no inning apart from the seventh did Shawkey allow a man to get past second base. Three double plays by the Royals nipped off threatening rallies by the Cats during the game.

LAWN BOWLING

The men bowlers had a good turn out of players on Friday evening when they played for strawberries, nine rinks playing. The management at the Peterborough Ball Club is being inundated with advice as to the strengthening its line up by draftting some of the starts of East Peterborough League. Unfortunately the advice is not accompanied by any suggestion as to how this is to be done. There are players in the intermediate loop who would be a big help to the Petes—perhaps not so many of senior calibre as some think but still enough to be of real service—but it is impossible to secure their services even when the player himself is willing.

At the present moment an infielder of promise on one of the East Peterborough teams that is well down in the race wants to join the Petes and although there is only an outside chance of his team getting anywhere the manager of this player's club refuses to give him his release. The result is a good player is being kept back when he has a real chance to advance and the chances are that the intermedite crew will be eliminated in a few days and the infielder's question will be out of date for the season. Players who want to go up must be signed before the 15th of this month.

The Petes play in Kingston tomorrow, the last scheduled clash of the season to the Limestone City. The Petes have two games to play here, the first on Saturday afternoon.

Belleville and Deloro play a double header in Bob Elliott's hangout and the Smelters will have to move fast to prevent the Railroaders snatching a pair of wins. Reports from Deloro are to the effect that Jack Shea is ill and will be unable to play and the Deloro pitching staff with him absent is none too robust especially with a double header to be played.

OLYMPIC TRY-OUTS

On the LEFT at the TOP is the finish of the 100 metre final in the Olympic meet at Hamilton, Ont., on Saturday. It was won by Percy Williams of Vancouver, who equalled the Olympic record for the distance and beat a field of smart sprinters. Williams astounded the critics by facing a wind of fair strength and doing the hundred metres in 10 3-5 seconds. In this picture Huck Hester, who finished third, is on the LEFT, and Ralph Adams of Hamilton, who finished fourth, next. The third from the LEFT is Johnny Fitzpatrick, who finished second, while Williams is on the extreme RIGHT. On the RIGHT at the TOP is a snapshot of the finish of the 200 metre race, also won by Williams. The figures in this photo from LEFT to RIGHT are Williams; Hester, who was fourth; Adams, who was third, and Fitzpatrick, who was again second to the Vancouver lad. BELOW from LEFT to RIGHT are closeups of Doral Piling, who set up a new Canadian javelin record of 202 feet 4 1-4 inches. Percy Williams, the winner of both the sprints, and Alex. Munro, who set up a new Canadian record of 6 feet 3 3-8 inches for the running high jump.

GLORIA SWANSON IN "SADIE THOMPSON"

Sadie Thompson was a bad woman who wanted to go straight and Oliver Hamilton was a reformer with a sneaking idea that he wold like to sample some of the wickedness he had set out to right. They met in Pago Pago, an island of the South Seas where the rain beat down unceasingly and where a smallpox scare isolated them and their companions. The reformer was bent on destroying Sadie, as long as she defied him. The girl, on the recoil from an evil life, sensed the inner wickedness of her enemy and played up to it, when flagrant defiance failed to win the day. She pretended to be converted, vamped him completely, and then—he cut his throat. That, in brief, is the outline of the story of "Sadie Thompson." It is not a nice story and there are many who will see in this picture a great deal of evil, picturing, as it does, the triumph of what the world calls wickedness over what the world calls virtue, even while wondering vaguely, as it did in the case of Oliver Hamilton, whether a hard-hearted reformer is really an example of outstanding goodness.

There is more than a touch of "Elmer Gantry" in this picture.

Looking at this production from the viewpoint of psychology, it is immense. Nothing like it has been seen here since "What Price Glory?" flashed its cynical, sparkling humour over the silver sheet, showing life in the raw, with the little touches of pathos and fun that save it from rank tragedy.

An element of good in the story of 'Sadie Thompson" is the fact that few would wish to follow the example of the girl who makes her flaunting ,outrageous way through the picture, and this can't always be claimed for the impressionable youth that watches the unfolding on the screen of another type, more subtle and therefore more dangerous, that shows wickedness flourishing like the green bay tree and triumphing in the finale. "Sadie Thompson" has an unforgettable, and unattractive, savour, to her exploit.

The production gives Gloria Swanson a chance to prove just how wonderful she is, in the way of depicting emotion, and also in her psychological response to the demands of the situation. Her art is simply superb in this picture. And it is companioned notably by the art of Lionel Barrymore, immense in the role of the tight-lipped, rigid reformer, with a garbage-pail mind that sends him to an evil fate.

On her way to Apia, in the South Seas, Sadie Thompson, reckless, flaunting and loud, runs foul of the reformer, Oliver Hamilton, and his wife, a pallid-faced, smooth-haired lady with linen collar and cuffs and graceful skirts. Hamilton determines to have her sent back to San Francisco, where the girl knows the penitentiary walls wait for her. In her role of harridan, she denounces him with shameless fervor, setting his cruel mouth in firmer lines against her. Then she turns to him, as a convert to his rigid, unyielding faith, and the change is so unexpected and weird that the watchers think it is real, especially in the scene where big Sergeant O'Hara is sent away, after a fruitless attempt to rescue Sadie from Hamilton's mental sway. There is just one little, stealthy moment in this whole portion where the girl, glancing swiftly at Hamilton, gives an impression of deceit in her virtuous role. The climax, with the pictured undertone of the unceasing rain as an accompaniment to its strange atmosphere, is weird and cruel. The writer wonders if anyone else, watching this vital picture, would like a different ending, with the girl on her way to Apia—alone?——Jeanette.

NEW STUDEBAKER IS BEING EXHIBITED

Is Shown For First Time in Show Rooms of Selkirk and Elliott.

In the new President Straight Eight shown for the first time to-day in the local show rooms of Selkirk & Elliott, Studebaker-Erskine dealer, The Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Limited, offers the supreme achievement of 76 years of quality manufacture. Although the new President is offered at a new low price of $2,225, f.o.b. Walkerville, it has been built without stint in any detail that makes for beauty, luxury and comfort.

The refinements of this leader of the Studebaker line of cars are a fitting tribute to the President's spectacular performance. Last April, the President gave conclusive proof of its speed and endurance by breaking all official stock closed car records for distances up to 2,000 miles and for periods from 1 to 24 hours.

The President Straight Eight engine offers 109 horse-power, producing 80 miles an hour. Two five and two seven passenger sedans, a Victoria for four, two cabriolets for four, a seven-passenger State limousine, a smart sport roadster for four and a seven-passenger tourer are included in the President lines. Such luxury features as cigar lighters, smoking sets, silk assist cords, vanity cases, and antique finished door panels enriched by etched silver medallions are found among these models.

New Radiator Design.

Lines of the new President are as modern as to-day's newspaper. Fleet, untiring performance is suggested by low, sweeping body lines, which are accentuated by deeply crowned fenders, swung low over the wheels. Roof lines are low and graceful, terminating in a jaunty "polo cap" visor.

Color combinations embody many of the latest shades dictated by fashion authorities. Body panels are antiqued in attractive shades and delicate pin striping completes the color schemes.

New Color Beauty.

The interiors reflect the artistry of the master coachbuiler and the deft hand of an expert interior decorator. Harmonizing shades of mohair or broadcloth upholstery will hold the eye of the feminine observer. The broad lounge cushions are luxuriously deep and form fashioned along lines entirely different from conventional practice.

177,000 Miles of Tests.

The adoption of ball-bearing spring shackles was announced by Studebaker after tests totalling more than 177,000 miles on 11 test cars. These tests were made on Studebaker's proving ground and over transcontinental roads. During the entire time, there had been no bearing failures and the shackles were performing as quietly and smoothly as the day they were applied. Even though some of the test cars had attained more than 35,000 miles, it was not necessary to add lubricant to any of the test shackles.

Unusual care has been taken to provide a delicacy of control that will give the daintiest gloved hand complete mastery of the President's great power and speed. A new flat-type, thin-grasp steering wheel of hard rubber moulded over a steel base is adjustable to the preference of the driver.

Complete Equipment

The equipment includes twin-beam headlights, automatic windshield cleaner, coincidental lock to steering and ignition, rear vision mirror, hydraulic shock absorbers, dash gasoline gauge and rear traffic signal light. Opal iridescent dome light is found in closed models. Corner lights, automatically lighted when right rear door is opened, are standard on the seven-passenger closed models. Direct illumination of coincidental lock when desired, is provided by an extra light on the instrument board.

The President tourer provides a novel note of comfort in that the English type side curtains can be held erect by vertical rods fitted to the body and thereby used as windbreaks without raising the top. The President cabriolet is fitted with a folding luggage grid in the rear, two spare tires are carried forward in fender wells.

The President State roadster has upholstery of genuine leather in a shade to harmonize with the body color.

Soccer Notes

On Wednesday evening, July 11th, De Laval and Canadian General meet in a league fixture on King Edward Park. Kick-off at six-fifteen prompt. Referee Alex McKinley. This match has been brought forward through the Thistle team withdrawing from the league. All players signed by the Canadian General are requested to be at the pavilion no later than six o'clock.

Next Saturday afternoon, July 14th, the final of the Mayor Holloway Cup will be played on King Edward Park, between the Quaker Oats and the Canadian General. Kick-off at three o'clock. Referee Alex McKinley. The proceeds from this game go into the Injured Players' Fund, which is kept for the benefit of any accident that may occur.

At a specially convened meeting of the Thistle Football Club, last evening, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, they decided to withdraw from the soccer league owing to financial reasons; also the explicit statement of men able to play the game that they desired boots to play with during the season. The executive could not meet the financial demand, therefore they had no other alternative but to intimate their decision of withdrawal from the soccer association. Many members of the board regretted their action because they had been an asset to the game for years.

According to the rules and constitution of the local association, the Thistles' complete record shall be struck from the league table. Any club withdrawing shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five dollars. All players signed by the defunct club are automatically released and can be signed by any other club for the rest of the season. The withdrawal

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HAVE MASCOTS

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author of The Springs of Human Action.)

The Yale teams have a bulldog for mascot, the tiger serves the same purpose for Princeton, as does the lion for Columbia, and the wolverine for the University of Michigan. Every team has its mascot.

The mascot is usually some animal. This practice of selecting a mascot from among the animals dates back to primitive times when it was customary to have a family or tribal totem. The totem animal was sacred. He was supposed to bring good luck. In some cases the animal selected for the totem was taboo as meat.

The practice of having mascots also goes back to the primitive idea of mana. The savage believed that if he killed a wild beast he could get the mana or special strength of that animal in his own system by eating a part of the animal or by carrying about his person some relic of the beast. Witness the modern practice of carrying a rabbit's foot.

The mascot is a survival of the mana superstition. Thus the tenacity of the bulldog is idealized at Yale and the bulldog is used as a mascot in the hope that the team will have that quality in all of its games. It is a reminder to the players of what is expected of them. The fierceness of the tiger is supposed to be transferred to the players on a team that selects the great beast of the forest for its mascot. The wolverine has never been tamed. So the team that has the wolverine for a mascot hopes to maintain its record of victories clear during the season and win the championship of the conference.

We have mascots even though we are no longer superstitious. The mascot serves the purpose of mana not in the original sense of actually transferring the special virtue of the animal, but more by way of suggestion to instill in a concrete way the special characteristic of the animal.

LADIES' AID MEETING.

Women of St. James' United Church Hold Monthly Meeting.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. James' United Church, held its monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon in the church parlors, with the president, Mrs. A. Wilson, in the chair, and a good attendance of the members.

Mrs. Armstrong led in prayer, and the reading of the mintues was done by the secretary, Mrs. F. Elliott. The president gave a very encouraging financial report. The church debt has now been reduced to $2800 and the interest is paid up to date.

Several discussions regarding business matters were competently dealt with, and it was decided to hold a picnic under the auspices of the society, soon after the regular meeting in August.

A social half hour followed, the ladies enjoying ice cream and cake provided by the president and executive. A vote of thanks was passed by Mrs. Emery and seconded by Mrs. Kent.

ENERGY FROM THE SUN

All of our energy comes from the sun. Most of our muscular force comes from the food we eat. This we obtain from plants or from animals which feed upon plants, and plants require the sunshine to grow and to store food material. Only plants have the property of using the radiant energy in such a way that they convert carbon dioxide into carbohydrates, and absorb nitrogen from the soil.

Not only the energy in our food comes from the sun, but every force in the world, such as burning coal, exploding gasoline, and electricity, can all be traced to the sun's forces.

The most astounding effect of the sun is its effect on plants. Plants have been experimentally grown one season without sunlight, and even though during the succeeding season they are exposed to the direct rays of the sun, most species will become extinct in four generations.

The sun also affects the human body. We have in a slight degree some ability to use the sun's rays directly in much the same manner that the plant does. A lack of sunlight will produce a lessened number of red corpuscles and a lack of coagulation in the blood. A lack of sunlight also causes an increase in the fluid parts of the body and in the white blood cells, producing diseases known as luekemia and anemia.

The sun's rays also aid in our assimilation of calcium and some fatty substances. The treatment of sunbathing is especially recommended in anemia, tuberculosis, rickets, asthma, catarrh, chronic tonsillitis, nephritis and diabetes.

One of the handicaps of modern civilization is that we have emphasized the idea of modesty to such an extent that we wear too much clothing. Consequently, these life-giving rays of the sun are completely shut off from our bodies except on the face and hands. Physicians have attempted to produce an artificial light which can be applied to the nude body. This light produces ultra-violet rays, and has been attended with some success, but the most satisfactory results come from using the direct sunlight, since there seems to be some unknown energy in the sunlight that is lacking in the chemical ultra-violet rays.

When taking a sunbath, either in the nude or at the beach, one should always bear in mind the fact that an overdose of these rays is injurious. Most people have the mistaken belief that if a little sunshine is good, a great deal will be better. Sunshine is of course very dangerous, as the pores become so swollen and injured by the burn that a proper elimination of poisons from the body cannot take place. Be careful not to be sunburned today because this is the longest day in the year.

A small amount of sunburn likewise affects the body in a proportionate manner. Even the faintest glow on the skin is injurious as long as it lasts. It is therefore much better to measure your sunbath so as to produce an increasing tan each time over several exposures than to try to become tanned through the effects of only one or two sunburns.

The tanning of the skin, or the sunburn, cannot in themselves be beneficial. The only helpful thing about a sunbath is the absorption of the ultra-violet rays by the blood. The skin becomes tanned only because the body is trying to protect itself against too much sunlight to which it has not been accustomed. The darkening of the skin therefore acts as a protection against the ultra-violet rays so that the time of each exposure must be increased day by day in order to daily get the same benefit.

Questions and Answers.

Question: H. J. L. asks: "With what diseases does one lose flesh and strength?"

Answer: Tuberculosis, cancer, and most of the deficiency diseases, as scurvy, rickets, etc.

Question: Reader asks: "Will you please suggest a diet that would be suitable for a person who is going to business everyday?"

Answer: The foods named in the menus which appear in this column each week can be secured in any ordinary restaurant if you are not living at home. I purposely make these weekly menus so liberal that there will be no difficulty in your being able to get your choice from the foods I prescribe.

Question: Mrs. O. J. writes: "No matter how much work I do, I do not seem able to perspire. Also, I suffer a great deal from rheumatism."

Answer: Those who have any kind of rheumatism always have difficulty in perspiring. I believe this is due to the rheumatic toxemia which seems to poison the body to such an extent that the pores of the skin do not open freely. If you will get rid of your rheumatic poisons through dieting and increasing the health of your skin by frequent bathing, you will soon find that you will begin to perspire freely. When copious sweating finally starts; it is a sure sign that you have reduced your rheumatic diathesis and you will be well on the road to recovery.

Question: S. G. asks: "Would you suggest the orange fast for a growth on the spine under the intestines?"

Answer: An orange juice fast is always indicated in the treatment of any abnormal growth where an operation is not advisable. If the growth is not cut out, it must be absorbed and eliminated through the blood stream. Fasting relieves the body of the burden of assimilation and the building of tissues, and gives the body forces more chance to eliminate toxins or any abnormal growths.

SHEEP POPULAR IN RAINY RIVER

Population Doubling Every Year —Grass and Climatic Conditions Suitable.

A lot more wool and lambs have been coming out of the Rainy River country in the last few years, but, according to Agricultural Representative J. A. Garner, this is only the beginning, because the sheep industry is making a real start in this part of Northern Ontario. "Pasture and climatic conditions are ideal," he said. "Some of the land is a little low, but I have not heard of any disease, while we have extra good grass and plenty of rough land that is more suited to sheep than any other animal. Moreover, we have had practically no trouble with sickness or dogs, and very, very little with wolves. I look for continued expansion in the next few years."

It is not very many years since the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers received the first wool from this extreme western corner of Northern Ontario, but this year some 20,000 pounds were sent in for grading and marketing, compared to 14,000 pounds in 1927. The output of lambs, too, has increased by leaps and bounds. "Two years ago we got shippers together at one point in the district and shipped out 500 lambs," stated Mr. Garner. "From the same point last year over 1,000 animals were shipped, and this year the total will run over 1,800. All the lambs are graded, and fetch a premium on the Winnipeg market."

The bulk of the sheep being raised in the Rainy River country are Oxford grades, according to Mr. Garner. The breeding stock was originally brought in from Old Ontario and the West. Local men are beginning to help in supplying the grade ewes, though many rams are still being brought in from outside. Apparently more and more farmers are turning to sheep in this district, as Mr. Garner reports over 100 applications to the Provincial Government for breeding stock supplied under the new sheep policy.

Before the war England was building only about 60,000 houses a year. By the end of 1927, however, 230,000 will have been built in one year.

R. 2, Peterborough; 18, Freda Gray (2), 183 Mark street; 19, Zenia Birkhof (8), Leahy's Lane; 20, Allenby Curvin (10), 747 Water street; 21, Douglas Self (6), 190 Lansdowne street; 22, Ernest Wuthers (7), 260 McDonnel street; 23, Ian Sutherland (10), 48 Orpington road, Crawford's Grove.

Shirlie Aker's lady with a parasol is very nice. It is funny that I have another (but much bigger) just the same, from Phyllis Gardiner. That's a real cart horse drawn by Donald Moore, isn't it? And just fancy a little girl of two being able to draw that face in number 18! Freda Gray certainly is a smart little girl. Zenia Birkhof's dog is useful—do you see it carrying the basket in its mouth? Jiggs is saying "Ouch" in Allenby Curvin's drawing, and I don't blame him, with that rolling pin hitting him on the head. Douglas Self's dog is very intelligent-looking, isn't it? Is Ernest Withers going to be a draughtsman? He drew the box too big, but very nicely, and we had to reduce it to make it fit. We could have a nice ride if we had a big, really-truly car like Ian Sutherland has drawn.

If you have sent in a drawing that met all the rules, and it has not been printed yet, watch for it this week and next.

MAY ANNOUNCE RESIGNATION TO-DAY

Archbishop of Canterbury is Expected To Resign Today at Convocation.

LONDON, July 10 (Canadian Press Cable).—The London Daily Telegraph ecclesiactical correspondent hints that the Archbishop of Canterbury may announce his resignation at a meeting of the convocation of Canterbury to-day. He says the churchmen are of opinion that the Archbishop of York can scarcely be passed over in the appointment of a successor and if the choice "which no doubt has already been sttled" has fallen elsewhere, it is likely to come as a complete surprise.

CHOIR PICNIC.

All Saints' Choir Holds Picnic at Idylwild at Hooper's Cottage.

On Monday, July 2nd, the Choir of All Saints' Church, motored to Hiawatha and went across by launch to To. T. H. Hooper's cottage, "Idylwild."

A very enjoyable day was held. Dinner and supper being served outside, and Mr. T. H. Hooper kindly supplied tea and coffee. The success of the day was due to the commitee in charge.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved to the Hoopers.

OPEN AIR SERVICE.

Rev. J. O. Totten in Charge of Services at Chemong On Sunday.

The second of the series of open-air meetings was held at Chemong Park Pavilion on Sunday evening last. The weather affected the attendance somewhat; still there was a good many present. The Rev. J. O. Totten again acted as chairman. A number of well-known hymns were sung very heartily. Owing to the unavoidable absence of the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, through illness, who was to have given the address, the Rev. W. E. Edgar acted as a substitute and preached a short sermon on the text found in Act 16, 30 and 31, "What must I do to be saved." Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. It was described as the great question and the only answer. It was listened to with rapt attention.

Next Sunday evening, Ensign Green of the Salvation Army will be the speaker. The Army Band will also be in attendance and will play several selections.

IN POLICE COURT

John Murney, the young man who appeared in police court last week charged with being intoxicated while in charge of a motor vehicle, reappeared this morning charged with having liquor in his possession on that occasion without being the holder of a liquor permit. The case was remanded until Tuesday, July 17.

A local man had a headache tough, He thought taht punishment enough— For drinking "something stronger." Ten bucks and costs was what he got Or ten nights on a cooler cot— He took the former.

Caroline Cotton, before the magistrate regarding her moral or mental sanity, was remanded for a week while her case is discussed with authorities of an institution.

POLICE REGULATIONS.

The police are laying their plans for the handling of the large crowd and the resultant traffic expected in Peterborough on July 12th this year, and among many things they are endeavoring to keep a clear line of march for the Orangemen.

From 12 o'clock noon on that day until after the parade there will be no parking allowed on the west side of George street from McDonell street in the north to Perry street in the south. The crossings are to be kept clear and pedestrians are asked to avoid stepping across the curb unless in the act of crossing. For those who find it absolutely necessary to cross the street they may only do so at the break between two of the marching groups and then they must signify their intention to the officer at the intersection. They will only be allowed to cross at the crossings.

Motorists will again be allowed to park their cars in King Edward Park as was the practice on the 12th four years ago.

GANGSTERS IN NEW YORK

off a group of New York gangmen, who were said to be en route there, believing Yale's slayers might be hiding there.

Two New York detectives are in Chicago investigating the Western angles to the shooting of Yale.

Meanwhile, Inspector Coughlin called 300 detectives on the carpet and made a few pertinent remarks concerning morale, gang wars and "the good of the service" in general—and the Yale, Senter and Jerge slayings in particular.

Police have not been idle. They have established to their own satisfaction that the Thompson sub-machine gun used in the Yale murder was purchased in Chicago a year ago, and they have the name of the men who sold it and of the man who bought it.

They have received definite information regarding the goings on among the beer gangs of the country and have constructed a picture of the "racket" that clearly places motives for just such a murder as that of Yale upon the men who may have felt that Yale was getting out of hand.

Yale was high in the councils of the national barons of beer source and supply, but he yearned for the added revenues from the trucking and delivery branch of the industry, according to the story pieced together by detectives. This brought to a head an enmity of long standing between Yale and followers of "Scarface Al" Capone, of Chicago.

PLAYGROUNDS ARE RE-OPENED

City Children Flock to the Three School Grounds to Play.

J. ABRAHAM IN CHARGE.

On Monday morning, the playgrounds of three Peterborough schools were re-opened under proper supervision for a six weeks' period, and from nine o'clock on during the day, from eighty to one hundred children were entertained at each.

There is a feature new to the grounds which reflects credit upon J. Abraham, supervisor, for his thoughtfulness. It is a large sign placed at each playground, and upon it are written the rules of safety which are explained to each child before it begins to enjoy the fun.

W. H. MACWILLIAMS HEADS BIG MERGER

Old Ashburnham Boy President of Canadian Consolidated Grain Company.

WINNIPEG, July 10 (Canadian Press).—A merger of several powerful Canadian terminal and line elevator companies, involving a paid-up capital of $6,000,000, has just been completed, it was learned here yesterday. The new company will be designated as the Canadian Consolidated Grain Company, Limited, with W. H. MacWilliams as President, C. H. Austin vice-president, and Charles Hayles secretary.

Total elevator capacity of 12,000,000 bushels will be owned and operated by the new company.

Mr. MacWilliams is an old Ashburnham boy, having gone West some years ago, where he has been one of the big leaders in the grain elevator business for some time. He is a brother of John MacWilliams of this city, and Adam MacWilliams in Smith Township.

NEW YORK IS WORSE

have existed since the days of the Raines Law hotel and the saloon with back rooms.

"The committee feels that the speakeasy club situation is in some respects as serious, if not more so, than the Raines-Law hotel which called the committee into existence nearly a quarter of a century ago. For one thing, they are attracting young men and young women of a class who never would have visited the old time Raines-Law hotel. Some of these 'clubs' are cloaked with an apparent respectability which is likely to throw the unsophisticated off their guard. • • • The saloons or the Raines-Law hotels never catered to young persons of that class, and yet in later years were not permitted to go to such lengths. This is a matter for the people of New York to consider most seriously."

The Committee describes conditions in the closed dance halls where the men customers must purchase tickets for each dance, and says that this type of hall "is a growing and serious menace; it is here that the largest number of girls get their first start."

Dance Studios Under Fire.

The report comments on another recent development, as follows:

"A new cloak has been found in the private dance studio where the so-called 'instructress' takes the seeker for instructions into a private room and locks the door. It is difficult to find a legitimate reason for instruction so strictly private as this; on the other hand, in six of these places which were investigated by our men they were invariably solicited for prostitution by the so-called 'instructress.' The success of these 'dance studios' apparently is almost immediate, as the number of their advertisements in the same afternoon tabloid which advertises for hostesses for night clubs, jumped from 8 to 23 in a comparatively short time."

The main body of the committee's report was written by George E. Worthington, General Secretary and counsel; and Dr. James Pedersen contributed an introduction as Chairman of the committee. He emphasized that while the Separate Court for Women is handling its case most effectively, "the ease with which male exploiters secure release in the District Court does not improve the situation; on the contrary, this is probably one of the factors entering into the present increase in exploitation and in prostitution."

ESTABLISHES RECORD.

New Altitude Record Made For Light Metal Seaplane.

ROCHESTER, Eng., July 10 (Canadian Press).—Lady Heath, noted woman flier, accompanied by Miss Cecelie O'Brien, to-day created what is claimed as a new altitude record for a light metal seaplane. Their sealed barograph showed that the machine reached a height of 13,400 feet.

WEDDING BELLS

KILLINGBECK—STOREY.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Luke's Church on July 7th, when Mae Ellen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Storey, of 294 Mark Street, became the bride of Stanley Lawrence Killingbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Killingbeck, of Gladstone Avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. J. Bousfield.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a lovely gown of white georgette, with lace flounces on the skirt, a long ivory veil with wreath of orange blossoms, white kid shoes and white silk hose. Her only ornament was a necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and maidenhair fern.

Mr. Clifford Storey, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Later, a dainty luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, attended by about forty-five guests. Mr. Killingbeck and his bride left for a trip to Brantford and Niagara, to live in the city on their return.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a necklace set with sapphires and to the best man a pair of white gold cuff links.

Obituary

MRS. GEORGE ACKER.

Almeta Nicholson, beloved wife of George Acker, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday, July 10th, at 1.30 a.m., after a long illness. She had resided at Besmer, Hastings County, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Nicholson. Mrs. Acker was in her 47th year when she died. There are left to mourn her loss, besides her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Folton, of Dungannon, Hastings County, and a son, Donald, at home. She was a member of the United Church. The remains will rest at Belleghem's Funeral Home until Wednesday noon, when the body will be forwarded on the 11.35 C.P.R. train to Havelock, where the funeral will take place from the home of Dan. Youman at 2 p.m. on Friday, July 13th. The Rev. Archer of the United Church will be the officiating clergyman, and interment will take place in Rockdale Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

STINSON.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Kate, who died July 10, 1925.

Sweet memories linger forever
Time cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.

—Inserted by her husband, Saul.

ROSS.—In ever-loving memory of Leonard, the dearly loved son of F. M. and E. Ross, who was drowned July 10th, 1924.

Your memory ever lingers,
Tender and true.
Not a day that passes
But we remember you.

—Sadly missed by parents, brothers and sisters.

IN MEMORIAM.

WEAVER—In sad and loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Thomas Weaver, who died July 10, 1922.

"Those who love you sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year;
In the lonely hour of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever dear."

Three Men of the Italia Found

Airplane Sights Crew

alking Party Was Missing and Considered Lost Month Ago.

RESCUE TRIED.

Flyer Will Endeavour To Make Landing Near Men To-day.

LONDON, July 11. — (Canadian Press.)— A Reuter's despatch from Moscow states that the walking party of the dirigible Italia has been found. The message was received in Moscow to-day that the Russian flyer, Chuknnovsky, who has been making flights from the ice breaker Krassin, now near Foyne Island, made the discovery in the course of a reconnaissance flight.

The Russian airman found Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish meteorologist, and his two companions, Captain Alberto Mariano, pilot of the Italia, and Captain Filippo Zappi, Italian navigator, at 80.42 north latitude and 25.45 east longitude, which is about 20 miles from the present position of the Krassin. This is west of Cape Platen, north-east land.

Given Up For Lost.

The group of three men had been missing and practically given up for lost over a month ago when they left nine men of Nobile's group who had been thrown from the ice when the Italia's gondola was smashed on May 25. They had stayed five days with the marooned party and then decided to make an effort to trek across north-east land to King's

THIS MIGHT BE A TRUE FISH STORY

COLUMBUS, O., July 11.— H. C. Reed, secretary of the state tax commission is telling a new kind of fish story.

Way back in 1911, so the story begins, he was a clerk on an Ohio River steamboat. One day while twirling his key in the air, the identification disc flew off into the water. Years went by.

Then he received a letter from a man in Cannelton, Ind., saying he had found the tag in a catfish caught in the Ohio. He shows the disc as exhibit "A" in proof of the story.

THREE CANADIANS SHOOT WELL IN KING'S PRIZE

Child-Slayer Confesses He Killed Teacher With Club Two Years Ago

TOLEDO, July 11.—The two-year-old mystery of the brutal killing of Miss Lily Dale Croy, young school teacher, struck down in the terrorism caused by the notorious Toledo slugger two years ago, was believed to be cleared up with the alleged confession of Charles J. Hoppe, twenty-six, child slayer.

A little more than a month ago, Hoppe, a taxi driver, kidnapped Dorothy Sielagowski, seven, from her bed and strangled her. Brought to trial for first degree murder, he threw himself on the mercy of the court by pleading guilty.

Judges were hearing evidence to determine the man's mental condition, when Dr. L. A. Querner, defense alienist, startled the courtroom with the testimony that Hoppe was the clubber who killed Miss Croy.

The confession, Dr. Querner said, was obtained by himself and Attorney Eldon H. Young, chief of defense counsel, and was introduced to the court to strengthen their belief Hoppe should be sent to an asylum for the insane rather than put to death in the electric chair.

The prisoner not only confessed the Croy murder, but admitted attacks on a number of other women in the last four years, Dr. Querner said.

It is still undetermined whether or not Hoppe had any knowledge of the fatal clubbings of four other women who were attacked within a period of three months.

POLICE RAID GAR NERS IN $1,000,000 WORTH OF LIQUOR

ACCOUNTANTS BUSY.

Erie Transit Company and Inter-Transit Corporation Are Struck.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 11 (Special to The Examiner).—One of the largest liquor raids ever staged on the Windsor border came as swift as a thunderbolt to-day when a large provincial police force seized approximately $1,000,000 worth of whiskey and beer in two warehouses at Sandwich.

The two firms to suffer were the Erie Transit Company, whose stocks were in the Carling Brewery warehouse, formerly an old C.P.R. freight shed on Sandwich street, and the Inter-Transit Corporation, whose supplies were in Nathanson Liquor Export warehouse, close to the Carling headquarters.

Everything pointed to the fact that the raid had been planned in detail long in advance by the Provincial Police headquarters in Toronto, and the Liquor Control Board. A proof of this is the fact that Sir Henry Drayton had a long typewritten state-

Women Up In Air Over Bridge Game

PHILADELPHIA, July 11. — Airplane bridge was introduced into Philadelphia by Mrs. D. J. Wattis, Jr., who entertained her bridge club in a five-passenger cabin monoplane 1,800 feet above the city.

The plane remained aloft about half an hour and eight hands were played. Mrs. Harold Vaalerius with a score of 974 points won the first prize, a gold propeller bar pin. Mrs. Mary Karb was second with 730. Mrs. Jane Stenken was the fourth woman in the plane. She and Mrs. Karb changed seats during the game.

It was the first airplane flight for any of the women.

ARTIFICIAL SILK MAKES VARNISH

ASSOCIATION MEETS.

CHICAGO, July 11.—If, milady, you're tired of that artificial silk dress that looked so beautiful a couple of months ago but you still like the color, take the garment to a chemist and, with one simple process, he'll present you with a paint that will provide a lustrous finish for your automobile.

Funny as it may sound, such a magical change is a proved possibility, according to Paul C. Trimble of Washington, D.C., general manager of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners, the midwest section of which held a four-day convention at the Hotel Stevens, with more than 600 plant owners in attendance.

Textiles Change Business.

The matter was brought up primarily as an illustration of the manner in which new textiles have revolutionized the cleaning and dyeing industry.

"It used to be," said Mr. Trimble, "that we had standard methods and chemicals for cleaning standard materials, but now we've had to use our wits plenty to keep up with the times. For virtually all of these new substitutes for silk that make imitation silk dresses possible for the poorer woman, if we used the same chemical used to clean silk, we'd destroy the garment completely."

It was in an attempt to find some means of "knocking the spots" out of a celanese dress that the National Association Institute of Dyeing and Cleaning on the outskirts of Washington, of which Mr. Trimble is also manager, discovered how to turn such a garment into excellent varnish for an automobile.

And there are plenty of other new tendencies in American life that have helped to keep the leaders of the nation's cleaning and dyeing industry, which last year boosted its business

89 YEARS OLD

John D. Rockefeller is rounding into the final lap of a century on earth. The man who has given away half a billion dollars and amassed one of the greatest fortunes the world has ever seen, observed his 89th anniversary on Sunday much as he observed other days in the twilight of his life. The only exception was that owing to it being Sunday he did not have his usual game of golf. Rockefeller believes firmly in fresh air and exercise to prolong life and his weekday golf game is the bright spot of his daily existence.

Splendid Conditions Favor Hundreds of Empire Marksmen To-day.

2,000 COMPETE.

Best 300 Will Enter the Second Stage On Friday.

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., July 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Wonderful shooting conditions favored the hundreds of Empire marksmen who competed to-day in the first stage of the great King's prize, seeking the right to enter the second stage on Friday. The best 300 scorers to-day, out of nearly 2,000 competitors, are eligible for the second stage.

The marksmen took the longest of the three ranges first, firing seven shots at 600, 500 and 200 yards. The Canadians started in fine shape, Pte. T. R. Davies, of Vancouver, scoring 3 out of a possible 35, Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, scored 33, and C. S. M. Hawkins, Toronto, 32.

ROCKEFELLER BUYS ESTATE

Takes Over Christian Brothers College for $500,000 And Gift.

$1,000,000 GIVEN

TARRYTOWN, July 11.—St. Joseph's Normal College, conducted by the Christian Brothers at Pocantico Hills, has been sold to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for $500,000. At the same time it became known that Mr. Rockefeller had donated the college $1,000,000 toward the cost of its removal program. It is the largest single gift to Catholicism that Mr. Rockefeller has ever made.

The property contains 360 acres. Lands owned by Mr. Rockefeller adjoin the tract on the south; the estate of James Stillman is on the north and on the east is land owned by Westchester County for the Saw Mill River Parkway. The property takes in most of the Buttermilk range of hills, which are among the highest in Westchester County.

It was learned the property was offered to the Rockefellers twenty-five or thirty years ago for $40,000.

The imposing edifice which the Brothers occupy, and which is one of the show places of this section, will ultimately be razed and the property will be added to the woodland of the Rockefeller estate.

In the years the Christian Brothers have been at Pocantico Hills there has been the utmost intimacy between the superiors, the students and the Rockefellers. Each opened his estate to the other. But within the last few years the march of progress took from the Christian Brothers their privacy and on several occasions Mr. Rockefeller was offered the property. Months ago he reopened negotiations.

LOEWENSTEIN HAD BIG SUM

Report Says Mysteriously Missing and Unpopular Belgian Drew $500,000.

CONSIDERED 'OUTSIDER.'

CHICAGO, July 11.—Mystery continues to veil the disappearance of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, and the widest rumors are circulated and to some extent believed in international cirles, where the Belgian financier was known as a man capable of doing anything. It was said today that the millionaire had drawn a large sum—about $500,000—the day he left for Brussels in an airplane and then disappeared. Scotland Yard is investigating a mysterious individual who is alleged to have landed at Tilbury from Dunkirk on Thursday noon

Opt. Loewenstein's friends, however, do not doubt that he is dead.

Not Popular with English

The Belgian banker was never very popular in this country in spite of his strenuous efforts to break into society. There was something strange about him which kept the English people away. He arrived here with the idea of playing a predominant role not only in the financial but also in the social world.

His mansion at Melton Mowbray, Leicestershire, was one of the most luxurious in the district. In order to play an important social role he adopted the favorite sport of the English gentry—hunting — and his hunters were doubtless the finest in England.

Capt. Loewenstein opened wide the doors of his home for his neighbors and although allowed to hunt with the most exclusive packs, his brusque manner was a drawback. The English gentry frequently went to his house and enjoyed lavish entertainments, but seldom returned the hospitality, although it was known that his friends could get good stock exchange tips. Although he had horses in all the principal racing meetings and spent fantastic sums to gain the Derby and Ascot cups, aristocratic horse owners considered him an outsider and never met him socially.

Ross Rifle Inventor Seeks Divorce From His Kentucky Wife In Mexico

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, July 11.—A suit for divorce has been filed in the Mexican courts here by Sir Charles Henry Augustus Frederick Lockhart Ross, Baronet, against Lady Patricia Ellison Ross.

Beyond the fact that the wife formerly was Patty Burnley Ellison of Kentucky, no information as to the couple's identity was available here.

Sir Charles Henry Lockhart Ross, a member of one of the oldest families of Scotland, and Patricia Ellison, daughter of Andrew Ellison of Louisville, Ky., were married in 1901. Some years ago Lady Ross brought a suit for divorce in the Edinburgh courts, but her application was denied on the ground that Sir Charles had established a residence in Canada.

Sir Charles, inventor of the Ross rifle which was used by the Canadian Army, has spent a considerable part of his life in the United States and Canada. He is consulting adviser on small arms to the Canadian Government, a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a retired officer of the famous Scottish regiment, the Seaforth Highlanders.

At the hearing of the suit brought by Lady Ross in 1925 it was brought out that Sir Charles had sold his ancestral home, Balnagowan Castle, to an American company, of which he was a director, but had retained the greater part of his vast holdings. He was reputed to be one of the wealthiest Baronets in Scotland.

Sun Chuan-fang, Reputed to be Worth $42,000,000, Increases Power.

TO HALT CHIANG

Rises From Ashes of Defeat at Shanghai to New Sphere.

PEKING, July 11.—When Marshal Sun Chuan-fang lost Shanghai to the Nationalists a year ago and became in reality an exile from the five provinces he had controlled, his star seemed definitely declining.

It was generally reported that he had about $42,000,000 in Japanese banks, and it was supposed he would go to Dairen or to Japan to live. But instead, he commanded the retreat of about 120,000 of his former army of 500,000, got them safely into Northern territory, and then began to carve out a new career as an ally and supporter of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Northern Dictator.

To-day, though his army numbers only about 60,000, and though he has no territory he can call his own,

MOTH AIRPLANE FLIES TO CITY

Gerald Wood, of North Monaghan, Comes as Passenger.

MRS. WOOD RETURNS.

One of the latest Moth planes purchased by the Dominion Government for the purpose of promoting aviation in Canada flew from Toronto to this city yesterday. The chief instructor of the Dominion Aviation was in charge and his passenger was Gerald Wood of the Township of North Monaghan. Mr. Wood had been up in Toronto on business, and he took this way of returning home. Mrs. Wood went back to Toronto with the aviator. The plane was recently purchased in England and those who saw it claim that it was one of the finest airplanes they have ever seen.

COMMITTEEMEN REJECT TASK

Property Committee Thinks Full Time M.O.H. Too Important.

REFERRED BACK.

The question of a full time Medical Health Officer for the City of Peterborough, which had been referred by the City Council to the Property Committee, was discussed at a meeting of that body last night. Two communications were received by the committee, one from the Medical Association suggesting that steps be taken to keep the Provincial Laboratory in this city, and the other from the Board of Health recommending that a full time officer be appointed.

The committee considered the matter too important to be referred to it so a resolution was passed asking that the Council deal with the question in committee of the whole.

The city buildings are being redecorated, and while City Clerk Armstrong is away, the chairman was authorized to purchase new furniture for his office.

Officials Probing Crash

CORONER DOUBTFUL.

Constable Tells Examiner He Suspects Foul Play in Case.

OSHAWA, Ont., July 11 (Special to The Examiner).—An automobile accident, surrounded by mysterious features, occurred on the Port Perry-Oshawa highway at an early hour this morning, by which Vern Mills of Oshawa met his death. Provincial police officers are investigating and are perplexed by a number of features of the case. Mills was driving southward when he met his death. A will made out in lead pencil earlier in the day was in his pocket. His car hit a culvert on the left or wrong side of the road and turned over into the ditch. Mills was found dead in the creek ten or fifteen feet ahead of the car, and the officers cannot see how he could have been thrown out, there being no indication that anything of the kind happened.

It is said that Mills carried in his pocket a letter addressed by him to his wife, which was of a confidential character, referring mainly to personal matters. The deceased was in the employe of the W. Phillips Company of this place.

Coroner Doubtful.

GAS-SHOOTING GUN IS NEW INVENTION

COPENHAGEN, July 11.—Romance is being removed from war, even in the sky. An invention perfected by Arnold Christensen, a Maribo engineer, if generally adopted would bring air fighting pretty close to a level with the trenches—all but the mud.

It consists of a gun which spouts massed gas. The charge, revolving like a windspout, is claimed to travel 500 feet a second. Christensen has offered his patent to the Danish war department.

CANADA'S ATHLETES LEAVE FOR WORLD FAMOUS GAMES

Canadian Stars Leave Montreal Seeking World Honors

ON THE ALBERTIC.

Journey To Boat Is Enlivened With Ukeleles and Sing Song.

MONTREAL, Que., July 11 (Special to The Examiner).—In the cold grey hours of the dawn the liner Albertic pulled out of Montreal to-day bearing the main contingent of Canada's hopes in the Olympic games. Tired but happy after their send-off last night, the athletes, men and girls were sound asleep in their cabins, engulfed in dreams of world glory for the maple leaf. The baby of the party is Dorothy Prior, sixteen-year-old swimmer. The grand daddy is Percy Wyir, the marathoner, who says he isn't as old as his 42 years indicate. Manager Bobby Robinson has already laid down the law on training rules. He caught the girls drinking pop, and he told them in no uncertain terms, "You can't win a relay on pop." The girls will be expected to live up to the schedule the same as the men. "You can enjoy yourselves after you have won at Amsterdam," said Robinson.

On the way to the boat, ukeleis and sing-song enlivened the journey. Frederick Lyonde, one of the party, challenged the all-round girl star, Bobby Rosenfeld, to sing bass to his soprano. Miss Rosenfeld won easily as Mr. Lyonde's soprano left a lot to be desired.

FLYING HAS PROVED TO BE SAFEST

CHICAGO, July 11.—Mile for mile flying has become the safest means of transportation. A survey conduced by an air transport company shows that there are so few fatalities on European lines that the insurance rates on air traffic are now lower than on surface transportation.

The Imperial Airways, Ltd., have carried 75,000 passengers 4,000,000 miles in seven years with only four deaths. In 1925 and 1926, this concern covered 1,653,000 miles without any fatalities at all.

The risk is somewhat higher in the United States. From 1918 to 1922, there was one death for every 138,800 miles flown. By 1926 so many improvements had been made that only one life was lost for every 2,292,273 miles covered. Air mail pilots in the same year flew 2,086,395 miles with the loss of only two men.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 11 (Canadian Press).—Hope that some day the people of Canada from coast to coast would sing the same version of "O Canada" was voiced at a recent meeting of the Kiwanis Club by Joseph Wearing, of Peterborough, Ont., who recently returned from the International Kiwanis convention at Seattle.

"I found myself in a peculiar position here to-day when the proceedings opened with 'O Canada'," said Mr. Wearing. "I can sing 'My Country 'Tis of Thee,' according to your version. Either you send us your version or we will send you ours."

Vancouver Kiwanians use the Buchan version of the anthem, as does the Canadian Club and any other British Columbia organizations. Peterborough sings the Weir version.

LAST TRIBUTES ARE PAID TO VETERAN LEGISLATOR

COUNTERFEIT OLD VIOLINS INTO EUROPE

NEW YORK, July 11.—A flood of counterfeit Stradivarius violins has swept down upon the European music centers. But only inexperienced buyers are being victimized, for all the existing instruments made by the old masters are catalogued, and records of their sales are carefully kept.

Before the war, musicians say, the spurious Strads were made in certain villages of Germany. An American in Paris has a collection of these instruments, all artificially aged. But the ones appearing on the markets now are so cleverly done that the eye cannot detect the deception.

The fake instruments are made of ancient wood taken from buildings or bridges. When they are offered for sale, they always have some plausible history back of them. But the experienced musician can tell by the tonal quality that they are imitations.

MONTREAL, July 11. — In a cable received here from Baron von Huenefeld, the North German Lloyd was instructed to ship the trans-Atlantic aeroplane Bremen to Germany on one of the steamers of the Lloyd Canadian service.

Sam Clarke is Buried To-day in Cobourg Union Cemetery.

MANY FLOWERS.

Political Opponents and Friends of Three Decades Gather For Funeral.

COBOURG, July 11 (Special to The Examiner).—With one of the largest funerals in the history of this section, the late Sam Clark, veteran member for East Northumberland in the Ontario Legislature and "the man who never lost an election," was borne this afternoon from the residence of his brother-in-law, J. T. Field, for interment in Cobourg Union Cemetery.

Political opponents and friends of three decades gathered to pay their last tribute to the former Liberal, long one of the most popular members of the legislature. Flowers were sent by Premier Ferguson, the Cabinet, and many others.

Among the chief mourners were his widow, three sons, Percy, Victor and Stuart; two daughters, Miss Olive Clark and Mrs. Gray; his stepson, F. H. Hall, K.C.; two sisters, Mrs. Trull of Bowmanville and Mrs. George Archer of Sault Ste. Marie. A brother, Thomas Clark, resides in the Northwest.

Peterborough Represented.

THREE YOUTHS KILLED BY LIGHTNING BOLTS

NEW PASTOR IS INDUCTED AT BAILIEBORO

Rev. E. F. Swain Takes Over United Church on Fraserville Circuit.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

Rev. Mr. McDonald, of Peterborough Preaches Sermon For Occasion.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, July 11.—Rev. Mr. McDonald, of Knox church, Peterborough, preached the sermon on Friday evening at the induction service of Rev. E. F. Swain, in the United church. Mr. McDonald read the scripture reading from the 26th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles.

Rev. E. F. Swain has been on the Fraserville circuit for the past two weeks and the congregations of the three churches at Fraserville, Bensfort and Bailieboro were well represented on Friday evening.

The Rev. Mr. McNealy, of Keene, took charge of the induction service, while Rev. Mr. Archer, of Havelock, addressed the assembly and Rev. Hie, of Hastings, a former college friend of Mr. Swain's, addressed the pastor.

The service was a very impressive one throughout, and a selection, ably rendered by the choir, 'Lead Kindly Light," was very appropriate for the occasion.

At the conclusion of the service a dainty luncheon was served by the ladies of the three congregations.

Personals.

Miss May Dawson, of Toronto, is the guest of her brother, Frank Dawson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ford, Misses Bertha Ford and Charlotte Barnard and Mr. M. Ford of Lindsay, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard on Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Byers and little daughter Betty, of Toronto, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Byers.

Howard Grone, a farm labourer who has been working for Mr. H. Howson, had the misfortune recently to fall off his bicycle while attempting to get his wheel out of a deep rut while going at a fast rate. The fall resulted in the lad breaking his arm in two places.

Among those from this district who attended the junior farmers' picnic at Presqu'Ile on Friday were Misses M... and T. Earl, E. Perrin, A. Fair, M. Brown and Messrs. A. Deyell, A. Dawson, K. Barnard, N. Earl, H. Fair, A. Brown, J. Brackenridge.

Miss Olive Dawson, of Peterborough, was the week end guest of her brother, Frank Dawson.

Mr. J. Isbister had the misfortune to have his car badly smashed up while motoring from Peterborough on Saturday evening. A car coming down a side line crashed into Mr. Isbister's car and dragged it a considerable distance along the highway before the car was thrown into the ditch. The occupants of the car were badly shaken up. The number of the car was not obtained.

SMITH TOWNSHIP ASKED FOR GRANT

Memorial Committee Asks the Council to Make Grant For War Memorial.

The minutes of the municipal council of the township of Smith met in session on Saturday, July 7th, at the hour of ten a.m., in the council chamber, court house, Peterborough.

Bylaw No. 859, authorizing the building of a concrete walk on Wolsley St., as a Local Improvement, received its several readings, and was passed.

Moved by Deputy Reeve Coons, seconded by Councillor Fitzgerald, and carried, that the tender of Mr. Bebee, for the construction of the above named sidewalk be accepted at 20c per square foot, and that the clerk draw up an agreement in duplicate containing the terms and specifications, under which the work is to be done, which agreement is to be signed by Mr. Bebee, and by the Reeve and Clerk on behalf of the Township of Smith.

Moved by Councillor Mann, seconded by Deputy Reeve Coons, and carried, that the municipal council of the Township of Smith grant the sum of five hundred dollars to the War Memorial Committee, in aid of the War Memorial being erected in Confederation Park.

Mayor Denné and Mr. George MacDonald, president of the War Mem. Com., were personally present to ask council for a grant to this worthy cause. It is intended when finished to hand over the memorial to the Mayor of Peterborough and the Warden of Peterborough County in trust.

Messrs. James Middleton, collector, and Garbutt D. Mann, assessor, were present after having made an assess-

STEAL COATS

SAULT STE MARIE, July 10. — (Canadian Press)—Entering by night, a ladies' wear store on Queen street, burglars made a clean get-away with 42 fur and cloth coats valued at nearly $3,000. They overlooked $2,000 worth of silver, grey and black fox furs.

District Orange Lodges Hold Annual Church Parade

Two Thousand Expert Marksmen Will Take Part In First Stage of King's Prize

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 11 (Canadian Press Cable).— Today the first stage of the King's Prize, great feature of the National Rifle Association's meeting, will be decided, with upwards of two thousand expert military marksmen from all parts of the Empire seeking the right to enter the second stage on Friday.

All eighteen members of the Canadian Bisley team are of course entered; the King's Prize being the greatest individual award for marksmanship in the Empire. Two former winners will be among the Canadians—Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, winner in 1924, and Company Sergeant-Major Hawkins of Toronto, who triumphed in 1913. A number of other previous winners will be among the entrants.

To-day the entrants will fire seven shots at 200, 500, and 600 yards. The three hundred with best aggregate scores are eligible for the second stage, when the field is cut down to 100 who will participate in the final on Saturday.

Wheat Acreage Sown Shows Big Increase

OTTAWA, Ont., July 11.—(Canadan Press.)—Canada's total area estimated as sown to wheat for 1928 is 23,405,900 acres, as compared with 22,460,154 acres finally reported for 1927. This year's estimate represents an increase of 945,746 acres or four per cent.

The area of fall wheat to be harvested, according to a crop report issued yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, is estimated at 795,500 acres, as against 853,258 acres in 1927, a decrease of 57,758 acres or seven per cent. Spring wheat occupied 22,610,400 acres as compared with 21,606,896 acres, an increase of 1,003,504 acres, or five per cent.

FISHING GOOD AT RICE LAKE

Thomas Wallace, now of Toronto, but formerly of the local Public School staff, is holidaying at Keene, which really means he is in, around, or on top of Rice Lake, for the next two months. Mr Wallace left the lake long enough the other day to drop into Peterborough, and he reports that fishing was fine, as good as anyone would want.

Mr. Wallace says that all that this part of the province needs is to stop illegal fishing and use of ordinary common sense in the framing of our fish laws, and we will have fish all right for the tourist.

WORK IS BEING PUSHED AHEAD

Front Street, Campbellford, Will Soon Be Ready For Paving.

MAINS BEING LAID.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11.—After being torn up for practically a month, Front street is soon to be back to somewhere near normal. Backfilling of the sewer and water main excavations has started and another day will make considerable difference to the general appearance of the roadway. It is probable that this will be the next portion of the work to be done. Following the added grant of 25,000 from the counties, work on the extension of the connecting links within the town boundaries has progressed rapidly. The base is now laid on the Brighton road as far as the boundary and on the Hastings road as well. Excavation and levelling is almost completed on the Havelock road. The concrete base will be laid without delay. The only remaining streets to be paved are Front street and the connecting link extension on the Stirling road.

Up to the present time, although the detours have been inconvenient, they have not been long. Nor have they been used any longer than was necessary. With the exception of the one made necessary by the extension of the pavement on Sebastapol street, the detours have consisted of usually one or two town blocks. The work on the Brighton connection necessitated a long detour, but this could be avoided by using the drive on the east side of the canal. The work on the Havelock road makes it necessary to detour several miles and enter town by way of the Hastings road, which has been barricaded till yesterday.

While the paving company seems to be having no trouble in keeping their work up to schedule time, the huge amount of sewer excavation and installation of watermains is causing some concern to those in charge and responsible for the work. Labor is not plentiful and every effort is being made to speed up the digging in order that the laying of the base may not be delayed. The necessity for removing a considerable quantity of rock in many of the sewer excavations has slowed up this work.

STEAMER STRUCK

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. July 10. — (Canadian Press).—Lightning struck the deck of the steamer Easton while in lock 16 on the Welland Canal last night. Members of the crew were somewhat dazed but no damage was caused except a noticeable dent in the steel deck.

PREPARE FOR CELEBRATION

DECORATE STREETS

STIRLING, July 11.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The local Orange lodge members have been very busy of late getting the fair grounds and main building in readiness to entertain the large crowd they expect on Thursday.

3,000 pounds (1½ tons) of beef has been ordered by Mr. E. Sandercock and Walter Wright is to roast it in his bakery oven.

The street decorations are to be placed on Wednesday by C. B. Scantlebury of Belleville.

Farmers Suffer Damage

Another bad electric storm passed over here on Monday night, Claude Tucker at the west end of the village lost two cows, Richard Haggerty at West Huntingdon two cows, Mr. Brough of Crookston two cows, and Michael Kirby of Ivanhoe two sheep by lightning strokes. George Cooke's house at West Huntingdon was struck but not badly damaged.

The I.O.O.F. degree team numbering 30, of Madoc Lodge No. 179 visited Stirling lodge on Monday night and exemplified the work of the 3rd degree. During their journey here they were forced to halt for a time on account of the storm.

Struck By Bus

Mrs. George Drewry who had been on a six weeks visit at her daughter's in Brooklyn N.Y., was returning to her home here on Saturday last, accompanied by her daughter and son-in-law in whose car they were proceeding along the highway, when near Pickering village a collision occurred between a large motor bus and their car, the latter being forced from the road into the ditch. Mr. Drewery was the only one injured, and si suffering from a broken shoulder and fractured ribs. The party arrived here on Monday afternoon and Mrs. Drewery is resting as well as she can, considering the shock and injuries she is suffering from.

"An Alpine Romance," the spectacular musical production to be presented on the fifth night of the coming Dominion Redpath Chautauqua here this season by the famous Fiechtl Yodlers, is like a glimpse into the heart of the Alps. The colorful costumes of the picturesque Tyrol, fascinating Tyrolean melodies and quaint folk dances give an unforgetable picture of life in the far-away Alps.

The famous Fiechtls came originally from Innsbruck, Tyrol, and have won a tremendous popularity in this country. With them are Yost and Wunderle, two well-known Tyrolean artists whose Victor phonograph records are known and loved by thousands.

Will appear in the Chautauqua Course of Entertainment which is in Peterborough, July 13, 14, 16, 17, 18.

ATTEND SERVICE AT HAVELOCK

L.O.L. No. 326 and Lady McGill Lodge Parade to Knox Church.

MANY VISITORS

HAVELOCK, July 11.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The annual church parade of the Havelock L.O.L. No. 362 and Lady McGill Lodge L.O.B.A. No. 471 took place on Sunday evening when a large number of the members of these organizations and visitors from Norwood, Campbellford and Hastings gothered in the Orange Hall and headed by the fife and drum band, marched to Knox church where a special sermon was preached by Rev. J. L. McCullough of Toronto. Rev. Hugh Brown and Rev. M. E. Wilson, of town, also assisted with the service.

Rev. McCullough chose as his text for the occasion, Exodus 3, verse 3, "and Moses said, I will turn aside and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt."

"We are all familiar," he said, in opening his discourse, "with the motto of the burning bush which has served as a stimulus to many people and we may call Moses a great protestant because he was the first to protest against oppression. The church has been carried on for nineteen hundred years and the bush is still burning despite persecution. The speaker dwelt on the history of protestantism since the time of the early church, mentioning in particular the doctrine of calvinism which stands for the sovereignty of God and the free will of man. We have a noble order he said, which is pledged for one faith, one king and one school and may I in closing ask you your attitude to our great leader, the head of the church the Lord Jesus Christ. Do you uphold him as the Monarch of the Universe, the Son of God, who has died for you? This is the greatest test! Can you make the confession that Peter made "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God". For it is upon this rock, the confession that the church stands and Christ has said the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Whosoever believes is saved. The value of this faith is beyond conception and it is this wonderful faith that cost the blood of our forefathers, what do you think of our leader Jesus Christ?"

A vocal solo was given by Mrs. C. Jamieson and the church was beautifully decorated with canterbury bells, peonies and gallardias, donated by Mrs. J. H. Toms.

Service at Bethany

BETHANY, July 11 (Examiner Correspondence).—The members of the Orange Order, No. 1022, parade to the United Church on Sunday evening to attend service. The Lodge, attired in their white coats and badges looked unusually well and were headed by the village band; Fred Gray, Reeve of Manvers preceeded them, carrying a large Union Jack.

The service at the church was conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. Poulter. The choir was composed of Orangemen, the organ being taken by J. J. Clarke, of Ballyduff. Several musical selections were played by the band.

At Warsaw Church

WARSAW, July 11 (Examiner Correspondence)—Every seat, even to the draw-seats, in the Baptist Church, was filled on Sunday morning, when the Orangemen paraded to church.

Pastor Eikenaar's subject was "The children of Israel keeping the Feast of the Passover," as a reminded of a great deliverance. The Orangemen keep the Twelfth to commemorate a great event—a day when liberty and freedom were secured. Among other things, he pointed out that in these days of materialism it is well worth while to look back and see what great things God has done. The past and present are inseparable, and they give inspiration for the future. It is a blessed thing to look back and say, "Hitherto hath the Lord blessed us." With that, there is the assurance of future blessing. What fellow-

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hornsby of Lindsay, were visitors to the village on Monday.

Russian Ice-Breaker Krassin Unable To Make Further Progress Towards Refugees

MOSCOW, July 11 (Canadian Press).—It was reported to the Soviet rescue commission yesterday by Professor Samollovitch, leader of the expedition, that the Russian ice-breaker Krassin has been halted by the ice and can make no further progress toward the camp of the Vigilerl group of Italia survivors until weather conditions permit a survey from the air.

The report said that the Russian aviator Chukhnovsky would attempt to spy out a route for the steamer through the ice. If his report is favorable, the Krassin will use all her power to continue her present course and reach the sick and depressed refugees.

If the aviator's report is discouraging, the Krassin will back out of her present position and try to go through Hinlopen Strait, thus approaching the camp from the southeast or east instead of the northwest as her present course is tending.

Professor Samollovitch said that if the vessel is forced to take the route around Northeastland, she will have to stop at Advent Bay for coal. He added that relays are inevitable in Polar navigation and that they may be met again.

CHEESE FACTORIES INCREASE TRADE

Young's Point and Selwyn Factories Pay 52 Cents Lb. for Butter Fat.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

YOUNG'S POINT, July 11.— The cheese industry is certainly becoming a paying concern. The patrons of Young's Point and Selwyn cheese factories are being paid 52 cents a lb. for butter fat for their June milk.

Lightning Strikes House.

During a severe electric storm on Sunday afternoon, the home of Richard Alford, Smith township, was struck by lightning, the end of the house being badly shattered and his radio torn to pieces. Mr. Alford, who was lying on a couch, escaped uninjured.

Personals.

Mrs. Simmons, with her sons, have arrived in the village and will spend the summer at their new home, the Lakeview Inn.

Miss Mildred Charlton, of Tillsonburg, is at her home in the village for the holidays.

Mrs. Browning has organized a tennis club at her summer cottage. A number of our local young people enjoy it very much.

Mr. Jack Heard of Oshawa, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Hockaday on Sunday.

Misses Veronica, Mary and Doreen Johnston, of Lakefield, were guests at the Carlton House over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. William Heard, of Bridgenorth, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Hockaday on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Lane were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. William Tully, Lakefield, on Sunday.

The Misses Alice Charlton, Lois McNaughton and Aileen Young were successful in their Entrance examinations, all three passing. Aileen, the youngest of the three passed with honors.

MAY USE MOTOR; HORSE IS DEAD

Steed Had Headed the Orange Procession For Ten Years.

WINDSOR, July 11.—Traditions of the Loyal Orange Lodge may fall by the wayside when district lodges of the order from Essex and Kent Counties meet Thursday at Chatham. This is because of the death of the Grand Master's horse.

For 10 years John Bailey of Walkerville, Customs Collector for the port, and Marshal of the Orangemen's parade, rode at the head of the parade on the same white horse. Since last year's procession ,however, the horse has died and in spite of an exhaustive search for a substitute an acceptable mount has not been found.

With only one day remaining to find a suitable horse, Bailey said he probably would ride in an automobile.

RECEIVES PRESENTATION

William McCartney Honored by Employees of Land and Fisheries Department.

BETHANY, July 11. — (Examiner Correspondence). —William McCartney who for the past twelve years has been one of the office staff in the Game and Fisheries Department of the government building, Toronto, and who recently resigned his position owing to ill health, received a big surprise lately, when he was the recipient of an address signed by the Deputy Minister and office staff together with a gold-headed monogramed cane and silk umbrella, as a token of their appreciation of his work among them.

Mr. McCartney was very much surprised so the kind thoughtfulness of his late fellow workers is all the more appreciated by him.

Northern Cobblers Are Full Grown

Four full-grown Northern Cobbler potatoes and several green pea pods of unusual size were shown The Examiner this morning by Mr. Libby, who resides at 477 Parnell Street. They had been grown this spring in Mr. Libby's garden, and seemed to be several jumps ahead of the season.

HAYING IS GENERAL IN CAVAN TOWNSHIP

Recent Rains Improved the Crop Considerably—Dry Weather Wanted.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 10.—Haying in this section of the township is now practically general, cutting of red clover and alfalfa beginning last week; judging by present indications the timothy crop will be ready for cutting within the next few days.

The recent rains have improved the hay outlook considerably, but drier weather will be welcomed now that cutting has begun. Considering the rather unfavorable start it got fall wheat is promising fairly well; fields, in many cases, are "patchy" where the water lay and froze smothering out the grain; this is true, also, of the clover and alfalfa crops.

Apparently spring grains and root crops are looking well, though for low-lying land there has been rather an overabundance of moisture.

TAKE SHELTER UNDER A TREE DURING STORM

NEAR SHERBROOKE, QUE.

SHERBROOKE, Que., July 11 (Canadian Press).—Three boys, sons of Onanime Boulin, a farmer, were killed by a lightning bolt while in the pasture of their father's farm on the Flanders Road, between Cookshire and Sawyerville, yesterday afternoon.

The boys, Henry 14, Fernand 12, and Oliver 11, had been sent to the pasture to bring their father's horses to the barn.

A severe electrical storm came up suddenly and the youth, with the led horses, took shelter beneath a tree in the pasture.

When they failed to return after fifteen minutes, the father set out to look for them, and came upon their bodies beneath the tree which had been shattered by the bolt. The bodies of three dead horses lay near by.

Their deaths brought the total of dead from lightning in the province during the past two days to four. Lawler Tynan, 35, was killed Monday at St. Sauveur des Monts.

The whole province has been swept by electrical storms of marked intensity during the past two days, following a week of extremely hot weather.

Canadian Held On Swindling Charges

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Barney Gannon, arrested last week at the instance of the Canadian authorities on a charge of swindling Dr. Ira D. Cotnam, a member of Parliament from North Renfrew, Ont., out of $30,000 in a bond transaction, was held in $10,000 bail by Federal Judge Dickinson yesterday for a further hearing.

Representatives of the Canadian Government sought to have Gannon held without bail until the arrival of witnesses from Montreal and Ontario, but Judge Dickinson pointed out that the case against the defendant has not yet been established, and that there was a possibility that he might have to remain in jail for a month or more before the facts were produced by the prosecution.

Gannon was employed by a brokerage firm in Toronto, two of whose members are serving jail sentences for fraud.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

Those who have been desiring action on the mining markets have been getting a good dose of it lately. The leaders are moving all over the board, some up and some down, with Noranda leading in the somersault. Those who could see Noranda going up day by day and forgot that it might react had their eyes opened by the suddenness of the recession.

Brazilian was again the active leader and showed the presence of consistent buying, which I am informed included a considerable number of orders from across the Atlantic.

Both Nickel and Brazilian are regarded as being "well bought" and the advise to hold on to them comes from good quarters.

Six percent. money in New York was a deterrent, but there is no fear expressed of the rate again going to the heights which slowed down the trading a fortnight ago.

National Breweries was permitted to ease off and is probably at a price now which can be considered the turning point. At 132 or so under it looks one of the most attractive purchases on the list.

The Alberta Pacific Grain Company has just completed the second year of operations of the present company. The company has had an excellent 12 months, and the annual report, which will make its appearance in about two months' time, should reveal earnings greater than during the first year's operations of the present company when earnings amounted to $3.53 per share on the common stock.

Considerable interest was displayed here last week in the common stock of the Massey-Harris Company. The stock has been traded in here for some time, but until the last few days has shown little signs of life.

There have been many favorable developments recently which have drawn attention to the prospects of Massey-Harris. Stocks of similar companies listed at New York have been selling high on current and prospective conditions. Any condition which would improve the outlook for the United States companies would benefit Massey-Harris as well, for the company is unique among Canadian Industrials in that it successfully competes with United States and other companies in the market of the world.

The Canadian Crop outlook at present is such to make 1929 business for the Massey-Harris company look very good and earnings for the current year are reported to be running about 11 per cent ahead of those of last year. It was expected that a dividend would be declared on the stock over a year ago, but as yet the directors have not taken any action in this regard.

Mining Trade Sagged At Toronto To-day

TORONTO, July 11 (Canadian Press). — Trading sagged a bit on the Standard Stock Exchange to-day. It was the dullest morning since the beginning of last week. Prices were lower, particularly in the higher priced issues. Malartic continued to be a heavy trader, but dropped 9 to 1.46. Hudson Bay suffered a further loss of 65 to 19.10, almost wiping out its recent gains. Pend Oreille, too, was lower, dropping 60 to 14.00 on very light trading.

Central Manitoba was a strong spot among the western issues, touching 1.19 after an inauspicious opening at 1.07, and closing at 1.15 for a gain of 5. Big Missouri at 58½ was up 6½, and Mint Oregon at 35 was up 2, while Sherritt-Gordon showed strength in advancing 3 to 7.35.

Amulet, with the largest sales volume of the morning, was down 5 at 5.05. Interest in Noranda seems to have waned, as only a few sales were registered with the close at 52.50, a drop of 1.55.

Toronto Exchange Is Still In Mid-Slump

TORONTO, July 11 (Canadian Press). — Toronto Stock Exchange showed some signs of renewed activity to-day, though the volume of trading was still small. International Nickel was the only issue to show much action, and with a heavy turnover it dropped 2¾ to 93. Prices on the whole tended to be a little lower but a number of issues held firm and a few made gains.

Canada Dredging advanced 4 to 49, and was the leader of those on the advance. Photo Engravers was up ½ at 35, and Muirhead's Rights gained 3 in closing at 23. Canners' issues were unchanged, except first preferred, down ½ at 92. The common closed at 30 and second at 23. Hayes Wheels was firm at 32, and Page Hersey at 98 was up a point. Brazilian dropped ½ to 58½, and C.P.R. was down 3½ at 204, while Industrial Alcohol took a drop of 2 to 42½.

Newspaper Is Best Advertising Medium

DETROIT, July 11.—William H. Rankin, president of the William H. Rankin Advertising Agency, told advertising men attending the annual Convention of the International Advertising Association here that the newspaper was the best medium they could use.

In his address, made before the newspaper group of the convention, Mr. Rankin said that in the last five years newspapers have met various kinds of competition, including radio and other new forms of advertising and have shown that they were the leading national as well as local advertising mediums.

The newspaper advertising of leading automobile and cigarette manufacturers, he asserted, "has so increased production and helped lessen manufacturing costs that the price of automobiles and cigarettes has been lowered materially to the consumer."

Subsidiary Is Sold By General Electric

NEW YORK, July 11.—The entire capital stock of the General Contract Purchase Corporation of New York, instalment financing subsidiary of the General Electric Company, has been acquired by the Industrial Acceptance Corporation, according to a joint announcement by Gerard Swope, President of General Electric, and Arthur J. Morris, President of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation. Affiliated contract purchase corporations in Boston, Cleveland, Chicago, Dallas and San Francisco have also been acquired.

Organized by the General Electric Company in 1921 the General Contract Purchase Corporation and its associated companies have extended a national service to General Electric distributors, dealers and to those manufacturers whose product contains General Electric apparatus.

Arthur J. Morris will be Chairman of the board and Percy M. Hall Chairman of the Finance Committee. E. W. Miner, who has been Presidenthe of t General Contract Purchase Corporation, continues as President and General Manager. Frank J. Scott, Vice President of Industrial Acceptance Corporation, becomes Executive Vice President, and Clinton T. Miller Vice President and Controller.

The Board of Directors will include J. W. Lewis, assistant to the President of the General Electric Company, and several other General Electric officials, as well as some of the present members of the board of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation.

Wheat Turns Down; Corn Up at Chicago

CHICAGO, July 11 (Canadian Press).—With the government crop report construed as bearish on wheat and bullish on corn, the wheat market turned downward early to-day and corn up. Liverpool reports that Russian buyers were re-entering the wheat market failed to check bearish sentiments here. Opening unchanged to ⅜c lower, wheat after underwent material setbacks all around. Corn start 1¼ to 2⅛c up, but later receded somewhat. Oats were stronger; provisions showed firmness.

Opening prices.—Wheat, July 131⅝, Sept. 134½; corn, July 106⅜, Sept. 98½; oats, July 48¼, Sept. 41¾.

New York Suffers Another Set-Back

NEW YORK, July 11 (Canadian Press). — Stiffening money rates brought about another sharp reaction in the stock market to-day. An opening decline of 1 to 7½ points was followed by a rally when the call money renewal rate was unchanged at 6 per cent. Subsequently, the calling of $20,000,000 in bank loans, accompanied by a tightening of time money and bankers" acceptances, brought about another sinking spell after mid-day.

Heavy liquidation of stocks took place on the theory that other Federal Reserve centres will follow the lead of Chicago in marking up the rediscount rates to 5 per cent and that there is little hope of easy money before Fall, if then. The day's trade news was largely favorable.

The weekly steel trade reviews emphasized the fact that the seasonal decline in output had been smaller than usual, production last month being the largest for any June in the last ten years.

Call money advanced to 7 per cent after midday.

POLICE RAID LIQUOR DOCKS

ment ready for publication the minute the raid was completed. Further evidence on this score was supplied by the coming to Windsor last night of Inspector F. Elliott from Toronto Provincial Police headquarters with two chartered accountants from the firm of Clarkson-Dillworth.

"One hour after our men took possession of the warehouses," stated Inspector Elliott, in an interview with The Examiner, "we had the two accountants busy checking up the amount of liquor."

Inspector Elliott was inclined to set the figure of the amount seized at $500,000, though he admitted the score might run up considerably over that amount.

Complete secrecy was so well kept by the Provincial Police that the whole raid as a complete surprise. The provincial squad, however, went prepared for any eventualities. Altogether, there were four inspectors, one sergeant, and twenty constables.

Among the four inspectors was Inspector Gardner, who was transferred a short time ago to London. The four inspectors were Elliott, Moss, Gardner and Sarvis, with Sergeant Hand.

DRAYTON'S ORDERS.

TORONTO, July 11 (Canadian Press). — Asked to-day about the seizure of two liquor export docks at Windsor to-day, Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, said: "Yes, two seizures were made this morning." His instructions were to select two warehouses out of many doing business in Windsor and its neighborhood, and in selecting, choose those he deemed most advisable in the interests of the administration of justice and the interests of law and order.

Act Is Infringed.

The docks were seized at 8.15 this morning. The employees were chased off the premises and a squad of Provincial Police put in charge of each. All books and papers were seized and a chartered accountant furnished by the Clarkson firm of Toronto set to work at each dock to check up the books.

In his statement, Sir Henry Drayton said that there has been evidence obtained by the police that short circuited, or placing of export liquor in illicit channels for consumption within the province, has been going on all along. He blames this on the fact that exporters have accumulated large stocks and takes the stand that such accumulation is contrary to the regulations of the Canada Temperance Act regulating the importation of liquor and its transport through

BIGGEST WALK IN HISTORY EXPECTED HERE TO-MORROW

At Least One Hundred Lodges To Celebrate in City.

SPECIAL TRAINS.

Peterborough Orangemen Look Forward To Event as Marking Record.

The music of fife and drum will resound through Peterborough city streets at an early hour tomorrow morning ushering in another, and from present indications, the largest and most successful observation locally, that has ever marked the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. With weather forecasts gracefully omitting any single reference to a shower, and with arrangements all complete for the reception and parading of the hundred or more lodges that are expected, Peterborough Orangemen are looking to to-morrow with more than the usual pleasureable anticipation.

Experiences of former years have led those in charge to avoid guaranteeing special trains, but from Lindsay, and incidentally most of Victoria and Haliburton counties, one special train is expected because of the road work which has made the Peterborough-Lindsay highway difficult of travel. According to secretary Frank Sanderson of the celebrating committee, there is no means of definitely reckoning the number of lodges likely to come to Peterborough but he stated there is reasonable certainty of lodges from many parts of Victoria and Haliburton counties; out Norwood Hastings and Havelock way; from Port Hope, Cobourg and other communities in that direction as well as from Manvers, and many other lodges from that district. As mentioned above one hundred or more separate units will be parade.

The lodge coming from the furthest point will probably be a special delegation from Toronto while an unusual feature of "the walk" will be a ladies' silver fife and drum band from Campbellford.

Local Orangemen will be in full parade along with the visiting lodges and among them will be Lodges number 1175, 50, 2440 (of May's School House) 321, from Downer's corners; 457 of Nassau; 122, of Lakefield; 419 of North Smith and the lodge from Apsley.

SEVEN HELD FOR ROBBERY

Detroit Police Search For Men Hired To Do Killing.

AT TORONTO.

DETROIT, July 11. — (Canadian Press)—Detroit police revealed today that they are assisting Toronto detectives in searching for men formerly employed in a barber shop here in connection with the $125,000 mail robbery at Toronto recently. They also disclosed that seventy-five Canadian $5 bills, believed to be part of the loot have been recovered here. Four suspects and three women are in custody in Toronto in connection with the robbery according to Detroit police, who also said they have been given information that approximately $40,000 of loot has been recovered there.

Toronto detectives investigating the robbery here are said to have told the Detroit officers that two Detroit men took part in the robbery. One of these, according to police information, obtained only $1,000 of loot. Police said they found Canadian money here in the brick wall of the basement of a shop in which the other Detroit member of the gang had ben employed.

Antiseptic Adds to Woes.

"Take, for instance," suggests Mr. Trimble, "this new antiseptic, mercurichrome, that is gaining such wide use in the country in place of iodine. It's a brilliant red, you know. Well, when people have a cut or wound to treat, they're usually pretty shaky, and so it's not at all unnatural that they should spill some mercurichrome on their suit or dress. We've been doing the best we know how, but at present we have to send a garment through three processes before we can dissolve that bright red spot."

The tendency of apparel makers to "load" silk dresses with tin and iron also has added plenty of grief to the conscientious cleaner, according to Mr. Trimble.

"And," he adds, "despite what we hear about the effectiveness of prohibition, it has added a problem to the cleaners and dyers."

"In a small way we had been worried over how to clean spots from soft drinks, but now we have the problem in real proportion. The stain from the tannic acid of the soft drink is an especially difficult one to remove, and more so when it has been set by heat, such as from ironing."

Apply Modern Methods.

But no matter what the problems, spots that local cleaners and dyers have despaired of, are now being removed to some degree by the institute at Washington. Classes of from thirty to sixty young men and women take the course every ten weeks and return to their home towns to apply modern methods to the industry.

OFFICIALS PROBING HIGHWAY CRASH

has called an inquest to be opened this afternoon, stated that from his preliminary investigation he was inclined to doubt that Mills was killed in the automobile accident. "Mills' body was found floating at the other side of the river from where his car overturned after it struck the abutment of the bridge," stated Coroner Mathers. "How he got into the river with the car overturned in the manner it was and with him badly hurt is a mystery. There was very little water in his lungs, which shows that he was not drowned. The automobile was not damaged beyond a bent axle. There was no blood in the car, and neither was there any glass broken."

Provincial Officer Mitchell said to The Examiner: "We are working on the theory that there was foul play, but I am not in a position to give any statement at this time. So far we have been unable to discover whether there was anyone in the car with Mills at the time."

KNOWN IN LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, Ont., July 11 (Special to The Examiner). — Vernon Mills, who was found dead on the Port Perry Highway, there being a suspicion of foul play, visited at his father's home here last night. Leaving Lindsay about 12.30 o'clock, he complained of being tired, and it is thought he went to sleep at the wheel of his car. He was about 38 years of age, born at Lindsay, and a popular young man, especially in athletic circles.

He was manager of the Lindsay Intermediate hockey team for the past three years, an ex-officer of the Softball League, and a baseball player. He served overseas with the 109th Battalion and later with the artillery in France. He was president of the Lindsay branch of the Canadian Legion in 1927.

Wife is Overcome

Mills resided at 39 Agnes street in Oshawa. His wife is too much overcome to discuss the fatality. The couple came from Lindsay three or four months ago. Provincial officers Miller and Taylor have gone to Lindsay this afternoon in connection with the case.

George Banner, 385 Albert street, Oshawa, saw the body at about 6.30 o'clock, when he was driving into Oshawa from Caesarea. He took it from the water. His statement as to its position does not agree with that of the coroner regarding it being on the opposite side of the creek, but others saw the body, one of those being John Hurd, agent at the C.P.R. station here, who was driving into Oshawa a short time before Banner happened along. He thought the proper thing to do was to leave it alone and hurry in to notify the authorities, which he did. Banner also told the police immediately on his arrival. He stated to The Examiner that the body was floating face downwards five or six feet from the bank. He got a pole and dragged it in to the shore.

WAR LORD BUYS ARMS

Marshal Sun ranks next to the Dictator himself, in the opinion of both foreigners and Chinese, in North China.

He pays his own troops out of his own money, drawing drafts against his Japanese accounts. And he buys his munitions and guns from abroad (though this is a violation of the arms agreement) and pays for them with his own coin.

Financed Big Arms Deal.

About three months ago a big gun-running deal was arranged for at a conference in Peking, and $2,400,000, Chinese money, was paid out in advance, Sun Chuan-fang's money.

Already, as a result of this deal, two Norwegian vessels have put in at Tsing-tao, each heavily loaded with war material from Europe. One carried 20,000 rifles, 100 machine guns, 4,000 revolvers, and a variety of ammunition. The second brought 600 light field pieces and a quantity of shells.

Sun Chuan-fang did not trust the soldiers of General Chang Tsung-chang, Military Governor of Shantung Province, to handle these cargoes, but obtained special trains manned by his own troops to bring the shipments from Tsing-tao to Tsinan.

With this new equipment Sun is at once put into a position of advantage and, it is believed, will probably soon succeed General Chang as Military Governor.

Chang Tsung-chang, it is understood, will be "promoted" to a new post as Inspector General of Shantung and Chihli Provinces, a position in which he will command no troops, will have no administrative authority, will be unable to levy taxes and will draw only a nominal salary. In other words, General Chang has made a mess of things and is being kicked out, Chinese fashion, by having a high but quite meaningless rank conferred on him.

Origin of Weapons a Mystery.

The origin of these shipments of arms and munitions is shrouded in mystery. Common report has it that Germany permitted their export, but shipment of war materials to China is a violation of an international agreement which forbids such sales and shipments.

A supposedly "American firm" at Tsing-tao handles these shipments, but the "manager" has a German name and speaks with a German accent, and his backers are unknown.

If the northward advance of the Nationalists from Nanking is to be checked, it will probably be Sun Chuan-fang who will do the checking, and these new importations will play a decisive part.

It is noteworthy that history records no revolutionary movement starting in the South which ever won far north of the Yangtse River. The Taipings never won much north of Nanking. Last year, before General Chiang Kai-shein retired temporarily, he held Tsuchow-fu for a time, and then retreated south of the Yangtse.

Political and military observers here now believe that, owing to fighting among the Nationalist factions, the Southern armies will make no northward advances of importances during the present campaign. If they do advance, it will be only at immense cost, for Chang Tso-lin wants to hold Peking, and if the Southerners won Shantung Chang would have to retire into Manchuria.

Sun's Views of Foreign Areas.

"Every time I go through a treaty port I feel myself humiliated, not only because a treaty port reminds me of the loss of a portion of our suzerainty, but because, when I return to Chinese territory, I feel as if entering a different world: the first superior, the second inferior.

"Indeed, in Chinese territory nothing as far as roads, buildings and hygiene are concerned can ge compared with what exists in the Settlements.

"During the last years nationalism has awakened and has claimed the retrocession of the Settlements to China, the abolition of unequal treaties, &c.; but requests void of any sense are without utility.

"If we want the abolition of the Settlements, we must make the necessary preparations. Otherwise, even in the event of the powers surrendering them now, we shall be entirely unprepared to receive them."

AIRPLANE SIGHTS THREE OF CREW

Bay. They carried approximately 50 pounds of provisions. But so far as known have no arms.

The pilot this afternoon was searching for a place to make a landing near the party in order to pick them up.

The airman reported that he circled over the men five times, two of the party energetically waving a flag to him. The third was lying down.

The purpose of the walking group was to reach King's Bay base to bring help back to their comrades who were stranded near Foyne Island. Dr. Malmgren was widely experienced in life in the Arctic because of his previous studies as a meteorologist in that region. While he was known to be well able to take care of himself and his two companions, despite Arctic hardships, it was feared that the handicap facing them was too great and that they never would be heard from. No definite word of them was heard from the time they left the other men. Several overland expeditions equipped with dog teams were in constant search for them and various planes which have scoured the district were on a constant lookout in the effort to trace them.

DECLARE MESSAGES FALSE.

ROME, July 11 (Canadian Press). —No message has been received in Rome from Guiseppe Biogi, wireless operator with the Italia's men stranded off North-East Land, such as has been published abroad to the effect that the party was losing courage and becoming increasingly despondent.

A spokesman for the Air Ministry said that wireless communication with this group has ceased temporarily because of a magnetic storm.

The report received again of the death of Natale Cecconi, motor chief, whose leg was broken, was declared to be false.

This denial does not apply to the report of the finding of the walking party, which has separated from the stranded men.

VOTES WET.

SHERBROOKE, July 11. — Brome County which for years had been recognized as a temperance stronghold, yesterday voted to repeal the Scott Act by a majority of 2,740 votes. With the decision to repeal the Scott Act, which was a Federal enactment, the Quebec Liquor Commission will now grant licenses to those municipalities whose electors vote in favor of the by-law for sale of alcoholic drinks.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

The Kiwanis Club in making arrangements by which it is hoped 65 local girls will be taught to swim, is adding another to its long list of community services.

Ontario newspapers are full these days of stories of drowning accidents, and in the great majority of cases the facts show that the victim was unable to swim.

Heat waves tempt thousands of non-swimmers into the water, they step into holes or slip off a ledge into deep water, and if there is no rescuer close at hand a tragedy results.

The art of swimming is, fortunately, becoming much more generally known, but there still remains a large percentage of people unable to do anything to save themselves should they get into deep water.

The Kiwanis Club's plan to teach 65 young girls how to swim will be a help in this respect, and no difficulty should be experienced in securing pupils who are anxious to learn the useful art.

CANADA'S OLYMPIC TEAM.

The best wishes of all Canadians will go with the members of Canada's Olympic team, which sailed for Europe this morning.

Canada's representation is not large in numbers, but it consists of the cream of the country's athletes, and while these men and women who will wear the Maple Leaf in Amsterdam will face the best the world can produce, there is confidence that Canada will be among the point winners.

The calibre of the team is such as to give their homeland valuable publicity; the members are of a very fine type who can be counted upon to display sportsmanship on all occasions.

Judging by records made in other countries, there are some athletes in the party who have little chance of being among the winners; yet the Olympic contests have been notorious for their upsets, and it may be that some of those Canadians least fancied now will make the best showing when the acid test comes.

At all events their fellow-countrymen will wish them all bon voyage and good luck.

MOTOR DEATHS ON INCREASE.

A report just issued by the Federal Government indicates that the death toll to the credit of the automobile in Canada is assuming larger proportions than the most pessimistic feared.

It is announced that the increase in the death rate from motor car accidents in the whole country during 1927 was 46 per cent. greater than in the previous twelve months.

Last year 846 people, the population of a good-sized village, were killed in traffic accidents, as compared with 606 deaths in 1926.

The increase is startling, particularly as there is reason to fear that the death rate is still growing larger during the present year, and while the percentage in the United States, according to the last available figures, is double that on this side of the line, the Canadian death list is heavy enough to demand a vigorous effort on the part of the public to create safer driving conditions.

In our own Province an increase of almost 60 per cent. was noted last year, 387 people losing their lives as the result of automobile accidents.

The report should stimulate safety first organizations to more intensive efforts to prevent accidents.

THE WEST'S TRANSFORMATION.

Western Canadian farmers have never been in such comfortable or prosperous condition, and after a series of good crops profitably marketed face prospects of yet another generous harvest. The grand total of the production of the Prairie Provinces in 1927 was $802,367,669, and the manner in which this is made up illustrates the increasing diversity of farm production in which the Western Canadian farmer has come to engage, certain phases which were considered almost experimental a few years ago having become substantial revenue producers. The wheat crop amounted to $407,096,000; other grains, $186,001,300; fodder crops, $60,585,000; animals sold and slaughtered, $40,873,0000; butter, cheese, milk and cream, $54,436,213; poultry and poultry products, $28,140,917; root crops, $10,346,000; garden products, $7,316,000; furs, $5,466,000; honey, $1,272,602; wool clip, $844,637.

The average production per farm home in the Prairie Provinces in 1927 was $3,233, and the average cash income from the value of farm products marketed, $2,469. These figures are eloquent of the condition of Western Canadian agriculture and the profitableness of its pursuit. Substantiation is to be found on every hand in the unprecedented volume of purchase which has been taking place this year in automobiles, auto trucks, and improved labor-saving farm machinery possible only in times of prosperity. These in turn draw pertinent attention to the drastic change which has come over the Western expanse and conditions as they affect the farmers of that territory. Few can at a distance appreciate how far the area has travelled from the pioneer times which seem to close.

Few areas, it can be said, have undergone such transformation in all that affects the life of its agricultural population as has Western Canada in the past decade. As regards farm methods and operation the Canadian West has always been to the fore and lent of her experience to other countries, and now this land of such recent raw condition has so advanced in the direction of extending the facilities and conveniences of modern life to its agricultural population that to-day it stands lower in this regard only to certain sections of the United States and is far ahead of any other country. It is a matter of prime consideration to the contemplating settler who imagines that Western Canadian settlement entails considerable sacrifice.

THE PARLIAMENTARIANS' VISIT.

The visit to Canada during the months of August and September of a party of from 60 to 70 members of the Empire Parliamentary Association promises to be one of the most important events of the year, and following upon the tour of Canada undertaken last year by the Prince of Wales, Prince George and Premier Baldwin, as well as the other visits to the Dominion paid during recent months by the Empire Mining Congress and the British newspaper editors, will without doubt lead to greater recognition throughout the Empire of the growing strength and development of this country.

The party will be composed of men active in the public life of the Motherland, South Africa, New Zealand and Newfoundland, the very men who are in a position properly to interpret Canada to the countries which they represent, and the itinerary which they will follow affords them a splendid opportunity of judging Canada in an intimate manner. The Parliamentarians will arrive in Quebec on August 24 and thence will proceed in succession to Montreal, Ottawa, Northern Ontario, the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. They will return by the alternative route to Montreal, travelling thence through the Eastern Townships of Quebec and finally reaching the Maritime Provinces. On October 5, after a tour which will have carried them from coast to coast and into all of the important sections of the Dominion, they will embark at Sydney on their return to Great Britain.

The visit of the Parliamentarians to Canada, after similar visits to South Africa and Australia, is fraught with much significance to the Dominion, as well as to the Empire, since it will complete the round of the principal Dominions and enable those who form the party to discuss, from first-hand knowledge, the development and potentialities of Canada. It will further cement the bonds of Empire, improve the relationships existing among the several Dominions, and, without doubt, forward the movement for an exchange of products within the Empire.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

THE NEW RESEARCH LABORATORIES.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Hon. James Malcolm, and the chairman of the National Research Council, Dr. H. M. Tory, have lost no time in acting upon the appropriation of $300,000 passed at the recently concluded session of Parliament for the establishment of suitable research laboratories at Ottawa and other facilities for the improved prosecution of industrial and scientific research. They have already visited Washington, where they studied the operation and organization of the celebrated United States Bureau of Standards, and they are continuing their investigations at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburg and elsewhere. It is not proposed that the new institute at Ottawa shall be a mere duplication of similar institutions which have proved successful in the United States, Great Britain or on the Continent, but that the methods employed in them shall be studied for the purpose of enabling the Ottawa bureau to render the greatest service in the solution of the various problems, many of them peculiar to Canada, which now confront industry and production in this country.

The new institute at Ottawa will form a notable addition to the equipment of the National Research Council, now under the permanent chairmanship of Dr. Tory, and materially influence the work which it is undertaking. Its establishment will have the effect of eliminating much of the duplication which has attended the study of research problems in this country. Where research workers have been carrying on investigations in half a dozen or more university laboratories throughout the country, it will now be possible for these workers to co-ordinate their efforts, where such apply to national problems, in the one centre. But in the case of questions which are essentially sectional, it is still proposed that separate investigations shall be conducted in the various Provinces. Thus, it is suggested that research workers in the Province of Quebec will devote themselves to the pulp and paper industry, which attains its greatest development in that part of the Dominion, while Ontario will be assigned investigation of the woollen industry and other industries which are closely bound up with this Province. The agricultural problems associated with the West will be studied in Winnipeg, Edmonton and elsewhere, while such matters as are of chief interest and import to the Maritime Provinces will be investigated at the university centres situated in that section of the Dominion. It will be the aim of the Research Council to foster such investigations and render them assistance, while opportunity will be afforded representatives of particular industries or groups of industries to carry on studies in the central laboratories at Ottawa, making use of the facilities with which they will be equipped.

Central research laboratories established in other countries, which have bestowed greater attention upon conservation of their resources and the development of new and less wasteful manufacturing processes, have proved so successful that there is every prospect that the new establishment at Ottawa, which is to occupy a site in proximity to the Central Experimental Farm, will fill a most useful and very valuable place in the Dominion. It is undeniable that such institutions have added greatly to the wealth of the countries in which they have operated, through the means which have been devised of making use of by-products and eliminating waste and through the discoveries of methods with which to obviate loss to agriculture and other branches of industry, and with Parliament at last ready to deal more generously with research, there is no reason why a similar result should not follow the establishment of the undertaking at Ottawa. Its creation means that, after years of effort, those who have been pressing upon successive Governments the advisability of making larger grants in behalf of research work have finally witnessed agreement on the part of those in authority, and no person is able to tell how great may be the benefit conferred upon the country as a whole.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

The Question Box

Q.—What is the mileage from Peterborough to Toronto?

A.—The mileage from Peterborough, corner George and Charlotte streets, to Toronto, corner King and Yonge streets, via highway No. 28 to Dale, thence westerly on Gravel road to highway No. 2, is 88.4 miles. To this should be added, at the present time, about two additional miles over the official detour below Bewdley.

Q.—How much Canadian merchandise is permitted tourists of the United States without paying duty on same?

A.—Each member of a tourist party may take $100.00 worth of personal merchandise into the United States without paying duty. Certain United States customs declaration forms must be filled out at the border.

Q.—Are there any recognized automobile tours mapped and described through Kent, England?

A.—We have knowledge of four one-day tours through Kent, one two-day tour, one three-day tour, one four-day tour, one twelve-day tour, one fifteen-day tour, one twenty-eight-day tour, and one thirty-five-day tour. Tours of three days and over connect with other parts of "Merry England" as well as Kent County. These tours may be seen at the offices of the Chamber.

Q.—To whom could we apply for fish and game laws of Hawaii?

Q.—What is the official mileage of the Trent Waterway?

A.—The Trent system commences at Trenton, Ontario, through to Port Severn and Georgian Bay, as shown in the Government publications as 240.5 miles. This is the channel through route, and does not include the side trip to Lindsay, which slightly augments the total mileage. Of the 240.5 miles of waterway, only 32¼ miles might be truly called a canal. The shortest section of canalization is ¼ mile and the largest is 6 miles.

Q.—What is the population of Canada?

A.—The latest data available sets the population figures of the Dominion of Canada at 9,519,220.

GOD'S MINUTE

According to your faith, be it done unto you.—Matt. 9:29.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father we thank Thee for Thy great goodness unto the sons of men. We realize that it is in Thee we live and move and have our being. We give Thee thanks for Thy love which sent into this world One Who is its Master—Jesus Christ our Lord. We not only thank Thee for Thy Fatherhood but also for Thy Motherhood for we know that as one whom his mother comforteth so wilt Thou comfort us. We look to Thee for strength in our weakness; hope in our time of despondancy; courage in the fearful hour.

Day after day we are bidden to get us to Cherith only to find the brook is drying up! Continue to try our faith and lend us of that spirit of trust and patience that we may hear Thy words "Get thee to Zarephath" where we come face to face with Thy availing mercy. Feed us with the bread of Heaven, that we may be strong of mind, pure of heart, and unselfish in our service, and may the love of Jesus Christ so fill our hearts that others will take knowledge of us that we have been with Thee. Help Thou us to attain to the character of Thy Son, to incorporate His spirit, and live His life. Amen.

PLACE BOUQUETS.

Ladies Place Flowers On Cenotaph On Decoration Day.

In connection with Decoraton Day services by the Canadian Legion on Sunday last, ladies of the Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion placed a bouquet on the Cenotaph, and the Women's Liberal Club deposited a beautiful sheaf at its base.

The seven liberal arts, according to educators in the middle ages, were classified as grammar, dialectics, music, arithmetic, geometry and astronomy.

RE POWER QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: The letter of Mr. R. R. Hall, K.C., in Monday night's Examiner, shows up the enormous advantage Orillia has over Peterborough regarding electric power. Orillia has the same system as the municipalities in the Niagara district. It owns its own power. The municipalities west of Toronto wanted to do the same thing and got the government at Toronto to back their notes. The erroneous impression prevails in many places here that the Ontario government owns the Hydro-Electric system of the Western peninsula. It does not but it was this extraordinarily stupid idea that got us here in Central Ontario to give up our powers to the Ontario government. Demagogues cried that the people should own their own power. So the people misled by their leaders, who wanted to get into office, agreed to give up their powers, and look at us now. We pay twice as much as Orillia and do not own our power then. Of course the people deserve what they have got. They should have listened to Mr. Hall's words before. Now, however, they will have to listen or be bled to death. Democracy seems to mistrust clever leadership, and as a consequence, pays dearly for it. The hundreds of thousands of dollars we have stuck ourselves for by handing over our water powers, and then having to pay exorbitantly for the privilege of using them would have built us many things and have given us cheap light, heat and power. But what can be done? They are going up to find out about it, "now." They could have found out years ago, but no. We didn't know enough even to look. Still every town goes through this experience (except Orillia). So long as the people are willing to pay for it they have a right to be foolish. It is the privilege of Democracy.

OBSERVER.

SOCIALISM AND PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: Why is it that in the whole civilized world there are only two countries that have adopted Socialism, or the ownership and control by governments of industry? Britain rejected it. Labor there saw the menace of it. The U. S. rejected it. Labor there is the sworn enemy of it. In France it is put down with an iron hand. But Canada, particularly Ontario and the middle west, is receiving it with open arms. State ownership and control of operation has proven here to be an irresistible attraction to those aspiring to political control.

Russia is the other shining example of the Socialistic state. This year that country of farmers is importing wheat. Why? Because if you suppress private enterprise it is left to the state, and the state cannot do it. The workingman is the slave there of the government at Moscow. The slightest sign of dissatisfaction is put down with an iron and bloody hand. The average of executions is about fifty a week.

An absolute government is the last word in partisanship and tyranny, and yet Canadians are adopting it. Capital, that is great capital, does not object. It is easier to deal with an absolute clique called a government, than with a government representing the people, and governments must have capital, which when they borrow they repay by taxes.

The issue of all the next elections will be the absolute rule by governments of Industry and Agriculture.

A Thought

THE GAME OF LIFE.

(By V. R., Campbellford.)

Every day, every hour, every minute and second, the Prince of Darkness is playing with man for his soul. But over man is the protecting spirit who is beyond Satan's power. The Angel of God can only suggest to us how to play the game of life wisely. It is up to us to play the game—and conquer.

Satan has many men on the game board of life. His officers are Indolence, Anger, Pride, Unbelief, doubts and falsehoods. On man's side his own soul is the king. The officers are: Hope, Religion, Truth, Peace, Humility, Innocence and Love. The guard is Prayer. If man neglects prayer then Satan slowly traps the other officers and takes away the peace of mind from man. Man droops his head in despair. Death rises amid smoke and flames and strikes man with his dart. The game is lost.

How can one win the game of life with Satan as his opponent? One must be in the attitude of religious devotion. One's thoughts must led and read with love for be riveted on the best things that God hands to man. One must keep the officers and never let them fall. The cross must be forever in front of the eyes as a reminder of the great sacrifice made for man. The Bible must lay open before us always and the contents study the Master. It must be read in order to learn more about Him. It is the power that will never let us fall. The roses must be on the game board. They show that death and the grave are not fears but a future peace.

Satan must be foiled if the game of life is won. The look of baffled rage must spread across his face. Satan's robe and empty chair must be across the table, and your eyes must be raised in prayer.

The game is on. The Angel of Peace is spreading the rays of Salvation around the soul. Which is better: to lose or to win? It is up to you, friends. Your game is now in progress.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 11 (Canadian Press). —"The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday was of a limited character and the volume of business was small. There was some inquiry for oats and sales of odd lots of No. 3 Canadian Western were made at 3¼c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal. Owing to the reaction in oat futures yesterday cash prices for car lots on spot were marked up one cent per bushel.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat were well maintained with a small trade passing

The market for millfeed was without any new feature to note, prices beng steady with a moderate amount of business passing. There was no change in prices for standard grades of rolled oats and the demand was limited.

Owing to the very warm weather prevailing the trade in eggs in a jobbing way was quiet, but the undertone was firm and prices were unchanged. There was some demand from wholesale dealers for extras, and as the offerings from the country were somewhat limited, prices were maintained and further sales of Ontario extras were made at 36½c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points. The receipts were 1,791 cases

There were no new developments in the situation for Canadian old crop potatoes, owing to the fact that the season is fast drawing to a close on account of the fact that the crop has been pretty well marketed, and only odd cars are now coming forward. The tone of the market was steady, with car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains quoted at 70c to 75c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec varietes at 65c to 70c per bag of 80 pounds in bulk, ex-track. The demand for new crop American potatoes continues good, and as the supplies were ample to meet all requirements, prices ruled steady, with sales of No. 1 grade at $3.10 per barrel, ex-track.

The trade in imported beans was reported quiet as is usual at this period of the year, but the undertone to the market was steady, with car lots of choice white hand-picked grades quoted at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

The trade in butter was quiet, but notwithstanding this fact the market displayed further strength and prices scored a further rise of ½c per pound and the prospects are that they will reach a still higher level in the near future owing to the fact that holders in most cases are strong in their views, and in consequence the offerings were not large. The receipts were 39 packages.

There was a marked improvement in the demand from English importers for cheese at advanced prices. There was also an improved inquiry from spot buyers and sales of some round lots were made with the result that the market on the whole was more active, with a strong undertone. The receipts were 10,234 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 11 (Canadian Press). — Black rust spreading in Canada and entering a more serious phase in the American North-West tended to give a substantial lift to grain values yesterday. Government crop estimates issued after the close of yesterday's trading were construed as bearish as to wheat, but corn and oats estimates were bullish compared with recent unofficial reports.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1¾c to 2¾c net higher. Corn finished 1 cent to 1¾ cents up, oats ¾c off to 1¾ cents advance, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to a rise of 30 cents.

Late despatches told of black rust on head stems of wheat near Imperial Sask., and there was also reiterations of previous day's reports of black rust in Manitoba. The Canadian black rust advices came on the heels of messages earlier yesterday from a Chicago crop expert saying that black rust in the damaging stage was beginning to show itself in Marquis spring wheat near Aberdeen, S.D., and that he had observed the rust on head stems in three separate fields. Official announcement meanwhile was received that a general sprinkling of stem rust had become prevalent over most of Eastern South Dakota.

Lessening of hedge selling against arrivals of newly-harvested wheat at south-western markets acted also as an stimulus to higher prices, and so likewise did assertions that 350,000 bushels of new crop domestic wheat had been bought for export.

Talk of liberal flour sales and of a better milling demand for wheat was also the subject of considerable notice. Evening up of accounts to prepare for the Government crop report yesterday afternoon was an additional bullish factor.

In the corn market, all dips in quotations disclosed good buying orders, notwithstanding that weather conditions were favorable. Friends of higher prices gave emphasis to current high prices for live stock, to scantiness of corn receipts, and to assertions that rural stocks of corn are the smallest ever known at this season of the year. Oats sympathized with corn and wheat. Choice oats in the sample market commanded 3 cents a bushel advance compared with future deliveries, the highest premium so far this season.

For the most part, provisions were easy, influenced by a setback in hog values.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 11 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:
Demand—$4.87 to $4.87⅛.
Cables—$4.87⅛ to $4.87 9-16.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

This very new French two-piece frock is of wool voile trimmed with fine tucks and pleats.

It is a trifle discouraging to hear people talking about clothes for next autumn before one has even had the fun of wearing all one's warm-weather wardrobe. And even more disconcerting to hear, as I have heard, discussion concerning the colors and fabrics for next spring's clothes. It's like cooking and sampling dinner before one has had breakfast, or planning your wedding dress before choice has been made of a betrothed.

Usually I don't like to talk about such indications as I hear of fashions so far in advance. For one thing, it is bound to be mere speculation. But I have been much interested recently in the statement frequently made of a revival of open-meshed woolen fabrics for autumn. Materials like the old-fashioned nun's veiling that was worn a good many years ago. Louise Boulanger of Paris is already making use of these materials for her advanced models, and Louise Boulanger seldom makes a wrong guess.

I think it is worth noting even now because these open-meshed woolen materials are appropriate for certain frocks even in the summer time, and if you are planning a frock for present wear that will not have a note of newness when autumn comes, then by all means look into these wool veilings.

Some of them are of material much more open than the old-time voiles and have a charm all their own when worn over foundations of contrasting hue. Brown wool voile over golden yellow foundation is lovely. So is black voile over silver gray and dull light blue over mauve.

For immediate wear a frock of white woolen voile would be suitable, and this may be worn over a pure white foundation or over some light color chosen to go with the color of the accessories. One might vary the color of the foundation to suit different sets of accessories.

TRAVEL-LOG.

"THE GLACIER OF THE AMERICAN GIRL"

When in Switzerland do as the Swiss do is as good an adage in the Alps as its counterpart may be in Rome. Leave the cities and the hotels and get out on the ice and climb the Alps. The glaciers ought to be the great tourist feature of Switzerland, there are four hundred of them, averaging from sixteen to eighteen miles in length, and sometimes from one to two miles in breadth and often a thousand feet in depth. They are formed near the line of eternal snow, nine thousand feet above the sea level, and the vast mass will creep down the mountains a little less than a foot a day. Yet by these rivers of ice, I have seen the loveliest little flowers in full bloom. The Mer de Glace of Mont Blanc is one of the favorites and with the help of a guide can be easily enjoyed. It is sometimes called "The Glacier of the American Girl," because it is one of the least difficult to ascend and American girls are supposed to dislike hard climbing. I think the legend must have started before these modern days of short skirts and thrill seeking, for the average girl from the States now is often over anxious to climb Matterhorn and go out without a guide unless she is stopped.

A Tip or Two

Patent leather shoes should never be put near a fire, and should always be kept on trees. They can, too, with advantage have a little French chalk dusted into them occasionally.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

IN a George street store on Saturday I heard a purchaser say, "I have to depend upon you to give me what I want. It takes an expert nowadays." She was buying hosiery.

I believe that she was far from right, and that anyone can learn to buy the kind of hosiery she wishes. How many points are involved? First, is the hose all silk, part silk, or what? Next, is it full-fashioned? Then, is it reinforced at the points of wear, what guage is it, what weight is it, and so on until one comes to the final point of selection, color.

Every reliable store informs its customers whether the stockings on sale are pure silk, silk and rayon, silk and mercerized cotton, and so on. Many stockings have some rayon in them. Usually mercerized cotton threads are used at points of wear, because cotton is less subject to the ravages of perspiration than silk. Rayon is used to reduce the cost of the hose, and is frequently used in cheap stockings.

The eye tells one in an instant whether the stocking is full fashioned. Paise seams may deceive the eye of the passerby, but never that of the shopper. The real mark of full fashioned hose is unmistakable.

All hose, or nearly all, are reinforced at the points of wear. These are chiefly at the heel, toe and knee. Some hose are especially equipped with garter run stops. All of these factors insure longer wear, and they are valuable to the shopper.

Not long ago the guage of stockings was a mysterious thing. Now many shoppers know instantly the difference between a 42 guage hose and a 44 guage. The guage indicates the fineness of the knitting, of course, and so denotes quality as well.

None of the terms for weight has become standardized, unfortunately, and the shopper must determine for herself whether the hose offered is suitable for her purpose.

These points are the chief ones concerning the shopper, and none of them require expert knowledge or long years of shopping experience.

It is, of course, (and this is not advertising) just as well in buying hosiery as with other items, to buy advertised products. The firm that advertises has a reputation to maintain and is more likely to service the article if found unsuitable after purchase.

The store proprietor from whom I got this information remarked also that hose is following the "book of the month" idea. This month the color for hosiery is "Fleurette."

I saw in an uptown store an enchanting little lace coatee, intended for wear with an evening frock. The frock shown with it had lace frills on the skirt to make the whole thing en suite. The underneath gown was taffeta as to bodice, and the coatee was edged with the same taffeta, the lace being cream and the taffeta pink.

One hears a lot these days about the morals of modern youth—and I heard a lot while guiding a party at the Lift Lock, when a troop of girls and boys came up the steps joshing and pushing. I am reminded of the drastic statement by Thomas A. Edison, now over 80, who is glad that young people are not what they used to be. "In the main," he says, "morals of modern youth are better than those of their fathers and grandfathers and much better than those of their remoter ancestors."

A writer has to do many unpleasant things in order to gather material for articles. On the holiday morning, for instance, I was up before daybreak, perhaps to gain inspiration for Monday's paragraph on the "roseate hues of early dawn." I was amply repaid, however. At five o'clock I saw gathered at the corner of George and Simcoe a score of girls and boys who were the very picture of life and high spirits, waiting for transportation to their picnic. The gay dresses of the girls and the universally happy faces made a picture that put even a beautiful dawn to shame.

While you are loafing at your lake cottage, by the way, don't picture me chasing butterflies or rainbows. This writing business is a hard taskmaster, and already I'm trying to line up information for you on the fall mode. The Fall Fashion Number will tell you what Paris and New York and London have to offer—it's up to Marion to tell what local stores will carry. And in my opinion, anyhow, that's the thing that interests my readers. Am I right?

I.O.D.E. APPROVES TOUR OF DOMINION

British Young People Will Be Royally Entertained On Trip.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 11 (CP).—An opportunity to fraternize with Canadian young people of their own age will be given the 50 young men and women of the "young ambassadors of Empire" party when they arrive in Edmonton on their tour of the Dominion. These young people will be representative of the best in British youth and are coming to this country as the reward of personal study of Canada from an Empire standpoint.

The party is travelling under a scholarship plan inaugurated by the Allied Newspaper of Great Britain for the promotion of a more intimate knowledge of the empire among the younger generation in the motherland.

A farewell dinner is to be given the members of the party and their parents in London before the young people sail on July 29.

The Prince of Wales has extended a special invitation to the party to visit the E.P. ranch, and Premier Baldwin, Hon. Mr. Amery and other prominent Britishers are giving the young ambassadors their blessing.

In Canada, the tour has received the special endorsation of the national chapter of the I.O.D.E. and other patriot bodies.

WOMEN SHOULD EXERCISE VOTE

Miss Bennett Urges Playing of Greater Part in Next Election.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 11 (CP).—Women everywhere are taking a more active interest in the government of our country, but still, every election shows an amazing number of women voters who do not bother their heads about exercising the franchise, or even troubling to know what it is all about. It is such women as these that Miss Mildred M. Bennett, sister of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, had in mind when she urged before Carleton County Conservative Association recently that women play a greater part in the next election. She impressed upon the lady members of the Association that the "floating undecided vote" must be reached, and suggested the establishment of more women's organizations for the benefit of the party.

A Frock That Registers Smartness

Decidedly smart is this frock with its shawl collar and vestee of contrasting material. The long sleeves are gathered into narrow cuff-bands and the skirt exploits the modish front fulness in its flare, while the back is in one-piece. Buttons adorn the vestee and a smart bow adds an air of chic. NO. 1279 is for misses and small women and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 3¾ yards 39-inch material; ⅝ yard contrasting (cut crosswise) for collar and vestee.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

RESOLUTIONS AND HENRY

By H. Louis Raybold

There is no doubt but that Henry had risen to be assistant cashier in the local bank by what might be termed the "schedule process."

That is to say, he had for years got up, lived and gone to bed by neatly typed cards which laid out his twenty-four hours to the best advantage. So many minutes for meals, so many for work, so many for sleep, so many for "advancement" which latter meant study of one sort or another that would give him a boost up.

He had, as a matter of fact, had several boosts, and all of them he laid to the fact that he lived by rule and wasted no time.

It had been fairly easy to follow his self-planned schedules because there had been no outside interference of any sort. His health was excellent, he had no family to make demands of him, and he gave all feminine creatures the icy shoulder.

Then he met Hortense. To be frank about that first meeting, one must say that she fell into his lap. Without intention, however.

His twenty-minute bus ride from work each night was the period Henry devoted to learning a foreign language in fifteen minutes a day. This winter it was French, and he was zealously asking himself questions about the brother of his aunt and the sister of his uncle when Hortense sat down on his book, as the bus swung around a corner.

Henry had never had a young lady on his lap before, even for so brief an instant. And when she stood up and apologized and he looked up into the loveliest pair of blue eyes he had ever seen, he wanted her back again. In lieu of that, he jumped up and offered his seat.

That was the beginning of the end. It was the break in the dyke. The entering of the wedge. The first dent in his schedule.

For Hortense took the same bus each night that he did and, having given up his seat to her once, it seemed natural to do it thereafter.

By Thanksgiving their acquaintance had ripened to friendship. And by Christmas the other bus riders expected Hortense to appear most any day wearing a sparkling ring. They would have been surprised and even politely incredulous had Henry informed them that so far not one word of love had passed between them. Yet it would have been the simple truth. How could it have been otherwise? Henry's schedule gave no time to Cupid.

Came New Year's Eve. For seven years now it had been Henry's custom to take an inventory of his life on that occasion.

So we find him sitting there this evening in front of his desk neatly stacked with little piles of indexed cards ready for the coming year's schedules. There was also a sheet of paper for his usual list of resolutions.

There were several that he could write down at once.

I will let no outside interest come between me and my work.

I will smoke but one cigar a day.

I will go to bed each night at eleven o'clock.

Resolutions that he had kept without trouble the last seven years.

He paused to dream a moment. How wonderful it would be if he ever became cashier! As for vice-president—

At that instant the telephone rang in the hall below and a moment later his landlady called up to him:

"Mister Archibald. Oh, Mister Archibald! Young lady on the phone!"

His brow frowned, but his heart skipped gleefully, and he took the stairs two at a time.

"Is that you, Henry?"

"This is Hortense—yes, really."

"I'm having a little party, a very, very small one, and a boy has failed me. Would you be willing to help me out?"

Now was the time for all good men to go to the help of the schedule. Henry hesitated. Then, and it was really to his great surprise, he heard himself saying: "Why, certainly. I'll be up right away!"

Hortense had correctly called it a very small party. After she had introduced him to her father and mother, she led Henry out to the den where there was a radio. Also a stand with the latest magazines, a box of opened cigars, and two comfortable chairs.

"Where are the others?" asked Henry.

Hortense had the grace to blush. "There are no others," she said.

With that remark it was all over for Henry but the wedding bells. When he went home that night he stood looking down for a moment at the three resolutions he had penned so brief a time before. Then he crumpled them up and threw them in the basket. He had already broken them all.

Several years afterward two men met on a street corner. One of them said: "Saw Henry Archibald today with his pretty wife. Understand he has been made president of the bank."

"Yes," replied the other. "He has. He married Hortense Garvin; daughter of old Garvin, one of the directors."

"Pull helps," said the first speaker.

"You bet," said the other. "So long."

Whole wheat, cooked, drawn out to filmy thinness, an open-textured, lacy ribbon. Wound, layer upon layer, to muffin size and shape. Baked. Toasted butternut brown. What wonder Muffets are so light, so crisp—like potato chips—crumbling in the mouth!

What wonder they absorb and blend so perfectly with cream and sugar, with fruit juices of all kinds! And yet keep, in any combination, their crunchy individuality, their suggestion of fresh pecans! CHAPTER XII

OUT OF THE STORM

"If he loved me he would write," Jennifer told herself stonily, not realizing that Gaunt's thoughts were the same. The next day she stayed in bed. She felt really ill, and Mrs. Jilly was faintly alarmed.

"I'd have the doctor if I was you," she said, but Jennifer would have no doctor.

"I shall be all right if I stay in bed," she declared. But she felt wretchedly ill, and what was worse, wretchedly miserable.

She lay awake all day thinking of Gaunt, and when she dozed off into fitful sleep, she dreamed of him.

In the evening Mrs. Jilly creaked into the room.

"And how are we now?" she asked cheerily, bending over the bed.

Jennifer tried to smile.

"I'm much better, thank you."

It was not the truth, but it was the easiest thing to say.

"Really better?" Mrs. Jilly insisted. "Because if you feel well enough to be left for an hour or so, I thought I'd run up to my sister-in-law's. She's in bed, too, and there's nobody to do anything for her with her husband away."

"Please go. I shall be quite all right," Jennifer said. She rather welcomed the idea. Mrs. Jilly was kind, but voluble.

"I'll lock the front door, and take the key of the back," Mrs. Jilly said happily. "And if anyone comes and knocks, don't you take no notice. But there won't be any knocks. The baker and the milk boy's both been, and there's noone else to come."

"Try and get a nice sleep," she counselled and creaked away.

Jennifer heard her moving about downstairs, shutting windows and locking the front door. Then presently the back door closed and then the gate, and she was alone.

It was not yet seven o'clock, but by reason of the bad weather it seemed later, and already it was growing dusk. Jennifer lay watching the glow of the firelight on the low ceiling, and listening to the sound of the sea.

It was a fortnight since she had seen Nicholas Gaunt, and she was sure now that she would never see him again. No doubt he had gone for his sea trip, or joined his wife in Italy—no doubt he had completely forgotten her.

Weak tears started to her eyes and ran down her cheeks. It was not like Jennifer to feel depressed—she had never been seriously ill in her life, and for the first time, as she lay there in the quiet little room, she seemed to understand the full meaning of loneliness. All her life it would be like this, unless something very wonderful and unforeseen happened. There would never be anyone of her own to love her and care for her—she thought of Alfred Heaton and of Mr. Gurney with a momentary pang.

They were good men, both of them, nd they had both wished to marry her. She might have had a home of her own had she chosen—and a kind husband to fuss over her and be concerned because her head ached so badly and her face felt so hot.

But, as it was, she lay alone in Mrs. Jilly's front bedroom and the thought crossed her mind that even if she died it would make no real difference to anyone.

It seemed a dreadful thought that nobody would shed a tear, or be in the least broken-hearted. There was Nicholas, of course. And he had said that he loved her. For a moment she allowed her thoughts to drift back to that wonderful Sunday night when he came to the little backwater off Notting Hill. She had thought herself the happiest soul on earth then, just as now she was the most lonely and miserable.

There was the sound of a pony and trap on the wet road outside and presently the gate opening. Jennifer listened without interest. Mrs. Jilly had told her to pay no heed to knocks, and yet it was a very insistent knock which presently fell on the cottage door as the jingle pony trotted away again into the dusky evening.

Perhaps it was someone who had come to inquire for rooms. Well, they would have to go away again, that was all. Jennifer closed her eyes. But whoever was down there in the little front garden evidently had no intention of going away, for the knocking was repeated many times, and was followed by footsteps walking round the house as if seeking for other means of admission.

Jennifer bore it as long as she could, but her nerves were on edge, and presently she got up weakly and put on her dressing-gown. It was but a few steps to the window, but when she looked out, the abutting porch prevented her from seeing who knocked, and in desperation she made her way down the tiny flight of stairs, clinging for support to the balusters. She was absurdly weak and her head felt light as if it were floating apart from her body, as she reached the front door and with feverish hands turned the key.

"I knew there was someone in the house," a man's voice said impatiently. "Why the——" then he broke off with a smothered cry. "Jennifer!"

She stood staring helplessly at him, swaying on her feet. She had never looked less pretty, and yet to Nicholas Gaunt she had never seemed half so sweet or desirable.

Her face was flushed and her eyes feverishly bright. Her soft hair was screwed anyhow into a thick knot at the back of her head, and the blue dressing-gown which she wore had long ago seen its best days. Her lips moved vainly for a moment before she could speak, then she said:

"You kept on knocking, and I could not hear it. My head aches so, and Mrs. Jilly is out."

Then she swayed and would have fallen had not Gaunt stepped forward and caught her in his arms. He carried her into the little sitting-room, only returning to shut the door. His face was white and agitated, but his voice was as gentle as any woman's when he went back to Jennifer and spoke.

"What is it, my dear? Are you ill?"

Jennifer had struggled into a sitting position, steadying herself with a hand on either side of the stiff armchair.

"I think I caught cold. I've not been well for two days, and my head is so bad. Mrs. Jilly had to go out."

"She left you here alone?"

The ghost of a smile crossed Jennifer's face. "I'm used to being alone," she said faintly.

He stood looking at her, his face working with deep emotion, then he went down on his knees beside her and took her in his arms. For a moment she resisted, then quite suddenly she gave in, and with a childish gesture of weariness she put her arms round his neck and laid her aching head on his shoulder. "I thought I should never see you again!" she whispered. "I thought you didn't love me any more."

He put his hand on her cheek, pressing her face closer to him.

"If only I didn't!" he said brokenly.

For he had suffered as much as she, but, man-like, his passionate desire to see her had broken down his resistance before her pride had allowed her to surrender.

ADDRESSES SOCIETY ON MISSION WORK

Miss Mitchell is Special Speaker at Missionary Meeting at Codrington.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, July 11. — On Wednesday afternoon, Miss Mitchell, Field Secretary of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, was the speaker at a missionary meeting held in Codrington Hall.

Miss Mitchell described in a most graphic, interesting and effective way, many personal experiences in mission work in the foreign fields. She said she was the link between those foreign fields and the work at home.

Jesus took the forty days after the resurrection to give the commission, "Go ye into all the world," to His disciples.

One man asked, "Is it worth while to give to missions when the church at home was a failure. She said emphatically:

"Christianity is not a failure; 2¾ per cent. of missionary money is used in administration and the rest for the work."

She told of Korea, which has only known Christ for 25 years, yet has a larger per cent of Christians than any other country.

Dr. Endicott attended a prayer meeting of 1500 people in Korea.

In Africa the natives who become Christians are no nominal Christians. They give up all their bad habits and live for Christ.

She told the story of the woman in India who came to the hospital for help. Her flesh was lacerated with self-inflicted wounds, done to appease the gods.

She was treated and cured by the missionary doctor and later became a Bible woman. Her message was "Jesus loves me and you."

The story from Japan was of Miss McDonald, a missionary, who visited the jail and converted many of the inmates, among them a murderer.

The problem at home is very great among the foreigners. The hospital is the entrance, education is the way, and evangelism is the end in mission work.

Miss Mitchell gave some very thrilling personal experiences of her trips in the far east. (Miss Mitchell has travelled for thirteen years in this work.)

She described a trip into the Peace River district in winter made in two days, which took Rev. and Mrs. Forbes, the first missionaries, 72 days, in a prairie schooner. She told of the work and sacrifice of missionaries in different fields until those present felt they must do something to help this cause along.

The need is for every woman in the church to be a missionary worker.

The opportunity was given for anyone to ask questions on the work.

Those from Norham were Mesdames Evans, Pierson, Brenton, Gummer, Newman, Wilson and Clare and Edith Brenton.

Personals.

The young people of Norham enjoyed a marshmallow roast on Tuesday night near the residence of Mr. William Huycke.

Mrs. S. Palmateer visited at the home of Mrs. Stanley McNutt of Mount Olivet on Thursday.

Miss Mitchell was the guest of Mrs. D. R. Clare on Wednesday night and on Thursday spoke at the Morganston W.M.S.

Miss Ida Clare has just received word that she passed the junior examination of the Conservatory of Music with honors. Mrs. W. W. Jones (late of Warkworth) was her teacher.

ORANGEMEN ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE

District Lodges Parade To Grace Presbyterian Church, Millbrook.

(Examiner Correspondence).

MILLBROOK, July 11—The Orange Lodges of the district held their annual parade to attend divine worship on Sunday, July 8, Grace Presbyterian Church having approximately one hundred of the members of this Order present at its evening service.

The Orono Military Band headed the march from the L.O.L. Hall to the church, the centre pews being reserved for the visiting brethren, and the remainder of the seating capacity being taxed to accommodate the large congregation. Past County Master Brother James H. Paul acted as director of Ceremonies for the occasion.

The special musical selections by the choir, which is under the leadership of C. Thorndyke, included a solo, "Abide with Me," by Miss Kathleen Lancashire, and an anthem, "Praise Ye Jehovah." The ushers were Messrs. R. J. McKnight and J. Thompson. Miss Myrtle Russell presided at the organ.

The pastor, Rev. John Riddell, chose his text from Luke ix., 49 and 50: "And John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name; and we forbade him because he followeth not us. And Jesus said unto him, Forbid him not, for he that is not against us is for us."

After welcoming the Orangemen of the district to Grace Church, the speaker went on to mention the fact that "We Protestants do not assert our religion possibly as much as we might, without giving offence to any denomination within or without the Christian church. In earlier days the Church stood for slavery, but now the Orange Order and Protestantism insist upon freedom, though we must not forget that there are more kinds of slavery than physical, spiritual and mental bonds need loosing as well."

Pointing out that Protestantism is based upon the spirit permeating the text, Mr. Riddell went on to trace the gradual rise of the Roman Catholic Church in the time of Constantine the Great, the different methods of church government, and the various Reformations headed by Luther, Zwingli, Knox, etc., adding a stern word of warning, "Lest we be lulled into too certain a sense of security because of the ease in which we live; and are in danger of losing that freedom which was bought for us through the blood of our forefathers."

Scriptural instances were cited to prove that the disciples never recognized Peter as a superior head, and the necessity of keeping the church democratic, with no individual receiving power to dominate his fellowmen, was stressed.

"Conquering the world by suffering—the highest for the lowest, the greatest for the least—was exemplified in Christ's great sacrifice, and back of this the word, 'God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son.' Let us absorb this spirit of sacrifice within ourselves, and then we shall uplift humanity, the lever being love."

"William of Orange gave his life for the principles of love, justice, and freedom; have this spirit permeating your daily conduct, as your Order teaches, and your influence in the nation will be invincible."

The usual votes of thanks were passed upon return to the Lodge rooms, and the Orono Band gave a sacred concert down town, more people than the church had accommodated gathering for this feature which was much appreciated.

The Orange Lodges from this district will march in Peterborough on Thursday, July 12, this year, and a large turnout is expected.

OUTLAWS TRIM LEGIONAIRES

The Troops Are Beaten By Big Score of 29 Funs to Four.

MANAGER RESIGNS.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11. — The Legionaires last night made certain of their place at the bottom of the League when they went down to defeat before the Outlaws to the tune of twenty-nine to four in an eight-innings game. The troops cannot possibly get out of the last place now that they have only two more games to play. The Outlaws are tied for second place, with the St. Andrew's team and the Clerks still retain their lead by a small margin. The game Thursday night between the Electrics and the Clerks promises to be of interest from a league standing viewpoint.

Following the game last night it was found necessary to appoint a new manager. Walter Owens was selected to succeed Dickson, who has been handling the team up until their game last week. Following a difference with some of the players and officials, Dickson tendered his resignation, which was automatically received last night by the appointing of Owens in his place.

Although the Legionaires scored the first run last night, the Outlaws came into the lead in the second innings and continued to widen the margin. Home runs were a feature of the game.

The line-up:

Outlaws: T. B. Horkins, p; L. Bush, c; Maybee, 1b; H. Lambert, 2b; C. Haig, 3b; S. Flint, ss; R. Johnston, cf; O. Sarginson, rf; F. Ingram, lf; E. Bush, 3b, ss, sub.

Legionaires: J. M. Bygott, p, cf; H. Dawson, c; H. Hoard, 1b; G. Richardson, 2b; W. Owens, 3b; G. Free, ss; J. Hutton, p, cf; J. Nesbitt, rf; M. Shanott, lf; W. Sills, sub.

OBITUARY

REV. J. R. BATTISBY.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11.—Word was received here by Mr. J. R. Battisby of the death of his uncle, the Reverend Doctor John Rae Battisby, in Chatham, Ont. Dr. Battisby's death came after an illness extending over a period of years. He was in his eighty-second year, and resided at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. L. Brackin, Chatham.

Dr. Battisby was born in Kirkcudbright, Scotland, and came to Canada when a boy in his teens. He was first educated for the teaching profession, but later studied for the Presbyterian ministry at Knox College and Princeton Theological Seminary, graduating from the latter institution in 1874. After spending three years as a student minister, he was inducted and ordained in Chatham in 1877, and continued as minister of St. Andrew's Church there till 1909, when he resigned on account of ill health. In 1885 he received the degree of Master of Arts from the Illinois Wesleyan University, and in 1887 received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the same university. The University of Chicago conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws in 1892, and in 1905 Queen's University conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

One daughter, Mrs. R. L. Brackin, survives. Mrs. Battisby died in 1892, and their son died in 1895.

HEAT BECOMES MOST OPPRESSIVE

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11.—During the last few days, Campbellford has experienced some of the hottest weather in years. Reports from reliable sources show that the temperature has reached as high as one hundred and twelve degrees in the sun and more than a hundred in the shade. Everyone who can possibly make arrangements has moved to their summer homes at the various resorts along the river, and cottages are in demand by families wishing to rent them for various lengths of time.

During most of the day, bathers cool themselves in the river water that has become almost too warm to be refreshing. Boats are not popular during the day on account of the hot sunshine, but during the evening after the sun has set, there are always several craft of various kinds manoeuvering up and down the stretch of river between the locks above and below the town.

Although young and old alike are taking advantage of the bathing facilities at hand, no fatal accidents have yet been reported this season. This may be due to the fact that for many years Campbellford has boasted a large percentage of swimmers among its citizens. Several years ago before the dam was erected at Haig's Reach, one of the favorite pastimes for the boys was to lower themselves over the cliffs just below Rannie Falls and swim the rapids through the gorge. The rapids have almost entirely disappeared since the dam was put in. But the practice of swimming through the gorge disappeared before that time. The parents of some of the boys accidentally discovered what was going on and immediately put a stop to it. All that remains of the apparatus as proof that such things were done is a few feet of partially rotted rope still knotted to a birch tree and hanging over the cliffs at the point where the boys used to descend to the water's edge.

ship and concord there is among those who have made their calling and election sure, that is the most important thing.

He spoke of people depending on their consciences. Conscience does not always lead men aright; it only leads them where they think it is right.

Saul was sincere, zealous and true, but wrong. Experience of Grace must take place within each one, and God's word must be studied. The men to whom he was speaking are pledged to defend the glory and faith of the open Bible. So many do not read the Bible; they read about it, but they do not study the Bible itself.

We have the open Bible; it is free to all. Along with that we have a great responsibility, for to whom much is given, of them shall much be required. So many neglect the Bible and search for mere pleasure. God's highest revelation is not in nature, but in the Bible. God's word is the solution of all questions in the home, in political situations, in national crisis. If the Word of God is taken as a guide, things will always be rightly adjusted. Never was difficulty too great for God's Word to solve. "Safety First" may be a good rule for railroads and motors, but it is not a good guide for life. To bear the burden, and care for others, even if it makes it apparently harder for ourselves, is Christ's teaching. If we do not follow his teaching, it is because we are ashamed of Jesus.

It often happens that he who would save his life does lose it. There are millions in darkness crying for help. The help must come from the followers of Christ, who think not first of themselves.

If nations are civilized and not Christianized, they are likely to become a great world menace. God's Word must go to them.

At the end there was a strong appeal for each one to know the Saviour as his own personal Saviour.

SMITH TOWNSHIP ASKED FOR GRANT

ment tour of four days to Kawartha Park, Burleigh Falls, Lovesick and other parts. They reported having checked up closely the assessment roll relating to the districts, and having secured much useful information to the financial benefit of the township. The work will require another day to complete it.

The clerk was instructed to send a copy of Bylaw No. 857 to Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands, in Toronto, for the approval of the Lieut. Governor in Council.

On motion of Councillors Mullen-Fitzgerald, and carried, the clerk was instructed to write Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, asking him to change the description of the "soldier settlement" land, recently occupied by J. L. Holmes, from n.e. ¼ to n.w ¼ of lot 23, concession 8, township of Smith.

In reporting the minutes of the meeting of June 2nd, 1928, the clerk regrets having inadventently reported them so as to give a wrong impression. Mr. William Brown is represented as asking for the privilege of building a fence around the gravel pit owned by the township, and on the River Road, without any compensation being given.

Instead, Mr. Brown, in return for this privilege, offered to supply the township with gravel from his pit free of charge. Will Mr. Brown please accept this as an apology?

The Reeve reported that Bylaw No. 857 of the township of Smith had been considered by the county council at its June session, and had been approved by it.

Moved by Councillor Fitzgerald, seconded by Deputy Reeve Coons, and carried, that the following accounts be paid:

MADRID, July 11 (Canadian Press).—Senorita Mermedes Castellanos, whose engagement to Primo De Rivera was broken by the Premier when he saw her speculating in the Stock Exchange with two men, has turned to charity, and is devoting part of her fortune to the foundation of an asylum and workshops for poor children of Madrid.

CARPENTERS BACK AT WORK.

WINNIPEG, July 11 (Canadian Press).—From a reliable source it is learned that union carpenters and joiners who struck two weeks ago for a 15 cent increase over the present $1 an hour basis, have accepted the employers' offer of a 10 cent increase. They returned to work a few days ago.

A square file, invented after forty years of experiment, is said to be an advance on the normal round file in tone and carrying power.

C. G. E. Wins 11-3 Decision From Lockworks

FACTORY CREW LACK PUNCH TO SCORE

Failure to Tally in Final Inning Loses Decision for Lockworks.

BATTING WEAK

C.G.E. Players Show Themselves Up Well in Every Position.

What a shock the Lock Works received from the C.G.E. boys in Confederation Square last night in the softball game, when they found they were on the lesser end of an 11—3 score, and the last half of the ninth appeared on the score boards. After a refreshing rain that chased the spectators to cover as in the last game they started out with fresh hopes, but they did not survive. Hunt let himself out with a foul tip to Dyer; Delahaye flied to Playford, and Connors popped one in the infield and then it was all over. The Keymen could lock up shop and go home.

Time after time they left men on bases—three in the second and two in the sixth, and if they had scored runs from these men, it would have given them a new lease of life and maybe a different story could be told; but they didn't, and that was all there was to it. They had a good team on the field, but let three runs in on passed balls, which always looks bad. Their batting was weak; most of the men hardly being able to get past the infield. This does not apply to Griffin, however, as he came through with a pretty home run away out to left field, but the jinx hovering over the competitors of the Lock men had this hit arrive at a most untimely period, when the bases were empty; nearly any other time someone was on, but such things cannot be chosen.

Playford entered the game for Calladine of the C.G.E. in the seventh, and played left field without an error to his credit in the fading frames of the game. Richmond, who pitched his first game this year with this team, made a good showing, ably assisted by the ever versatile Reg. Dyer behind the plate, who is always smiling. Frost, on third, plays the game as it should be played and when he throws to first, it is in the right place, while Barrie, playing that position, is no fool when it comes to using his head. J. Jones, in centre field, made the prettiest catch of the evening when he made a running catch of Griffin's fly in the fifth, turning a flip to come up smiling with the ball still off the ground. This retired the side in that fixture.

Green, for the Lock Works, pitched a nice game, but did not get the proper support from his team mates. Weese, at short, was on his toes throughout the game, as also was Delahaye at third, and Jobbitt at second. Chambers, in right field, caught everything in sight, and he certainly is not a weak spot in the team.

Green, for the Lock Works, had three strike-outs, striking out the first man to the plate, the first time this year this has been done in softball, while Richmond sent one away from the plate in sorrow.

The game now has arrived to the stage in the season where softball is no longer a game of hit and run, but a game of ball in which the team that plays the most ball wins; this is appreciated by the many spectators who are turning out each evening with the season now approaching its prime.

The C.G.E. boys should be in a great shape to meet the lads from the head office on Saturday, and the lovers of this fast sport will get a real treat when these two teams clash.

BROWNS WIN OPENER 4-2

Frank O'Rourke Stars in St. Louis Victory Over Red Sox.

SENATORS TAKE DOUBLE

NEW YORK, July 11 (Canadian Press).—Led by Frank O'Rourke and Lou Blue, the St. Louis Browns took the series opener from the Red Sox at Boston, 4 to 2. O'Rourke drove in three of the St. Louis runs and scored the fourth on the business end of a double steal. Blue got three hits, including a triple, in three times at bat.

The Senators took a double-header from Cleveland at Washington, winning the first game 9 to 5 and the second 9 to 0. The Indians tied the score at five-all in the seventh inning of the first game but Washington scored two in their half of the seventh and added two more in the eighth.

Cleveland got 14 hits in the second game, but Gaston kept them scattered, while Miller was hit hard and often before he was relieved by Lisenson. Wright hit a home run in the second inning of the second game, scoring Ruel ahead of him.

The Detroit-New York game was postponed.

HOMERS FEATURE CARDS-GIANTS TILT AT ST. LOUIS

Heavy Champion Makes Good Showing

SPECULATOR, N.Y., July 11. (Canadian Press.)—Gene Tunney impressed the experts with a fast six-round sparring drill yesterday against Harold Mays and Billy Vidsbeck.

With the hot spell broken and a lively breeze making things comfortable around the champion's camp, Tunney subjected his sparring partners to a bit more punishment than is the usual rule in his training bouts.

Tunney seemed to be drawing close to his best form and should enter the ring at the Yankee Stadium July 26 in his heavyweight titular defense against Yom Heeney in superb condition. He weighed 192 pounds after his workout yesterday morning.

LEAFS BEAT BLACK CATS

SCORE 4-3.

TORONTO, July 11.— Frank Gilhooley's Jersey City team, trailers in the International League race, and conquerors of Toronto in four consecutive games at Leaf Stadium this season ,bowed to the league pacesetters here yesterday in one of the most thrilling battles of the campaign. The final score was 4 to 3, with Pinchhitter Claude Satterfield's sacrifice fly scoring Warren Cote, who had tripled, with the winning run in the eleventh inning. It was a superbly played contest, with Bill O'Hara and Gilhooley matching wits in a high class exhibition of strategy.

Those former Leafs, Gilhooley, Jimmy Walsh and Otis Lawry, naturally take keen delight in aiding in the downfall of their old teammates, and in addition they know the strength and weakness of every Toronto batsman. Walsh and Lawry played great baseball, as veterans go, but it was Jimmy's lame and much-used arm that paved the way for the run that won the game. He caught the ball hit by Saterfield, but made a wretched attempt to head off the speeding Cote. An outfielder like Bill Lamar would have thrown the local shortstop out with feet to spare.

But all's well that ends well and the Toronto fans and players were quite satisfied to have Walsh out there in the eleventh. The verdict, which might have gone either way, was deeply appreciated by the locals, who realize that in a race so close they cannot afford to go holidaying with the cellar-placers in the vicinity.

TORONTO TEAM WILL PLAY HERE

C.G.E. Head Office Team Will Play Local Electrics at Riverside Park.

ON SATURDAY

The lovers of softball will be given a real treat on Saturday in Riverside park at 6.30 p.m. when the Head Office Team of the Canadian General Electric of Toronto will travel from the Queen City to clash with our local Electrics.

This team is widely known among the followers of the sport as being a red hot aggregation. They have the best pitcher in Ontario according to local authorities and his record stands behind it as they have only lost one game in two years. So far this year George Bell the hurler has pitched two no hit and no run games and his catcher Al Carr is right there with the stuff.

A real snappy game is assured to all who come out and what a game it will be! The locals are going big guns at present winning on Tuesday night with a 11 to 3 score.

The social and Athletic Club of the C.G.E. are responsible for getting this famous team to display their wares and uphold their honor here.

PIRATES TAKE 4TH STRAIGHT

CARDS WIN 5-1

NEW YORK, July 10.—(Canadian Press).—Scoring the tieing and winning runs in the ninth inning, the Pirates defeated Philadelphia 6 to 5 yesterday and increased their winning streak to four straight games. The Waner brothers; Paul and Lloyd, drove in runs off Sweetland who had relieved Ring when the latter got in trouble with one out in the ninth.

Hargreaves, Pirate catcher, drove in three runs with a long double to tie the score in the sixth inning. The Phillies went ahead again in their half of the ninth and Ring held the one run lead when he was lifted. The Phil hurler retired Hargreaves in the final inning, but walked Brickell and when Adams singled, he was taken from the mound. Sweetland went in and faced the Waners who smashed out timely singles.

Home runs by Andy High, "Check" Hafey and George Harper off Joe Genewich in the sixth inning enabled the Cardinals to defeat the Giants 5 to 1, in the opening game of the series at St. Louis yesterday. High had hit another homer two innings earlier. Clarence Mitchell, held the visitors safe throughout the game. The Cards now lead the Giants by 5½ games.

The Reds continued their winning streak by pounding three Brooklyn pitchers at Cincinnati to win by 12 to 4. Doug. McWeeny, Rube Ehrhardt and Jim Elliott each tried to halt the Reds and failed. Pete Donohue kept the Robins' hits scattered save in the eighth when the visitors put four drives together for three runs, but even while this was going on, Pete was in no danger. Brooklyn got a total of nine hits.

Chicago won from Boston in Chicago after Hornsby hit a homer in the Cubs half of the inning, intentional passes to Wilson and Grimm and Hartnett's single put over the winning tally to give the Cubs a 7 to 6 verdict.

Ed. Holly, making his first start for the Cubs, was pounded from the box in the sixth inning. Jones followed him and pitched to one batter and then Bush finished to get credit for the victory.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

K. of C.-Teco game scheduled for Friday night at King Edward Park has been postponed until some future date.

With Friday night's game postponed, there will be no further games in the City Softball League until Thursday night, July 19th, on account of the Chautauqua tent occupying the playing space in Confederation Park.

* * * * * *

It was decided by the softball executive, at a meeting held last night, that the league will not enter the O.A.S.A. this year.

* * * * * *

The Head Office team of the Canadian General Electric of Toronto will play here on Saturday at the James Stevenson Park. Meeting the local Electrics, a great game can be expected by the softball fans. The visiting team has a great record behind it, while the locals have been doing good stuff lately, being counted as the strongest team in the City Softball League.

* * * * * *

Crary will likely do the hurling for the Kiwanis Juniors in their league fixture at the James Stevenson Park to-night. Defeated in their last three tries, the club boys need this game, while the Lock Works are in about the same position.

* * * * * *

Fielding a good team but lacking the scoring punch the Lock Works went down to 11—3 decision before the C.G.E. crew last night. Leaving men on bases seemed to be the weak spot of the Lockmakers; if they had taken advantage of their opportunities to score on their players, the outcome would have been far different.

* * * * * *

The softball games have reached their mid-season form and are affording the spectators real pleasure to watch them, judging by the crowds that are attending the games.

* * * * * *

Harrison's North-Enders will play a picked team from Ennismore in an exhibition game to-night at 6.30 in Confederation Park.

RAIN HALTS BALL GAME

St. Andrew's Were Leading Mill Crew 7-4 in Softball Fixture.

CAMPBELLFORD LEAGUE

CAMPBELLFORD, July 11.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Rain put a stop to the softball game Monday night just as the eighth inning got under way. The darkness preceding the storm made fielding extremely difficult and the churchmen were getting a big lead when the rain started and the game was automatically called off as players and fans alike scurried for cover in their cars.

Although there were few strike-outs, the fielding made the game interesting and for three innings straight there were no runs counted for either side. St. Andrew's owe their lead to the fact that the Millers blew up in the fifth and at least three of the six runs scored by St. Andrews were the results of wild pegs to bases. St. Andrew's victory keeps them still close to the lead with the same number of wins as the clerks but with one more loss.

NEWARK BEARS DEFEAT ROYALS

Reading Keys Waltz Away the Bisons 10 to 2.

ROCHESTER WINS.

MONTREAL, July 11.—Newark captured the opening game of the series here yesterday afternoon with the Montreal Royals, 11 to 10 in a heavy-hitting affair, characteristic of all meetings of these two rivals.

The Royals outhit the bears, 14-13 and were handed six unearned runs by two errors on the part of Fournier, but the Bears collected their two blows to better advantage, a homer by Jenkins scoring three. Fournier also contributed a four base clout.

Climbing Fast

BUFFALO, July 11.—The Reading Keys waltzed away from the Bisons to the tune of a 10-to-2 score in the opening tilt of the series yesterday afternoon. Parks featured for the winners, twirling gilt-edged ball and throwing in a timely double in the seventh-inning rally, which netted three runs and shattered a 2-all deadlock.

Red Wings Win

ROCHESTER, July 11.—The Red Wings found the delivery of Guy Cantrell to their liking here yesterday and kept pace with the Toronto Leafs by winning 9 to 6 over the Baltimore Birds. Rochester scored all of its runs after two were out in the innings in which they came.

Gelbert led the Rochester attack, with three safe hits.

KINGSTON, July 10. —(Canadian Press).—T. E. Doolan has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Separate School Board to succeed Capt. W. G. Batley, who died a week ago. Mr. Doolan has been a separate school trustee since 1920.

MEN!—FREE!

This Magnificent GOLD-Plated Genuine Gillette Razor (Complete with Blade)

With a 35c Tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream All for 35c!

Go to your dealer. Put down 35c for a tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream. Get this razor free. Strict limit one to a customer—dealers' stocks rigidly limited—come early

Here is a gift offer which we believe has no parallel in merchandising. An offer made solely to attract men to a fair trial of Palmolive Shaving Cream.

Our experience proves that most men who try Palmolive Shaving Cream become regular users. Thus our whole sales problem is to get every man we can to TRY IT.

To solve that problem, we go to great lengths. We occasionally make an offer that no man can afford to turn down. This one, you'll agree, is the greatest we have ever made—the most remarkable, we are told, in merchandising history.

Go today to your dealer. Buy a tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream at the regular price of 35c. The razor described above will be given you with it FREE with blade—all for 35c.

But remember: Dealers' stocks are strictly limited. When your store is out, he can get no more. Thus early acceptance of this offer is necessary.

The world's most magnificent razor

No matter how many razors a man has—of what makes or kind—he will want this luxurious Gillette—"a real Gillette!" Never a man but has wanted one.

It is the IDENTICAL Gold-Plated Genuine Gillette, for which, in a case with 12 blades, thousands of men formerly paid $6. The same razor EXACTLY which was the most popular gift razor—at Christmas, etc.—in Canada.

The ONLY difference is that at $6, a case and twelve blades were given with the razor. Under this offer, one blade accompanies it. Think of it! — free now with a 35c tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream which you probably need anyway!

Corrects the mistakes of old-time shaving preparations

We started by asking 1000 men what they most desired in a shaving soap. Then met their exactments one by one. It is different in formula, action and effect from any other shaving preparation known. It corrects the 5 mistakes of old-time shaving preparations.

1. It multiplies itself in lather 250 times.
2. It softens the beard in one minute.
3. The lather maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face.
4. The extra strong bubbles support the hairs for cutting, where weak bubbles let them fall down.
5. The blend of palm and olive oils brings fine after-effects.

Accept today

Now to win you over to a trial, we make an offer which we believe is the most remarkable any manufacturer ever made to gain a fair trial for his product.

In your interest and in ours, please accept it today. Go now to your dealer. You'll thank us for the gift today—and for many days—for the new shaving comforts our cream offers you.

REPORT UPHOLDS LONDON POLICE

Commission Finds Officers Not Blameworthy in Questioning Girl.

LONDON, July 11. — London's police are upheld, with certain reservations, in the majority report of the Commission appointed to investigate the widely discussed Savidge case, it is said on reliable authority.

Majority and minorty reports were forwarded to the House of Commons yesterday, but it is unlikely that they will be made public in detail before the end of the week.

The majority report, it is said, holds that the police are not subject to censure for anything said or done in the interrogation of Miss Irene Savidge, pretty twenty-two-year-old London girl, whose arrest in Hyde Park on a charge involving Sir Leo Money, started the investigation. But the report will suggest certain modifications in police procedure where statements are required from witnesses whose personal character might be involved in the inquiries made. The report is signed by Sir Eldon Bankes, chairman of the Commission, and J. J. Withers, a member of Parliament from Cambridge University.

SEPARATE CANDIDATES.

Prohibition and Farmer-Labor Group Fail to Reach Common Ground.

CHICAGO, July 11. — Canadian Press.)— Separate presidential candidates, rather than a fusion choice appeared likely to be the outcome of the prohibtion and farmer-labor conventions as each moved into its second session to-day.

The party leaders in both groups desired to replace two groups with a single party, but a lengthy joint conference failed to reach any desirable plan of amalgamation.

EXPECTS TO CRUISE TRENT WATERWAYS

Party From Toronto Are Making the Trip This Month.

The following interesting letter has just been received by the secretary, Chamber of Commerce and Trent Waterway Development Association, from C. H. Curley, which is indicative of the intense interest on the part of many summer visitors in the cruising possibilities of the Trent Waterway System:

My long anticipated cruise of the Trent Waterway is about to begin. My mate and I are leaving Toronto on Friday night for Parry Sound, where I keep my boat and camping outfit.

We will camp close to Parry Sound for a few days to test out the camping equipment, and probably on July 4th, if the weather permits, we will hop off, and should reach Midland that afternoon. We will visit Midland and Penetanguishene, and then run across to Port Severn, obtain our permit to navigate the waterway and then proceed down that interesting route.

I have as mate a very enthusiastic boy of 14 who is going to take copious notes along the way with the view of writing it up for his future reading. I will also keep a detailed log of the trip and write it up in detail when I have settled down after the trip is over.

We shall take great pleasure in calling at your office when in Peterborough and will advise you in advance if possible of the probable time of our arrival.

I will have my Graflex with me and will take several photos along the way. The pictures I took in 1926 when I passed down that way are a great source of pleasure to me now that the trip is two years in the dim and distant past.

When I went through in 1926 I took several photos that the lock tenders were interested in, and I mailed several of them copies of the snaps which were received with pleasure. I was assured of a cordial reception on the occasion of any future trips down the waterway, and I am anticipating meeting some of them again.

I suppose we will be a little too early to meet many American boats coming up. Two years ago we met a lot of them, but it was nearly a month later in the year.

We are anticipating a great time, and we hope that we will not be in the least disappointed, and know that any trouble we may have will not be on account of the operatives of the various locks, as we found them to be very keen to make the way of the voyageur pleasant.

EXCHEQUER COURT DISMISSES CLAIMS

Government Loses Its Claim Against Dominion Distillery Products Company.

OTTAWA, July 10 (Canadian Press). — The claim of the Dominion Government against the Dominion Distillery Products Company, Limited, and Dominion Distillers, Limited, Montreal for the sum of $749,386 has been dismissed by the Exchequer Court of Canada in a judgment handed down by Chief Justice A. K. MacLean this morning.

The claim was based on the contention that the companies manufactured 82,989 proof gallons of denatured alcohol, procured its release from bond without payment of the excise duty and sold it for potable purposes in Canada in violation of the provision of the Excise Act.

In addition to the two companies, the following individuals were named as defendants in the action: Leo George, Montreal, Gregory A. Young, Montreal, James Cooper, Walkerville and W. J. Hushion, Montreal.

IN POLICE COURT

Motorists' morning in Police Court to-day! Such seemed to be the case, for when Magistrate O. A. Langley opened court, Constable Hugh A. Wilson, as well as the City Police, had prepared a fairly heavy slate of cases to be disposed of.

Agnes Neill, of Toronto General Hospital, was fined $15.00 and costs, amounting to $4.00, for speeding at fifty or more miles an hour on the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway on June 30. The fact that the young lady was hurrying home to spend the week-end failed to carry much weight with the Magistrate.

Archie A. Bulmer, of Peterborough, R.R. No. 4, did not choose to argue a charge of speeding at approximately 45 miles an hour on the same highway. Though his fine was less than was imposed in the first case mentioned, his costs were more, Mr. Bulmer paying a total of $15.25 for his speed.

H. E. Haines and John Pulkinghorn were each fined $5.00 without costs for speeding, while Roy Pogue drew the fine of the lowest magnitude, $2, for cycling on a city sidewalk. The fine will emphasize the fact that this by-law is not being overlooked by the city police.

Case Dismissed.

The evidence given by Officer Wilson, opposed by evidence by the defendant and a second man, failed to convince the Magistrate that Herbert S. Warr should be punished for reckless driving. Warr, an employee at a Peterborough factory, faced this charge as the result of an incident on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway, which the traffic officer had considered grounds for the laying of the information. The officer contended that only for the caution taken by another motorist, there would have been a crash when Warr pulled out to pass a horse and buggy and met the car driven by the cautious one—the accused, through his counsel, insisted that he had not passed the buggy until the road was clear.

UKRAINIANS PARADE IN MILITARY ATTIRE

Western Town Resents Side-Arms and Sam Browne Belts.

YORKTON, Sask., July 11 (Canadian Press).—An official investigation of the charter rights of the Ukrainian Sitch, an organization of young Ukrainians, has been ordered following widespread indignation in this district against members of the Order who on Monday paraded through the streets of Yorkton wearing uniforms resembling those of the German Army.

As the result of open hostility to the semi-military character of the parade, the convention of the organization was called off and the delegates dispersed. There are reported to be three Provincial branches of the Sitch in Canada—one in Saskatchewan, one in Alberta and the third in Ontario.

The trouble developed when the grey-clad delegates mustered for parade following religious exercises. The men were dressed in officers' tunics with Sam Brownes, and carried side-arms.

Such indignation is reported to have been engendered among the rank and file of regular militia units in summer camps near here that a "no leave" order was posted as a precautionary measure.

Military authorities who examined the charter of the organization declared that it had been issued by a man named "Chubb." According to the provisions of the charter, the teaching of the Ukrainian language in the schools, is said to have been recognized.

The investigation is being conducted by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers.

AT THE CAPITOL.

NORMA TALMADGE IN "THE DOVE," COMING TO THE CAPITOL THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—FILM VERSION OF WILLARD MACK'S STAGE SUCCESS.

Norma Talmadge in "The Dove," her first United Artists Picture, is to be the feature at the Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Based on Willard Mack's stage play, which ran for a year on Broadway, "The Dove" is a melodramatic, romantic tale of Costa Roja, the "red coast." Miss Talmadge is supported by Noah Beery and Gilbert Roland. Roland West directed the picture from the scenario by Wallace Smith and Paul Bern.

"The Dove" is the colorful, quick-action narrative of a virtuous dance hall girl, a courageous young American employed in a gambling house, and "the bes' damn caballero in all Costa Roja," Don Jose Maria y Sandoval. Against a background of guitars, stilletos, roulette wheels, fine ladies and grand gentlemen, the characterization of Miss Talmadge as Dolores, "The Dove," a beautiful dancer, comes to glowing life, according to advance reports.

Norma Talmadge not only becomes a United Artists star through "The Dove," her first picture for that organization, but she is also now one of the eight owner-members of United Artists. Mary Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, D. W. Griffith, Joseph M. Schenck and Samuel Goldwyn are the others.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1928

Although this is not a supremely lucky day, it has certain benefic aspects, according to astrology.

While there may be a tendency toward nervousness and irritability there should be a conscious effort to preserve poise.

Travelers may be especially fault-finding and exacting while this rule prevails and they should control their tempers.

It is well to beware of entrance to a quarrel while this configuration continues. Bitter political controversies are presaged.

Domestic harmony may be difficult to maintain today and vacations from one's family are recommended.

The planetary government which presages high nervous tension foreshadows continued increase of divorces and church recognition of the instability of families.

Ministers hitherto forbidden to marry divorced persons will be given the privilege in one or more Protestant denominations, but the seers prophesy that there is to be a general reaction against divorce.

A sensational marriage that will disturb a royal family is prognosticated for the summer.

The stars may incline many Americans as well as foreigners to contract marriages hitherto frowned on for social or political reasons.

Before the end of the summer romance is to assume such importance in the feminine mind that numerous scandals as well as happy engagements will result, the seers foretell.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of uncertainty. They should protect themselves against financial losses.

Children born on this day probably will have lives of adventure. The subjects of this sign are peculiarly liable to accidents.

The first daily newspaper in the United States, the Daily Advertiser, was started at Philadelphia September 21, 1784.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON THURSDAY

Today is the third day of the orange juice fast, and, by this time, I am sure you are feeling much better in every way. You will, probably, have lost six or seven pounds by tonight, and if you will step on the scales you may be surprised to find that you have lost even more than this.

Much of the soft fatty weight around your intestinal organs has disappeared, and your waist-line is now beginning to grow much smaller.

Although I would like to have you take the orange juice fast for a much longer time, in order to make your daily regime easier for you, I am going to make a change in tomorrow's instructions.

You are to take the sponge baths and enemas exactly as you have been doing; but, in place of the orange juice, I want you to use three meals tomorrow, of apples, using two or three apples at a meal. And if you are very lonesome for food, between meals, you can eat a small apple occasionally during the day time. Drink whatever water you desire, either with the apples or between times.

This apple diet will give you a great deal more nourishment than the orange juice, and because of this I want you to start walking certain distances each day in order to work the fat out of the muscular tissues.

Start in tomorrow to walk at least one mile, besides any walking you do in your regular work unless you are a messenger boy or a mail-carrier.

In addition to this exercising by walking, I want you to take the following exercises, going through the entire list either in the morning or evening.

STANDING UP—

1.—Hands at sides—open and close the hands vigorously. Hands extended at sides shoulder high—repeat. Hands extended at front, shoulder high—repeat. Hands extended over head—repeat.

2.—Hands clasped behind neck—bend to the left and then to the right, keeping the knees stiff. Bend forward and then backward—keeping the knees stiff. Twist body to the right as far as possible—then to the left as far as possible, keeping the hips motionless and the knees stiff.

3.—Hands extended over the head—swing the arms vigorously in opposite directions in a circle in front of the body.

4.—Arms over head—fists clenched. Raise on toes—at the same time opening the fists vigorously. Then back to the first position. Inhale as you raise yourself on toes, and exhale as you return to the first position.

5.—Hands open at sides, palms to the back—raise arms in front over head and back as far as possible. Inhale as you do so, and throw the head back, looking as far back on the ceiling behind you as possible. Then return to the first position, exhaling as you do so.

Take these exercises slowly at first, doing each one two or three times and gradually increasing the number of movements as your strength permits. Do the exercises before an open window if possible. When you have completed the exercises, take a cool sponge or shower bath, and follow with an enema as usual.

CITY WORKMEN ARE EMPLOYED

Employment Office Reports Little Unemployment Prevailing in City.

Most of the men of the city are employed according to the local Employment Bureau report at present. However, there are always a number of transient seekers for positions, some who pay regular calls to the office and do not seem to have any intention of work. At present there are a number of young men who are looking for employment during the vacation period, but are not anxious to accept the openings that are occurring which are mostly farm jobs.

There are many vacancies in the country but applicants to fill them are scarce. On the board at the office is a list of openings for skilled men. Wood carvers, stone masons, power operators, millwrights, a setter for steam set saw mill, plush weavers, pastry makers (male), die makers, glove makers and hard candy makers are all wanted.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE GET "SECOND WIND"

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Have you ever experienced what the runners call "second wind"? It is a very peculiar feeling. While running you begin to get wabbly and are in great distress, not knowing what minute you will have to be forced out of the race or drop from exertion. Then all of a sudden something happens which makes you feel a lot better. You have your second wind.

The explanation of second wind is as follows: When a man starts running he places a greater demand on his heart and lungs than these organs are accustumed to and for a while they are unable to meet the demand. The runner is in distress. But presently as he keeps on running the heart and lungs catch up with the strain and are able to deliver the power and force to the bodily mechanism in sufficient quantities to keep it moving along in perfect rhythm.

In a figurative way we speak of getting our second wind when in any given task we secure fresh insight and inspiration to continue just as we are about to peter out and quit.

Second wind relative to your particular job means taking advantage of the warming up process. A correspondent to this column states that he dislikes his job and hates to go to work, but when he is there and warmed up he doesn't mind.

A great many people wait till the proper mood is upon them before tackling some job that they dislike. The trouble with this plan is that those favorable moods never come. A runner cannot have his second wind till he uses up his first wind, so to speak. No more can we count on a favorable mood to do an unpleasant task until we have exhausted our resources.

The important thing is to make the start and trust to the warming up process to furnish the second wind.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE PREACHER'S PLACE

They say the preacher talks too much
About the government and such,
His statement on a certain case
They say was very out of place.
But when a preacher starts to preach
He doesn't lose the right of speech.

The politician states his views
And cuts a figure in the news.
The gunman really waxes warm
Discussing preachers and reform.
It seems that every force of ill
Can speak, but preachers must keep still.

But if the hosts of evil dare
To shout opinions everywhere,
If crooks and gamblers are allowed
To air their views in every crowd,
It seems the preacher ought to find
An equal chance to speak his mind.

The preacher, barber, teamster, too,
Whatever job they have to do,
Should welcome every other man
Who does whatever good he can,
Should welcome any man, I guess,
Upon the side of righteousness.

That horse of James Primeau's would almost make one wish to jump on its back and go for a ride, wouldn't it I've seen some funny faces, but that drawing of a machine gunner by Jimmie Nixon has them all beaten. Who is it, Jimmie Gwenyth Staples had a nice clock to make her drawing from, I think. Is that a picture of your best fellow, Jean King? He looks like a little mischief. James Moore must be a hunter, judging by his drawing. That's a happy old fellow that Bernard O'Toole has drawn for us. He doesn't seem to be worrying even if his hat doesn't fit. Dorothy Dunford must be thinking of moving day—and Robert Evan's cup and saucer reminds me that it's time for supper.

WRITER GOES ON NEW DIET

Will Describe Experiment in Weight Reduction For Readers.

WHAT A CHANCE?

By John Stout.

The first fruit juice and vegetable water fast in Peterborough has begun. I am your faster. Voluntarily I am doing this. Sneers of friend wife at my expanding waist line and the disposition of the younger set to ignore me as "only another of those flabby fat men" has nothing whatever to do with it. I hold myself above being annoyed by such trivial matters.

Beginning with a single meal last Sunday, on Monday and Tuesday, for the first time in 41 years, I passed up regular meals, except for those rare occasions when mornings after were bitterness and gall in the mouth. Harry Tyler, or someone else, anyway, a friend, remarked that he had been boasting at home for some months of his great chest development, following this up by the explanation that it had slipped down on him.

Back to Nature.

That made me think of what the rubber at the Turkish bath said to me the last time some friends delivered me there in Toronto.

"You ought to go back to nature," he said.

With that alacrity and willingness to do anything that always develops when I am in condition to be in a Turkish bath, I instantly asked: "What's her telephone number?"

"No, you've got me wrong," says the rubber. "If you're ever going to get rid of that fat, you've got to make some sacrifice."

"I've been years and years building it up," I murmured humbly.

"Makes no difference; you're 30 or 40 pounds overweight—dangerous for a man of your age. You ought to take only liquid nourishment for a couple of weeks.

A Gleam of Hope.

Ah! A gleam of hope. But the rubber detected it, and added coolly, maliciously and with a baleful eye, fixed upon my 46½ waist line.

"Fruit juices—unfermented. Vegetable water—undistilled."

"But why?" I murmured. "Ain't my teeth all right? They're sound. All eight of them. Of course it would be better were four above and four below, instead of just two below; but I manage fairly well."

Friend wife gave three cheers when she heard it. After checking the money she took from my pocket on pay day, she promised to save the dishwater for emergency rations.

Young Lady Indignant.

The young lady in the office of Dr. Blank is burning with indignation. All because I unthinkingly remarked that I wanted to find out how much I weighed stripped. She sniffed at my voice and said nothing very loudly.

Be these minor matters what they may, I, being of sound health, 30 pounds overweight in my undies (leaving those on in case I meet the young lady again) and of more or less good habits, depending on whom you ask, have gone on a fast. And I don't mind the 30,000 readers of The Examiner, knowing how it feels to abstain from all solid foods for the first time in more than 40 years.

What a Chance?

I have been informed by everybody but my immediate boss that a part of this fasting process is at least 12 hours' sleep daily, and a nap each morning and afternoon.

"Stick to your usual habits, that will suffice," coldly advised the city editor.

I am going about my regular routine of attending luncheons of the Rotarians and the Kiwanians. As faithfully as possible, I shall follow the fruit fast and that course prescribed by Dr. McCoy in The Examiner.

I now weigh 175 pounds. Although I have fasted for two days, I don't seem to have lost an ounce thus far. I should weigh, for my age and height, about 145 pounds. This is not an effort to reduce.

It is a scientific effort to ascertain the merits of the fruit and vegetable water diet, to correct, in this case, a form of nervous indigestion.

You will find many things in the Classified Ads. of the Examiner.

SACRED HEART SOCIAL.

The fine weather that has become a tradition with those in charge of affairs at the annual social of the Sacred Heart Parish greeted this year's event, held yesterday afternoon and evening on the grounds adjoining the Sacred Heart Church. A curious circumstance of the evening was the fact that, while rain fell quite heavily for about twenty minutes in other sections of the city last night, around eight o'clock, the attendants at the Sacred Heart social had only a few drops to moisten the grounds. Several thousand people patronized the social last evening.

Arrangements were looked after in the usual efficient, highly satisfactory fashion that characterizes this annual social. The grounds were brightly illuminated by overhead strings of electric lights and the various booths also had their illumination of colored globes and were decorated with flags, pennants, Japanese lanterns and colored paper streamers.

The excellent supper served from half-past five o'clock had a very large patronage and the booths on the grounds also had their quota of cream, home-made cooking and candy patrons during a pleasant evening. Ice and soft drinks were sold and the booth where chances were taken on various household articles was a popular centre, with Messrs. Turcotte and Deforge as energetic directors. A fish pond and "kill the cat" game provided amusement for the juniors and the band of the Peterborough Rangers supplied a very fine program of music throughout the evening.

PRISON GUARD IS ATTACKED

Prisoner Rips Name Plate From Cell and Slashes Custodian

FACE BADLY CUT.

KINGSTON, July 11 (Canadian Press).—Guard Brewer of Portsmouth Penitentiary was the victim of a vigorous attack by a convict on Tuesday, it was announced to-day by Warden J. C. Ponsford. Salvadore Daguidice, serving a sentence for wounding, was in solitary confinement following a fight with another convict, when he jumped on the guard who was bringing him his dinner and inflicted serious gashes with a piece of tin which he had ripped from the name plate over the cell door.

Brewer was cut about the mouth and eyes, and badly gashed around the ears. The guard was completely taken by surprise and only the prompt arrival of assistance saved him from serious wounds. Daguidice was arrested at Welland and sentenced to three years on the wounding charge in March, 1927.

Obituary

MRS. ELIZA MUNDY.

Word of the death of Mrs. Eliza Mundy, who passed peacefully to her eternal rest on Friday morning, July 6th ,after a short illness, was received with deep regret by her many friends who deeply mourn the passing of a noble woman.

Mrs. Mundy, whose maiden name was Eliza Dickey, was born in the County of Antrim, Ireland and came with her parents to Canada when a young woman. She was one of a family of seven children, four of which, three brothers, Mathew, John and William, and one sister, Mary, have predeceased her. She was married in 1879 to Charles Mundy, of Hastings, who predeceased her by twenty years. She lived for many years in the village of Hastings, where she was much respected by all who knew her.

She was a woman of a high Christian character, quiet and unassuming nature. She was a good neighbor, a true friend, a faithful sister, a devoted wife and loving mother.

In 1917 she came to live with her daughter, Edith, later moving with them to Peterborough in 1921. Of her family of six children, two of which died in infancy, one daughter, Mrs. Fred English, of Peterborough and one son, John B. Mundy, of Toronto, are left to mourn her passing, also one sister, Mrs. Robt. McNally, of Tilston, Manitoba, and one brother, James Dickey, of Hastings, mourn her loss. One son, Joseph, passed away in his young manhood and one daughter, Mrs. Sardy, of Windsor, was laid to rest in Toronto a little over a year ago.

The remains were laid to rest on Sunday afternoon, July 8th, in the Trent Valley cemetery, Hastings, where a large assembly of friends had gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to one who in life was much beloved.

Rev. Wm. McDonald, of Knox church conducted the services at the house and spoke with much feeling of the deceased and Rev. Mr. Thomson of Hastings, officiated at the graveside.

IN MEMORIAM.

In fond and loving memory of our dear mother's grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Watkins, who died July 11th, 1927.

My Jesu as Thou wilt,
Oh may Thy will be mine,
Into Thy hands of love,
I would my all resign
Thro' sorrow and thro' joy
Conduct me as thine own,
And help me still to say,
My Lord, "Thy Will be Done."

SARAH GORDON

LAKEFIELD, July 11.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of Miss Sarah Gordon took place on Friday afternoon from her late residence on O'Eyncourt Street. Rev. J. B. McCormack was in charge.

Mr. McCormack read the 90th Psalm and two hymns were sung, "Oh God our help in Ages Past," and "Abide With Me", both favorites of the deceased lady, who was very fond of hymns.

Mr. McCormack spoke from the text "Be ye also ready, for ye know neither the day nor the hour when the Son of Man cometh." The deceased lady was one of those who stood ready for the coming of the Lord; His name was ever on her lips and His Service her delight and as far as it is humanly possible to be prepared to meet God the speaker was assured that Miss Gordon was prepared for she had early in life accepted God as her Master and in the course of her long pilgrimage on earth had consistently followed His teachings.

Following the service the cortege proceeded to the Lakefield cemetery where interment was made.

Miss Gordon's demise removes a figure well known in a neighborhood which delights to honour the Gordon sisters who were beloved members of the community. Every anniversary was a neighborhood event and was celebrated in a manner suitable to the occasion and to the health of the ladies.

The ladies were held in the highest regard throughout the village and the sympathy of the community goes to Miss Jane Gordon in the loss of her sister.

A niece, Miss Shields, has resided for yaers with her aunts, and has given them devoted and loving care, never failing in any particular in her efforts for their comport.

City Men Tour Trent Waterway; Utilities Members Visit Orillia

ORANGEMEN HERE

Ascertain Need of Canal

Leaders of Trent System Municipalities To Ask For Completion.

WELL ENTERTAINED.

Midland Is Host To Investigators Who Realize Waterway's Value.

A body of the most representative men from the towns and cities along the Trent Waterway Development visited the uncompleted marine railway section along the Severn river yesterday. The municipalities of Peterborough, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Campbellford, Midland, Hastings, Lakefield, Fenelon Falls and Orillia were among those to send representatives on this inspection tour.

The party started from the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, picking up the various men along the route and running fairly well on a schedule. Stops were made at Lindsay, Beaverton and Orillia, arriving in Midland around noon. Here J. B. Hanly's spacious 35 foot cruiser was awaiting the party as soon as Mayor Goodlon and George Ross, Chairman of the industrial committee of the town council and President of the Chamber of Commerce of Midland, arrived, the party boarded the yacht and set off, for the Severn River.

There was now a party of twenty and as the boat cruised out of the wonderful harbor one was able to have a real view of the town of Midland. In the harbor were the two largest vessels in the inland waters of the world, the Le Moyne, 630 feet long, and the Gleneagle, something over 600 feet. Out past the grain elevators, the International Fiber Board Company with its large export trade, into the open bay, the party traveled. As some had come from as far as Campbellford without any breakfast it was considered a good step to have lunch while crossing Georgian Bay. Mr. Hanly was chef and brewed the tea while the town of Midland, and more directly Mr. Ross, provided individual lunches which were in separate boxes that contained the most tasty morsels.

Fourteen miles away, and leaving the bay for the narrower Severn River system the party arrived at Port Severn, where the first and only lock was encountered. Passing Port Severn into Severn Lake and Glouch-

FRIES EGG ON JERSEY PAVING TO PROVE DAY IS THAT HOT

NEW YORK, July 11.—It was hot enough to fry an egg on the pavement in Paterson, N.J. It took Harold Graham, a salesman, just four minutes to demonstrate the fact to a group of skeptics.

Graham made use of the familiar expression in commenting on the weather to a customer. When some one challenged the accuracy of his statement the salesman took an egg from a near-by case and marched out to the sidewalk, followed by the doubters. He broke the egg over the concrete pavement and four minutes later handed it to one of the skeptics who pronounced it a perfect fried egg. The egg had been fried hard on both sides.

FIFTY LODGES IN BIG PARADE

NUMEROUS BANDS.

The Orangemen turned out in great strength for the parade today with over a half a hundred lodges being present in the walk and a half a dozen bands not mentioning the fife and drum corps the individual lodges brought with them. Nearly every lodge had at least a fife base drum and kettle drum, many of them running with a larger number of musicians.

The Young Canadian's lodge No. 80 and the Star of Bethlehem L.O.B.A No. 650, of Peterborough, were two of the largest in the walk and made a splendid showing in their white dress. The Vimy Ridge L.O.B.A. No. 244 made a very attractive appearance with yellow square near the centre with "Vimy Lodge, Peterborough" on it The juvenile lodge the girls in white, and the boys in long white trousers and white shirts made a very pretty picture.

The lodges all lined up in Central Park behind the markers on which were the names of their counties, Victoria, Northumberland, Durham, and Peterborough. These lined up in this order, starting from the south side of Confederation Park to the north and retained the same order, Victoria leading through the parade. Starting off with the resident band The Peterborough Rangers and followed by five cars and containing the Judges and officials the lodges fell in behind and went west on Murray street to Aylmer then north to McDonald street, east to George

Develops Cheaper Power

Electric Light in Orillia Costs Only Fraction of Price Here

RECORDS TELL TALE.

Commission Charges Less To Consumers and Yet Gives Town $5,000.

Whatever else Peterborough's Utilities Commission heard or saw in their trip to Orillia on Wednesday, the most significant fact they might report, perhaps with a note of envy, if not of regret, is simply this—that the people of Orillia have been operating proprietors of their own power plant for thirty years, and apparently haven't the slightest notion of selling this perpetual "white coal" mine to anybody.

Of course this wasn't news, whether invidious or otherwise, to the members of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, or their predecessors, nor were they unaware that Orillia's power plant is situated twenty miles across country from the town hall, that splendid municipal building which would grace any of the smaller cities of Ontario.

The water from which Orillia derived 6,000 horse power is not tumbling past the town's doors or between its wards. It is not even a comparatively few miles away; but the Swift Rapids on the Severn River are about as far from Orillia as the sometimes mentioned Burleigh Falls dam is from Peterborough. Burleigh may actually be nearer.

However, this is not a Peterborough story. It may belatedly point a municipal moral for the people of Peterborough, or rather for those who at times serenely and confidently assume the directing of Peterborough's municipal policies; but, told from any Peterborough plane or angle, it leaves, by obvious contrast, a bitter taste.

"What Went Ye Out To See?"

The Examiner reporter, who was sent by motor to Orillia Wednesday morning, picked up the trail of the Peterborough Utilities Commissioners in Orillia's power office precincts and was informed that to overtake them up the Severn would require the hiring of a boat. But why take the elastic off the role again, especially when you are unbidden and no doubt unexpected, and, as a clinching reason, when the story of the 47-foot head of water and the cheap power it yields (said to be the cheapest in Canada) was available from office and editorial sources, even if the Mayor and other municipal officials were cordially accompanying and entertaining their visitors from the potent and productive Otonabee.

There are power plants right in Peterborough similar in physical appearance to that dam and power house which Orillia owns on the Severn. No citizen of Peterborough needs travel 80 miles just to look at any town's power plant. He can take a look at several smart exhibits just around the block, or perhaps up town, depending on where he lives; and on calm nights the soft roar of water foaming over cement walls carries to every languid, sleepy citizen after he turns off his light.

Real Story in Records.

But look at the customers' receipts in the office! That's where the story of power plants is written— brief, bald, cogent entries in a card index.

What is the light bill of the owner of a six-roomed house? What does it cost the hardware merchant, the garage merchant, and the grocer to light their premises? What does the man with the twelve-room residence, electric range and other conveniences pay?

AND WHAT ABOUT THE FARMERS AND THE PEOPLE IN NEARBY VILLAGES?

Surely they have some equity in this natural resource of electric power, and may expect to share in such urban enterprises as Orillia's 6,000 h.p. generating plant and twenty-mile transmission system!

Residents of Otonabee township in Peterborough county petition for power from water that almost surrounds them. They are bound to be interested in what other farmers pay for a similar service. These are facts that might have been overlooked in the party at the power house.

The advantages of Orillia's publicly owned power are incalculable because they include some intangibles such as the appeal of cheap power to manufacturers, civic pride in streets that are said to be the most brightly lighted in the country, stores that need not stint the kilowatts in their evening display.

Here's a salient bit of information in the Orillia Power Commission's financial statement for 1927— "The Electrical Department shows a surplus of $9,839.29, after providing for

TWO OF ITALIA CREW RESCUED

Girl Weds Dying Thief In Hospital After Church's Last Rites Are Given

NEW YORK, July 12.—Salvatore [illegible] and Miss Julia Millikersi were married in the Newark City Hospital where Comforte lies near death with a bullet wound in his spine, received Sunday after he and Joseph Garcia had held up the proprietor and nine patrons of a lunch wagon in Vauxhall, a suburb of Newark. Three hours after the holdup an unidentified man found Garcia and Comforte in the home of a friend on High [illegible]. He killed Garcia with his first bullet and shot the second into Comforte's spine. The wound caused paralysis of the lower portion of Comforte's body and his chances for recovery are slight.

Miss Millikersi is 23 years old. When she learned that her sweetheart was dying she came to the hospital with a friend. She went to Comforte's cot and they were married to one another a few moments. The girl left and returned shortly with the Rev. Mario Arcioli of St. Rocco's Church. The priest administered the last rites to Comforte, then performed the wedding ceremony, Miss Millikersi using her friend's wedding gown in the emergency.

Al Mamaux, pitcher for the Newark Bears, is a patient in the hospital, suffering from a knee injury. At Comforte's request he acted as best man. Mamaux was in a wheel-chair during the ceremony.

AUTOPSY SHOWS MILLS DIED BEFORE BODY ENTERED WATER

Further Mystery Added To Oshawa Man's Death By Discoveries.

FURTHER SEARCH.

Lapsing Accident Policy Was Paid Up in Lindsay.

PORT PERRY, July 12 (Special).—Verne Mills, of 139 Agnes St., Oshawa, was dead before his body entered the water, an autopsy conducted by Dr. A. L. Stewart revealed to-day. No water could be found in his lungs, a circumstance adding further to the mystery surrounding his death.

Beyond this fact, a careful examination of the body failed to throw any further light on the manner of his end. And the hastily empanelled coroner's jury adjourned until Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Dr. Stewart and Coroner J. A. Mathers confess themselves frankly puzzled by the findings of the autopsy, and the stomach and organs of the dead man have been sent to Prof. Rogers, Provincial analyst, for minute examination.

The unusual circumstances point to foul play, in the opinions of Provincial Constables Taylor and Mitchell, who are investigating.

Lindsay Findings.

LINDSAY, Ont., July 12 (Special).—Provincial Officer Mitchell was in Lindsay last night. The officer's investigation revealed that Mills had paid up an accident policy in Lindsay, which had been lapsing, and that telegrams found in his pocket indicated that he had been following the races in Toronto and Hamilton.

ONE DAY'S STRAWS WOULD REACH FROM HERE TO—WHERE?

Statistics as to the amount of liquids and ice cream consumed in Peterborough soft-drink parlors these hot days capture the imagination.

These are difficult to obtain, but the nearest approximation is 125 gallons of iced milk and malted milk; 160 gallons of soft drinks, and 200 gallons of ice cream.

Reckoning that a cow gives about three gallons of milk a day (estimate reached after much questioning which resulted in many different answers), it would take a herd of forty-one and two-thirds contented cows to keep up this supply.

Pleasing to contemplate, too, on a hot day, is the height of the icy, varicolored mound were all the ice cream consumed to be heaped together, and the expense of the soft drinks lapped up daily by a thirsty public would go a long way toward meeting the winter coal bill.

And then there are straws. One estimator or adjudicator or whatever he may be called, says there are 6,000 straws used in Peterborough every day—enough to make a neat little straw stack. How high do you suppose a straw stack would be, made of all the straws used in one day at the city soda fountains? . . .

Or who cares?

SEVEN TO DIE.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 12.—(Canadian Press.)— Seven men in the State penitentiary here have been sentenced to die to-morrow for different crimes involving murder. Four are white and three negro. Eight minutes will be allotted for execution of each of them.

AROUND THE WORLD.

TOKIO, July 12 (Canadian Press). —John Henry Mears, sailing to-day on the Empress of Russia with a plane which he and Charles Collier are using in an attempt to break around-the-world travel record, said they hoped to complete the trip within 23 days, more than five days less than the present record.

Don't Blame Hay Fever On Goldenrod; Or 'Rose Cold' On Roses, Say Medicoes

CHICAGO, July 12.—Roses don't cause "rose cold," and goldenrod has very little to do with hay-fever suffering, according to the weekly bulletin of Health Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel, just issued. It describes the cause and cure of hay fever and explodes some popular ideas about this and allied diseases.

Hay-fever and asthma specialists conducting clinics at Northwestern University, University of Chicago and Rush Medical College, all being internationally recognized as authorities, co-operated in the preparation of the bulletin.

"There are three hay-fever seasons," states the bulletin. "The first is the spring season, beginning in February and running into early May. The pollen from trees is responsible.

"The summer season, formerly known as rose cold, begins about May 25 and continues two months. It is caused by pollen from blossoming grasses, timothy and red top, but very seldom by roses, as their pollen is heavy and moist and not carried by the wind.

"The most important is the fall hay-fever season, beginning about Aug. 15 and continuing until the first frost. In Chicago it is due to weeds, chiefly the giant and dwarf ragweed. In the last ten years, however, another weed causing hay fever has invaded the city and now covers many acres of vacant land. This is the burweed marsh elder."

Some degree of alleviation for the hay-fever nuisance can be obtained by elimination of weed patches, continues the bulletin, but the best way for sufferers to obtain relief is to take treatment, which should begin six to ten weeks before the usual symptoms appear.

CARRIED BODY DR. MALMGREN DEAD A MONTH

FOUND BY SHIP.

Party Staggered Over Ice Since Five Days After Airship Crashed.

(Copyright, 1928, by Associated Press)

ABOARD THE RUSSIAN ICE BREAKER KRASSIN, July 12. — Given up for dead for the past six weeks, two of three members of the Italia's walking party were rescued to-day by the ice breaker Krassin.

The third member, Dr. Finn Malmgren, noted meteorologist and scientist, was found dead, a victim of the bitter struggle since May 30 against the terrors of the Arctic.

The rescued members of the party were Captain Alberto Mariano, pilot of the ill-fated Italia, and Captain Filippo Zappi, navigator, a member of the Italian navy.

The three man started from the spot where the Italia had crashed on the ice, five days after the disaster, in a desperate attempt to reach land.

Leaving a group of six men, commanded by General Umberto Nobile behind, the trio headed for the coast of Northeast Land 80 May 30 [illegible] days after the fatal crash. They carried provisions for forty days. As time passed and repeated attempts by fliers and other searching parties to find them failed, fears prevailed that they had perished.

Frederick Ward, news from the Russian ice-breaker Krassin that the Soviet flier Chukhnovsky had located the men on the ice far to the north of where they had been sought.

Captains Mariano and Zappi are now aboard the Krassin. Both were in an exhausted, half-frozen, and starved state when they were snatched from what had seemed certain death for many weeks. Captain Mariano's leg was frozen, but his companion was quite well.

Dr. Malmgren died a month ago, but his two companions faithful to their dead comrade, had kept his body and this was taken aboard the Krassin to-day.

The Krassin, as soon as it had rescued the two Italians, again turned its prow towards the east and began its weary hours of battering the ice floes in an effort to reach the group of men still marooned near Foyn Island.

Hope Renewed

Captain Marino and Zappi said they had given up hope in what seemed to them their last agonizing moments in the icebound world that hemmed them in for so many days when suddenly an airplane appeared out of the low-hanging mist.

Startled by the roar of the motors coming out of the vast silence, the two men said they leaped to their feet and waved frantically to the flier who circled above them. New hope for life surged through them and from that moment until the Krassin succeeded in making its way close to them through twenty miles of ice-packed sea, they felt that they were safe.

Radio Re-established

VIRGO Bay, Spitzbergen, July 12.—(Canadian Press).—Five men of the Italia crew who are marooned near Foyne Island, weak with fever and partially insane, have managed to re-establish radio communications with the base ship Citta Di Milano. Grave fears for them had prevailed when communications ceased on July 6. The return of normal magnetic conditions enabled them to again establish contact.

Two Hundred Sacks Seized When Patrol Boat Captures Launch.

TWO MEN ARRESTED.

ERIE, Pa., July 12.—(Canadian Press). — Coast guard headquarters here announced at noon that 200 sacks of ale had been seized after a patrol boat had overhauled the motor boat Mary, Port Dover, early this morning. Two men aboard the Mary were arrested.

The Mary was first sighted about two miles off shore and attempted to escape but was cut off.

ROBINSON CRUSOE MADE A MISTAKE

LONDON, July 12.—Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday should have remained on their island. A recent survey of Juan Fernandez Island, on which Alexander Selkirk, the original Robinson Crusoe, spent four years, proves it to be a veritable paradise.

The report says it is one of the most fruitful spots in South America, with every imaginable sort of plant growing there. A Frenchman, shipwrecked on the island some 40 years ago, has refused to leave because of the ease with which he has been able to live.

BOILER BURSTS KILLING THREE

Pusher Engine of C. P. R. Explodes Near Glacier To-day.

SHORT WATER.

WINNIPEG, July 12 (Canadian Press).—M. Rogers, engineer; W. Stanbury, fireman, and W. Clay, conductor, all of Revelstoke, B.C., were killed to-day when the boiler of a pusher engine of the Canadian Pacific Railway freight train, No. 55, exploded near Glacier, B.C.

The report was proceeding down a steep grade in the Rocky Mountains region when the accident occurred. The blast was attributed to water shortage.

The violence of the explosion lifted the boiled high into the air and smashed the steel cylinder upon the engine cab, demolishing them to splinters. The caboose and head engine later caught fire, but the flames were kept from spreading by the heroic efforts of Trainman M. Savoie.

Memorial Service Held

Cenotaph is Scene of Impressive But Simple Ceremony To-day.

WREATH PLACED.

Five Coach Special Train Brings Many Lodges From Lindsay.

Strikingly impressive was the memorial service at the Cenotaph on Murray street at eleven o'clock this morning, when home and visiting members of the Orange Order gathered to pay tribute to the soldier dead—their first official gesture on this, the 239th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. Standing with bared heads before the cenotaph were several hundred of the brethren while Colonel C. H. Ackerman addressed them as a brother Orangeman, and representative of the Canadian Legion. Ensign Green, of the Salvation Army, offered prayer and Worshipful Brother E. P. Reid, Grand Master of Grand Black Chapter of Ontario East, placed a beautiful wreath at the foot of the cenotaph. During the ceremony, however brief, yet which never fails to deeply move the hearts of all true citizens of the Empire, there was the sounding of the Last Post, with the lowering, and the answering Reveille and the raising of the flag

Bro. Col. C. H. Ackerman.

Introduced by Wor. Bro. Reid following the opening musical selection by the Rangers' Band, Col. C. H. Ackerman, himself an Orangeman, addressed the brethren. "It is a grand thing that you do here to-day," he said, "in paying tribute to those who gave up their lives in the Great War in defense of all that is constitutionally right. It is a fitting thing that you, as Orangemen, should come to this cenotaph to honor the memory of those whose conceptions of law and order, whose gratitude toward God and men were the same as your own."

Colonel Ackerman went on to touch upon the significance of this gathering in Peterborough and as a representative of the Canadian Legion and Empire Service League, to enlist the support of the Orangemen for the two organizations giving service in peace time as they did in time of war. The band played "Nearer My God to Thee"—then followed prayer by Ensign Green, the placing of the wreath at the foot of the Cenotaph, and the raising and

TWO WOMEN LOSE THEIR LIVES VESSEL IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

OFF CLAYTON, N. Y.

CLAYTON, N.Y., July 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Two women lost their lives, another was reported dying and 13 others were burned, four seriously, when a mail boat of the Brown Boat Company burned to the water's edge near here late yesterday.

One of the victims, a Mrs. Smith, of Kingston, Ont., was thrown into the water with a life preserver about her and was reported to have drowned when she fainted.

Another of those reported dead was believed to have fainted in the boat. Four of the most seriously injured were being taken to a hospital in Watertown.

Engine Back-Fired.

The boat, a large motor craft with a capacity of 25 passengers, was en route from Clayton to Alexandria Bay, and caught fire when the gasoline engine back-fired just after the craft left Murray Isle.

Millard Brown, of Clayton, is the owner of the boat company, which operates six boats in the mail and passenger services.

Operators of the boat were reported to have had difficulty with the motor before reaching Murray Isle.

A Murray Isle resident, who saw the boat catch fire, leaped into a motor and sped to the rescue of his wife and daughter who were passengers. He pulled them from the water and brought them here for medical attention. Other craft put out from the island to rescue passengers floating in the water.

Most of those aboard the boat were summer visitors in the Thousand Islands.

FIVE MEN AND ONE WOMAN ARRESTED FOR MAIL ROBBERY

Perpetrators of Toronto's $125-000 Mail Car Robbery Believed Caught.

PENITENTIARY RECORDS.

$7,436.85 of Loot Has Been Recovered in Possession of Accused.

Sensational Developments.

TORONTO, July 12 (Special).—Hourly sensational developments are being recorded in the round-up of the gang which robbed the mail car here last month of nearly $300,000 cash and securities.

The five men, including a Detroit barber and the woman already arrested, were arraigned to-day. They were remanded a week without bail. They are Finlay McLeod, Alex. McLeod, John Brown, all of Toronto, and Everet McKibben, of Detroit. Finlay McLeod, a young man well-known in baseball and sporting circles, and a former Toronto newspaperman, is charged with receiving. Mrs. Harriet McPhee, a widow, aged 40, in whose garden part of the loot was found, is held as a material witness. Mr. Justice McEvoy at Osgoode Hall later severely scored the police for refusing lawyers the right to see the men. Frank Regan, counsel for Brown, got the order he sought.

She was admitted soon after her husband was taken into custody. She is reported to be resting easily despite the shock over her husband's detention.

Police believe that one, Boring, is the key man of the three Detroit Chicago professional gunmen who assisted in the robbery, and who hastily departed for Chicago late yesterday.

TORONTO, July 12.—Five men — three of whom have penitentiary records—are in police custody and will be charged in connection with the daring mail bag robbery of June 20th last, which netted its perpetrators close to $125,000.

In addition, one woman is held as a material witness.

The coup, which follows three weeks of intensive police effort, ranks as the most important which the local investigating force has executed upon any criminal gang in many years. Two of the actual gunmen who took part in the robbery are alleged to be included and two have been positively identified.

Furthermore, $7,436.85 of the loot has been recovered in the possession of the accused.

The robbery, however, is not yet fully solved. The ringleader, with possibly one associate, is still at large.

Findley McLeod, Sr., civic employee, 48 years of age, resident at 270A Royce Avenue, who will be charged as one of the actual robbers and also with receiving a share of the loot.

Everett McKibbon, barber, aged 33, 15-328 Fairfield Avenue, Detroit, Michigan, who will be charged as one of the actual robbers and also with receiving a share of the loot.

John Brown, alias Sullivan, cigar storekeeper, aged 26, 980 Yonge Street, who will be charged as one of the robbers and also with receiving a share of the loot.

Alex. McLeod, taxi-driver, aged 42, 40 Laing Street, who will be charged with receiving a share of the loot.

One woman charged as a material witness, whose name is withheld by the police.

Of this company, John Brown, alias

An unidentified man dropped eight feet into a vat of boiling water at a local factory yesterday.

The Examiner's informant adds the information that they were pig's feet.

BONES BURIED IN BOX FOUND IN EXCAVATION

While digging the excavation for the new super-service station on Charlotte street the men uncovered a complete skeleton buried in a rotted wooden box.

First were found the leg bones, then the spinal column, ribs and shoulder blades. Amid great excitement the shovels delved for the skull, and found it.

It was a dog's.

CANADA TRAILS IN NEW SHOOT

Burke and Richardson Lead Canadian Team—Scotland Next.

66 OUT OF 70.

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., July 12. — (Canadian Press Cable).—Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, and Major F. Richardson of Victoria led the 18 Canadian marksmen competing in the Prince of Wales and Northland Service Rifle competition to-day. Each scored 66 out of a possible 70. Three more Canadians had scores of 64: Sgt. W. M. Reid and C. S. M. Emslie, Toronto, and C. M. S. Stevenson, of Montreal.

The Canadian team was 27 points behind Australia, the leaders, at the half-way mark in the shoot for the MacKinnon Cup. Canada won the cup last year and is defending it.

Scores at the 900-yard range, highest possible 600, were: Australia 560, Scotland 536, Canada 533, England 520, Ireland 501, Guernsey 483, India 479, and Wales 447.

Much Optimism Felt Regarding Farm Produce

BUMPER CROPS ARE EXPECTED IN DISTRICT

Remarkable Growth as Far as Grain, Hay and Vegetables Are Concerned.

MUCH OPTIMISM FELT

Grain Now Showing Signs of Yielding Well at Harvest Time.

As one travels through the country, making calls at the various farmhouses along the road, there seems to be this year a prevailing spirit of unbounded optimism with respect to things agricultural, which is gratifying to note. In spite of the fact that the opening of the season was delayed some two weeks later than is usual because of the bad weather in the Spring, there has been a remarkable growth so far as the grain, hay, and vegetables are concerned. The farmers are looking forward to a bumper crop in all departments.

Up to the present time the strawberries, both tame and wild, have yielded well both in quality and quantity. There has been a remarkably small percentage of wastage. The fruit has been large and luscious, and there have been only a few complaints of rain soakage. Judging from the quantity of blossoms, there will be a good crop of raspberries, which is a gratifying sign.

Many farmers have already cut one crop of hay, and are looking forward to the possibility of a good second crop. The grain is now showing signs of yielding well at harvest time.

Livestock Good

As with the products of the soil, so with the livestock. While there have been, and always will be, some failure and disappointment, on the whole there are but few complaints, and the animals and poultry are in a very healthy condition, and there is every prospect, now that the time of danger has passed with respect to the young animals and birds, that there will be healthy animals and poultry to supply the various markets next winter.

This is a matter of great satisfaction, not only to the farmer himself, but to all of those who depend on the products of the farm, as, of course, we all do; and we should all be thankful for this, which assures us that we need have no worry for some months to come, as to the necessities of life.

FARMER IS BURNED OUT

Home and All Outbuildings of Wesley Davidson Are Destroyed.

HEAVY LOSS.

HAVELOCK, July 12.—The house and all the outbuildings on the farm of Wesley Davidson, about five miles east of Havelock, on the Marmora Road, were completely destroyed by fire about 2.45 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. The fire, the cause of which is unknown, started in the upstairs of the house, and was first noticed by one of the neighbors. Part of the furniture was saved and all of the stock was rescued. The loss, which is large, is partially covered by insurance.

Will Hold Inquest Boomer Farm Tragedy

EDMONTON, Alta., July 12 (Canadian Press).—Beyond stating that the inquest had been definitely set for Tuesday, July 17, Inspector Hancock of the Alberta Provincial Police, when interviewed yesterday, gave out no further information on the progress of the police investigation into the four murders on the Boomer farm at Mannville on Monday evening. Coroner Dr. Heaslip, of Mannville, will conduct the inquest.

Questioned as to whether or not there had been a .303 rifle on the Boomer farm previous to the shootings, Inspector Hancock replied that at present he could not divulge any information which had been gathered on this angle of the case.

ORANGE LODGE ATTEND SERVICE

AT LAKEFIELD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 12.—On Sunday evening about sixty members of Beresford Lodge No. 112, L. O. L., and about twenty members of the Juvenile Lodge marched to church at St. John's, headed by the Citizens' Band. The procession was an imposing one as the adults were nearly all attired in the conventional black clothes, silk hats and badges, many wearing the sashes of the Black Knights. The boys wore white, with sashes of blue with orange rosettes and white caps with black peaks. Each boy wore a black ribbon as a token of their late comrade, Thomas Chappell. There was a record attendance despite the fact that the day was unusually oppressive and marching in warm clothing and 'caster hats' is not a cooling performance, especially when the march means at least three-quarters of a mile.

Meeting at the lodge room the procession proceeded down Caroline street to Bridge, along Bridge street and up Queen street to the church, which was filled almost to capacity.

Rev. W. J. Creighton delivered a very earnest sermon, dealing not with the controversial side of the Order but with the events which led up to its formation, dating back to the earliest times when the western branch of the church at Rome was virtually an outpost from which missionaries were sent to Western Europe and Britain. This naturally led to the gradual assumption that the Bishop of Rome took precedence over the other bishops of the western branch of the church. This position held until the reign of Henry VIII when the relations were broken, but in the reign of Mary the precedence of the Bishop of Rome was publicly acknowledged for the first time in Britain. It had been tacitly acknowledged before but never in an official way. Mary's reign was noted for its persecutions, but Mary had some excuse for her bitterness. She had seen mother's marriage set aside and her own childhood and girlhood had been rendered intolerable by her religious opponents and she turned naturally to her mother's native Spain.

In Elizabeth's reign Mary's edicts were set aside and the new regime continued until the regicide which ended the civil war and drove the royal family to exile in France. During the commonwealth, the church was persecuted by the extremists of the Puritans and the conditions were frightful. When Charles II returned triumphant the old order was restored and while the church regained in a measure its old status Charles, unlike his father, was utterly devoid of religion and things went on in an easy going manner. His brother, James II, whose young manhood was spent at the court of France, was an out and out Romanist and while he did not crush out the church he strove to secure religious liberty for the Romanists in England. In this he was ahead of his time and his well meant efforts cost him his throne and his daughter Mary and her consort William of Orange were asked to become sovereigns of England. Ireland was the stronghold of those who supported King James and there the decisive battle was fought at the Boyne in 1690, which event is yearly celebrated as the great day of the Orange Order.

Trans-Pacific Fliers Presented With Purse

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 12 (Canadian Press)—Harry Lyon and James Warner, the two young Americans who winged their way into aviation history by their participation in the flight of the monoplane Southern Cross from Oakland, California, to Australia, returned to their home shores yesterday, to receive the tumultuous acclaim of thousands of their fellow countrymen. A purse of more than $10,000 raised by The San Francisco Examiner was given to Lyon and Warner.

AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Mount Pleasant, July 12.—(Examiner Correspondence). — St. John's Church held their annual strawberry festival on Monday evening, July 9th at the Parish Hall, Ida, with a large crowd in attendance considering the threatening showers and events on the same evening.

Covers were laid on tables in the basement of the hall which looked very pretty with their decorations and pretty bouquets, not saying anything of the good things to eat provided by the ladies.

An excellent play entitled "When a Feller Needs a Friend" was the entertainment put on by the Blackstock Dramatic Club with the following cast of characters:

Tom Denker, an artist — Jack Smith; Bob. Mills, a magazine writer—Marshall Malcolm; Mrs. Roese, the land lady—Mrs. Arthur Bailey; Geny Smith, just returned from over there—Fred Hamilton; Liz., Mrs. Reese's step-daughter —Miss Florrie Parr; Bing Dickson, Liz's steady — Cecil Hamilton; William Denker, Tom's Uncle—Mr. Henry Thompson; Alice King, Tom's aunt, Mrs. Tom Smith; Aileen Lynne—Alice King's ward—Miss Annie Hamilton; Angela Scott—Bob's fiancee—Miss Howard Bailey. Everyone in the play taking his or her part without a hesitancy, delighted the audience with their wit from the beginning to the last of the performance. Mrs. L. H. Winslow kindly supplied music in the [illegible] and between acts.

LARGE CROWDS IN ATTENDANCE AT ANNUAL CHURCH FESTIVALS

MUSICAL PROGRAMS

"When a Feller Needs a Friend," Staged by Blackstock Dramatic Club.

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—Successful anniversary services were held in the United Church at Mount Pleasant on Sunday, July 8. Considering the extreme heat of the day there were large congregations at both morning and evenings services.

The church was very beautiful with its profusion of flowers.

The services were conducted at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. by the Rev. Mr. Elliott, of Port Reny, who delivered inspiring sermons at both services.

Special music was given by the choir; at the morning service an anthem, "My Presence Shall Go With Three," with the solo part taken by Eric McLean, was sung; also singing "Bless the Lord."

At the evening service the choir sang "Come Thou Font of Every Blessing," with the solo part taken by Helen McLean and Greta Boyd.

Miss Mary Lowe sang "Lead Kindly Light."

FLOWER SERVICE IS HELD AT IDA

Children Take Part in Music And Presenting Flowers.

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Sunday evening, July 8, St. John's Church, Ida, presented a beautiful appearance for its annual flower service. Large baskets of white and pink peonies with ferns between, adorned the altar.

The Sunday School assembled and marched into the church, singing a hymn and presented their contributions of flowers at the altar.

The service was conducted by Canon Allen, assisted by the Rev. M. Delong and the special music of the evening was given by the children, assisted by the choir.

Lieut. Desmond Burke Wins Bronze Medal

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., July 12 (Canadian Press Cable).—Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, who won the King's Prize in 1924, led 953 Empire marksmen in the first stage of the great shoot yesterday afternoon, winning the bronze medal by scoring 102 out of a possible 105. His score was remarkable in view of the reduction in size of the bull's eye this year.

Lieut. Burke won the same bronze medal in 1924. His score yesterday is two better than last year, when he continued to reach second place in the final and lose the great award by only one point.

STORM DAMAGE IS LIGHT AT WARSAW

Several Telephone Wires Put Out of Order—Trees Blown Down.

WARSAW, July 12 (Examiner Correspondence). — Sunday's storm, while it did no serious damage at any one place, did put several of the telephone lines out of order, tangled several fields of hay, and blew down some trees.

Crops Good

Alfalfa and sweet clover are good crops, and are being made into hay as rapidly as possible, though the frequent showers make this difficult.

Timothy is generally short, and about ready to cut; some is cut already.

Corn, roots and potatoes have a great start, and the buckwheat sown last week has an equal choice.

Personals

Miss Tedford, daughter of Mr. W. Tedford of Lakefield, is visiting cousins near Warsaw.

Mrs. Stark, with her daughter and younger son, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. David Payne.

Mr. W. Aitken has returned to New York.

Mr. Hector Munro is spending a few vacation days at home.

Miss Marion Pogue, who has been with her aunt, Mrs. Charles Foster, for some time, has returned home.

Would Guard Junkers Plane Bremen Against Souvenir Hunting Tourists

MONTREAL, Que., July 12 (Canadian Press).—Le Patrie, local French language newspaper, yesterday carried a despatch from Quebec City stating that Mechanic Thibauld of the Canadian Transcontinental Airways, had asked the Attorney-General's Department of the Quebec Province to furnish a guard for the trans-Atlantic Junker's plane, Bremen at Greenely Island.

Mechanic Thibauld was left in charge of the plane when a decision was reached by the Irish-German crew of the Bremen to abandon the plane at Greenely, where a forced landing was made after the flight from Baldonnel, Ireland. It was stated that Baron von Huenefeld, owner of the plane, and a member of the crew would send a ship for it some time this summer.

The despatch to Le Patrie states that Thibauld's request was made for protection against residents of the district about Greenely who have been raiding the plane in search for souvenirs. The despatch stated that Thibauld had been threatened with violence following his attempts to keep the plane intact.

STRAWBERRY SOCIAL AT TRENT RIVER

Interesting Program—Ten-Cent Tea Held on Following Afternoon.

TRENT RIVER, July 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—The strawberry social held at the United Church, Monday night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid was successful, notwithstanding the heavy downpour of rain. The Rev. V. McNeely, Rev. Mr. Joblin, and Rev. Mr. Archer were present and gave interesting short addresses. The strawberry festival was held in the dining hall and there was abundance of all things good to eat and more than enough, for the ladies served a ten cent tea from two to four on Tuesday afternoon. The door receipts amounted to about fifty dollars.

Personals

Meat Thieves Are Given Prison Terms

GUELPH, Ont., July 12 (Canadian Press).—Harry McIntosh of Hamilton, with a record of ten years of crime and punishment behind him, was sentenced to three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Magistrate Watt yesterday for stealing four dressed hog carcasses from the abattoir of the Ontario Reformatory on the morning of July 4. His accomplice, Roy King of Ottawa, a deserter from the Canadian Air Force at Camp Borden, received a term of twelve months in the Ontario Reformatory here, and Clarence Horne, Toronto, the driver of the truck in which the stolen meat was conveyed to St. Lawrence Market, after the robbery, was acquitted.

ECONOMIC SITUATION.

PARIS, July 12.—It was frankly admitted in both business and official circles to-day that the resignation of Count Guiseppe Volpi as the Italian Minister of Finance, was but outward confirmation of a serious economic and financial situation in Italy which the Fascist Government had long made strenuous efforts to conceal.

Two hundred years ago, New York City had less than 6,000 persons. One-half of them were negroes.

W. I. MEET AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Society Entertained By Mrs. Garnet Shield at Regular Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 12. — Members of the Mount Pleasant branch of the Women's Institute were entertained by Mrs. Garnet Shield at her home on Wednesday afternoon, July 4th, with an attendance of sixteen members and ten visitors.

The president, Mrs. Thomas Graham, was in the chair, and conducted the meeting. Nine members answered the roll call subject, which was "My Pet Proverb."

During the business part of the meeting a number of quilt blocks were given by members for a quilt to be made in the near future.

Regarding subjects for the program of the meetings for the year Mrs Thomas Graham and Mrs. Garnet Shield were a committee appointed to assist the secretary in choosing a number of subjects to be sent the district secretary. A discussion on repairing the hall followed. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Best and Mr. and Mrs. New Morden were appointed a committee to investigate the condition of the hall and need for repair.

After the business session a splendid program was given under the arrangement of the program committee. Mrs. John Handley and Mrs. Richard Graham assisted by a committee from the losing side of the roll call rally contest.

The president acting as chairman for the program in her opening remarks extended a cordial welcome on behalf of her fellow members to Mrs. J. R. Eakins, district secretary treasurer, Millbrook, who was present also, to Miss Pearl Burnham of Millbrook, who accompanied her. Mrs. Eakins expressed her pleasure at being present and in speaking to the members gave several helpful hints to the branch. She also distributed different copies of literature available from the department for the asking. In conclusion she read a short poem: "A Smile."

Musical Program.

Miss Burnham also expressed her pleasure in attending the meeting.

Mrs. T. A. Skitch of Bailleboro, the district president, was also expected, but was unable to be present.

The program consisted of the following numbers:

Piano dust, "Little Diamond," by Dorothy Morden and Annie Graham.

An excellent paper given by Mrs. Hiriam Best, entitled "Canadian Women of Note," as follows:

"It is my opinion that we know far too little about the great women of the present and a great deal less about those who in past years helped in no small measure to build up the beautiful Canada of to-day. It would require many volumes to tell of all our heroines. Even then a large number of them would be omitted, for far too often the world is ignorant of the sacrifices and defeats met by many a brave Canadian woman in striving for some great end.

One of our most historical heroines whose name will continue to fire our Canadian girls with ambition and hopes, was Laura Secord. She with James Secord, her husband, lived at Queenston on the Niagara river. Often Americans stopped at her home for rest and food. A Canadian camp at Beaver Dams, where all the stores were kept, was in charge of Lieutenant Fitzgibbon. One night Laura Secord heard the Americans planning to take Beaver Dams, and secure the stores. There was no road between the places but rather a densely wooded tract covered the area between Queenston and Beaver Dams. Not to be daunted by the fact that this forest abounded with wild animals, Laura Secord started for Fitzgibbon's camp. There had been recent heavy rains and in many places the water was very deep. However she pushed on and arrived in time to warn Fitzgibbon. When the enemy appeared thinking to take the Canadians by surprise, they found that they were expected. About five hundred American prisoners were taken.

Laura Secord also saved her husband's life at the battle of Queenston Heights at great peril to her own.

"This monument has been erected by the Government of Canada to Laura Ingersoll Secord, who saved her husband's life in the battle on these heights, October 13th, 1812, and who risked her own life in conveying to Captain Fitzgibbon, information by which he won the battle of Beaver Dams, July 24th, 1813."

Although Laura Secord is dead her memory lives on. Greater by far than the monument at Niagara Falls is the gratitude and memory in the hearts of Canadians, which inspires them to greater things.

Then, again, an ideal heroine is found in Mademoiselle Alphonse, of Three Rivers, who accompanied her brother, Father Alphonse in his Christian ministration to the Sioux Indians of the region north of Lake Superior. As she died unflinchingly at the hands of the Indians, a martyr to her faith, she prayed that more missionaries might come to show this heathen people the way to God. Her prayer was answered and the Sioux tribe was one of the first to be converted. Was not this woman worthy of a place in our memory?

British colonies are many and widespread. There are many in the colonies who would perhaps never have realized the greatness of the empire. In order that one and all might understand the things signified by the Union Jack, and that they might know of the work of the Empire, Mrs. Clementina Fessenden started a movement whose object was to have a yearly celebration called Empire Day. In May, 1898, her aim was accomplished and now it is due to her that Canada gets the credit of originating "Empire Day."

Many have done noble things and although their names do not appear in our historical records, as Hanford said:

"No nobler monument can hero wish to have than love and gratitude enthroned in the hearts of fellowmen."

"Making Life Count."

Another very inspiring paper was given by Mrs. Shield entitled "Making Life Count," as follows:

"Life is what we make it; then how important it is to make our lives count—to make the most out of life. Life is real, life is earnest, and the grave is not its goal, so while here on earth we should try our best to make our life count, for what are we going to do with the years God has given us? Are we going to seek for some method of passing our time until we die, or are we going to make life worth while? The problem isn't how to fill up our days, but how to get in all we want to put in, as we meet and touch each day, the many travellers on our way.

Let us follow the Saviour's plan, live unstinted to every man. What is the secret of power and influence of a life that counts, for to each man is given a day, and his work for the day, a work which only his hands can do, and once, and no more he is given to travel this way; so can we say like Edgar Guest, 'I want to live with myself, and so, I want to be fit for myself to know. I don't want to stand with the setting sun, and hate myself for the things I have done; whatever happens I want to be self-respecting and conscience free.'

As we pass along day by day we should try to get the best out of life and we get the most out of life when we use it for service. The greatest thing in our lives is not what material things we possess but what we are.

Far better than grandeur or gold, or rank or title a hundred fold, is a mind at ease, a heart that can feel for a neighbor's woes, or share in his joy with a friendly glow, with sympathy large enough to enfold all men as brothers, is better than gold. So the secret of the worth while life is not in terms of money.

Susanna Wesley with a family of fifteen children and very poor, but whose life was so full of strength and song that through her sons the message of Christianity will touch the hearts of men and women for all time.

Lady Sommerset, Mrs. Bramwell Booth, whose lives so counted for others, and the great leader of the Salvation Army, General Booth's last message to the world, "Others."

Helen Kellar, blind, deaf and dumb, a life so brave, so loyal, so worth while, and there are many others we might mention. We may not do the noted things, for it's not the lot of many to merit a nation's praise, but we can do all our duties the best we know how to do. We can comfort those in sorrow, can tell of a Father's love. We can give a cup of water in the name of one above. We can speak a word of kindness, in a sympathetic tone to those who walk alone, so by thinking of others, making others happy it so enriches our own lives and the lives of others.

The noblest life is rounded out by deeds that make the common day, the little round of anxious care.

Lord, make me strong enough to bear, grant me kindliness of speech, let me be patient, gentle, wise, too big to hate, too wise to sneer, missing the joy that greatness brings, and though not far my circle swings. Le me be great in little things. So we have a work to do, to love some one more dearly every day, to help a wandering child to find its way, to ponder o'er a noble thought, and pray and smile when evening falls.

This is my task; life's work seems often dark with care, but there never was so dark a night but dawn came to disperse it; so don't let our minds be worried with every trial and care. But sing a song of gladness, spilling sunshine everywhere. Don't let your heart be covetous for gold or things of earth, but rather seek that crown above that is of greater worth, and when we come to the end of the furrow when our last day's work is done, we will drink of the long red shaft of light that slants from the western sun.

Rest to the hearts that roam, when we join in the mystic silence, the glad procession home. Yes, life is sweet, but life cannot last forever, so let us live our life from year to year, wtih forward face and unreluctant soul, not hurrying to nor turning from the goal, not mourning for the things that disappear in the dim past nor holding back in fear, from what the future veils, but with a whole and happy heart that pays its toll to youth and age, and travels on with cheer.

Mrs. Aikens read a paper entitled "Helping to make life better by being cheerful," which was very appropriate after Mrs. Shield's paper.

A reading by Mrs. Brown, "Heart's Ease," concluded the program, after which supper was served on the lawn by the hostess assisted by the ladies on the losing side of the roll call rally contest, who put on a treat consisting of raisin bread and butter, strawberries and cream, pie and cake, marshmallows and a cup of tea.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Thomas Graham and Mrs. Henry Lowes to the ladies who provided the treat, with the usual applause.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the hostess for her hospitality in entertaining the guests.

Those who were present included Mrs. Henry Lowes, Miss Lena Finley, Mrs. A. E. Best, Mrs. Joshua Eggleston, Mrs. J. Handley, Mrs. Hannah Rutherford, Mrs. Melville Jones, Mrs. Thomas Graham, Mrs. Josiah Best, Mrs. Hiriam Best, Mrs. A. Brown, Mrs. George Jamieson, Mrs. Gertrude McLean, Mrs. T. C. Morden, Mrs. Jennie Best, Mrs. Rosemburgh, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Miss Pearl Burnham, Mrs. Ira Iowe, Mrs. G. Shield, and the Misses Dorothy Morden, Helen McLean, Annie Graham, Grace Best, Ella Best and Juan Shield.

ANOTHER CHECK-UP NEEDED.

The police check-up of speeders and other violators of traffic regulations several weeks ago had good results, inasmuch as offenders generally decided that it might be more profitable to stay within the law.

There are signs, however, that the reform was only temporary.

Fast driving is again in evidence on many streets, and occasionally there is an exhibition of real speeding by drivers who seem to have the crazy notion that 40 or 45 miles an hour on a leading thoroughfare is a safe rate of speed.

That kind of thing—and it is not by any means uncommon—cannot be tolerated—it is too dangerous, and those who are guilty should be dealt with in the only way that seems to make any impression upon them.

Another check-up by the police would seem to be in order to put a stop to this wild driving on residential streets.

FORMER LOCAL BOY AT HEAD.

A great deal of the credit for the assembling and training of the track and field athletes who will represent Canada at the Olympic Games and for the enthusiasm that has been aroused in this country over the international contests must be given to an old Peterborough boy, M. M. Robinson, of the Hamilton Spectator, a sporting authority, whose early days were passed in this city.

Mr. Robinson has always taken a keen interest in many forms of sport, and has served his adopted city of Hamilton admirably in that respect, while his work in connection with the Olympic team earns him general thanks.

He is accompanying them to Europe as manager of the track and field team, and thus Peterborough can claim some connection with Canada's Olympic delegation.

Mr. Robinson's ability to hustle and make others hustle will stand him in good stead in his important position, and if driving power and energy count for anything, Canada's athletes will be out to the last ounce to win glory for their country in world competition.

CAMP SKOOKUM.

Up at Camp Skookum, the Rotary Club's splendidly situated camp at Clear Lake, fifty boys are this week having the time of their lives under the supervision of Rotarian Doug. Loomis, a genius in keeping boys active and entertained.

Already some of the youngsters have written home asking that they be allowed to remain in camp longer, a condition that is indicative of the enjoyment that is being obtained by the half-hundred boys that make up the population of Skookum at the present time.

Peterborough is fortunate indeed that such facilities are available at nominal expense, and Rotary's camp should be crowded to capacity all summer, if parents rise to the chance that is offered them of providing their boys with an ideal outing under careful supervision and at a trifling cost.

There are boys' camps in Ontario where many times the fee charged at Camp Skookum is demanded, and few that The Examiner has heard of where so much is offered at such a low rate as at Rotary's camp.

Plenty of opportunities to enroll still remain, but parents must not delay too long in making enquiries of any member of the Rotary Club as to the camp.

PLAY SAFE IN AND ON THE WATER.

Drowning accidents are reported from many parts of the Province as people flock to the lake resorts and hot weather causes a rush of bathers to every available swimming hole.

The greater number of tragedies are due to carelessness, swimming in unsafe areas, taking chances in boats, going in the water too soon after eating, and similar dangerous practices.

In this connection the annual list of twelve suggestions made by the Ontario Safety League should be read with close attention; there is nothing particularly new in them, but they are worthy of repetition:

1. Learn the prone pressure method of resuscitation.
2. Bathe in protected areas only.
3. If you have heart trouble, do not go in swimming.
4. Wait two hours after eating before going into the water.
5. When diving be sure the water is deep enough to ensure safety.
6. Do not bathe or swim alone. It is safest to have companions with you in case of accident.

Re canoes:

1. Unless you can swim, unless you can keep a cool head, stay out of a canoe.
2. After starting, do not change seats and do not stand up, in either canoe or rowboat.
3. If you have a passenger who wants to "rock the boat," put him ashore.
4. You take a "fool's chance" if you ride the waves of a steamboat. The chance-taker is the accident-maker.
5. If upset, lay your hands on the canoe or a paddle; either will keep you afloat until help arrives.
6. Do not attempt to use a canoe or rowboat in rough water.

"INDEPENDENCE."

(An Editorial for Young People)

This week has seen two great national celebrations on this Continent—Canada has had its Dominion Day, commemorating the foundation of Confederation sixty-one years ago and the United States its Independence Day. On July 4, 1776, "the thirteen United States of America" proclaimed to the world their freedom and independence, renouncing allegiance to the British crown. There is not much connection between the two national holidays, it may be thought. One rejoices in an act of severance and the other in an act of unification; one glories in desertion from the British Empire and the other gratefully acknowledges the preservation of imperial ties. Yet, in spite of all the talk of independence, the United States is finding that there is no such thing as living to oneself—either for the individual or the nation. In the first place, it was necessary to secure the combination of the thirteen American States before any thought of setting up national independence was possible. In Canada there was the union of the Provinces. And to-day, when, owing to historic circumstances, the United States has waxed very rich and powerful the need for international co-operation is more apparent than ever. The New York Times says: "It is not only scholars and statesmen who are warning Americans not to forget that they cannot live in proud aloofness. The same lesson is enforced by great industrialists, by bankers and manufacturers, economists and merchants."

There is a lesson for each of us, and especially the young, in this. Independence is in the air in these days—the grateful obedience due to parents and to those to whom obligations are owing is not always cheerfully given, nor even acknowledged; it is considered "the thing" to stand on one's own feet and to be much a law unto oneself. But it will not do. We find that we are all of us very much dependent upon one another. Nothing of any great importance is accomplished by individual effort; it is co-operation which gets things done, and loyalty is the essence of co-operation. "Give and it shall be given unto you." Withhold, and it shall be withheld. That is the law of life. So, in planning our lives, let us think not so much about our independence; but remember our obligations to our neighbors. It is not independence, but interdependence which is the most impressive fact in these days—interdependence of nation and nation and person and person. It is all right for the young to be self-reliant, but that does not mean that they should ignore their obligations to others.—Hamilton Spectator.

GLORIFING A GANGSTER.

The glorification of the dead racketeer, or gangster, is something that should be eliminated in the interest of public morals. Gorgeous funerals invariably mark the passing of leaders in gangland, and these are the more elaborate if the dead have been shot down by gunmen from a rival gang. These funerals are nothing but vulgar displays staged by men of loud and expensive tastes, and who, through violating the laws of the country, have the wherewithal to gratify these tastes. They wear the most flashy clothes that money can procure, and when one of their number is killed, they give him a send-off that staggers the sane, sober and law-abiding. Their ill-gotten gains come easily, and they go easily either in life or in death.

The gangster is inordinately fond of the limelight, especially wherever he can safely bask in its effulgent rays. A funeral of one of their fellows provides an opportunity to do this, and it is exploited for all it is worth. Silver caskets, huge quantities of costly flowers, a big display of autos, and thousands of "mourners" are invariably assembled with the passing of the gangster. These burials are not funerals in the proper sense of the word. They are circuses, with parades instead of corteges.

The funeral, the other day, in Brooklyn, of Frankie Uale is a case in point. This man, who was killed by rival gangsters, was laid to rest in a $15,000 casket of silver. Thirty-eight autos were required to carry the flowers, and 104 more the relatives and friends. The funeral was attended by 5,000 persons, many of these belonging to the underworld.

Few of these, we imagine, were drawn by real grief or by a sincere desire to pay a tribute of respect to the departed. The stage-managers of the big show had no knowledge of the finer feelings. They had no respect for the wishes of the relatives and promptly overruled their protest against the placing of the glistening casket on an open funeral car. If they had been actuated by real grief, they would have promptly acceded to the request of the relatives. They were determined to make the funeral display as sensational as money and loud tastes could make it.

Such funerals are an offense to public decency. If that were all, they might be tolerated, repelling as they may be. But they are something more. They are a menace to public morals. Such a mustering of the underworld as they call forth is a defy to law and order. They are calculated to impress upon the politicians and the law authorities that the gangsters, strong in numbers and in money, must not be interfered with. Such funerals are a call to arms to the friends of the dead man to avenge his death. They rally men to fresh deeds of death and destruction.

That is bad enough. But the glorification of the gangster has a worse effect than this, and that is the influence they undoubtedly have on the formative minds of the young. The glamor that is thrown over the gangster in death unquestionably influences many young men to emulate him in the disrespect which he showed in his life to the law and to other men's lives and property.

Because they are an insult to public decency, a menace to the community, and a vicious influence on the young, we think something should be done to stop the glorifying of the departed gangster and of his ignoble life by funerals which are nothing but tawdry pageantry.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The fact that Strangler Lewis retains the world's wrestling championship, strangely enough, does not give us the slightest thrill.

The 238th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, as celebrated here to-day shows little sign of a diminution of enthusiasm on the part of Orangemen. The old-time crowds are in Peterborough for the occasion.

The automobile death list for last year was even worse than was thought. No wonder safety campaigns are being vigorously pushed.

Fishing in Peterborough waters is better than some years, according to reports reaching The Examiner. That should help to bring in a record crop of tourists.

Let us hope the Canadian Bisley team will catch the infection from Joe Wright and bring the King's prize back to this country.

FROM THE CRESCENTS.

Sporting Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: Your baseball comment in Tuesday's Examiner criticizing one of the East Peterborough League teams for its alleged refusal to release a player to the C.O.B.L. team, was apparently directed at the Crescents. As manager of the Crescents and a vice-president of the East Peterborough League, I wish to say that the manager of the senior club nor any other official of the club took the trouble to make any request involving a player's release, to me.

When the manager of the senior team approaches players of my club, or any other club in our league, without first consulting the club manager, he should be criticized for his lack of courtesy, to say nothing of his methods of securing players for the senior team.

Furthermore, as the League standing indicates, the Crescents are by no means out of the running for either first or second place.

Yours truly,
A. Brioux,
Mgr. Crescents B. B. C.

The Question Box

(Address Inquiries to "The Question Box.")

M.S. Q.—What is the translation of "Salus populi suprema lex est" whic I saw on a coat of arms?

A.—"The welfare of the people is the supreme law"—you probably saw it on the Seal of Missouri.

A.T. Q.—A few days ago you gave the sizes of the world's biggest cathedrals. Isn't Notre Dame, Paris, one of the biggest?

A.—Yes, but not in the class to which I was referring in that answer. Notre Dame measures 416 feet by 153 feet and is 298 feet high. St. Peter's, Rome, is 613 x 450 x 438, and St. Paul's, London, 500 x 248 x 404.

S.H.M. Q.—How many Indians are there in Canada?

A.—Canada's Indian population is nearly 105,000 on 2078 Indian reserves scattered throughout the Dominion. The Indian population is showing a slight increase year by year. There are 344 schools for Indians on the reserves with an enrolment of 15,000 pupils. Indians have 225,000 acres of land under cultivation and the Indian Trust Fund stands at $13,500,000. The Indian Reserve lands are estimated to be worth $56,000,000.

GOD'S MINUTE

I thank God, Whom I serve.—II Tim. 1:3.

O God, Whose paternal goodness is unfailingly tender and constant, we unite as a family to yield Thee glad and earnest praise and to invoke upon our home and all its interests Thy gracious and heavenly blessing. Cause us so to realize our utter dependence upon Thee and our profound obligation toward Thee, that we may submit ourselves anew to Thy sovereign sway, live our lives henceforth as in Thine all-searching sight, and consistently show ourselves Thine. We bring to Thee at this time all who are in any wise related to our home, and any who may be attempting to live their lives apart from Thee. Suffer none of us to be enticed from the path of simplicity, purity, or honor. Keep us from every form of secularity and avarice, defend us from the seductive snares of vanity and pride, and enable us to serve Thee with such undivided fidelity in this life that in the life to come we may all receive Thine exceeding great reward. And with this prayer for ourselves, we beseech of Thee in behalf of those without—our neighbors, our friends, and all classes and conditions of men—that it may favor, to further them in all their undertakings and relationships, and to bring them with us at length into Thine Heavenly household, where we may praise Thee ever, world without end. Amen.

John Balcom Shaw, D.D.,
Elmira, New York.

DUTY OF HAPPINESS.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 12 (Canadian Press). — There was some demand from exporters for grain here yesterday, and sales of No. 2 Canadian Western oats were made at 3½c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 2 feed oats at 3½c over, c.i.f. Montreal. The market was weaker for spot oats and prices were reduced 1c to 2c per bushel.

Owing to the weakness that prevailed in the cash wheat situation at Winnipeg a weaker feeling developed in the local market for spring wheat grades of flour and millers generally reduced their prices 10c per barrel. There was some demand from foreign buyers and millers in some cases worked a moderate amount of business, but there was no improvement in the domestic trade. In winter wheat flour the feeling was firm on account of the continued small offerings and prices were unchanged.

There was no change in the condition of the market for millfeed, business generally being quiet. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was slow and prices were unchanged.

There was no change in the egg market, the undertone being firm, with a moderate amount of business passing in a jobbing way. The trade in a wholesale way was rather quiet, with sales of broken lots of Ontario extras at 36½c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points. The receipts were 1,457 cases.

The trade in old crop potatoes showed no improvement, the demand at present being of a very limited character owing to the liberal supplies of new crop American potatoes coming forward. The tone of the market was steady. American new crop potatoes were in good demand at $3.10 per barrel for No. 1 grade, ex-track.

A steady feeling prevailed in the market for imported beans, but the volume of business showed no improvement, the demand being chiefly for small lots of choice hand-picked grades at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store, with car lots to arrive quoted at $4.10 per bushel, ex-track.

There was no important change in the butter situation, but the undertone was firm. There was no improvement in the demand and only a moderate amount of business was done. The receipts were 3 packages.

A feature of the cheese trade was the continued steady demand from English importers for supplies, and sales of fair sized lots were made. The trading between houses on spot was quieter, but the tone of the market was firm. The receipts were 5,157 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 12. — (Canadian ress).—Lowest prices yet this season for September and December wheat resulted largely yesterday from bearish aspects of the United States crop report. On the other hand official figures on corn failed apparently to convince the trade that the corn crop outlook is so bullish as the Washington report would indicate.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 2½c to 3c net lower; corn ½ to 2¼c up; oats, unchanged to ¾c, advance and provisions at a rise of 2 to 30 cents.

Not only did wheat prices fall yesterday to new low levels for the season, but December rye and oats duplicated the performance. In addition to the fact that the government report indicated that the 1928 domestic production of wheat would be somewhat larger than has in general been looked for, advices were current that existing conditions appeared to be against development of black rust. Besides the Canadian government crop report on wheat was construed as bearish.

Increase of pressure from hedge selling in connection with the wheat harvest southwest counted as a further weight on the markets, and led to general liquidation on the part of holders of future deliveries. Meanwhile there was notable absence of support for the buying side of the market. Intimations that Russia is to purchase again on a large scale were of but little immediate help and the finish here was at only a small upturn from the day's bottom prices.

Corn prices failed to hold well to the day's advances which resulted from the government estimate that the 1928 corn production now would be greatly less than the majority of traders expected. Uncertainty was expressed because a different par per acre was issued this year than that which the government took as a basis a year ago. Favorable weather in the corn belt yesterday tended also to offset the bullish influence of the government report. Oats followed corn.

Scarcity of offerings gave firmness to provisions the ribs market in particular.

QUEEN MARIE IS COMING TO CANADA

She Will Spend Three Months in Canada and United States.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 12.—(Canadian Press).—It was understood to-day that in response to invitations Queen Marie proposes to visit Canada and the United States toward the end of the year. She will be accompanied by Princess Ilena, who was with her when she visited America in 1926. The trip is expected to last three months.

CONTRACTORS USE $7,000 WATER PIPE

Chemong Road Concrete Laying Requires Plentiful Supply of Water.

The contractors who are doing the work on the Chemong Road have installed a forty horse-power gasoline equipment at the intersection of Reid Street and Stewart Street, and intend to obtain a supply of water from the city mains. For several days the engine has been undergoing a test, preparatory to the serious work which it will have to undergo next week, when concrete laying will begin. A two-inch pipe has been laid for about four miles, with a rise in addition of 240 feet, but the engine seems capable of sending a heavy stream that distance. The pressure at the engine is 450 pounds, which is reduced to 100 pounds at the place of work. The water is being metered at the city mains.

The pipe line alone is said to have cost $7,000, but a plentiful supply of water could not be otherwise obtained.

CREDIT MEN HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

HALIFAX, N.S., July 12 (Canadian Press).—The question of protective legislation for Canada's business community and the many problems remaining to be cleared up, were dealt with comprehensively in the report of the legislation and bankruptcy committee, presented to the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association in annual convention to-day by W. R. Bottom of Edmonton, chairman.

"We have progressed a little, not always as much as we would like to have done, but we are still going forward," the chairman said. "We hope that out of our deliberations here today solutions may be found to some of the problems we presented to you."

It is noted that an act respecting co-operative associations passed in Saskatchewan last year carries forward existing associations and provides for the incorporation of new ones on a wider basis. As those associations registered under the Provincial Act are not permitted to buy and sell on credit, however, representations were made suggesting that these restrictions be removed. After careful consideration the Saskatchewan Government declined to make the proposed amendments.

Representations were again made to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa to have legislation enacted that would act as a deterrent upon those persons who make a practice of issuing cheques where there are no funds, it was said. These were without result. "We believe that the practice is growing and will continue until some change is made in our present law," the report said.

Some effort had also been made to induce the governments concerned to make amendments to the acts whereby the exemption at present allowed on Western estates should be reduced from $3,000 to $1,500. The recommendation was rejected. The committee was of the opinion that the prairie provinces should unite on the question. Recommendations concerning income tax regulations were also turned down. These included suggestions that the levy be on the average income over a period of three years, that exemptions be allowed for federal income tax in full and life insurance premiums up to $500; that the tax be collected under one set of officials instead of Dominion and Provincial staffs.

No progress had been made with the suggestion that reciprocal legislation with other Dominions, whereby judgments enacted in Canada would be enforceable in other parts of the empire, and vice versa, should be passed. As far as the provinces were concerned, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and New Brunswick were the only provinces that so far have enacted this form of legislation.

Various other recommendations were reported on, including uniformity of bill of sales acts and amendments to the bankruptcy act.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Bisurated Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Acid Indigestion.

Gas in the stomach accompanied by a full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful or four tablets in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never in liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take, and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

TWELFTH JULY MAKES BUSTLE

THOUSANDS HERE

No one looking at the crowds on Peterborough streets to-day would think of an Orange celebration in which only six men, two women and a boy took part, but that is a legend here. Well on to a hundred lodges landed in the city this morning and immediately made the streets lively with the music of their bands, and brilliant with the colors of their sashes.

It would have been interesting to ascertain at what time the visitors to this Orange mecca left their beds. Certainly they were on the way long before most Peterborough people were awake. From nine o'clock on it was difficult to push a way through the throngs on George street, or drive a car on the crowded thoroughfares.

In 1924, when the celebration was last held in this city, a gramaphone on George street awoke the early morning echoes with a rendition of "Boyne Water" and other patriotic tunes. This morning the contagion spread, because The Examiner heard a machine revolving a fife-and-drum record in the west end, and even the proprietor of a Chinese cafe caught the contagion, but the nearest he could come to a number worthy of the occasion was "Colonel Bogey."

From the time when the first fife and drum band paraded down George street, the proceedings were officially under way, and impromptu parades featured the forenoon. Orangemen already in the city paraded to the stations to greet incoming brethren, and hundreds of cars disgorged their loads to add to the already jostling crowd.

The decorations strung across George street during the past two nights added greatly to the festive appearance of the city. Under them the celebrants could not help but walk with sprightly step on a day as bright as this and with music as stirring.

BYNG NAMED TO HELP OUT

Home Secretary Said Police and Public Confidence Appeared Lacking.

ASKS FAIR PLAY.

LONDON, July 12. (Canadian Press). — Lord Byng was appointed Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police to restore to the police and public the confidence which was said to be lacking "as a result of recent events."

This was revealed by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, in the course of a debate in the House of Commons yesterday raised by the Labor Party on the appointment to the post of the former Governor-General to Canada. The Home Secretary said that he and Premier Baldwin came to the conclusion that the appointment would be best for the restoration of confidence which he had been told was lacking.

The feeling that there was something wrong with the Police could not be allowed to go on, declared the Home Secretary, who then added: "I don't believe there is."

He concluded with an appeal for fair play for Lord Byng and the Police.

CROAT LEADERS MAY CALL PARLIAMENT

Rumania May Have Two Parliaments As Result of Crisis.

ZAGREB, Crotia, July 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Croatian deputies are discussing the possibility of establishing a separate parliament at Zagreb unless King Alexander agrees to dissolve the Skuptachina at Belgrade in accordance with demands of the Croat leaders.

Stefan Raditch, Croatian peasant leader, has summoned all the party leaders to Zagreb to discuss this drastic step and to redefine the Croat attitude towards the present ministerial crisis.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR LOEWENSTEIN

Impressive Ceremony Was Held This Morning in Brussels.

BRUSSELS, July 12. — (Canadian Press.)—An impressive memorial service for Captain Alfred Loewenstein was held in the Church of St. Michael and St. Gudele yesterday.

A tall catafalque, surrounded by candles had been erected in the church and the choir was draped in black.

Madame Loewenstein, her son and members of the family were present as well as many persons prominent in Belgian life.

The pith of the sunflowers is being used in Germany for making life preservers. The material is said to be four times lighter than cork.

How the Orange Order Developed

With the celebration in Peterborough to-day of "The Twelfth" by Orangemen from all over this district is recalled a long history that reaches back to the years 1680 and 1795. In those days there existed in Ireland a body of Protestant enthusiasts known as the "Peep-o'-Day Boys" and from this organization the Orange Lodge as it is known to-day, developed. The first Orange Lodge was established in Loughgoil, County of Armagh, Ireland, on September 21, 1795.

The name of the association, of course, is taken from the Prince of Orange William III, honoring him for his maintenance and defence of the Protestant faith.

William was the posthumous son of William II of Orange, and the eldest daughter of Charles I of England. In 1686 he became head of a league of German Protestant Princes whose object was to curb the power of Louis XIV of France who in turn had as an ally James II of England.

On November 5, 1688, William, Prince of Orange, landed in England at the head of an army of 15,000 composed of English and Dutch. His success was rapid and bloodless and James fled to France. On December 18th the Prince entered London in triumph and was subsequently proclaimed King with the title of William the third of England. The adherents of James held out for some time in Scotland and for two years in Ireland, but the Battle of the Boyne, fought on July 1st, 1690 between a combined English, Scotch and Dutch force commanded by William in person and an Irish army with James at its head, marked the end of the struggle. Save Derry and Enniskillen, all Ireland declared itself for James, who was defeated and routed at the Battle of the Boyne, and two days later, sailed in a frigate to Brest, to the land of his exile. The mess of an English regiment to this day retains a relic of the Boyne. The spurs won on the battlefield by Major Toby Purcell who led the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, are still preserved by the corps, and are always in possession of the senior major for the time being.

The Boyne, where the great historical Battle of the Boyne was fought, is a river rising in the Bog of Allan, and flowing through Kildare, King's county, Meath, and south to the Irish Sea.

The Orange Association.

Organized in 1795, by November, 1798, the Orange Society reached the dignity of a Grand Lodge of Ireland with a Grand Master and a Grand Secretary and a formal establishment in the metropolis, and in the following years the organization extended over the entire Province of Ulster, with ramifications in all Protestant centres in Ireland.

In 1808 the association extended to England and a Grand Lodge was founded at Manchester, from which warrants were issued for the entire Kingdom.

In 1813 the Grand Lodge of Ireland was dissolved, but its functions were discharged vicariously through the English Lodge.

In 1827 the Duke of Cumberland was elected Grand Master for England, and on the re-establishment of the Irish Grand Lodge in 1828 he was proclaimed Imperial Grand Master.

In 1829 and subsequently, lodges were organized in Wales, Scotland, Canada, the Mediterranean and in other colonies, and to-day the avowed principal of the Orange Association is the maintenance of religious freedom and individual quality

DATE RECALLS BOYNE BATTLE

WILLIAM III. WON

Orangemen by the thousands, in many parts of the Dominion, as well as in the British Isles, to-day turned out in annual parade, fittingly marking the 238th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, and in Peterborough, there has never been a more successful "walk." Of the battle of the Boyne, they are well informed.

It was in the fore part of the year 1690, that Duke Schomberg, landed in Ireland with an army for the protection of protestants of Ireland, and proceedings south from a point below Belfast, came in sight of King James' army which had taken up a position on the south bank of the Boyne river. King William III landed near Carrickfergus on June 14 and on the 30th day the the same month arrived at the Boyne, informing Schomberg that he had no intention of "Letting the the grass grow under his feet." He intended to attack on the morrow and by torchlight reviewed the troops.

On July 1 was fought the evermemorable Battle of the Boyne, at which two kings, in person, contended for the throne of England. On the south of the river Boyne lay the combined armies of Louis and James consisting of the flower of French chivalry and nearly all of the Popish bigots of England, Scotland and Ireland, headed by James Stuart in person. On the north of the river lay the troops of Duke Schomberg with the Derry regiment, raised by the Rev. George Walker and that raised in Fermanagh, then known and existing to the present day as the Enniskillen Dragoons, all commanded by William III.

In the passage of the Boyne, Duke Schomberg and the Rev. George Walker lost their lives. The troops once over, King William courted the battle and won it, five days later making his triumphal entry into Dublin. In this year, three Protestant associations were formed — one in Dublin, known as the Aldermen of Skinners' Alley; one in Derry, that of the Apprentice Boys; and one in Enniskillen known as the Boyne Society.

INQUIRY REVEALS ACCIDENT FAKING

Faked Accidents Were Costing Insurance Companies $3,000,000 a Year.

NEW YORK, July 12. (Canadian Press).—An elaborate system of faking accident claims estimated to cost insurance companies $3,000,00 a year was described at an investigation into ambulance chasing before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel.

Thirteen lawyers and five physicians were named as members of the ring that employed men and women to fake falls over man-hole covers and other sidewalk obstacles.

Belgian Countess Seeking Property

Madame Paloska, a Belgian Countess, passed through this city yesterday on her way to Catachoma, and other northern resorts, where she intends to inspect property with the idea of securing between 500 and 1000 acres for a muskrat farm. She regards the highlands of our north country as an excellent place to raise muskrats.

DESCENDANT OF SAXON KINGS

Family Tree Goes Back To Edmund Ironsides Who Died in 1016.

ONE SON LIVING.

(Special To The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 12. — William Cassan, 24 Cornish Road, well known citizen who is dead here, was a decendent of the early Saxon kings in England. He leaves one son to carry on the family tradition.

The late Mr. Cassan had in his possession a genealogical tree, bearing the imprimature of the College of Arms, dated July 9, 1836 which shows uninterruptedly the scroll of lineage of his family from Edmund Ironsides, who died in 1016, through Edward Aetheling, the last of the princes of the Saxon line and through his daughter, margaret who married Malcolm, III, King of Scots.

EULOGIZES BYNG.

London Papers Are Behind Former Canadian Governor-General.

LONDON, July 12. (Canadian Press Cable). — Viscount Byng, whose appointment as Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police has been criticized, is eulogized by The Times in its leading editorial. The Morning Post also declares its belief that the former Canadian Governor-General would not tolerate any unjustness or unfairness in whatever reorganization of forces might be carried out.

LOYAL ORANGE ORDER STANDS FOR FREEDOM

Is Not Intolerant and Does Not Tread on Rights of Any.

SAYS CONSTITUTION

Honors William III. as a Patriot And a True Christian Monarch.

"And thou shalt teach men ordinances and laws and shalt show them the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do; moreover, they shall provide out of all the people, able men such as fear God, men of truth, mating covetousness, and place such over them to be rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties and rulers of tens."—Exodus, chapter 18:20-21.

In the Loyal Orange Association's constitution and laws, one notes the above, followed by an interesting description of what the lodge stands for. It continues:

"The Loyal Orange Lodge Association is formed by persons desirous of supporting to the utmost of their power, the principles and practices of the Christian religion, to maintain the laws and constitution of the country, afford assistance to distressed members of the Association and otherwise promote such laudable and benevolent purposes as may tend to the due ordering of religion and Christian charity, and the supremacy of law, order and constitutional freedom.

"Its members associate in honor of King William III, Prince of Orange, whose name they bear and whose immortal memory they hold in reverence. They revere the memory of that immortal prince, not only as a patriot, a constitutional monarch and a hero, but as a true Christian; and hope, in the adoption of his name, to emulate his virtues by maintaining religion without prosecution encroaching upon the rights of any. The Orange Association lays no claims to exclusive loyalty or exclusive Protestantism but it admits no man within its pale whose principles are not loyal and whose creed is not Protestant.

"Disclaiming an intolerant spirit the Association demands as an indispensable qualification, without which the greatest and wealthiest may be taining religion without prosecution or be deemed incapable of persecuting or injuring anyone on account of his religious opinions; the duty of every Orangeman being to aid and defend all loyal subject of every religious persuasion in the enjoyment of their constitutional rights.

"The rules of the Association are open not only to the members of it but to the whole community; there is no reserve, except the signs and symbols whereby Orangemen know each other; and these mysteries are essential to the proper qualification of the brotherhood, the recognition of the members, and the prevention of intrusion and imposture from strangers and enemies."

CRUISER REFLOATED.

Dauntless Taken To Drydock at Halifax After Stranding.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 12. (Canadian Press).—The British cruiser Dauntless, stranded at the mouth of Halifax harbor since the afternoon of July 2, was floated at high tide yesterday. A few minutes later the Halifax Shipyards Wrecking tug Reindeer was slowly towing the cruiser toward dry dock, where a berth has been prepared.

SOCIAL HELD AT WESTWOOD

Large Crowd at Annual Festival of St. Andrew's United Church.

GOOD PROGRAM

WESTWOOD, July 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The annual strawberry festival of St. Andrew's United Church was held on Friday evening. Fine weather, added to recollections of the Westwood ladies ability in culinary art, was sufficient inducement to secure a very large crowd.

Supper was served in the former Methodist church, after which a splendid program which was given in the Town Hall with Rev. S. H. Moyer as chairman consisted of an anthem by the choir; recitations by Miss Phyllis Moore, of Peterborough, vocal solos by Miss Jean Knowles, of Keene, and Mr. Stares, of Norwood; selections by the Miller orchestra of Keene; Hawaiian duets by Mr. Fletcher and Miss Edwards of Keene; selections by the male quartette of Norwood United Church and by Mr. MacDonald, of Peterborough on the bagpipes..

Omemee

OMEMEE, July 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—The strawberry season is fast drawing to a close. Large, luscious berries have been selling from 25 cents a quart box down to 15 cents a box. Through lack of rain and the hot dry weather over the week-end the berries are getting scarce and the price has advanced to 17 cents a container. Local growers would appreciate a shower, but the haying season is on and farmers do not care to see too many showers at this time. Last week it was next to impossible to secure laborers to help harvest the hay, every available man was picked up in the village.

The annual Sunday School picnic of Trinity United Church will be held on Wednesday afternoon, July 18, to Pleasant Point.

PAY OFF LOAN.

OTTAWA, July 12.—Fifty-three million dollars of Dominion of Canada war loans, which mature in October, will be paid in cash. Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, stated yesterday that these obligations would be met out of money in the Treasury. "The Dominion Government will not be in the money market this year," said Mr. Robb.

"SALADA" TEA

Two hundred years ago a tea like "SALADA" would have cost $50.00 a pound—but such tea was then unknown—today millions enjoy the fragrance and satisfaction of "SALADA" for a small fraction of that cost.

LATE in the afternoon when the heat of the day is spent you sit on the veranda reading a summer book. Perhaps a few friends call. Perhaps you are there alone and a neighbor comes across the lawn. And you welcome your friend.

These little occasions offer an appropriate time to serve "Canada Dry." It is a delicious beverage, with a subtle gingery taste, with a dryness and thirst-quenching allure which instantly appeals.

The delicate flavor of "Canada Dry" is partly due to pure Jamaica ginger; partly to the blending and balancing, under rigid laboratory methods, of the purest ingredients. This fine old Canadian product is mild, mellow and "dry." In short, it is a real ginger ale. And because of its secret method of carbonation it is especially good for you in summer-time. Order "Canada Dry" in the convenient Hostess Package of 12 bottles. Then you always have some on hand.

CONTROL OF RADIO PROVES PROFITABLE

British Broadcasting Commission Shows Annual Income of $4,500,000.

LONDON, July 12. — Canadian Press. — Governmental control of the radio here has proved a profitable matter at any rate for the government. The first report of the British Broadcasting Commission shows that its income for the year was $4,500,000, and that after setting aside $500,000 for construction of regional stations there was still $91,000 to be carried forward. The sum of $4,000,000 was derived from wireless licenses. It spent $2,500,000 on its programs.

Many interesting facts are given in the report. There were for instance, 68,000 hours of transmission during the year, with only about 20 hours of breakdown. Music occupied about two-thirds of the programs.

Lessons by wireless seem to be growing in favor in schools, for 4000—double the number of the previous year—were known to listen to London and Daventry alone. The total number of listeners increased by 217,000 during the year to 2,395,174.

The Earl of Clarendon is chairman of the Commission and receives a salary of $15,000. Lord Gainford is the vice-chairman, and has a salary of $5000. As ordinary members Sir Gordon Nairne, Dr. M. J. Rendall, Mrs. Philip Snowden, and Brigadier-Gen. Reith receive $3500 each.

BAND CONCERT.

Northumberland Band Renders Splendid Musical Concert.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12. — The open-air band concert given by the Northumberland Regiment Band, under the direction of William Pearson, A.L.C.M., on Tuesday night was received with much appreciation by a large crowd of citizens who thronged the adjacent streets to listen to the nine numbers and the National Anthem. Some of them are familiar to the citizens of the town, but there were a few new numbers which the band has been practising for several weeks in order to bring them up to the usual high standard which their music has attained. The program was:

March—"New Colonial." Overture —"Sans Souci." Waltz—"Marchena." Fox Trot—"Jungle Queen." Selection—"Echoes of the Opera." Waltz —"Sunset nothe St. Lawrence." Fox Trot—"Sola." Selection — "Sweet Brier." March—"Under Arms." "God Save the King."

Obituary

WILLIAM CASSAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12.—Word has been received here of the death of William Cassan, Toronto. Mr. Cassan was in his sixty-eighth year, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Cassan, Seymour East. Until nine years ago, Mr. Cassan farmed on the homestead on the road known as the English Line, but since moving from the farm has lived in retirement in Toronto. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon in Toronto.

The late Mr. Cassan is survived by his wife and one son, George, of Toronto. One daughter, Jennie, predeceased him several years ago. There are five brothers: Matthew of Iroquois, Ont.; James of Minneapolis, Minnesota; Joseph, Arthur and Charles of Toronto. There are also two sisters: Mrs. Edward Platt, Toronto, and Mrs. Frank Reid, Bobcaygeon.

Piper Loses His Band; Finds Plaid To Match

An amusing incident occurred near Confederation Square this forenoon, when a piper became detached from his band.

After frantic scurryings back and forth he finally found a bunch of other pipers whose plaid matched his, and settled down to a little serious and earnest skirling.

SOME fellows are sure rough on tires — slam on the brake and slide a yard or two in stopping — drop in the clutch and spin the rear wheels in starting — speed round corners and skid.

It may save a few minutes running time — it may even look a little "showy" to the man on the sidewalk — but the real driver knows that it means miles off the running life of the tires.

Good tires will give unbelievable miles of service if you treat them right. Drive sanely.

Come in and let us put the gauge on the valves once a week —under inflation means certain trouble. Let us examine the casings regularly for embedded flints and nails. This service will save dollars on your year's car expense.

And you'll have the comfort of knowing that every wheel is well shod.

PRINCE OF WALES TO VISIT FRANCE

Heir to Throne Will Take Part in Pilgrimage of British Legion.

(By Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 12.—The Prince of Wales will take part in the pilgrimage of the British Legion to France and Flanders in August. The Prince will make his headquarters at Lille, and among the other distinguished visitors staying there will be Marshal Foch, Marshal Petain, General Gourand, General Waygand, Admiral Jellicoe, President of the British Legion, Countess Haig and her son.

Altogether there will be 11,000 pilgrims from the British Isles and the Dominions. Ceremonies of homage to the dead will mark the official opening of the pilgrimage on the 14th anniversary of Britain's entry into the war, and the 20 parties to leave England during Sunday, Aug. 5, will proceed to towns and cities in France and Belgium, mostly on the Somme battlefields.

A great concentration memorial service and parade will be held on Aug. 8 at Ypres, and it will not be possible to accommodate anyone in the town on that day with the exception of the inhabitants and the pilgrims, and no one will be admitted without the printed pass of the British Legion. The scene of the concentration will be the Menin Gate Memorial, where the Prince of Wales will lay a wreath after the service and all of the pilgrims will march past his Royal Highness, later commencing their return journey.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE HOLDS FESTIVAL

Grace Presbyterian Church Women Hold Successful Garden Party.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 12—This community and surrounding district were well represented at the strawberry festival held at the home of Joseph Redmond, Fourth Line, Cavan, under the auspices of the Women's League of Grace Presbyterian Church, the event being an annual occurrence and carried through this season with its usual success.

The weather was all that could be desired, and the ample lawns very suitable for such a gathering. Bouquets of summer flowers decorated the well-laden tables, which were filled again and again before all comers had been accommodated, and appetites fully satisfied.

An excellent program, which included readings, songs, besides musical selections, was given by the Capitolians orchestra, under the leadership of A. Stagg, from Port Hope, and by R. Hendry, of Peterborough, a well-known impersonator of Harry Lauder.

The booth on the grounds was well stocked with the usual supplies of ice cream cones, soft drinks, chocolate bars, etc., and no difficulty was experienced in disposing of its wares.

A few of those assisting were: Mrs. J. H. Paul, Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. S. E. Eakins, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Mrs. R. McMahon, Mrs. J. N. McGill, Mrs. D. Armstrong, Mrs. J. Turner, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Mrs. N. Belch, Mrs. W. E. Belch, Mrs. James Kennedy, Mrs. Ingram, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, Mrs. Whyte, Mrs. M. Ward, Mrs. W. Ward, Mrs. R. Gilmour, Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. H. Lord, Mrs. S. McCullough, Mrs. H. Ball, Mrs. Milton Fallis, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. H. Keegan, Mrs. W. T. A. Deyell, Mrs. W. Thorne, Miss Eagleson, Misses Ruth Thorndyke, H. Patton, Vaneta Ingram, B. McCorry, Ethel McKnight, and several others.

Mr. R. J. Paterson, of Lindsay, was present and gave a brief address, in response to the request of the chairman, Rev. John Riddell, and Mr. Jas. H. Paul also spoke, moving a hearty vote of thanks to Mr Redmond for the use of his lawn and home for the garden party.

Over 500 tickets were sold at the gate, and financially the event was decidedly satisfactory.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

For Friday, July 13, 1928.
(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Friday the thirteenth superstition may appear justified to-day, for astrologers see in the skies certain threatening signs.

While the aspects promise profit for banks, farmers come under a sway that may cause added discontent.

For months the seers have foretold for agriculturists substantial profits and they prophesy great improvement in their condition.

Farming is to be systematized and to be conducted on the lines of big business, if the stars are wisely interpreted.

There is an especially good sign for wool-growers. A new demand for horses also is foreshadowed.

The evening is read as an auspicious time for conferences and for making future projects.

This day is better for rest than for work on the part of candidates for political office.

Misrepresentation is supposed to be more easily accepted for fact than usual under this direction of the stars.

The campaign canard has a better chance than usual while this planetary government prevails.

A London astrologer prophesied for France a lack of government unity that may cause trouble.

Persons whose birthdate is is have the augury of a fairly good year in which they may, however, suffer from some sort of intrigue.

Children born on this day probably will be conscientious and faithful. The subjects of this sign succeed best as employees.

CHAPTER XIII
THE TELEGRAM

Presently Gaunt gently roused Jennifer, wrapping her more warmly in the blue gown.

"You must go back to bed; you ought never to have come down. I shall never forgive myself if this has done you any harm!"

Jennifer laughed weakly.

"I don't care if it has. I don't mind dying now I know you love me."

"Silly child," Gaunt said gently.

She raised her head and looked at him. "Nicholas, you're not going away again?"

"I'm never going away again?"

She was too ill to understand. There was a wheel of fire going round and round in her head, confusing her thoughts, almost driving her mad with its throbbing pain. She was glad of his support up the little staircase, passionately content to know him near. When she was safely in bed Gaunt made up the fire and pulled the blinds, shutting out the grey dreariness of the evening—then he lit the lamp and set it on the little table at the foot of the bed so that its light should not be too much for her.

Jennifer was half asleep then, half wandering, but she opened her eyes to say once more:

"You won't go away again?"

And Gaunt answered as he had answered before: "I shall never go away again."

She gave a little sigh of contentment. "I don't know what Mrs. Jilly will say," she murmured.

"Leave Mrs. Jilly to me," said Gaunt. He took her hand, such a hot, fevered little hand it felt when he raised it to his lips. "Jennifer, do you know I've never had anyone to look after and care for, until now?"

Jennifer smiled faintly.

"I've never had anyone to look after me, or care for me either until now," she answered him drowsily.

He held her hand to his lips for yet a moment longer.

"I will be good to you, my sweet," he said.

Nicholas stood beside her, his thoughts in a turmoil of happiness. If he had won an unfair victory he chose to ignore the fact. She was here with him, too ill to send him away, even if she wished to do so. It gave him the first real happiness he had ever known to realize her utter dependence upon him.

If he had not been born a rich man, Gaunt would have made an ideal husband for a woman who loved him. It was not his fault that the Fates had conspired together to make havoc of his life.

His mind leapt quickly ahead as he stood in the quiet little room, Jennifer's feverish hand in his.

Edith would divorce him of course. With money such things could be quickly arranged. Then he and Jennifer would be married and he would take her away and show her the world and make her utterly happy. She was the only woman who had ever touched his heart, and he loved her with all that was best in him and all that was most sincere.

Outside he heard footsteps, and then a key in a door, and he laid Jennifer's hand gently back on the quilt and went downstairs, meeting Mrs. Jilly in the little passage, a candle raised aloft in her hand. When she saw him she opened her mouth to scream, but Gaunt said quickly:

"It's all right. You need not be afraid. I came to see Miss Fry."

Mrs. Jilly recovered her courage.

"Miss Fry's ill," she said bluntly. "And anyway, how do I know who you are? A strange man walking into my house at this time of the evening. I never heard such a thing!"

"My name is Gaunt," Nicholas said quietly. "Nicholas Gaunt, and the lady you know as Miss Fry is my wife."

Nicholas Gaunt managed to find a bedroom in a tiny inn farther up the village street. The landlady informed him that having a husband and five children of her own to look after, she did not as a rule "bother herself with other folk." But the sight of a pound note proved too much for her independence, so she led the way upstairs to a tiny room with such a low doorway that Nicholas had to bend his head to enter, and such a sloping roof that he had to keep his head bent most of the time in order to avoid knocking it; but the room was clean and the bed not too hard, although he lay awake all night, too excited to sleep, making all sorts of plans for the future, and devoutly thanking his lucky stars that he was a rich man. As soon as Jennifer was well enough he would take her back to London.

He would write to Gurney and tell him to find someone else in Jennifer's place— he would do up the flat in the Notting Hill backwater with everything that was beautiful and luxurious, because for the immediate present she would wish to stay there, he was sure.

Afterwards—well—there would be no limit to all he would do for her afterwards.

He had travelled extensively, but the thought of Paris and Rome, and Venice and Egypt was vested with a new wonder and interest with Jennifer beside him. Of his wife he hardly thought at all. They had lived such a semi-detached life after the first few months of their marriage that she stood for nothing to him. Fortunately, he was in a position to give her a good allowance, and with Edith money came before everything else.

But when at last he fell asleep his dreams were broken and unhappy, and he woke up with a headache and to the sound of pouring rain on the window, and the rap-rap of the landlady's sharp knuckles on his door.

"There's a telegram," she announced interestedly "Mrs. Jilly's just sent it down from the cottage, thinking it might be urgent."

"Bring it in," Nicholas said.

She opened the door readily. She was very interested in her visitor, and she waited expectantly while he opened the yellow envelope, as if hoping to be told of its contents, but Gaunt only frowned and said shortly: "There's no answer, thank you. And I'd like some breakfast if it's not troubling you too much."

"An egg and bacon in half an hour," she told him. "And in the bar parlor."

Gaunt did not care where it was. As soon as she had gone he got up hurriedly, knocking his head twice against the beamed ceiling, then when he was dressed, he took up the telegram and read it through again. It was from his valet in town, the only soul to whom he had given Jennifer's address, and the message was a re-wired telegram from Italy.

"Edith seriously ill. Implore you come at once, urgent.—Joey."

Nicholas knew well enough that "Joey" was his wife's greatest friend, and one of the very modern party with whom she had journeyed to the Lido in search of sunshine and publicity.

Nicholas did not like Joey. She had ultra-shingled hair and an affected manner, and she drank cocktails at all hours of the day and night, not because she liked them, he was convinced, but because she thought it the smart and correct thing to do.

The law had recently separated her from her husband, a perfectly decent man, old fashioned enough to prefer his own home to an eternal wild-goose chase after amusement and happiness, and Joey had thrown her wedding ring into the sea and gone back to a life of single blessedness. The one good trait in her shallow nature was her genuine admiration and affection for Edith Gaunt, and Nicholas was uncomfortably sure that she would not have sent that wire unless it has been both urgent and necessary. And a thought of which he was instantly ashamed and which he quickly suppressed, sprang to his mind.

Supposing Edith were to die?

Troubled With Painful Eruptions Cuticura Healed

"I was troubled with itchy, sore eruptions on my head for over a year. They were very embarrassing in company as I wanted to be scratching all the time, and if I did scratch them a watery fluid came from them. They were very painful, and my hair came out in patches. "I tried many remedies during that time but without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some. The irritation stopped after one week's treatment, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss B. Rendall, 309 Kensington St., St. James, Man., Sept. 7, 1927.

FIVE MEN ARRESTED

Sullivan, has been identified as one of the two gunmen who entered the mail car, while Everett McKibbon has been identified as one of the two gunmen who terrorized the postal employees on the station platform.

Sought Larger Share of Loot.

Chronologically the story of the arrests opened on Sunday last. Ever since the mail robbery Findley McLeod, Sr., had been shadowed by Pinkerton operatives by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers, and by the local police. Everett McKibbon, in Detroit, had been under similar surveillance, the Pinkerton operatives keeping him covered there. Information had come to the police that McKibbon was finally coming to Toronto, presumably for securing a larger "cut" in the loot which had been secured. It was understood that only $1,000 had been sent across the border to him for his part in the hold-up.

He alighted from the C.P.R. train at West Toronto at 9.30 o'clock on Sunday morning, accompanied by his wife. They went directly to the Findley McLeod residence on Royce Avenue, which was a matter of only a few minutes' walk. They were met at the front step by McLeod himself but it was evident that he was not alone. From every side police officials could be seen converging.

The McKibbons and McLeod rightly sensed that they were the wanted quarry, and they made off, with as much nonchalance as their nervousness would allow, in the direction of Dundas Street. There McLeod's nerve broke and he essayed to separate from his companions. It was at that point that the police drew tight the net which they had held over them and gathered them in.

Developments then followed rapidly. The home of Alex. McLeod was immediately visited, but he was found to be out in his taxicab. Suddenly, however, he returned. His intention was to change his clothes, for what purpose can only be surmised, although the police were of the opinion that he had been apprised of his brother's arrest. He was immediately taken into custody.

Within a few hours Findlev McLeod, Jr., had joined the list of prisoners. He had come voluntarily to the City Hall to submit to questioning.

Story of Arrests.

The story of these captures and of the manner in which one of the most cleanly executed as well as daring crimes in Toronto annals has been tracked down is a dramatic one. It is a story of trails running out, first in every direction, even into Northern Ontario, then narrowing down to Windsor and Toronto, and finally converging at Dundas street and Royce Avenue, on Sunday last, when the police made their first arrests.

If penitentiary sentences were supposed to really reform, it is a story which would never have been written, for then the police wold never have cynically suspected Findley McLeod, Sr., convicted in 1923 for a $100,000 mail robbery, nor his associate in the penitentiary, Everett McKibbon.

These two men, however, did fall under police suspicion as soon as the crime was committed, and they were under constant surveillance. It was not until last Sunday that McKibbon came from Detroit to meet McLeod and provided the police with the occasion which seemed auspicious for swooping down. Subsequent investigation brought John Brown, alias Sullivan, who also served a penitentiary term at the same time as the other two, into the affair. He was arrested on Tuesday.

The police are not inclined to be unduly condemnatory of Findley McLeod, Jr., for the minor part which he played in the affair. He is believed to have been largely the creature of circumstances. There is also uncertainty about the role which Alex. McLeod, the taxi driver played, although no mildness will be extended towards him in the matter of prosecution.

WEDDING BELLS

DOYLE—COUNIHAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12. — St. Mary's Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding at eight o'clock yesterday morning, when Mary Teresa Counihan, daughter of the late Mr. M. Counighan and Mrs. Counighan (now Mrs. M. O'Sullivan), became the bride of Dennis J. Doyle, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Doyle, of Boston, Mass. Rev. Father Phelan officiated at the ceremony. The altar was beautifully decorated with pink and white roses. After the ceremony the bride and groom attended mass before returning to the home of the bride's mother, where wedding breakfast was served to some thirty guests.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a period dress of oyster satin trimmed with pearls and orange blossoms, picture hat of white silk mohair, white satin shoes with hose to match. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Miss Margaret Lynch, Windsor, as bridesmaid, wore pea green chiffon, picture hat to match and shoes and hose of the same shade. She carried June roses.

Mr. George Doyle, Columbus, Ohio, brother of the groom, was groomsman, and Mr. Edward Counighan, of Rochester, N.Y., brother of the bride, gave the bride away. During the signing of the register, Miss Brunelle sang "Ave Maria" (Bach-Gounod).

After attending mass, the bride received with her mother at the family residence, Kent Street. Mrs. O'Sullivan wore a gown of navy blue French crepe with hat and shoes to match, and a corsage bouquet of June roses.

The dining-room where the wedding breakfast was served was beautifully and artistically decorated with sweet peas, roses and peonies. Miss Irene Stephens and Miss Cherry Turner delighted the guests with their music during the reception and dinner.

Following the reception the bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip by motor to Columbus, Ohio, and steamer to Cleveland, Ohio. They will reside in Brooklyn, N.Y. For travelling the bride wore an ensemble of beige crepe with cloche hat, shoes and hose of the same shade.

There were many friends present at the church and thirty relatives and friends sat at the bride's table after the reception. A sheaf of telegrams from friends unable to be present attested the popularity of the young couple.

Among the guests from out of town were Mrs. Charles E. Edwards, New York City, Miss Florence Shannon, R.N., New York City, Mrs. N. J. Smith and Miss Marion Smith, Toronto, Miss Susan Watters, Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Watters, Hastings, Miss Mary and Messrs. Edward, Leo, and Joseph Watters, Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. George Dunn, Marmora, Mr. and Mrs. George Doyle, Columbus, Ohio, Miss Marion Suhrhoff, New York City, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Warner, Columbus, Ohio; Charles Edwards, of New York City, Miss Margaret Lynch, Windsor, Mr. M. A. Sullivan, New York City, Mr. Edward Counighan, Rochester, N.Y.

For wrinkles

The faithful care of your skin, according to the scientific method of Elizabeth Arden, will keep your skin smooth and full, and so prevent and correct wrinkles and lines. For this purpose, Elizabeth Arden recommends her Venetian Orange Skin Food and Muscle Oil. These two Preparations supply every need of the tissues to keep them round and firm. They should be patted well into the skin, after cleansing.

Three groups of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church held a very enjoyable and successful strawberry festival on Tuesday afternoon and evening at "Spruce Glen," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Carver, on the Provincial Highway. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Carver, Mrs. Arthur Stenson and Mrs. Charles E. Horton, in charge of the three groups, and they were assisted by the members, who did good work in looking after the needs of the many patrons, their small daughters also assisting materially with the sale of ice cream and lemonade. There was a fine attendance for the event and excellent music was provided by the Salvation Army band. Refreshments consisted of strawberries and cream, ice cream, cake, sandwiches and bread and butter. Mesdames Heaslip and Preston had the sale of soft drinks and ice cream; Mrs. N. Hamley, the sale of candy, and a group of efficient young ladies looked after the tea tables, including the Misses Helen and Catherine Hodgens, the Misses Lillico, G. Patterson, E. Stacey, Margaret and Eva Fife.

RELIEF FROM GAS STOMACH PAINS DIZZINESS

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent. of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mrs. George Bell, of 317 Grey Street, London, Ont., writes as follows:

"I had suffered for years with stomach trouble. Gas would form and bloat me up so I could hardly catch my breath. My nerves were shattered; I did not sleep because weak and run-down; and spent enough on medicines to furnish a home.

"Two months after starting Tanlac, however, I had gained eleven pounds and was entirely free of indigestion. Now I have no gas, no pains in my stomach. The headaches have disappeared. My nerves are calm. I sleep like a child, am always ready for my meals, and my housework seems like play to me."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run-down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs, and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist to-day. Money back if it doesn't help you.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE
By Mary Marshall.

White pique frock with green and pink design trimmed with green linen. The pleated skirt is stitched below the hips with a double belt effect in the green linen.

I have chosen the frock for to-day's sketch to show you one of the many ways that one may make use of the present fashion for stitching pleated skirts from belt line to below the hips. Whatever type of silhouette is chosen the close hip line is imperative. If you choose a widely bouffant skirt the bouffancy must begin below the hips, sometimes with a downward droop of the snug outline toward the back. If you wear a two-piece frock the tunic or jumper must be fitted quite closely about the hips, or, if you wear a shorter blouse, then the skirt must be quite snug. Or you may wear a girdle or sash closely swathed about the hips.

In a season like the present when there is such a wide variety of silhouettes to choose from I think it is helpful to be able to put your finger on certain features and say, "This at least is essential." There always are some women who when fashions are so varied find themselves quite at sea and feel that nothing is essential.

In wearing a two-piece suit or jacket costume a close flat fit across the hips is necessary—and let me suggest that to maintain the smart silhouette the lower buttons are never, never left undone. Coats and even capes of the new genre follow this close-hip outline—with the single exception of the flare-from-the-shoulder coats which have appeared mostly for sports wear. For the very reason that this type of coat suggesting the old-time box coat does depart so radically from the accepted silhouette of the present time I do not expect to see it meet with very hearty endorsement, at least for some time to come.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

WHAT is "chic"? One meets the word so often in the magazines and in newspaper articles written by experts. It is used as a noun and as an adjective—but I have avoided it because it seemed so ill-defined.

That's just why, I am told by a George street merchant who has made a study of ladies' wear. "Chic" is the indefinite something which one recognizes in the gesture of a hand, in the subtle flare of an intricate skirt, in the turn of a beautiful head, in the perfect adjustment of a charming hat.

"Nobody can define with precision all that 'chic' implies," I am told. "It is just a step beyond smartness; it is just a shade more individual than correctness; it is even more than the quintessence of elegance.

"When a costume suits a prospective purchaser we call it 'stunning,' or 'lovely' or say 'it just suits you'; but when a frock seems to find its home on a figure, when it enhances the appearance of the purchaser and she adds to the appearance of the frock, that is 'chic'"

I, for one, am grateful for this definition of the impossible-to-define "chic," and I am sure that you will be too. I think the idea in the last paragraph of the definition is perfectly stunning, too, and I know that next purchase we make we will try to achieve chic in that way.

* * *

I saw it on the links less than a week ago, when one of Peterborough's younger golfers wore a front- and side-pleated skirt in wool suiting, buttoned to a blouse in artificial silk (there are so many makes now that one can't always tell which is which!) with square yoke front and back, trimmed with the skirt material.

I saw it at South Beach one Sunday, in a frock that might well have been called "The Spirit of Summer." It was of georgette, in large-flowered design, with the new shawl collar forming a most ethereal wrap. The skirt had deep scallops.

It appeared in an attractive frock with an old-world air that I saw on Charlotte street this week—flowered taffeta with a wide scalloped shawl collar and a dainty bow of self-material.

And I saw chic in a voluminous bathing wrap of blue and white toweling at a beach near Lakefield.

So now we know a little of what chic is—and we know that our city merchants have an appreciation of it just as well as any cuoturier of Champ-Elysees, Rue de la Paix or Fifth Avenue.

* * *

On a verandah chair the other day I saw something new (to me, at any rate)—a cushion done in Syrian net and raffia. It harmonized wonderfully with the wicker verandah furnishings, and gave individuality to a setting which often has a "sameness."

With summer only a few days old, as far as weather goes, fall is already on the way in the fashion world. A George street ladies' wear man told me yesterday that the indications are for a continuance of the uneven hem-line in evening gowns; that skirts are not coming down, and that there will be a straightening-out of the silhouette, with fuller and softer lines in more fragile stuffs.

Hair, by the way, will be longer, but not long—thank heavens! In conversation with my hairdresser this week, while being operated upon, I was told that most leading coiffeurs express this opinion. The mannish bob is disappearing, and in most new modes there is a definite trend toward bringing the hair forward on the forehead in waves or a short fringe. Most advance photographs show the nape of the neck well covered.

* * *

I went into a children's room in a south-end home last week, where the walls were simply covered with delightful prints of the world's great pictures, framed with passe-partout. After passing through attacks of neo-impressionism, expressionism, cubism and sur-realism, it is refreshing to find folk who still appreciate art! And what a lovely idea it is for the children's sake!

CHOCOLATE DRINK

(Sent by Mrs. B. C., Havelock.)

Make the syrup ahead of time, as follows: Stir over a good fire, ½ cup cocoa and 1 cup cold water. Stir in 1½ cups sugar and a dash of salt. Dissolve. Boil three minutes. Add 2 teaspoons vanilla. Put into a tight jar and keep in the refrigerator.

To serve: Add 4 teaspoons syrup to a glass of fresh milk, with a cube or two of ice. Shake it until it is smooth and frosted. (I use a fruit jar as a shaker). Then pour it into glasses and serve.

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:

I want to tell your readers how to make quilting frames. Wrap four cheap clothes poles with strips of any old cloth convenient, place two 10-cent clamps on each one, and behold a set of first-class quilting frames. Mrs. D. C."

Thank you, Mrs. D. C. I am sure the hint will be appreciated by readers.

"Dear Marion:

My nine-year-old youngster brings home boy friends that would make one blink and wish to goodness that something tactful would call them back home. He has a most mongrel set of companions, good, bad, and indifferent. He really needs more out-of-doors, more physical activity and should be taught to use his hands in craftsmanship. Now I would like to send him to camp, but if he is going to learn a lot of things he should not know hadn't he better stay at home? Mother."

At the end of the summer, mothers, whose children went to camp, will either say, "That camp to which I sent my boy absolutely ruined him," or "That camp was the making of my boy." Both statements are far-fetched. In the first instance the boy was not prepared to stand a new environment; in the second instance while the new environment did him some good he was already so trained at home that he fitted into a new situation. A large group of boys really offers no more opportunity for doubtful information than a small group. I know that a small group with idle hands and mischievous minds can accomplish more in giving a course in deviltry to a young boy than a larger group in a camp where there is supervision and plenty of activity. Consult one of the Rotarians in regard to the Rotary Camp.

The Final Decision
By DUFORD JENNE

"So that is the final word, is it, Avery?" he asked, looking off into the fragrant southern night with a sense of inner desolation.

"Please, don't make it hard for me. I do like you, I—enjoy being with you, but, Rand, I'm not just—just ready—my music, you know, is half my dreams," she said gently.

He turned to her. The dusky night only seemed to make more beautiful the rich, dark hair, the white oval of her face.

"I wonder—I wonder if you will do just one thing more for me. I hate to ask you—but it lies pretty close to the happiness of one I love," he queried, hesitatingly.

He felt her warm, slender fingers seek his.

"I can't give you myself," she warned him quietly, "but anything else—ask and see."

He pondered his request—should he make it or should he not? After all, it was worth the making.

"It's just this, Avery. Father, as you know, is alone. Mother's been dead for twenty years. Father, as we know, has only a few months more to live, and he knows it. I took you to the old home, he saw you, and came to love you in those brief hours we were there. He's reached the point where memories are pretty dear to him, and he likes to talk of the old home once more as he knew it—with a lovely girl in it with me, when he had gone. It seemed to comfort him so much that I let him dream it, and, somehow, I felt sure enough of you to let him believe we were close to engagement. I am sorry."

He raised her hand to his lips. "But the trouble is, I cannot seem to get courage to tell father. And what I—"

"Go on, Rand."

"—am wondering is, will you go again with me, and except for the intimate things, act as if we were engaged. It is only a matter of a few months, and next week you go north. I know it would bring comfort to him in these last, hopeless hours." His voice changed to a note of fear. "I know it is an unusual request, Avery, and don't hesitate to say 'No.'"

She drew his arm under hers and slipped closer to him.

"It's a noble kind of deception, and I will be party to it, my dear. You make the arrangements, and I will go," she said with finality.

Rand brought the car to her hotel the next morning, and soon the powerful motor was whispering its message of swift miles passing.

He looked down at the dark head at his shoulder, smiled a bit at the chic hat, and wished he could kiss the smooth satin of the cheek he could see under the hat's brim.

"Don't let me make this a sad journey, Avery. Father is a pitiful sight to me, but he has his old courage still. This is the last trip we take until you go north, you know, so I want you to enjoy it," he suggested.

"Oh, I shall," she said smiling up into his eyes with her dark, winsome glance.

"Then why so still?"

"I'm a-thinkin', and I never learned to think out loud," she retorted.

He chuckled at her reply and told her a story of an old darky on his father's place whose habit of thinking out loud constantly got him into trouble. The tale lightened the mood of the trip, and he drove the thoughts of her coming departure from him as he spun tales of the country he knew well.

After gorgeous miles through the beautiful Virginia valleys, he swung up a drive over which ancient trees leaned, and stopped before a broad portico.

"Welcome home, my lady," he said as he helped her to alight.

Her face changed, but she answered lightly, "I thank thee, my prince."

The old darky who came hastily if somewhat rheumatically out to greet them led them inward, and Rand took her hand.

"It will be simple, Avery. Just leave it to me, and I'll try not to make it embarrassing for you," he said with doubt as to her attitude.

She pressed his hand. "I promise you."

Rand ushered her into the bedroom. His father turned his thin but fine, aristocratic, high-bred face to them from the great bed.

"Youngsters, I am so glad to see you!" he said gently but eagerly. "I have been counting the hours since I got your word and, Avery—I may call you Avery?" he said to her.

She leaned from the chair which the darky had placed for her and took his hand. "I know a better word," she suggested.

He smiled. "Avery, my dear, to think you will bring back the loveliness the old house has missed so long." His deep eyes grew tender. "I wish I could be here to see you in it for a little while."

She hesitated just a moment, then said gently: "I should love to be, and can if Rand is willing to marry me right off!"

"Avery——"

The terrible pain in his eyes made her go to him as she kissed him, she whispered in his ear: "I mean it, dear, beyond all doubt. I decided—on the way." She turned to the bed where the sick man lay, his thin face aglow with happiness. "It's settled—all but the day—and we want you to choose that!" she added, a little tearfully as she felt Rand's arms tremble with the shock of his happiness as he drew her closer to him.

Prices At Lower Levels On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, July 12 (Canadian Press).—Prices continued to reach slightly lower levels on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Trading was more active than yesterday, but with one or two exceptions, all stocks on the list were lower.

International Nickel and Brazilian were active leaders, the former dropping a point to 91, and the latter 1½ to 55½. Massey Harris, with moderate sales volume, was unchanged at 41, and City Dairy also held firm at 56. Smelters was down 3 at 256½, Cockshutt was down ½ at 25½, and Hayes Wheels dropped a point to 34. Canada Dredging, a strong spot yesterday, to-day was down 2 at 48.

Photo Engravers, in light trading, was about the only industrial stock to show a gain, advancing ½ to 35½. Standard Bank and Bank of Commerce were both higher, the former up 5½ to 260½ and the latter 2 at 298.

On the curb section, the same tendencies prevailed. Fractional declines were suffered by leading oil and liquor stocks.

Money Rates Stiffen Forcing Stocks To Drop

NEW YORK, July 12 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices continued to drift lower to-day on a stiffening of the money rates. Frequent attempts were made to rally the general list, but they fell flat as all recoveries attracted a fresh outburst of offerings. Active industrials and rails dropped 1 to 8 points, and a few high-priced specialties broke 10 to nearly 20 points.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent as against 6 yesterday, and then advanced to 7½ as banks called $15,000,000 or more in loans. General Motors was the most active feature, breaking 7 points to 183½, one block of 11,200 shares changes hands at 168½, another block of 10,000 shares at 185. Radio dipped from an early high of 167¾ to 152¼. U. S. Steel Common was one of the few popular industrials to receive strong buying support.

Liverpool Quotations Strengthen Wheat Values

CHICAGO, July 12. — (Canadian Press.)—Influenced by relative firmness of the Liverpool quotations, prices here averaged higher early today. North Dakota reports of black rust on head and stems of wheat tended also to strengthen values. Opening at ¼c. off to 1-8c. up, Chicago wheat later showed moderate general advance. Corn, Oats and Provisions were likewise firm, with Corn starting unchanged to 3-8c. higher and subsequently holding near to the initial figure.

Wheat, July 128½, Sept. 132¼; corn July 106, Sept. 97 5-8; oats, July 47¾, Sept. 41.

General Weakness Prevails Prices On List Are Lower

TORONTO, July 12.— (Canadian Press).—General weakness prevailed on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange today. Prices all through the list with a few exceptions were lower. Despite the general lowering of prices the volume of sales remained fairly heavy. Noranda continued to lose its recent gains and closed with a loss of 2.10 at 49.40. In contrast with the past few days considerable selling developed and the total sales for morning exceeded 20,000 shares. Amulet was the leader in the activity and dropped 25 to 4.75. Many mines equally heavy trader scored one of few gains of the session in advancing 10 to 3.40.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

Same Head. as Yesterday

Summer markets are always quiet. A prolonged heat wave, such as we are having, always reduces trade, as it sends the shrewder trader, who has made money away to the country and the seashore. These operators know that nothing serious could affect their interests when they are away, although prices may fall off a little, they will pick up again quickly the moment buying is resumed.

At present, there are plenty of opportunities on the buying side. One such opportunity is the Alberta Grain.

Lake of the Woods is still a bargain with a wonderful yield at its present price of 57½.

Industrial Alcohol is a stock which we recommend to those who wish a moderate-priced speculation with real possibilities.

McIntyre Porcupine has offered $1,000,000 to Moffat Hall for control of its property in East Kirkland Lake, adjoining the Bidgood.

Abana is still a good buy and is being bought by a local group, who are apparently feeling out the market buying and selling it. My impression is that they will abandon the selling attempts soon as they seem to have been unable to depress it. I expect to see the stock much more active and higher soon.

Hamilton Bridge Co., Limited, stocks will be listed on the Montreal Stock Exchange on Friday.

Wayagamack on its dip to 88 seems to me to be a purchase, and the same may be said of Dryden around 43½. In the case of Dryden I am told it has been deliberately lowered in price by a group which is seeking cheap stock.

We hope that those who took advantage of our advice to purchase Noranda have taken their profits. We believe that Noranda will still re-act and would advise our readers to wait until we give the word to buy.

Amulet was in demand to-day. We look forward to higher prices for this stock.

Billion Is Lost In Unlisted Share Sales

NEW YORK, July 11.—More than $1,000,000,000 in securities sold "over the counter" since the war to the investing public of this country have defaulted or become absolutely worthless, according to Assistant Attorney General Timothy J. Shea, in charge of the Bureau of Securities of the Attorney General's office.

Shea made this announcement as a result of an investigation of the "over-the-counter" market. He told of plans for the creation of a third securities exchange to supplant the present "over-the-counter market, and declared that such a project was rapidly approaching consummation.

Called Dangerous.

The "over-the-counter" market is the name given to the trading maintained by brokerage firms not members of any recognized exchange in stocks and bonds which are not listed or actively traded in on either the Stock Exchange or the New York Curb Market.

Shea pointed out that his investigation of "over-the-counter" dealings revealed a condition that was "extremely dangerous," and said:

"It must be understood that the Bureau of Securities does not entertain the idea that listed securities have any greater merit than those not listed. In fact, many of the securities that are not listed are as desirable as many listed securities.

"A limited number of excellent and highly reputable firms have for years sold sound securities over the counter, it being understood that most of this buying and selling is done over the telephone.

"It is also common knowledge that in the dealings among the unlisted traders there is a great deal of middlemen's profit."

Many Worthless.

It was the great increase in the number of over-the-counter dealers in recent years that first attracted attention of the Attorney-General's office, and while many of the new firms are conscious of their responsibilities, Shea maintains that others deliberately take a position in wretched offerings so worthless that it would seem the only test applied by the firms of ussue was the one question, "Will the stuff sell?"

The present situation is made to order for unscrupulous insiders to push worthless goods, Shea is convinced. Referring to the plan to establish a third securities market on the Produce Exchange, he states:

"In stating we believe this plan a wise constructive first step in dealing with the difficulties in the unlisted securities market, we do so because we believe that a great public benefit may come from thi plans.

ASCERTAIN NEED

ester Pool where the out-croppings of granite appear, the party found the country taking on the most beautiful aspect that attracts so many people to build cottages there and lures the tourist in spite of the fact that the canal is bottled up at this end.

From Glouchester Pool the boat passed through the Little Chute which is a narrow swift-running piece of water which is very dangerous. The water flows from here as if from the neck of a bottle. A short distance past here is Big Chute, and here is the first marine railway carrying boats over a 58 foot lift, in a cradle that lifts them out of the water at the foot of the hill and places them safely in again on the higher levels. It carries a boat over in nine minutes from the time the boat is first placed until the complete lift is made. It was built for the Standard Elco 14 ton cruiser with a 4.6 draft and 13.6 beam and not more than 68 feet in length Four and five small boats can be carried across at once. The railway conveys from 1,400 to 1,600 boats across a year—last August is carried 1,200 alone. A canal is needed here to allow larger boats to be attracted to this beautiful section. This is just eight miles from Port Severn or half way between Port Severn and Ragged Rapids.

After leaving this first railway the river became narrower and the banks higher with numerous indentions and points. The main line of the C.P.R. was passed, and soon the party arrived at Ragged Rapids.

A Ragged Road

Here is located the second marine railway, and a monument to the tragedy of the halted construction. Standing with crumbling walls is the partially completed lock whose construction was stopped after the cribwork had been completed at the outbreak of the war. It signifies a picture of waste, with the marine railway mocking it from the side. This railway is identical with the lower one, except that it is 47 feet instead of 58.

The lock master told of an American boat that had passed through for the second time and the passengers expressed their joy at the scenery and relief in passing through a country of solid rock formation with leafy banks instead of marsh lands and cat-tails they had been used to.

The Orillia Power Plant was then inspected, where three Canadian General Electric generators generate 6,000 horse-power. The time was growing late, so not much time was spent here and the return trip was made.

Fast time down-stream for the eight miles to Big Chute was made, and after passing down the railway, supper was served; Mr. Hanly again at the stove and Mr. Ross as chief master of the ceremonies.

Ask for Completion

An informal meeting took place while passing through the last locks with James Dutton, President of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, as chairman. He called upon F. D. Kerr, K.C., Honorary Vice-President of the Trent Waterway Development Association to make a motion, and Mr. Walter Fowlds to second it. The decision of this gathering is that a letter be sent to the Minister of the Department of Railways and Canals as follows:

"Representatives of the following municipalities, Peterborough, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Campbellford, Beaverton, Hastings, Lakefield, Fenelon Falls and Hastings visited the marine railroad section of the Severn division of the Trent Waterway on July 11th, 1928. The result of the inspection trip was the strengthening of the conviction earlier expressed, that this portion of the canal should be completed without further delay. The following resolution was passed unanimously on the motion of F. D. Kerr, K.C. of Peterborough, and William Fowlds, president of the Trent Waterways Development Association, and ex-Warden of the combined counties of Northumberland and Durham, to be respectfully submitted;

"Resolved—Representatives of the municipalities bordering on the Trent Waterway system, having visited the uncompleted part of the Trent Waterway system, do place on record their conviction that the unfinished portion be completed as speedily as possible.

"Further, that this meeting feels assured that a personal inspection by the Minister of Railways and Canals would be most desirable so as to enable him to satisfy himself of the urgent necessity for the completion of the unfinished work."

J. J. Duffus, late President of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, moved a vote of thanks to the town of Midland, which was seconded by Mayor R. T. Moore of Lindsay. Mayor Denne moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Hanly and J. W. Bald for the wonderful trip, seconded by J. Wells Fraser, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Peterborough.

George J. Overend, secretary of the Board of Trade of Orillia, Geo. Yule, clerk of Beaverton, Councillor Stone of Campbellford, M. H. McCallum, secretary of the Board of Trade of Fenelon Falls, Reeve C. Moore of Bobcaygeon, J. McArthur, of Hastings, all expressed their delight at being present and heartily endorsed the resolution, believing it to be a crime not to complete the canal that would mean so much to the sections of the country by bringing the tourists to these sections. There are many in the States, according to many of the speakers, who want to come and only need to be directed. Frank G. Stinson spoke great words of praise for Walter Fowlds, the president, for his unselfish work. G. K. Fraser, honorary president of the organization, told of the work of the association in making the canal navigable.

Mayor Gooden, of Midland, Mr. Hanly and George Ross all replied to the many kind words said to them for supplying the inspectors with such a delightful trip that combined pleasure and something worth while. The mayor said that he considered it only as payment for the splendid time he had enjoyed a few weeks before in Peterborough.

On passing the votes of thanks all invited the delegation to visit their city the next time and welcomed Midland with wide open arms

The delegation believe they have a strong case for the following reasons:

1. Power—Appropriate horse power of the power plants, 6,500, with about 35,000 undeveloped.

2. Tourists— Revenue estimated from Trent Waterway district, $1,500,000. Dominion Bureau of Statistics 1927 report gives tourists revenue to Canada at over $200,000,000 as compared to $83,734,000 in 1920.

3. Trent Waterway is the second highest revenue-producing canal in Canada and the third lowest in revenue expenditures.

4. The number of pleasure craft passing through the locks in 1927 was 7,145, and if estimated three persons to a boat, they carried 21,435 persons and transported 32,549 tons up and 25,824 tons down. This includes animal products, mining products and manufactured products.

The following is the statement for the Department of Railways and Canals ending the fiscal year ending March, 1927:

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS FRIDAY

"UNDER TEN FLAGS."

The annual Chautauqua entertainment of Peterborough opens tomorrow (Friday, July 13th) at three o'clock and continues through July 18th, except Sunday, July 15th. The tent will be located in Confederation Park, as it has been in previous years.

The program will be opened by the Herrick Male Quartet, headed by Robert Herrick, widely known comedy singer and entertainer. These four entertainers are all young college men and sing the songs and present sketches and impersonations with infectious high spirits and true [illegible]ge pep.

The evening program will again be opened by the Herrick male quartet and immediately following their concert, will be a lecture by Edward Tomlinson.

Mr. Tomlinson is a recognized authority on South American affairs, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh and a world war veteran. The message he will bring to you will be "Under Ten Flags". An interesting lecture with a vital message.

On Saturday afternoon the Grogean Novelty Co. will entertain with novelty music. On Saturday night the Guot Laurant and his show of magic will entertain you the entire evening.

Some of the most prominent speakers on the Chautauqua platform today will speak here during Chautauqua week. Mayor John J. Hill, a native of Quebec will speak on Monday afternoon. Mayor Hill was the first white man to traverse Africa from Cape Town to Cairo, and spent the best years of a tremendously active life in the dark continent, and for two and a half years he never saw another white man. He tells a vivid amazing tale of bushmen cannibals, fakirs, jungles and forests

Herbert Lion Cape, one of the best known humorists on the lecture platform, and originally from Ham[illegible] will speak on Tuesday night. He is in fact, a humorous philospher and is widely known as "Kill the Blues" Cope.

On Wednesday afternoon the Dominion Chautauquas are very fortunate to be able to present to Peterborough a man of such distinction and a man styled "The Luk[illegible]est Man Alive," Captain J. H. Hedley of the 20th Squadron, Royal Flying Corps, who took part in some of the most spectacular air fights of the World War. He has fifty-three aerial combats to his credit. He fought the famous Baron Von Richthofen, the Red Knight of Germany, three times and was finally shot down and taken as a prisoner of war. A vitally interesting speaker of distinction.

Season tickets for the entire Chautauqua week can ge secured for $2.50 from Mr. G. A. Gillespie, who sponsors Peterborough Chautauquas. If you do not have a season ticket, buy one and save money. Without a season ticket the entire cost for the week would be $6.25 for all the performances. If you have a season ticket you are entitled to go to each performance throughout the week for only $2.50. Buy one now and enjoy the Chautauqua

Seniors Lose Their Fourth Game To Kingston

KINGSTON PONIES FOR FOURTH TIME THIS SEASON TAKE PETES' MEASURE IN EASY FASHION

Joe Daley's Crew Win on Their Own Grounds by 10 Runs to 3.

AHEAD FROM START

(By F. D. C.)

For the fourth time this season the Petes had to accept defeat at the hands of the Kingston Ponies last evening, Joe Daley's men winning the Central Ontario League fixture at Kingston by 10 runs to 3.

The Ponies deserved their victory although they got the benefit of all the breaks and their margin should have been much smaller. However the Kingston crew showed their smartest fielding of the season, showed plenty of foot on the bases, and hit in timely fashion, while Charlie Fournier the southpaw who beat the Petes last week, held them to seven hits, well scattered.

Sensational work by Buck, the Ponies left fielder was an outstanding feature. Buck made two spectacular catches that averted a lot of trouble for Kingston and in addition he showed some speed on the paths, twice scoring from second on a hit and run play. Buck cut Shiner Johnston out of a triple and the Petes out of a couple of runs when he grabbed Johnston's drive to left with his bare hand, and he came back in the next frame with a gloved hand catch of Macdonald's drive, taking another run away from the Petes.

Angus Macdonald pitched the whole game for the Petes and worked his head off to hold the Ponies in check, despite a terrible first inning in which everything went wrong and Joe Daley's tribe scored four runs. The youngster fought until the last ditch and should have escaped much more lightly if his defence had stood up. C. Fournier hurled a steady game for the winners and in beating the Petes twice in succession he had the benefit of sensational support. Twice Buck saved him by wonderfu catches and in another occasion with a couple on bases Fournier helped his own cause by spearing a torrid drive from Swanson's bat and the Kingston's infield gave a sparkling performance, the only error being a muff of a foul fly by Stone that did no harm.

The Ponies used their hits to best advantage and showed results at speed on the bases while Fournier improved as he went along and allowed only three hits, with no runs in the last five innings. Early in the game the Petes got on frequently and it looked as if it would be curtains for the youthful southpaw, but heartened by the great support he got from all hands Fournier levelled and finished strong.

Del Cherry with four hits, and Jimmy Arniel with three including a triple and a double were the shock troops for the Ponies and their hitting was a big factor in the final result. None of the Petes got more than one safety.

Here is the Dope

The Petes went out in order in the first. Turner flied to Britton. J. Hall fanned, and Ash rolled to Britton.

Not so with the Ponies. Arniel, first up, got a triple when Turner misjudged his fly to centre and scored on Holyman's fumble on Buck's roller. Britton flied to Turner, but Cherry doubled to left on a high fly in front of Hall, scoring Buck, but was out himself trying to make third on the play. Ada got a life when Heckman dropped his fly to right and Tetro was hit. Then both scored when Elliott's fly dropped almost on the right field foul line and bounded away for a triple. Stone struck out.

The invaders got one back and should have made mode in the second. Harrison was hit, Swanston singled to left centre and Heckman was walked, filling the bases. Then Fournier plugged Macdonald to force in Harrison. Holyman, however, popped to Arniel and Johnston and Turner both fanned.

For the Ponies Fournier rolled to Macdonald. Arniel singled to left and went to second on a wild pitch, but Buck rolled to Harrison and Britton flied to Turner.

The Petes got another in the third. Hall singled down the first base line but was forced by Ash. Harrison doubled to left; Ash stopping at third. Swanston's vicious liner was right at Fournier's head, but he held the drive. Fournier deliberately passed Heckman, but in doing so he uncorked a wild pitch on which Ash scored. Heckman stole second. Macdonald was called out on strikes.

Kingston got it back in their end of the frame. Cherry lined to left for a single and Ada was safe on Macdonald's fumble when he bunted for a sacrifice. Tetro sacrifice, Elliott was thrown out by Johnston. Cherry scoring on the play. Stone was hit and stole second, but Fournier fanned.

In the fourth, Buck pulled off the first of his circus catches. Holyman walked and stole second. Johnston's apparently sure-fire triple was grabbed by Buck, who made a jumping bare-handed catch of the smash. Turner singled past Elliott to score Holyman. He was forced by Hall, and Ash flied to Buck.

For Kingston, Arniel flied to Harrison. Buck was safe on Holyman's fumble, and stole second. On a hit and run play, Buck scored on Britton's roller to Harrison; nice baserunning by the Kingston left-fielder. Cherry singled past third. Ada was thrown out by Johnston.

Buck was again in the limelight in the fifth, Harrison fanned and Swanston was thrown out by Britton. Heckman singled to left. Buck made a great catch of Macdonald's drive to left, which looked like a safe hit.

The Ponies were blanked. Tetro fanned. Elliott singled to right and stole second, but Stone flied to Hall, and Fournier struck out.

In the sixth, Holyman singled by third and stole second. Johnston flied to Cherry. Turner walked. Hall rolled to Elliott and Ash to Britton.

The Ponies got three. Arniel doubled to centre and went to third on Buck's sacrifice fly to Heckman. Britton singled to left, scoring Arniel and going to third when the ball rolled through Hall. Cherry beat out a tap down the third base line, scoring Britton. Ada singled to right and stole second. Cherry scored while Harrison was tossing out Tetro. Elliott struck out.

The seventh was the fastest inning of the game. For the Petes, Harrison and Swanston rolled to Elliott and Hackman to Britton.

In the Ponies' half Stone rolled to Johnston, Macdonald tossed out Fournier, and Holyman threw out Arniel.

In the eighth Macdonald rolled to Arniel. Holyman struck out, and Johnston flied to Cherry.

For the Ponies Buck singled and stole second, and on another hit-and-run play, scored from second while Johnston threw out Britton. Johnston also tossed out Cherry, while Ada rolled to Ash.

Turner rolled to Fournier in the ninth. Hall flied to Ada. Ash singled to left, but Harrison was thrown out by Britton.

Crary Holds Lockworks To Six Hits

KIWANIS WIN 11-2 DECISION FROM LOCKIES

Heavy Hitting by Both Outfits Feature of Junior Fixture.

TEAMS PLAY WELL

Victors Take Advantage of Lockworks' Pitching and Fielding Weakness.

Behind Jake Crary's good steady pitching, Kiwanis won another start in the Junior City League last night; handing Lockworks a 11-2 walloping at James Stevenson Park. The game, featured by some heavy gunning by both outfits, provided plenty of entertainment for the small group of fans that turned out, and the fact that Sergeant Deanard's crew had such a margin in the counting was due to some weak hitting and some careless defensive work by the Locksmiths. Murray, who retired at the end of the fifth, struck out six batters and walked three before he vacated the hill-top in favor of Westbrook who finished the battle for the losers, while his victorious rival, Crary whiffed seven without issuing a free ticket. The Kiwanians took full advantage of pitching and fielding weakness but at that, were a bit lucky to hold their rivals down to the brace of counters. E. Labarr and H. Ranger handled the game satisfactorily.

Teams Play Well

To Crary should go a nice share of the credit for his team's victory for not only did he average a strike-out an inning, but in all save the second and the sixth session of the seven-inning game, he managed to keep the opposition off the score sheet and allowed only six hits, including a double in the second by Barrie which resulted in a run when Whaley hit to left field and singles by O'Brien and Green in the sixth which resulted in O'Brien scoring the second run. The remaining two safeties were by Barrie, in the Fourth and Murray in the seventh.

Back of that pitching the Kiwanians not only fielded well, but between the bunch they garnered twelve hits including two doubles by Cotton, two by Crary and one by Starr.

The Lockworks aggregation put up plenty of battle despite too much Crary and stood a fighting chance until the fifth when they went behind two more to assume a total handicap of six runs. Then Murray went to the outer wardens, replacing Stant, and Wesbrook shouldered the load but he fared little, if any better, being nicked for four more in the session that he pitched. Creighton worked hard on the receiving end while Barrie rested in left field. And of course, the defensive work was not all of inferior quality, for Whaley pulled a nice one-handed stab of Dormer's drive in the fifth and Murray, after allowing two hits for a total of one run in the third, proceeded to fan the next three batters. For the winners, Graham and Walton did circus stuff, the latter making a particularly nice running catch of Creighton's long hit in the fourth.

The teams:—

Score by innings: R H E

Kiwanis ... 1 2 1 1 2 4 x—11 12 0

Struck out—By Crary 7; by Murray 6; by Westbrook 2. Base on balls, by Murray 3; by Westbrook 2. Wild pitching, Murray 1. Left on bases, Kiwanis 7; Lockworks 4. Two base hits, Cotton 2, Crary 2, Starr 1, Barrie 1.

In this game, 36 Kiwanians faced the opposing pitchers; 18 were put out in six innings at bat, including eight strike outs; 18 got on the paths through twelve hits; 4 walks, and two out of four errors; and of that eighteen, seven did at the stations while eleven came home.

Twenty-seven Lockworks players batted; twenty-one were out including six strike outs; six got on by six hits and of that six, four died on bases. The other two came home.

TIGERS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

Detroit Takes First Game Over New York by 4-2 Score.

BUNCH HITS TO WIN

NEW YORK, July 12 (Canadian Press).—The Yankees and the Tigers broke even in a double-header here yesterday, the visitors winning the opener, 4 to 2, and the home team the second game, 6 to 5. It was Detroit's first victory over New York this season.

George Pipgras suffered his fourth defeat of the season when he permitted the Tigers to bunch hits on him for four runs in the seventh round of the opener. Wilcy Moore finished out this game. Ken. Holloway got credit for the victory, but had to have help from Elam Vangilder.

Babe Ruth's 33rd home run capped the Yankee attack in the second clash, and put him 14 games, 15 days and four home runs ahead of his 1927 record.

The Athletics divided a double-header with the Chicago White Sox at Philadelphia, winning the first game 10 to 3, and losing the second, 5 to 1.

Slim Harriss pitched his best game this season yesterday as the Red Sox defeated the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 3, at Boston, in the second game of the series. Harriss held the visitors to seven hits.

Jones, running for Ruel, who had doubled, was thrown out at the plate when he attempted to score on Spalding's single in the ninth inning yesterday, and Cleveland defeated Washington in the third game of the series, 2 to 1, at Washington.

Hudlin, Cleveland right-hander, was wild, giving six bases on balls, but he prevented hits when they meant runs. Cleveland won the game in the ninth, when Reeves, who made three errors, fumbled Burns' grounder, allowing Langford to score.

Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman, dislocated his right shoulder when he attempted to steal second in the second inning. His place was taken by Burns.

MENIE RETAINS LEAGUE LEAD

Defeat Mount Pleasant 12-7 in Rawdon Softball League.

BURNHRAE, July 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—By virture of a 12 to 7 win over Mount Pleasant at Menie on Tuesday evening, the local entry in the Rawdon Softball League still retain the undefeated leadership of the group. Only two games remain to be played, one with Mount Pleasant, the other with Bethel at Menie on Friday night. This promises to be one of the big games of the season and although Menie defeated Bethel quite easily, earlier in the season, the eastern boys promise them a hard battle this time. The Menie boys are batting well behind Eagleson's good pitching and are sure now of a play-off berth, but would like to finish the season without a loss. One of the games with Glen Ross is the only encounter not in the win column. Shillinglaw, the heavy hitting first baseman, who as been batting at a .700 clip, took a slump on Tuesday night when he merely secured one three-bagger in four trips to the plate.

BELLEVILLE WINS DOUBLE-HEADER

Deloro Team Drops Two To Belleville—Scores Were Close.

BELLEVILLE, July 12.— Belleville assumed the leadership of the C.O.B.L. race yesterday when they took both ends of a double-header from the Deloro Smelter. The scores were.: 2—0 in the first game and 5—4 in the second.

The first game was the best to be played in the league this year.

The twilight fixture was decided in the second grame. Woods was sent to the hillock and held the opposition safely.

BELLEVILLE LOSES TO CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12.—Campbellford defeated the visiting team from the Belleville West Hill Tennis Club yesterday in a five-point match in the Tummon League by winning four of the five points. In this league the points are only used to decide the winners of the tournament matches and are not considered in connection with the final reckoning to decide the championship of the league. Campbellford and the Belleville Argyle clubs are playing a single schedule in the league so that the win for the local team yesterday afternoon counts as two. After the matches had been all played, tea was served in the club-house, and later some of the members engaged in friendly games for pastime and practice.

Of the five events, the only one to be won by the visitors was one of the men's doubles when Jones and Hudgins of Belleville won from Beatty and Dr. Johnston, Campbellford, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6. Andrews and Harden of Belleville lost to W. Kingston and W. Henson, Campbellford, 6-1, 6-2. In the mixed doubles, Miss Woodley and V. Hudgins lost to Miss J. Weston and Dr. Longmore, Campbellford, 6-1, 6-2. Miss Josephine Longmore, Campbellford, won from Miss Wrightmire, Belleville, 6-0, 6-0. Harry Free, Campbellford, won from D. Wells, Belleville, 8-6, 6-1.

BISONS LOSE 2ND STRAIGHT

ORIOLES WIN 14-6

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 12 (Canadian Press). — Seibold, sensational veteran moundsman of the Reading Keys, marked up his fourteenth victory of the present season here yesterday by giving the Buffalo Bisons a liberal dose of whitewash for their second straight loss. The score was 5 to 0, and Seibold chalked up his third shutout of the year. Walsh and Whitman took it upon themselves to do about all the hitting against Mangum of the Bisons, each slapping four clean hits for eight of the team's total of 11 blows.

Rochester Were Losers.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 12 (Canadian Press). — Rochester outhit Baltimore, 13 to 8, here yesterday, but wildness of the three Red Wings hurlers and five errors, as well as other loose playing, gave the Baltimore Birds a victory, 14 to 6. The Birds made five runs in the second inning on two hits, and tallied four in the third on as many more safe blows.

Montreal Beat Newark.

MONTREAL, Que., July 12 (Canadian Press). — The Royals got the pitching they have been lacking the last week from Herb. Thormahlen yesterday afternoon, and easily defeated Newark, 7-3, to even the series at one victory each. Thormahlen, coming back after being knocked off the mound last Sunday in his initial start in a Royal uniform, chalked up his first victory for his new bosses yesterday, allowing eight scattered hits.

The Bears scored a run in each of the first three innings, but after that the ex-Jersey City hurler held them safe at all stages, backed up by three fast double plays by the Royals. Shannon, with a homer with one on, gave the Royals two of their three hits in the third. The Bears used three pitchers, but Glard, who started, lost the game on his own erratic fielding.

ROBINS EVEN RED SERIES

Defeat Cincinnati 4-3 in game Which Was Hard Fought to Last Putout.

PIRATES TAKE 5TH

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Canadian Press.)—Pittsburgh stretched a string of victories to five yesterday in winning the second game of the series from Philadelphia, 3 to 1, at Pittsburgh. Rain stopped the contest in the sixth inning.

Traynor's triple in the third inning with two on base won the game for the Pirates.

Brooklyn evened its series with Cincinnati by winning yesterday 4 to 3, in a game which was hard fought down to the last putout. Val Picinich doubled with one out in the ninth, but Curt Walker lined to Jake Flowers, who ended the game with an unassisted double play.

Old Bill Doak pitched smart ball all the way and was particularly strong in such pinches as the Reds were able to create. Pete Jablonowski started his first game for the Reds and held the Robins well until he gave way to a pinch batsman in the seventh. Red Lucas finished.

Gabby Hartnett's ninth home run of the year with Grimm on base and two Boston errors, decided a pitchers' battle in favor of Sheriff Blake and Chicago took the second game of the series from Boston by a 4 to 2 score in Chicago.

Art Delaney pitched nice ball for the Braves, but errors by Farrell and Hornsby enabled the Cubs to score.

Blake allowed the Braves only six hits.

Although the Cardinals scored four runs in the first inning and knocked out Larry Benton, ace of the Giant staff, New York rallied behind the fine relief pitching of Bill Walker to win the second game of the series at St. Louis, 6 to 4. The East St. Louis southpaw gave his fellow townsmen only one hit through the last eight innings. Benton hurled 17 complete games before his string was broken.

Jim Bottomley hit his twentieth home run in the first with Holm and High on base. Bottomley thus crept to within two home runs of Hack Wilson, National League leader.

DE LAVAL DREW WITH C. G. E. IN SOCCER LEAGUE

Poor Marksmanship Prevailed in First Half—Robb Broke His Leg.

DE LAVAL 1, C.G.E. 1.

Wm. Gatfield and Dr. Scott Attended Injured Player—Laidler and Dyer, Snr., Scorers.

A large crowd of soccer fans witnessed the Canadian General lose a league point to the De Laval, last night, at King Edward Park. Early in the second half Laidler opened the scoring; while F. Dyer, senior, got the equalizer. In the first half, Robb collided with an opponent that resulted in him being taken to the hospital with a fractured leg just above the ankle. This is the first time that the league leaders have lost a point and did so with only ten men against eleven.

FIRST HALF.

Captain Pulley defeated Captain Wade in the spin of the coin and made the Canadian General face the sun. Mitchell set the ball rolling for the C.G.E. to make tracks for the De Laval goal, which Cross cleared upfield. Hanson penetrated the defence at the other end, then Burgess broke away on the left.

Missed a Great Chance.

He travelled quickly into goal but failed to make use of his opening. Quick as a flash the De Laval were in their opponents' area harassing them. Twice in succession their forwards had hard luck in not scoring because the parting shot rolled past the upright. Heavy body-checking prevailed thereafter which resulted in keen tactics that provided excellent soccer in mid-field play.

Both Teams Worked Hard.

As time wore on, it was evident that the players were giving their best because the ball went from end to end at a fast place with the respective outside lefts being conspicuous in every attack. Watkins, an outside right, being the most dangerous with his close dribbling and perfect centring that went abegging in front of goal. While the C.G.E. were making raid after raid that finished with Fowler being the stumbling block to success. Just before half time the C.G.E. bombarded the De Laval goal in which the Separator goalkeeper showed his ability as a custodian and held them scoreless. Half time—no scoring.

Robb Broke His Leg.

Nearing the interval, the teams were endeavoring to gain a lead before the second half. The ball ran from end to end as quick as a player could carry it at his foot. At an unlooked for time, a De Laval player and a C.G.E. contestant met in a close tackle that resulted in the latter falling to the ground immediately and the sound of the break could be heard all over the field. Players attended to him and William Gatfield, a spectator, rendered first aid to the injured as soon as it happened. He took off the boot and set the bone in place, and put the leg in splinters; while the player smoked leisurely at a cigarette. Dr. Scott, junior, was called who gave him further attention and ordered him to be taken to the hospital. Mr. Robb is a young Scotsman who has been a resident in the city a short while.

SECOND HALF.

Two minutes after the re-start, Burgess broke away along the wing, he drew the full-backs close to him, then centred to Laidler, who made no mistake with a right foot drive that bulged the net. A few minutes later, Dyer threw a scare into the C.G.E. camp when he went inside the defence to miss by inches. Both teams reverted back again to the long swinging passes, instead of the dribbling code, which altered the tactics greatly and seemed more at ease. 'Throw-ins' held sway for the next ten minutes with each side getting a fair percentage of them. Finally a foul allowed the De Laval to make progress and were successful.

Dyer Equalized.

Lively tusales continued between the C.G.E. right-back and the opposing left wing. After indulging in close combination, the inside left passed across to his centre man. Dyer jumped in between the two men and rapped a rocket shot into the net past Jack Wade, the custodian, for the equalizer. Both teams were again on an even basis, which terminated in the proceedings producing more excitement than ever around the goal area. Darkness crept on as the end arrived and the De Laval tried hard to gain the lead in the last spasm from the forwards. Final—Canadian General 1, De Laval 1.

Canadian General—J. Wade, goal; F. Wade and Westwood, backs; Mann, Robb and Blowers, halves; Clarke, Laidler, Mitchell, Galvin and Burgess, forwards.

Referee—Alex. McKinley.

VIEWS ON SPORT

Moose and Kiwanis will mix it again to-night in a Juvenile group fixture at James Stevenson Park.

The postponed game in the Bantam group of the City League of June 19th between Canucks and Riley & Hickey will be played on Monday, July 16th, at Sacred Heart grounds.

• • • • • •

Lacrosse, Canada's national game, an old sport which has died down in Peterborough and the district, has started on the uphill climb towards its former popularity in Oshawa. Frank Waghorne, Sr., who knows the game from A to Z, is the organizer of the movement and he intends to form severeal playing groups which will enable the youngsters to learn the game at the correct age.

• • • • • •

If the Motor City can start such a movement, why can't Peterborough? This form of outdoor recreation was very popular locally back in 1924. There ought to be enough of the older players around here to get together and form a youngsters' lacrosse league. All you need is to give a little of your time. How about it, men?

• • • • • •

Taking advantage of the pitching and fielding weakness on the part of Lock Works crew, the Kiwanis Juniors came out on the long end of an 11—2 score in a group fixture last night.

• • • • • •

The game was featured by some heavy hitting on the part of both outfits, but due to the snappy work of the fielders for Kiwanis not many runs were scored.

• • • • • •

The hurlers put up a lively battle, Crary averaging a strike-out every inning, while at the same time he held his opponents to six hits throughout the whole game. Murray and Westbrooke allowed twelve hits between them.

CRICKET

LONDON, Eng., July 12 (Canadian Press Cable).—The cricket match between the two great Universities, Oxford and Cambridge, at Lord's, was left drawn yesterday. Scores were: Cambridge, 222 and 328 for seven, declared; Oxford, 287 and 227 for nine wickets.

Scores when stumps were drawn in other matches yesterday were:

Essex versus Gloucestershire at Chelmsford: Gloucester, 440 for five wickets (Hammond, 201 not out).

Warwickshire versus Sussex at Birmingham: Sussex, 358 for six wickets (Langridge 85, H. Parks 83 not out).

Northamptonshire versus Nottinghamshire at Northampton: Notts, 298; Northants, 123 for eight wickets.

Lancashire versus Worcestershire at Worcester: Lancashire, 413 for seven wickets (Hallows 154).

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Norma Talmadge, in the film version of Willard Mack's stage success, "The Dove," opens at the Capitol to-day.

"The Dove," Willard Mack's successful stage play, had the honor of being Norma Talmadge's choice for her first production for United Artists. It opens at the Capitol to-day. The play was produced by David Belasco on February 11th, 1925, at the Empire Theatre, New York City. It proved to be another Belasco sensation and made a star of Judith Anderson, who played the role Norma Talmage has on the screen. Holbrook Blinn was Don Jose Marta the part now played by Noah Beery. Johnny Powell, the fine young American, acted by William Harrigan, is portrayed in the picture by Gilbert Roland. Roland made his first great success as Armand Duval when Norma Talmadge brought "Camille" to the screen.

This is the third Belasco part to be played by Norma Talmadge, "Kiki" and "The Heart of Wetona," being the other plays. Belasco described the character, Dolores Romero, as a very beautiful and fiery Spanish girl—an entirely different part from Miss Talmadge's last picture, in which she played the "Tragic Lady of the Ca-

New Westminster Team At Olympics

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., July 12 (Canadian Press).—The New Westminster Salmon Bellies, amateur lacrosse champions of Canada, left here yesterday morninb en route to Montreal, where they will sail for Amsterdam to compete in exhibition lacrosse matches at the Olympic Games.

Headed by Gordon Spring, manager, eighteen players were in the party, fourteen of whom will make the trip across the Atlantic. It was necessary to carry four extra men as far as Montreal in order to permit of changes in the lineup when the team plays at Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal. If finances permit, the four extra men will go to Amsterdam.

Fraserville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FRAZERVILLE, July 12. — Mrs. E. H. Ehnes, of Detroit, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waterman.

Miss Mona Holden has gone to Bracebridge for the summer months.

Mrs. W. A. Pue was the guest of her brother, Mr. George Howson, of Peterborough, recently.

Miss Thelma Wood, R.N., of Peterborough, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wood.

Miss Agnes Cockburn, of Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. D. Moffat, for the summer months.

Mr. Harry Forster, of Rochester, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. O Pue on Sunday.

Miss R. Taggart teacher of Cairo School has left for her home in Westport after visiting a few days here and at Millbrook.

Mrs. W. A. Pue, Mrs. Arthur Wood, and Miss Frances Bonnycastle left on Saturday for a trip to the West. Mrs. Pue and Mrs. Wood are going to Banff and Calgary, and Miss Bonnycastle to the Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wood and their daughter, Miss Bertha, arrived here last week, motoring from Melita, Manitoba, and had a splendid trip, coming part way by boat. Mr. Wood will visit friends here and in South Monaghan for the next three weeks.

Miss Ruth Trotter has returned home after a few days' visit in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Walter Johnson motored to Bowmanville recently to visit the former's sister, Mrs. J. Thickson, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, but is now improving.

Miss Freda Holden, who has been attending High School in Boyne City, Mich., is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Holden.

Miss K. Lloyd, of Cobourg, is the guest of Mrs. D. Moffat.

Miss Ethel Adamson, of Toronto, spent the week-end with Mrs. J. O. Pue and Mrs. D. W. Johnson.

Little Miss Bessie Bell is holidaying in Lakefield for a couple of weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. Bell

Norham

NORHAM, July 12.—Miss Edith Aspdell, of Dr. Wright's Orthopedic office staff, Toronto, is spending a week with Miss Annie Pomeroy, of Myersburg.

Misses Edith and Henrietta Meneilley, of Toronto, motored with friends, to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Meneilley, last week-end.

Mr. C. Bonstell of Frankford visited his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. N. Gummer on Sunday.

Miss Helen Bertrand of Toronto, is spending a two weeks' holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bertrand of Myersburg.

Master W. Windover of Rochester, is visiting relatives, Mr. and Mrs. P. Windover, of Norham.

Messrs. Everett Newman and Wesley Clare left on Monday for the Oak Lake Boys' Camp, where they will spend the week.

Haying activities were somewhat checked by the heavy storm on Monday night.

Swimming has been the most popular sport in Norham lately. M. Wilson's mill pond has been frequented more by the young men but the more timid girls and younger children have been contented with the good swimming in Mr. N. Gummer's creek.

Miss Isobel Harriet has been visiting her friend, Miss Edna Evans

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE FICKLE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

"The fickle sex" will be interpreted by a man as referring to a woman, while a woman is likely to refer it to a man. Men and women have accused each other of fickleness from time immemorial. Perhaps the most common expression is found in the familiar passage from Sir Walter Scott, "O, woman in our hours of ease, uncertain, coy, and hard to please."

There is no way of settling the dispute. Scientific evidence is not available. What little evidence there is points to a similarity among the two sexes in this as well as in all mental traits. The general rule seems to be that there is greater variability within each group than between the groups.

Leaving for the time being the disputed point of whether a man is more fickle than a woman or a woman more fickle than a man we can say that all of us, whether we belong to the male or female of the species are more or less fickle. There is a little fickleness in every human being.

We live in a dynamic world in which everything changes. Nothing stays put. Heraclitus, the ancient Greek philosopher, used to say that a man never goes down into the same stream twice.

Change in the environment brings changed mental states and attitudes. We become differently sensitized. Our wishes and desires vary, our sense of values fluctuates. The things we once liked we may not like so well now because of certain unpleasant associations. A man may think well of a certain necktie until some woman makes fun of it.

In addition to all this some people are extremely unsteady in their emotional life. If they are unsteady in their choices and decisions we call them vascillating. If the unsteadiness is in their affections we call them fickle.

We are all more or less fickle according to our mental and emotional make-up and the way we withstand the constant changes in the environment which are bound to affect our attitudes.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON FRIDAY

I am sure you have enjoyed the apple diet today.

You have been surprised, no doubt, that you have been completely satisfied, and have not wanted any other food.

If you have followed instructions exactly, you are already looking several years younger, and the double chin is slowly reducing. Have not some of your friends told you how good you are looking?

I hope the members of your family are encouraging you with your reducing diet, not that I think you need encouragement, but if your family is continually suggesting that you might starve to death, it may have a depressing effect upon you, even though you are sincere in trying to follow instructions.

Your case is no exception to the many thousands who have reduced their weight to normal by taking the same kind of diets which I have prescribed for you. I am making these instructions as simple as possible, so that there is no chance for you to make a mistake. These are the same instructions I would give you if I were to see you privately and give you my personal advice. The only difference that I might make is that I would probably give you more difficult instructions to follow.

However, I have prepared these daily instructions so that they are safe, simple and sane. Day by day, in every way, you are going to improve in health, and at the same time your waistline will become more of a human size.

If you have failed to pass life insurance examinations, you may be surprised at the end of this dieting regime that you can easily pass your examinations and be considered a good risk.

If you have suffered from any heart derangements, due to the pressure of fat around your heart, your physician will find your heart will be working in a more normal manner after your weight is reduced.

If you have been puffing and wheezing because of bronchial trouble, you will be surprised to find you are able to take deeper breaths and that you no longer breathe heavily while walking up a short flight of stairs.

TOMORROW'S INSTRUCTIONS

Upon arising tomorrow morning, you are to take the enema and bath the same as you have every day, and then have a breakfast of sliced pineapple. Use either the fresh pineapple or some canned variety which is not put up in syrup. If you cannot secure any non-sweetened pineapple from your grocer, empty out a can of ordinary pineapple and pour off the syrup. Eat several slices of the pineapple for breakfast, and repeat this meal at lunch and dinner time.

With these pineapple meals, you may drink as much water as you desire, and also use whatever water you are thirsty for between meals. No other foods or drinks can be eaten. Remember! No soups, crackers, milk, or food of any kind should be used, or you will not get the results you desire. Even the smallest amount of any other food will interfere with the curative and reducing effect of this special fruit diet.

I hope you took your one-mile walk today, as I prescribed in yesterday's paper. If not, be sure to start it tomorrow. You must also take the exercises which I described for you yesterday. If you have not already taken them today, be sure to do so before retiring tonight. You will get twice as good results if you take the walk and exercises in addition to your fruit diet.

Do not forget to take the cool shower or sponge bath when you have completed your exercises. As usual, take another enema before retiring, using plain warm water.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

PONIES ARE TO PLAY THE PETES HERE SATURDAY

Homesters Have To Win To Keep in the Running.

WILL BE BATTLE.

Joe Daley Has His Kingston Team Going Smoothly.

The Petes will be fighting with their backs to the wall Saturday when they clash with the Kingston Ponies at Riverside Park. They can't afford to lose many more games if they expect a place in the play-offs, and they must take the two fixtures left to play with Kingston, both of which will take place at James Stevenson Park.

The Ponies played smart ball last night with Buck's all-round work being outstanding and with Jamieson pitching for them they will be full of fight all the way. Joe Daley has some colorful ball players and with better pitching would be out in front. As it is, he has the Ponies going nicely, and the Petes will have to play ball all the way to get the verdict Saturday.

This game will be the last home fixture for two weeks, as next Saturday the Petes will visit Oshawa, the game scheduled for here that day having been transferred to the Motor City, while Oshawa will come here early in August instead.

THE FAMOUS TOUR OF CONTRASTS "ACROSS CANADA AND BACK."

A striking feature of this year's "Across Canada and Back Tour," which leaves North Toronto station 1.00 p.m. on July 23 under the auspices of Dean Laird, is the fact that many tourists are coming over from Great Britain to take part in the journey. The special all steel million dolair train which will carry the party across the Dominion is the equal in all respects to the famous "Trans-Canada Ltd." There are no difficulties to confront the traveller as Sinclair Laird, the director, who has already piloted seven similar trips, has made the way smooth beforehand. Bookings for the tour are already exceptionally heavy and all previous records are expected to go by the board. The itinerary includes stops at all the important cities and towns en route and the beauty spots in the Rocky Mountains, Banff and Lake Louise, bungalow camps and industrial centres. A sail across Kootenay Lake, a steamship trip from Vancouver to Victoria and return and another cruise down the Great Lakes and variety to a holiday both delightful and educational. There is not a moment in the twenty-one days wasted and everywhere throughout the western lines a most hearty welcome awaits the visitors. Everything is included from Toronto and return in the sum of $330.00.

Mr. J. Skinner, C.P.A., Peterborough, Ont.

The bird sitting on the stump outside Henry Winslow's house has just picked up a worm. That's a friendly-looking Indian drawn by Madeline Delorme, isn't he? Arthur Barnes has drawn a rabbit skipping. He seems to be having a good time. Don't you think that box is pretty good drawing for a little girl of nine? Wilfrid Galvin forgot to tell his age, but his rabbit certainly is dainty. That ship of Lloyd Rutherford's has full sail set—where is it going, Lloyd? It is certinly a wide smile that Thelma Buller's lady is wearing. Look at the feather in her hat. Is that a car you have, Billie Rose, or is it one you hope to get? It's nice, anyhow.

LYRICS OF LIFE

SOWING.

All the spring I saw him going,
Planting, sowing, planting, sowing—
Wheat to bring him bread to-morrow,
That he need not beg nor borrow;
When the westwind blew in billows,
Then I saw he planted willows;
All along the path of gravel
That the family must travel
There I saw he planted roses;
Where the caravan reposes
By the road, an elm he started;
Then went homeward, happy-hearted.

Through the world we all are going,
And, I pray, we all are sowing,
Sowing something for to-morrow
That we need not beg nor borrow,
Planting faith to be our shelter
When the winds blow helter-skelter,
By the paths of those who love us
Sowing gentle memories of us,
And along the road of others
Kindness for our weary brothers;
Then, our sowing days departed,
Going homeward, happy-hearted.

FATAL SHOOTING.

BUFFALO, July 12 (Canadian Press).—Lloyd Danahy was arrested in Port Colborne, Ontario, to-day a few hours after the fatal shooting in his uncle's Buffalo saloon, of John G. Moriarity, Democratic supervisor of Erie County, and prominent Buffalo politician.

Danahy will be charged with murder in the first degree, the District Attorney's office said. He is alleged to have been one of two persons who were in the bar room of John Danahy's saloon, when three shots were fired; one of which penetrated Moriarity's stomach.

ORANGE MEMORIAL SERVICE IS HELD

lowering of the flag—in final accord, the gathering stood at attention while the National Anthem was played.

Trainloads Arrive.

The scene at the Canadian National railroad station was a lively one throughout the day, with all regular trains and one special from Lindsay, arriving with hundreds of Orangemen from many centres throughout Eastern and Central Ontario. From the time the first of them pulled in in the early hours, the bands of the various lodges were "falling in" to the east of the station, and some of them remained to welcome with fife and drum, the arrival of brethren on later trains.

The arrival of the special train from Lindsay was a special event at the station, the five-coach special reaching Peterborough at about 10.30 bearing a large contingent from Lindsay, surrounding places and even from up north in Haliburton Jones, George Jay, Kenneth Jones, Doris Justin, Kenneth Johnston, Muriel Kent, Gordon Kennedy, Gordon Kirkwood, Jack Kirkwood, Reginald Kingdon, Aileen La Plante, Gregory Lazure, Madeline La Pointe, Betty Lytle, John Landerville, Douglas Lundy, Isabel Lillico, Hazel Laing, Charlie Lasenby, Lloyd Lewis, Fred Linsey, Dorothy Lockhart, Margaret McMahon, Margaret McMurray, Gertrude McMann, Joseph McGillen, Margaret McAuliffe, Thomas McQuaid, Mary Macdonald, Barclay McKone, John McIntyre, Kenneth McKee, Mary McDougall, Bill McPherson, Loretta McDougall, Percy Macdonald, Aileen McConkey, Jean McCauley, Loretta Meagher, George Masters, Harold Murduff, Jean Macanony, Queenie Miller, Mignon Mayneord, Willie Miller, Marion Mahood, Margaret Morrow, Dorothy Marshall, May Mitchell, Gladys Mortimer, Marjorie Nesbitt, Pauline O'Donaghue, Veronica O'Neil, Thelma O'Donnell, James O'Brien, Cyril O'Donnel, Gladys Perdue, Bernice Peel, Dominic Prete, Jack Penrose, Irma Purvis, Gordon Poolman, Albert Poolman, Mildred Peace, Claire Parnell, Hilda Phillips, Shirley Petit, Lloyd Parnall, Agnes Purdy, William Parkes, Edna Pilley, Bernard Pammett, Margaret Ryan, Geraldine Rogers, Muriel Routly, Leola Roseborough, Doris Royea, Donald Richardson, Russell Rowan, Adeline Rogow, Cedric Robson, Freda Rickey, Phyllis Rome, Marita Shaughnessy, Jack Sullivan, James Spellman, Margaret Scott, Harold Stewart, Edith Saunders, Gordon Seabrook, Dorothy Smithson, Sarah Sands, Dorothy Strong, Freda Smith, Ralph Strong, Nelson Stanger, Basil Stephens, Tom Snowdon, Agnes Sands, Donalda Smith, Joe Stenson, Agnes Scollard, Whitty Thirnbeck, Charlie Taylor, William Todd, John Telford, Mary Terrace, Adelard Vinette, Marion Whaley, John Weddell, Gordon Wainwright, Lenore Warne, Kenneth Weldon, Myra Wilson, Muriel Wilson, Arthur Waddell, Annie Williams, James Wheeler, Kenneth Whatley, John Watson, Dorothy Young, Mary Young, Sylvia Zacks.

At Toronto.

TORONTO, July 12 (Canadian Press).—Orangemen in all parts of Ontario to-day are celebrating the Glorious Twelfth, the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. Led by Worshipful Masters, mounted on traditional white horses and stepping to lively music of the drum and fife, the brethren are on the march in practically every city, town and hamlet in the province.

Toronto, the Belfast of Canada, as usual boasts of the largest celebration. The ranks of the loyal lodges were swelled by a delegation of Orangemen from Chicago, who arrived in the city yesterday to join in the celebration.

Beautiful weather with clear skies and bright sunshine, favored the Toronto lodges, and it is expected from 10,000 to 14,000 will turn out to parade to the Exhibition Grounds, where a picnic will be held.

At Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 12 (Canadian Press).—Clear skies and a cooling wind greeted the Orangemen as they set out to various points this morning, where the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne was celebrated. Carleton County lodges as well as those of this city assembled at Richmond and North Gower. A few went to Perth, where there was a big "walk" and picnic.

At Galt

With perfect weather prevailing, Orangemen, True Blue and Young Britons from all over Western Ontario gathered at Galt to-day for the celebration of the Glorious Twelfth, the first there in 19 years. The streets were thronged and bands met incoming delegations at the station. Indications were that fully 7,000 would be in the parade and more than 10,000 visitors were expected. The lodges were represented from as far west as St. Thomas and East Toronto.

HEAD CLUBBED WITH BALL BAT

Room-mate in Toronto Y.M.C.A. Said To Have Confessed Attack..

FOR MONEY.

TORONTO, July 12 (Special). — Waking in his room in the Central Y.M.C.A. at 3 o'clock this morning to find himself being clubbed over the head and shoulders with a baseball bat Arthur Ernest Lewis, aged 30, who came this week to Canada from Newport, England, let out a piercing shriek and lapsed into unconsciousness.

Nearby roomers on the fourth floor, hearing the commotion, rushed to the room, to find Lewis covered with blood, and also in the same room, John S. Wells, his room-mate, with a blood-covered child's baseball bat in his hand. A hurry call to the police brought Plainsclothesmen Foster and Armstrong from the Dundas West Division. They arrested Wells on a charge of attempted robbery with violence.

In a statement to the police, Wells is alleged to have admitted using the weapon in attempting to steal his room-mate's money in Police Court this morning.

Lewis, who is a widower, resigned his position on the Newport (Monmouthshire) Police Force, intending to try for a position on the Toronto Police Force.

and down George to The Exhibition Park where they marched around the track past the judges stand where the parade broke up. The number of lodges present representing approximately five thousand people made a parade of such length that it took an hour and a half in passing.

The streets were crowded to their utmost capacity, people crowding to the edge of the parade in the middle of the street.

The Kilties Band accompanying the Cobourg Lodges thirty-six strong attracted much attention in their attractive uniforms as well as their playing of merit.

The age of the Durham County Regimental Band that accompanied the well-dressed Pontypool Lodge caused much comment from those watching the parade. They were all young fellows dressed in the regulation khaki, which gave them a sterner appearance in spite of their age over their gay dressed bandsmen who represented the other visiting lodges.

In the walk were little tots which made one wonder how they would stand the long parade to the Exhibition Grounds, and elderly men who have celebrated this famous day in the same manner for many years, and boast of the fact that they have not missed a walk for so many years. There were a large number of ladies' lodges present, the turnout of women being very gratifying demonstrating the interest that has spread to the ladies in the L.O.B.A.

The absence of traffic on the line of march facilitated matters greatly and allowed the parade to pass free from obstruction to the Exhibition Park.

Lodges Present.

The lodges represented in the walk were: Victoria County, Victoria Ladies 41, Emily 294, Omemee 114, Omemee 113, Reaboro 820 who represented North Emily, Omemee, Dunsford, Baltimore, Cobourg No. 183, Cobourg 127, Roseneath, Coldsprings, Cavan, Frazerville, Millbrook, Carmel, Baillieboro, Port Hope Juveniles, Port Hope 3309, Divernaugh 75, Bewdley, Garden Hill, Purple Hill of Elizabethville, which was the only lodge on parade in which the women were not in white but wore orange dresses and orange and blue hats, which made them quite distinctive in their attractive uniform, Janetville, Pontypool, Lotus 79, Bethany, Keene Juveniles, Keene Ladies, Campbellford, Wellington, Nassau, Downer's Corners, North Monaghan, Bobcaygeon, Lakefield Juveniles, Bensford Lodge of Lakefield, Wesley, Peterborough County Juveniles, Vimy Ridge Lodge, Peterborough, Eastern Star of Peterborough, Star of Bethlehem, Peterborough, Duke of Manchester, Peterborough, Lindsay.

Harold C. Shipman, Assistant Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East and J. M. Carl were present in the officials' car. The mounted men were E. F. Reid, who acted as Grand Marshal of the parade; W. Pary, Standard Bearer; W. J. Hackford, District Past Master; G. Porte, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, rode at the head of Peterborough County; I. Campbell, Director, rode at the head of Victoria County; J. D. Manley, District Master, rode at the head of Northumberland, and O. Richie rode at the head of Durham.

all costs of operation, maintenance, capital charges and depreciation and also rebating the town $4,774.94.

On top of 10 per cent. discount for prompt payment, that is within 15 days after notices are sent out to consumers, the Orillia Commission hands the town treasurer a sizable cheque, apparently because their surplus revenue embarrasses them.

Some Sample Accounts

Leaving the historical features of Orillia's power development until later, the following accounts for June 1928, as taken from the receipt records may be of interest to Trent district readers, including Peterborough:

A house with 10 lights metered 22 kilowatt hours, and was charged with 90 cents "service charge" and 22 cents at te rate of one cent per kilowatt hour, a grand total of 5: cents, minus 5 cents, discount, or a net bill of 50 cents for the month

A house with 13 lights, electric range, etc., paid $2.34.

Here is the bill for a house with 24 lights but no electric range:

Porch lamp	.06
Service charge	.33
175 Kwt. Hrs. at 1c.	1.75
	$2.14
Less discount (10%)	.21
	$1.93

The following account was forwarded to an Orillia manufacturer whose home has 24 lamps, electric range, electric water heater and all the other domestic gadgets that can be affixed to sockets:

Service charge	$0.88
865 Kwt. hours at 1c	8.65
	$9.53
Less discount	.95
	$8.58

An Orillia garage consumed 681 kilowatt hours in June, for which it was charged $7.46.

A big hardware store with 82 lamps, also sockets for ranges, radios and various other display purposes metered 760 kilowatt hours, and its June bill was $8.46.

A receipted bill for January, 1928, for 361 kw. h. in the class for house wired for electric range has been pinned above the cashier's wicket showing payment of $4.05 in Orillia, and some person who doubtless knew the circumstances wrote beside it, "This charge would be $37.49 in Brewster, N.Y."

Out-of-Town Consumers.

Orillia sells power to the villages of Atherley, Uptergrove, Longford, Udney, also to Rama Road, Muskoka Road and six summer resorts. Farmers and villagers are required to pay 25 per cent. of such extensions which are provided upon receipt of petitions approved by the engineer.

These non-resident consumers are charged a flat rate of 11 cents a lamp per month, plus 10 per cent., less 15 per cent. discount, iron and toasters have set monthly flat rate charges.

15 Lamps at 11c each	$1.65
Electric iron	.36
	$2.01
Plus 10 per cent. charge	.20
	$2.21
Less 15 per cent. discount	.33
Net bill	$1.88

Six lamps at 11c	.66
Electric iron	.36
Electric toaster	.40
	$1.42
Plus 10 per cent. charge	.14
	$1.56
Less 15 per cent. discount	.23
Net bill	$1.33

One of last year's extensions was to the community of Udney under a five-year contract, the rates being 23 cents per lamp, 48c for an iron and 48 cents for a grill or toaster.

Farmers are charged 48 cents a month for a ¼ horse-power motor and 96 cents for ½ horse-power. Orillia has 164 rural flat rate customers and 50 rural meter services were installed within the last six months. The town services are gradually being metered and the whole system will eventually be assessed on that basis. The commissioners desired to encourage the conservation of power by adopting the meter method.

IN MEMORIAM

WEAVER.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Thomas Weaver, who departed this life, July 10th, 1922.

Just six years ago to-day
God called the sweetest of mothers away.
But you shall always be remembered by those who loved you best;
And peaceful be your home, dear mother.
It is sweet to breathe your name.
We loved you very dear in life;
In death, we do the same.

HYDE PARK SCANDAL REPORT

HISTORY TOLD OF PEOPLE'S POWER PLANT

INITIATIVE GOT CHEAP POWER FOR ORILLIA

Town Is No Mere Retailer, But Retains Control of Birthright.

DIFFICULTIES MET.

Manufacturers Pay $11.70 Net Per Horse Power—Eliminate Middleman.

Orillia's twenty manufacturies buy their electric power from the town at the rate of $13 per horse power, less 10 per cent. discount, a net charge of $11.70. That price, says Orillia, is the cheapest in Ontario.

And Orillia is no mere retailer of power, a middleman taking a rake-off, a pretentious peddler. Orillia produces 6,000 horse power at its own generating plant, and delivers it directly to consumers, retaining complete control of its valuable commodity in every stage of its generation, transmission and distribution. Remembering the aphorism, "A good wine needs no bush," Orillia declines to appropriate or lay claim to the title, "The Electric City," or more correctly town, leaving the empty phrase to any city that would assume it, perhaps in self-deception.

How did Orillia get this 6,000 horse power plant? The town is situated on Lake Simcoe and Lake Couchiching. There is no falling water close by to be harnessed, no river tumbling through the town. Nature endowed Orillia with splendid gifts, but a river was not one of them.

However, at the north end of Lake Couchiching the Severn River starts on its course to Georgian Bay, and its nearest rapids were approximately twenty miles from Orillia. To Champlain and the Indians of a bygone age the Ragged and Swift Rapids were obstacles, stretches of turbulent water that forced paddlers to portage.

Peterborough people can easily imagine the appearance of this resource on the Severn, for they have various, if unnamed, rapids within the city's limits, and others at no great distance. In an earlier age, Indians are said to have carried their canoes from Chemong Lake to the river at Peterborough to avoid that section of the Otonabee which was of no use or help to them. The speed of the river made it unnavigable, and consequently it had no attraction for Indians.

Well, if Nature was lavishing some future communities with power assets, and neglecting others like Orillia, or at least setting difficulties in the way of self-help and accomplishment, compensating factors eventually struck a balance like those so often observed in the affairs of men, in which inheritances are dissipated by the sons of wealth, and the heirs of poverty achieve fortunes.

Orillia's Initiative.

Orillia took the first step to acquire a water power in 1898, and claims to be the pioneer municipality in long distance transmission of electricity. Twenty miles across country were the Ragged Rapids on the Severn River. Orillia decided to harness them, and in 1899 passed a $75,000 debenture bylaw which promptly started the construction of a dam and power house. By January, 1902, the plant was in operation, providing 800 horse power,

Searchers Unable To Locate Lost Child

ELROSE, Sask., July 13—(Canadian Press).—The sixth day of the search for two and one-half year old Eddie Hamilton, lost in the hills here, having ended fruitlessly last night the majority of the searchers have returned to their homes.

Flying instructor Jack Bythell and Major C. R. McCullouch, of Saskatoon, are continuing the search from the air and constable R. M. Wood, of Rosetown, and Corporal Standidge, of Elrose -with a hundred or so neighbors are still scouring the hills in a last frantic effort to find the child.

ARMORED CAR TAKES TRAIL

Toronto Mail Car Bandits Are Sought By Armed Forces.

LIKE A TANK.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 13 (Special to The Examiner).—It will be Greek against Greek if the detectives scouring the Chicago underworld for the gunmen believed to have had a hand in the Toronto mail car robbery ever come to blows with their quarry. The Chicago police have placed their "big guns" at the disposal of the Canadian detectives, Claude Renaud, chief of detectives of Windsor, and Detective Sergeant Mulholland of Toronto. The Chicago squad which accompanied them on the rounds of the vice haunts to-day were armed to the teeth. The two big Lincoln cars are really miniature arsenals. Peacefully disguised as much as possible, they are half-brothers to military tanks. In a long, leather covered, box-like compartment on top of the front seat are rifles, shot guns and hand machine guns. The cars are equiped with bullet-proof windshields and armored bodies. On the right running board is a brass gong a foot in diameter.

The police here know their stuff. They take no chances in house raids. Only last year the force in such a search discovered a veritable 'crime club" in a three-story building on Prairie Avenue. Seven squads of detectives, armed with six machine guns, surrounded and raided the place which was known as the Ledo Inn. They found it the rendezvous of some of the most notorious criminals in the United States—murderers, robbers, kidnapers, and safe-blowers. When it was all over, the police had in custody twenty-two men, including three wanted for murder. All of them had police records in various parts of the country.

ALD. ACKERMAN BUYS AIRPLANE

Has Purchased One of the New Moth Planes For Immediate Delivery.

Alderman Charles Ackerman, prominent Peterborough citizen, has purchased one of the famous Moth planes which he expects to have within a few days. While learning to pilot the ship, he will keep it at the old flying field, where an expert from the factory will instruct him in the art of flying. Later he expects to equip his craft with floats and keep it at Chemong Lake. Col. Ackerman has been a real enthusiast of the flying game for a number of years.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN.

Canada is Theme of Many of Speakers Who Address Members.

A final triumphal march past the grad stand of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition grounds that lasted for nearly an hour beyond two o'clock, while judges and officials and an immense audience of spectators looked on—then temporary dismissal—thus ended the grand parade of the forty-seven lodges with fife and drum, brass, and even pipe bands, which had begun at Confederation park, flowed through the business section of the city and fololwed a car-lined route to its objective a mile or more distant. There the official program continued with brief yet impressive addresses, band competition, baseball and softball and two entertaining vaudeville acts, all within full view of the grand stand spectators. Exhibition park presented a scene of having conveyed a thrill of joy to those who had planned and put into effect the day's program. With banners and ribbons flowing in the breeze, uniforms of blue, and white and orange and all three combined, the lodges assembled upon the grounds— transforming, with most pleasing effect, the broad green sweep into a pattern of lively hues, as animated as it was colorful

A Perfect Day.

No matter how carefully planned, or how otherwise well conducted the observance may have been, there was one factor which contributed to its success as much, if not more than all the others—the weather was perfect A bright sky and a cooling breeze from the south-west meant freedom from concern regarding cold or warmth though the day was a successful one from the viewpoint of numerous refreshment booth keepers as well as uptown parlors. Small wonder, then, that the program never failed to hold 'nterest and that the speakers were accorded the best of attention.

Mayor Roland Denne.

"I wish to welcome you on behalf of the citizens and the council of Peterborough, not only for the personal pleasure but for a selfish reason. Peterborough welcomes you because she wants you to come here as her visitors oftener than once in four years. We have the accommodations that you require. I wish to congratulate the brethren on their splendid turn-out; you should be proud of your Order and should endeavour to attend its meeting and parades 100 per cent.

"Again let me point out that Peterborough, the county town and centrally located, is most suitable for 12th of July walks and we feel that once in four years is not often enough to have the Orangemen parade here."

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Introduced by Mayor Denne, William H. Bradburn, M.P.P., addressed the large gathering. In humorous vein he recalled a challenge to join the Order, hurled at him as he addressed a similar gathering four years ago—he had taken it to heart and since joining has only regretted that he had not done so many years before. "It stands for freedom and liberty and that is what the life of our country depends upon," said Mr. Bradburn.

As a member in the Provincial House, it was only natural that the speaker should mention, with pride, Ontario, the banner province, whose

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

One of the largest gatherings ever held in the city, Thursday's Orange celebration was at the same time one of the safest and sanest, according to the city police.

A number of minor car accidents came to their attention, but there was not a single injury to life or limb, and not one arrest for intoxication or other reasons.

Failure of visiting motorists to read and heed the "no left turn" signs at the corner of Charlotte and George Streets resulted in several scraped fenders but no major damage; a truck turning in to the curb along by the Downyflake Tea Room was struck but not seriously injured by a car following in the same direction, while the failure of a motorist to stop when coming on to Charlotte Street off Reid Street was responsible for another accident in which no one was injured.

Rescuers Expect More

Hope Now Revived For Other Parties Said To Be Nearby.

AND FOR AMUNDSEN.

Krassin Crushes Way Through Ice in Epic Search of North.

(Copyright, 1928, by Associated Press)

MOSCOW, July 13.—Spurring on relentlessly in what now appears to be a winning fight against the Arctic, the powerful Russian icebreaker Krassin, after rescuing the marooned group of five of the Italia crew yesterday, was pounding on to-day to make further rescues.

Just a few hours after the brilliant rescue of two members of the Italia's walking party yesterday, the Krassin crashed through ice floes to reach the Viglieri group, which for 48 days had been stranded near Foyn Island, off Northeast Land.

With seven of the 16 men of the Italia safely aboard, the Krassin immediately turned its attention to picking up several rescue groups which have become stranded themselves and kept a sharp lookout for Raoul Amundsen and his five companions.

Report of the rescue received here from the Krassin says, the five men embraced their rescuers and wept tears of joy. All five were well save Ceccioni, motor chief of the Italia, who had a broken leg. With the five men the Krassin also found the airplane which Lieut. Lundborg crashed when he attempted to land a second time after taking General Nobile off the floe.

Hope for the party of six men who were carried off in the bag of the dirigible Italia on May 25 and had been given up for lost has been revived by reports reaching Moscow, indicating that the location of the group is known.

General Nobile, now at King's Bay, has sent a message to the rescue ship Krassin stating that the group, referred to as the "Alessandre" party was not far from the present location of the Krassin.

The latest reports received in Moscow indicated that the men were at a point 80.45 north latitude and 30.31 east longitude. This would place them northeast of Foyn Island.

With these reports, which were not confirmed, came a revival in Moscow of the belief that Roald Amundsen was likely to have joined this group in his flight from Norway to rescue the stranded men.

The intention of the Krassin is to proceed to Foyn Island where several persons were sighted who as yet have not been identified. These men signalled back that she would pick them up on returning from the Viglieri rescue. They are believed to be the Alpine Chasseurs who attempted to

London Hostesses Tell the World Names Of Uninvited Persons Who Crash Parties

LONDON, July 13.—What is described as a "scandal" of the London season is revealed in the Daily Express. It concerns the problem of the uninvited guest and the principals in the affairs, according to this newspaper, were the Countess of Ellesmere, Stephen Tennant, stepson of Lord Grey of Fallorden and Miss Nancy Beaton, sister of Cecil Beaton, a photographic artist.

The Countess of Ellesmere gave one of the most brilliant balls of the season at her London residence, Bridgewater House. Mr. Tennant was among those invited but went first to a Russian ballet accompanied by a group of friends, including Miss Beaton. After the ballet Mr. Tennant and his party adjourned to the Ellesmere ball but the Countess, who, it is said, already had failed to recognize 300 persons present, challenged Miss Beaton and as a result of what was said Mr. Tennant and his party withdrew.

Miss Beaton, in an interview, acknowledged that she had not received an invitation to the ball but denied that the Countess spoke to her. Cecil Beaton, also interviewed, pointed out that Mr. Tennant had an invitation to bring a partner.

The Countess of Ellesmere said she wishes fullest publicity given to the names of her uninvited guests "as I consider this to be the only way of dealing with a nuisance which I understand many other hostesses have suffered from this season."

The Countess, at her dance, introduced a new idea. She had placed about the house notices reading "Do Not Smoke."

Hostesses have been bitterly complaining for some time of damage done by careless smokers who leave cigarettes burning on mantel pieces and polished tables or even tread them into carpets when they get up to dance. Ash trays placed in every conceivable spot are ignored. Some hostesses, mindful of the habit some guests have of sitting on stairs between dances and smoking even had ash trays placed on every stair.

Bridgewater House contains a valuable collection of 400 old masters, and the Countess of Ellesmere evidently was thinking of them when she put up the placards telling her guests not to smoke. The wording on them was somewhat peremptory, but she was obeyed.

FOUR ARE BURNED TO DEATH TWO INJURED IN PLANE CRASH

Two Women and Two Men Die When Airplane Drops.

PILOT HURT.

Plane Dives Twice and Then Bursts Into Flames Over Field.

CROYDON, July 13 (Canadian Press).—Two women and two men were burned to death in the crash of an airplane at Purley to-day. One of the men was aeronautical inspection director A. Hall, of the Croydon airdrome.

The pilot was badly injured and sent to the hospital, while another passenger escaped with only slight hurts.

The plane was seen to dive and then recover slightly. It dived again and crashed in flames. Desperate efforts were made to get the victims free, but fierceness of the flames prevented this.

MILLS DEATH MYSTERY YET

Inquest Takes Place To-day in Effort To Clear Up Fatality.

SUICIDE MOOTED.

Officials Still Work On Case But Refuse a Statement.

PORT PERRY, July 13 (Special to The Examiner).—No solution to the mystery in the death of Vernon Mills, whose body was found in Cedar Creek, near here, has yet been made. County Constable W. F. Shepperd to-day said that no explanation of the cause of death had yet been made, although he and the Provincial Police are working on the case. Coroner Dr. J. A. Mathers said that nothing new had been secured, but he thought to-day's inquest would throw some additional light.

Vernon Mills, aged 30, who had moved from his home in Lindsay to Oshawa about a month ago, was found floating face down in the stagnant waters of Cedar Creek, three miles from here, early on Wednesday morning. The light closed car in which he had travelled from a visit in Lindsay the night before was standing where it had apparently lightly collided with the abutment of a bridge on the side of the road. In addition to the medical evidence, six witnesses were summoned to attend the inquest in the Town Hall this afternoon. These are Miss Helen Mills, sister of the deceased, who was among the last to see him, and Mike George a Greek

Tribunal Scores Police

Third Degree Methods Menace Civil Liberty in London.

OPINION DIVIDED.

Main Charges Not Proved But Sympathy Given Miss Savidge.

LONDON, July 13 (Special to The Examiner).—The Parliamentary tribunal into the famous Hyde Park case, the repercussions of which have been the sensation of the present Parliamentary session, this afternoon issued its detailed report.

The tribunal, composed of Sir J. Eldon Bankes, John Withers and H. Lees Smith, was appointed to investigate the conduct of Scotland Yard regarding Miss Irene Savidge, a pretty young woman charged with offences with Sir Leo Money in Hyde Park. The police court charges were dismissed by a magistrate.

Miss Savidge was later taken to Scotland Yard and grilled as to her past life. The police said they took her statement only with a view to a possible charge of perjury against the Hyde Park policeman. Critics of the force declared Miss Savidge was tricked into going to Scotland Yard, and that she was asked most indecent questions and that her answers were falsified.

In its report the tribunal is divided. Sir Eldon and John Withers refuse to believe the main charges against the police, but they say that advantage was taken of Miss Savidge's legal ignorance in getting her to go to Scotland Yard to answer the questions. The report was awaited with keen interest and reference to the case repeatedly cropped up in debate with the appointment of Lord Byng as commissioner of Metropolitan Police.

A scathing indictment of Scotland Yard is contained in the concluding portion of the minority report by Mr. Smith. "It may well be," he stated, "that the events into which we have enquired are a manifestation of a system that has grown up within Scotland Yard, and this enquiry opens wider issues than the actions of a few police officers. What happened to Miss Savidge can easily happen to any man or woman in a similar position. Great perils to private citizens and to civil liberty have been revealed by her experience."

ROCHESTER WOMAN ARRIVES HOME

Was Thought To Have Committed Suicide at Niagara Falls.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 13—(Canadian Press).—Reports of the suicide of a Rochester woman, believed to have plunged over the Niagara Falls yesterday which were substantiated by clothing and a note left on the rocks above the Falls, were groundless this morning when the woman arrived in this city. The woman, Mrs. Josephine Drew, aged 46, arrived here hatless and coatless on the New York Central train from Buffalo and was met at the station by a policeman. She admitted writing a farewell note on the street car transfer which led the authorities to believe she had committede suicide.

FINE SHOWING IS MADE BY LESSER LIGHTS ON TEAM

Montreal Man Leads Eleven Canadians With Score of 143.

SIX IN FINALS.

Many of Team Have Qualifying Scores in To-day's Second Stage.

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 13 (Canadian Press).—Two of the comparatively lesser lights on the Canadian Bisley team distinguished themselves in the shoot in the second stage of the great King's Prize to-day. C.Q.M.S. R. Stevenson of Montreal, led the eleven Canadians with a fine 143 out of a possible 150, while Sgt. H. W. Burton of Victoria shot 142.

The next best Canadian scorers were Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, and Sgt. J. R. Regan, Victoria, each scoring 136. Hours were needed to tabulate the scores of competitors to-day to determine the 100 who would enter the final tomorrow, but it seemed that the scores of 136 would qualify, so that Canada would have more than half a dozen marksmen in the final.

Canada will have at least six representatives in the final for the King's Prize tomorrow, as many of her Bisley team have qualifying scores of 137 and better in to-day's second stage.

Three more Canadians with scores of 136 have a chance to enter the final, shooting off with 33 others for 33 of the 100 places.

Has No Fear Of Friday, 13th

NEW YORK, July 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Ignoring the popular superstition regarding Friday the 13th, Issy Schwartz, recognized in New York as the world's flyweight boxing champion, put his crown at stake in the 12 round battle against Frisco Grande, Buffalo Filipino, here to-night.

Bride Flees Horsewhip Wielded By Sweetheart Who Felt Scorned

NEW YORK, July 13. — Pearl Sommer, thirty-six, of Manhattan, decided last night that she was a scorned woman.

So, arming herself with a horse-whip, she called at the home of the woman for whom she said she had been scorned, Mrs. Dorothy Nunnery, fifty, Long Island City, a bride of a week.

When police arrived Mrs. Nunnery was in the middle of the street screaming, and Miss Sommer was in the house, surrounded by a medley of broken lamps and dishes, scrambled clocks and window panes, with a garnish of splintered door panels and chairs. She argued:

"I've got a right to break up my own furniture, haven't I?"

Nunnery, who had left the house five minutes before Miss Sommer called returned just after she was arrested. He put his arms around his wife and said:

"Don't worry, dear. I expected this."

She didn't explain that statement further. Police arrested Miss Sommer on a charge of malicious mischief.

Miss Sommer told police that she and Nunnery were sweethearts until he met the present Mrs. Nunnery through a matrimonial advertisement in a Manhattan evening newspaper.

Germans Arrest Air Expert As Spy, Say He Sold Moscow Plane Secrets

BERLIN, July 13.—Valuable trade secrets regarding the construction of German airplanes and motors have been sold to the Soviet Government by an employe of the German Government in the aeronautical research laboratories at Adlershof, near Berlin, the police reported.

They have arrested Ludwig, a construction designer, for selling plans, reports and test data on planes, motors and other aeronautical appliances to two men who are directly connected with the Soviet Government. Junkers and Dornier are believed to have been robbed of valuable secrets concerning the construction of new planes not yet finished.

The three men recently held conferences in Dessau, Friedrichshafen, Berlin and other German cities, it is stated. Herr Ludwig, on account of his connection with the Government research work, had access to all new appliances and plans in all airplane construction plants. A number of inventions not yet patented were shown to him for his inspection.

These plans with other valuable aeronautical data, Herr Ludwig is accused of selling, receiving sums running into hundreds of thousands of marks. It is hinted that the Russian Commercial Attache's offices were used as headquarters for commercial spying.

The affair may develop into a scandal equaling the one in London that cost Russia her good relations with Britain. The police hope to reveal within a day or two evidence of how Moscow has operated in friendly countries under cover of diplomatic immunity.

Thirty Lodges Celebrate At Stirling

VETERANS TAKE ACTIVE PART IN PROCESSION

Daniel McGee and John Adams Among Oldest Members on Grounds.

AT STIRLING.

Members From Distant Places Return to Walk With Old Lodges.

STIRLING, July 13 (Special to The Examiner).—Thirty lodges participated in the Glorious 12th Celebration held in Stirling. County D. of C. W. J. Bateman put in one of the busiest days of his life piloting all and sundry to their respective places. The main building of Stirling Agricultural Society, with its 800 seating capacity was barely large enough to accommodate the hundreds who thronged it. It is estimated that over four thousand partook of the excellent catering and enjoyed the first-class waiting. From an early hour Stirling band played enlivening strains from the bandstand, while later the Johnston Highland fife band of Belleville contributed to the pleasure of the crowd.

Many veterans of the Orange Order were seen on the grounds. The following being good examples: Daniel McGee of Stirling L.O.L. 110, who next Christmas will be 90 years old, has 70 years' membership, having joined the Order in Daumigee, County Antrim. Brother John Adams of Thomasburg, a nonogenarian next October, with 56 years membership, and James Donnan of Stirling, who joined at West Huntingdon, July 12, 1875.

Speeches were delivered by W. E. Tummon, M.P.; Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P.; Rev. B. F. Byers, and others. At two o'clock it was estimated that 6,000 had paid admission. Many brethren came from faraway places in the States and Manitoba to walk with their old lodges.

CONFERENCE POSTPONED

LONDON, July 13. Canadian Press.—The Daily News says: A combination of circumstances will prevent the Imperial Conference — which should have taken place next year — from meeting until 1930 at the earliest.

The general election in this country and the elections in Australia and South Africa will be mainly responsible for the delay.

When the conference meets again in London, therefore, it is possible that a different party may be in power, the newspaper says.

MADOC BOY IS TRAINING

PASSES TESTS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, July 13. — Corp. T. E. D. Nickle, U.S.M.C., of Pensacola, Fla., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Nickle of Madoc, writes: "Everything has been even better than I expected. I passed myl precision landing test in sea plane from 600 with a high mark. Then I passed the final in seaplanes, and that too, was good. But, best of all, I started specializing in attack-type land-planes—got a hard boiled enlisted "gob" for an instructor, but he was broad minded and a peach of a flier. I went right to work with the attitude that he was trying to help me along by giving me all he knew, and we worked together. The result was that I learned his lessons well—he gave me good "chits," and after five hours' instruction I passed about the hardest examination of the course with the highest mark given this year —3.2865, as against previous high of 3.25 out of 4.00. We are literally flying right through this work, and are more than half way through. Since my solo check just mentioned I have flown an additional period (10 hours) and passed my 10 hours solo examinations.

"We start theoretical gunnery next week and later get practical exercises in the air that sure will be hot stuff. Had an hour of night flying last night, and it was like something one reads about. It was as dark as pitch when I took off, except for the glow of one of the wing tip lights that showed on the propellor, and showed its outline. The outline of the land was barely visible from 2000 feet, but the city and all lighted areas were plainly visible appearing like fairy villages in a kid's story. About twenty miles inland there was a great thunderstorm in progress, and one could see the flashes of lightning as they left the clouds illuminating

Premier King Will Open Prince Albert National Park In His Tour Of The West

OTTAWA, Ont., July 13 (Canadian Press). — A tentative schedule for the western trip of Premier Mackenzie King was issued from the office of the Prime Minister yesterday. It is not Premier King's speaking schedule, and he will not deliver speeches at all the points named. He will, however, speak in Prince Albert, his own constituency, where he attends the opening of Prince Albert National Park, and also the Prince Albert Exhibition. His stay in the constituency of Prince Albert will comprise six days.

Premier Mackenzie King will leave Ottawa on Thursday, August 2, arriving in Winnipeg on the following day. He will leave Winnipeg on Sunday, August 5, arriving in Brandon on Monday, the 6th. Leaving Brandon on Tuesday early in the morning, he will reach Dauphin the same day, August 7, and remain there until 5 p.m. From Dauphin he proceeds to Lloydminster, arriving there at 9 in the morning of Wednesday, August 8, and remaining there until the next morning. From Lloydminster he goes north to Battleford, where he will spend Thursday, August 9.

Early in the morning of Friday, August 10, Premier King will reach Prince Albert, according to the tentative schedule. He will remain there until Thursday, August 16, when he leaves for Davidson. He will leave Davidson for Winnipeg on the morning of Saturday, August 18, arriving in the latter city on the same date. His departure from Winnipeg for Ottawa is scheduled for Sunday, August 19, and he is due in the Capital on Tuesday, August 21.

ICE-BREAKER KRASSIN ONLY 3 MILES FROM CAMP OF SURVIVORS

MOSCOW, July 13.— (Canadian Press.) — The ice breaker Krassin was only three miles from the camp of the five survivors of the dirigible Italia near Foyn Island at 3 p.m. yesterday.

The Krassin reported that as she passed the scene of the Italia disaster she saw a number of men signalling and she replied that she would pick them up on her return from the camp of the Viglieri group.

Prof. Samoilovitch, in command of the Soviet rescue expedition, reported his belief that the men who signalled to them were Alpine chasseurs who had been sent in search of Nobile's men There is the possibility that they belong to the missing sled party of Captain Sora.

SMALL BOY IS STRUCK BY CAR

WATCHING ORANGE PARADE.

MARMORA, July 13 (Special to The Examiner).—While looking at the Orange parade in Marmora yesterday, George Osborne, small son of Mr. and Mrs. John Osborne, was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Gertie Franklin. The boy had stepped out on the road in front of the automobile, and after being struck down, the car passed over his body. He was taken to Dr. Crawford's office, but upon examination there were no marks to be found on his body. Believing he may have suffered internal injuries, the doctor administered a hypodermic. Miss Franklin was accompanied by her father at the time of the accident.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL

The North Monaghan Council held their regular meeting at the Court House, Peterborough, on Monday. All members were present, and Reeve Rye presided.

Mayor Denne and George McDonald, as a committee, attended the Council on Peterborough War Memorial funds, and interviewed the Council in regard to grant for same. This matter was left over for further investigation by members of the Council, and will be taken up at the next meeting.

A resolution was passed authorizing the clerk to forward $17.00 to King's Printers, Toronto, for Revised Statutes, 1927, and Sessional Statutes, 1928.

A resolution was passed that the clerk arrange for a meeting of the North Monaghan Council with the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council in regard to fixing certain areas for fire protection and providing for payment thereof.

A petition was received from Messrs. Edward Feeley, Thomas Arnott, and others asking that the Council open the ditch on the north side of Cameron Street for the purpose of draining the property there usually flooded by spring freshets.

A resolution was passed that above petition be referred to township road superintendent.

The following bills were passed for payment:

Dr. A. W. McPherson, $25.00; William Lunn, gasoline, $5.04; The William Hamilton Co., sharpening grader teeth, $3.50; Jeremiah Solomen, four cedar posts, $3.00; Imperial Oil Company, Limited, oil and gasoline, $38.54; H. Fowler, 124 yards of gravel, $18.60; Archie Patterson, posts, gravel, and hauling cement and wire for dump ground fence, $12.75; J. J. Duffus, Limited, grease, $1.50; The William Hamilton Company, sharpening point, $6.00; Archie Patterson, freight on machine repairs, $1.16; Metallic Roofing Co., one culvert, $47.52; Peter Hamilton Co., combination plough point, $3.55; The William Hamilton Co., repairs for grader, $9.72; Harry Clark, sheep killed by dogs, $10.00; Walter Brown, sheep killed by dogs, $18.00; James O'Keefe, for repairing sidewalk, $45.20; Sawyer Massey Co., for side feed conveyor, $2.50.

The meeting then adjourned.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, August 13, at two o'clock p.m., at Court House, Peterborough.

CHILD FATALLY CUT DIES IN HOSPITAL

PEMBROKE, July 13.—While picking berries in a field, little Lennox Jones, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones of Demers Centre, Que., was caught in the knives of a mower and one foot practically cut off, while the second was badly lacerated. He ws rushed to the Pembroke General Hospital and died late Wednesday evening.

The little boy was hidden from view by the long grass. He did not notice the approach of the mower until it was right beside him and, becoming excited, he ran into the machine instead of away from it. The body will be taken to Demers Centre for interment.

CANADIANS WERE 45 POINTS DOWN IN FINAL SCORE FOR CUP

Australian Marksmen Scored 1,084 Out of Possible 1,200.

IN BISLEY COMPETITION.

Lieut. Desmond Burke Leads Mates in Shoot For Trophy.

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., July 13 (Canadian Press Cable).—Canada has lost both the great team trophies of the National Rifle Association which her marksmen won here last year. On Tuesday the Mother Country took the Kolapore Cup by nine shots over Canada. Yesterday afternoon, at long distances calling for keen eyes and steady nerves, the crack riflemen representing Australia won the Mackinnon Challenge Cup. Canada was again runner-up, but the Australians had the comfortable margin of 45 points.

The final scores in the Mackinnon Challenge Cup were: Australia 1,084, Canada 1,039, Scotland 1,037, England 1,035, Ireland 969, India 943, Wales 931, and Guernsey 921.

Scores At Two Distances.

The match was fired at the 900 and 1,000-yard ranges, the teams being of twelve men each. The scores at the two distances were:

	900	1,000
Australia	560	524
Canada	533	506
Scotland	532	505
England	520	515
Ireland	501	468
India	479	464
Guernsey	483	438
Wales	447	484

The bright feature of the shoot so far as Canada was concerned was the splendid showing of Lieut. Desmond Burke, young Ottawan, who is shooting as well as ever before. He won the King's Prize in 1924 and lost it by only a single point last year. In the first stage of this year's King's Prize he topped all competing marksmen with 102 out of 105 Wednesday. Yesterday he placed ninth in the Northland shoot with 66 out of 70 to win $15, shot a possible 35 in the first distance of the Alexandra and then, shooting in Canada's Mackinnon Cup team, shot 96 out of a possible 100, an extremely fine score at the great distances. No other marksmen on the Canadian team approached him.

Picton Resident Has 1688 Coin

KINGSTON, Ont., July 13. — (Canadian Press).—J. S. Earle, Picton, has an old coin dated 1688. On the one side is the picture of King Charles II. and the words, "God Preserve Our Gracious King."

On the other side are the words: "Richard Ballard of Monmuth, His Half Penny for Necessary Chaing." The coin is badly worn, but the inscription is clearly legible.

EXPORTERS TO SEEK RULING

Liquor Exporters Will Battle in Open Court to Maintain Privilege.

WITHIN FIVE DAYS.

WINDSOR, July 13.—A move on the part of the liquor expofters whose docks were seized here Wednesday by Provincial Police to recover their immensely valuable liquor stocks, may be expected within a few days, according to statements made by attorneys for both of the two docks.

Major James H. Clark, who represents Carlings, the owners of the Erie Transport Company, which operates a dock at the old C.P.R. Station, said he expected to open his firm's battle, not only for the liquor stocks, but for the very right to do any liquor exporting at all, within five days.

Action Expected Soon.

F. K. Jasperson, of the firm of Rodd, Wigle & Whiteside, who represents Nathansons, owners of the other dock seized, said his clients expected to move for the repossession of their stock by to-day or to-morrow.

Niagara Falls Claims Suicide Number Three

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 13.—(Canadian Press). — A woman's coat and hat together with a note found on the Luna Island shore above the American Falls at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon indicated, authorities believe, the third Falls suicide in four days.

The note was addressed to Mrs. W. P. Drew, Rochester, no street or number being given. The note read: "Can't live alone any longer. Tell my people in Glen Haven." There was also a torn piece of notepaper with the name Haddon Hall printed on it.

ANNUAL PICNIC

Eden Church Hold Its Picnic at Haultain.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, July 13. — The Eden Church annual picnic at Haultain on Tuesday, was a decided success. Although the crowd was smaller than last year the receipts amounted to about the same. A good attraction of sports under the able management of Mr. Clink, made the time pass quickly while the meals were well patronized, the tables being filled twice over. A grab bag, provided a goodly sum, as also a draw for a quilt won by Mrs. Roy Brown.

Personals.

Mr. Harvey Carl of Rochester, son of Mr. Stots Carl, is visiting his childhood home after an absence of 33 years.

MOSCOW ENTHUSES OVER RESCUE OF ARCTIC EXPLORERS

MOSCOW, July 13.—(Canadian Press.)— This city was enthused last night over the rescue of Captain Mariana and Captain Zappi of the Nobile expedition by the Soviet ice-breaker Krassin. Many regrets were heard over the loss of Dr. Finn Malmgren.

Soviet officials were gratified that a vessel under their direction had had such success and they paid high tribute to the courage and ability of the aviator Chukhnovsky who first discovered the party.

Now they are hoping that the Krassin will be able to penetrate the ice fields and bring away the five other known survivors of the Italia. They confidently expect this to happen late Friday as the ship was heading for the red tent on the ice near Foyn Island and yesterday had less than 28 miles to cover in a straight line.

MISSION BAND HOLDS PICNIC

Members of Gilmour Memorial Church Society Gather at Social.

OFFICERS ELECTED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BRIDGENORTH, July 13. — The annual picnic of the Mission Band of the Gilmour Memorial Church was held on the beautiful lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Blewett, on Wednesday, July 11. The devotional part of the meeting was led by Miss Mildred Archer, former president of the Band. The meeting was opened by singing "There is Sunshine in My Soul." The Bible reading was read by Miss Phyllis Moore (Matt. 11, 1-7), followed by prayer by Mrs. T. R. Mann. Mrs. James Young gave a helpful address on "Building Highways of Life." In connection with this address, Mrs. Young sang "Make Straight for the Highway."

The election of officers then took place as follows:

President—Miss Margaret Mann.
Vice-President—Miss Betty Edgar.
Secretary—Miss Lillian McGregor.
Treasurer—Miss Gladys Blewett.
Pianist—Miss Marion Blewett.
Collectors—Master Donald Moore and Fred Metcalfe.

The meeting was closed with prayer.

After the meeting was closed young and old enjoyed the sports which were held both on the lawn and in the baseball field. Supper was then served on the lawn by the ladies.

William Grant and two daughters, Miss Cora Grant, and Mrs. Harold Archer motored to Toronto on Wednesday to visit Clare Grant.

EVENING TRAINS WERE CROWDED

General Exodus of Orangemen Lasted Well Into the Night.

HEAVY TRAFFIC.

The general exodus of Orangemen from the city began soon after the completion of the afternoon's program, and continued until well after midnight, yet no matter what the hour of departure, or the mode of transportation, whether it be train, motor car, or even horse and buggy—and there were many of the latter—all seemed happy, if tired.

Of course, motor cars carried a large portion of the visitors and those who lived in centres far distant were the first to leave. The regular trains and a special to Lindsay also carried their quota, and as a result the scenes around both C.N.R. and C.P.R. depots were quite as lively as in any other place in any other part of the day, for there the departing bands played their final numbers with an enthusiasm undiminished because of a day of playing, including the long parade. In this regard, the Cobourg Kilties' Band favored the crowd around the C.N.R. Station with a most pleasing program, on arriving there at about nine o'clock.

The departure at 7.30 p.m. of the five-coach special train to Lindsay, carrying the large contingent that had arrived at 10.30 a.m. and had helped to swell the crowd to appreciable extent, was an event witnessed by several hundred with the prize-winning Lindsay fife and drum band prominent. Later the Cobourg lodges and bands took their departure on the 9.10 train with equal triumph, while many others, "down to see the trains go out," vacated the stations. An extra coach had to be put on this train to carry the crowd. Lodges from Norwood, Havelock, and other eastern points, or those of them who had not come by motor, entrained at the C.P.R. Station. The Orangemen's dance in Victoria Hall, as well as Chemong and Rye's Pavilions, were well patronized, and well after twelve o'clock the roads leading out of the city were still carrying heavy motor traffic.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDS FESTIVAL

Stuart Hall Young People Present Play, Entitled "Dust of the Earth."

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, July 13. — The strawberry festival held under the auspices of the United Church Sunday school on Wednesday evening was a decided success. The crowd was exceptionally large and the weather all that could be desired.

A bountiful supper was served on the church lawn, where the tables were ladened with the numerous good things to tempt one's appetite, including plenty of berries and cream.

At the conclusion of the supper the Stuart Hall young people staged an excellent play entitled "Dust of the Earth." The play was well acted and received a hearty applause at the conclusion of each of the three acts.

The numbers between acts were ably given by Mrs. Harold Dawson, who gave instrumental numbers, and Stuart Dawson, who gave violin numbers accompanied by Mrs. H. Dawson.

A booth on the grounds found eager customers, where refreshments of all kinds could be obtained. Altogether the festival this year was the most successful function that the United Church Sunday School has held in many year.

The total receipt of the evening amounted to approximately two hundred dollars.

BRIDGE COMPLETED

New Bridge Across King Street Has Been Completed in Millbrook.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, July 13. — The new bridge spanning the King St. creek is now completed but it will still be a week or ten days before traffic over it will be permitted.

Work on the drain is being pushed steadily forward, the excavation on Tupper street being almost up to the King street intersection. Once the drain is finished the paving program, which apparently is to include King, Tupper and Regent streets, will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible. The Amesite Paving Company has the whole contract in charge.

Personals.

Mr. Orville Evans, Mrs. Elcomb, and Miss Phoebe Clement, of Peterborough, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ball, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Garnett, of Port Hope, were guests of friends on the Fallis Line for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fallis motored to Campbellford for the week-end, taking with them their niece, Margaret Bateson, who has been visiting her aunt and uncle, and leaving their youngest son, Eric, for a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bateson.

Geoffrey Whyte, son of Dr. B. C. and Mrs. Whyte of Battle Creek, Michigan, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. E. Whyte, and other friends, in town.

Mrs. W. J. E. Gillott has returned after a pleasant visit with her sister at Westwood.

Miss Etta Needler left on Monday for a month's visit with her brother and his wife, Dr. C. H. and Mrs. Needler, at their summer home, Lake of Bays, Muskoka.

ORANGEMEN HOLD LARGE CELEBRATION

Thirty Lodges From Hastings County Celebrate at Stirling.

MANY SPEAKERS.

Hon. R. J. Cook, M.P.P., Declares That Orangeism is Growing More Prosperous.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

STIRLING, July 13. — Hastings county has not seen such a huge celebration for many years as the monster Orange walk which was held yesterday afternoon in the village of Stirling. From early in the morning Orangemen from nearly every lodge in the district kept pouring into the village till there were more than ten thousand people in and about the grounds and the streets when the hour arrived for the parade to move off. In an effort to accommodate the huge crowds of visitors dinner and supper was served in the exhibition building of the fair grounds. More than six thousand meals were served during the noon hour. Motor cars lined the streets and almost every available space in the grounds was occupied by some kind of motor vehicle from the family flivver of ancient vintage to huge, sleek expensive limousines. Nor were all the license plates on these cars carrying local numbers. Markers from as far west as the province of Saskatchewan and many from the United States were noticed among the ranks of parked cars.

Sharp on the stroke of two, the parade started from the Agricultural grounds and down through the main streets of the village, returning to the starting point about two hours later. Speakers representing both church and state addressed the assembled thousands from a raised platform in the grove of trees adjacent to the exhibition buildings. Softball and other sports served as entertainment for visitors and in the evening a special bill was presented at the community theatre with dancing in the community ball room at ten o'clock. Gay decorations of flags streamers banners and pennants, suitable for the occasion, added greatly to the appearance of things generally.

Leads Parade.

Two motor cars led the procession filled with prominent members of the Orange Association. Immediately in the rear was the Belleville Pipe

A touch of Variety makes Food more enticing

A poor appetite sometimes needs only a touch of enticing variety to quicken it . . . something different . . . preferably something light.

Quaker Puffed Wheat is utterly unlike any other cereal. The toasted, nutmeat flavour tempts the most finicky appetite. Crunchiness urges mastication, and helps to keep teeth and gums in healthy condition. Starch cells broken down, which makes digestion easy.

Quaker Puffed Wheat is the whole wheat grain, puffed to eight times normal size, and exploded . . . thoroughly cooked and oven-crisped. All the bran is there, but deftly concealed. Serve direct from the package, or warm if you wish.

Quaker Puffed Rice, too

Rice grains, also puffed and exploded. Dainty and light. Easily digested. Always pleasing and inviting to the appetite.

GLORIOUS DAY IS CELEBRATED

vast mineral and timber resources and other possibilities he went on to describe. In conclusion he declared that "if we are to have a larger and better Ontario in the future, we must join hands with those of different religions and nationalities and work with them."

E. A. Peck. M.P.

The third speaker of the day, and one of the most interesting, was E. A. Peck, member of the Federal House, who, in his opening remarks, complimented the committee on the success that had met their efforts in the form of a most successful gathering of Orangemen in Peterborough.

Mr. Peck urged upon his auditors the increasing need of a greater interest in federal problems, instancing the proposed development of the St. Lawrence, the problem of immigration, so important because Canada needs ten times her present population, though immigrants must be of the best; and finally, Canada's status with regard to the British Empire.

"Being a member of the Dominion House, it is my duty to discuss with you at any time, and to further your interest in things of national import, and that is my object at all times," said Mr. Peck in conclusion.

Ensign Green

Speaking from the viewpoint of a minister of the gospel, and of a citizen, Ensign Green, of the Peterborough Salvation army corps addressed the gathering, laying special emphasis upon the need for a return to the closer family life of the past.

Ensign Green felt it an honor to address the brethren, particularly so since he had gained a first hand conception of the constitution of their lodge through the entire fabric of which he had found running, the religious principles of the bible. "The triumph of enthusiasm is responsible for all liberties and the enthusiast of to-day is tomorrow's hero" said he, referring to the founder of the Salvation Army—General Booth—and in applying it to the Orange Order pointed out that such an observance as that of this day indicated that the good King William III, though dead, still lives.

The Ensign recalled his first personal contact with the Orange order, after he had reached Toronto, a survivor of the "Empress of Ireland" disaster. Orangemen had befriended him and so it was with gratitude that he spoke to this gathering today.

Speaking of the family life in the city of Peterborough and throughout the Dominion, he urged that the young people should not become as birds of the air, but should grow up in homes where obedience and religion are the fundamental principles and where love and affection are the atmosphere. He hoped the church and its work might continue to be supported by the brethren and citizens for the church stands for Christian fellowship the world over.

Rev. Douglas Paterson

The Rev. Douglas Paterson of All Saints' Church was another speaker who derived honor and pleasure from the opportunity of addressing the assembled Orangemen. He spoke of the wonderful turn-out and in speaking of the order and of immigration, emphasized the fact that quality is often much harder to obtain than quantity. "We must get law-abiding, God-fearing and capable manhood and womanhood and to-day I would enlist your smypathy and support with thought that it doesn't matter what a man does or what he wears, it is what he is. Character is what you are while you are alone in the dark! I pass it on as the ideal for the Orange lodge, the church and the nation. Boost for character!"

Announces Winners

H. C. Shipman of Ottawa, Associate Deputy Grand Master for Ontario East had an important mission—that of announcing the prize winners in the various competitions and of presenting the prizes accordingly. He had been judging the lodges along with Brother J. M. Carl and Brother Walter McGee but before announcing the winners, he took pleasure in presenting to County-master Mitchell of Lindsay, the shield, emblematic of supremacy in Degree exemplification, won at Grand lodge this year by the Lindsay Degree team. In accepting the shield, Brother Mitchell called upon all those in the stand from Victoria county to stand up, and in response there stood up not only Orangemen, but a number of lady members.

Bro. Shipman then proceeded to announce the winners of other prizes, as follows:—

Largest L.O.L.—Bethany, No. 1022.

Largest Juvenile—No. 2, Port Hope Lodge.

Best dressed L.O.L.—No. 820 of Reaboro.

Oldest Men

Called to the speaker's car in which they stood proud and erect, the two oldest Orangemen present came in the persons of Alexander Jones of Omemee L.O.L. No. 114, aged ninety years, and seventy-one years an Orangeman; and James Vilneff, of Marmora No. 319, aged eighty-eight years, fifty of which he had lived as an Orangeman. The singing of "For they Are Jolly Good Fellows" and hearty cheers greeted their introduction.

The prizes given the above-named winners were as follows.

The Best Dressed Men's Lodge—A Master's collar, by No. 1 District Lodge of Peterborough.

The Largest Juvenile Lodge on Parade—A Silver Cup by L.O.L. No. 1175.

The Largest Orange Family on Ground—A $7.00 Grocery Order by L.O.L. No. 2440.

Vaudeville Acts

Following the presentation of the prizes, two highly entertaining vaudeville acts were put on before the grandstand by two Troupes, "The Clancy Duo, tumbling and acrobatics," and "Fawn Eyes and company Redskins" whose specialties were dances and singing. The music by the Rangers band added materially not only to this part of the proceedings but to the success of the entire afternoon.

FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1928

YESTERDAY'S CELEBRATION.

The celebration of the Twelfth here yesterday was marked by a very large attendance, a splendid parade, and a program full of interesting events.

The smoothness with which the demonstration was conducted reflects credit upon the local committee, whose plans were carried out with splendid success, while the police department showed its ability, as it has on many other similar occasions in the past, to handle crowds effectively.

The regulations in regard to motor cars were well enforced and added much to the success of the parade, giving the Orangemen themselves freedom from congestion or interference, and their friends a fine chance to see the "walk" under the best of conditions.

The sobriety and good conduct of the large crowd deserves a special word; it was an orderly, well behaved and prosperous looking army of visitors that Peterborough entertained yesterday.

A SPLENDID NUMBER.

The Oshawa Daily Times is to be congratulated upon the splendid "New Building and Equipment" number it has just issued; not only because of the excellence of the number itself, but more particularly because of what it celebrates, the opening of the Times' new building and the beginning of a new era in the paper's history.

The Times, of course, is the successor of the Oshawa Reformer, which dates back to 1871, and which was published for years as a weekly newspaper, developed into a semi-weekly in 1919, was issued three times a week in 1920, and five years after became a daily, taking over the Oshawa Telegram.

Last year came the change of name, and now the Times is housed in one of the finest plants to be found in the smaller cities of Canada, with modern equipment and facilities that will enable it to live up to its slogan, "Growing up with Oshawa."

The special number is splendidly illustrated, and affords an effective impression of the size and nature of the new plant.

THE HONOR ROLL.

The Examiner wishes for the last time to call attention to the roll of Peterborough's war dead, appearing in this issue, and to urge our readers generally to scan this list carefully and notify this office as soon as possible of any errors or omissions noticed.

These must be reported before 6 o'clock to-morrow, and no further opportunity of revising the list will be possible as the names are to be forwarded at once to Toronto to be engraved.

It is of the utmost importance that the honor roll should be both complete and accurate; great care has, therefore, been taken in its preparation, and frequent chances have been given the public to check over the names.

This process, however, cannot be continued indefinitely, and the time has come to go ahead with the engraving of the names, leaving this one last chance to make corrections.

Will any reader who notices a mistake or believes that a name that should be on the memorial is omitted please let us know before to-morrow evening so that the necessary corrections may be made?

RECORD COLLECTIONS.

The fact that all income tax records for the first three months of any fiscal year since the tax was inaugurated in 1917 have been broken is indicative of several things.

For the months of April, May and June, the collections amounted to $47,557,923.71, which is over four million dollars more than the total for any three months in any previous year, and over six millions better than for the same three months last year.

These figures are gratifying.

First, because they are clear proof that Canada 's prosperous to a marked degree.

Secondly, because they show that the Department of National Revenue is being efficiently operated.

And lastly, because they are evidence that to slash the income tax does not mean loss in revenue.

This record has been set up in spite of the fact that the tax exemption of married men had been increased by $1,000 this year, the single men have $500 more leeway, and there has been a 20 per cent. reduction in the tax.

It confirms the experience of the United States where income tax slashes were followed by increased revenues from this form of levy.

THE EDITOR'S IMPOSSIBLE TASK.

The editor's impossible task is to read the mass of literature which is daily sent to him. The Ottawa Citizen has drawn attention to this, pointing out that the editor's desk in a daily newspaper is the final resting place of an incredible avalanche of printed matter. Much of it comes in the form of pamphlets, reports, brochures and booklets, printed by Government departments or by corporations interested in reaching the public. Thus it can be said that the Citizen received the following on one day: "Some Flowering Bulbs," from the Experimental Farm; "Review of the British Cycle Industry," "Empire Day in the Schools of Ontario," "Monthly Summary of the League of Nations," "Co-operative Marketing in Western Canada," "The Problem of the Large Family," "Canadian Legion Report on Immigration," "Proportional Representation Review," "Frontier College Primer for Adults," "City of Edmonton Financial Report," "Crop Rotations on the Prairies," "Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada," "Experiments on Animals," "The Vaccination Question," "Czecho-Slovakia To-day," "Statistical Yearbook of Quebec," "Credit Men's Journal," "Our Kinsfolk 'Down Under'," "Annual Report, Winnipeg Hydro," and "Peace Through Justice."

Newspapers of any size are deluged in the same way, and it is obvious that no editor could possibly read all these, even supposing that he had no other reading to do. It must, however, be said that the papers do try to do something with regard to the literature sent to them. But one thing has always struck us in connection with these bulletins, reports and so on, that if those who prepared them took pains to reduce them to the lowest and most concise form they would have a better chance of gaining notice. It takes time, even for a trained man, to wade through a lengthy report, pick out its important parts, and write an editorial worth having upon them. The Citizen points out that sometimes the writers of this literature, not receiving notices, "harbor harsh suspicions because each of them believes his stuff simply must be read." But people must not expect the impossible even from an editor.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

THE DEATH-KNELL OF DRUDGERY?

Having come to the conclusion that no other occupation or industry employs a larger number of workers than housework, the National Institute of Industrial Psychology in Great Britain is soon to start a crusade for efficiency and happiness in the homes of the nation. Psychology has solved many of the problems of mill and factory, and the suggestion is advanced that it may also solve the problems of the housewife. There is the added incentive that if happiness and efficiency can be achieved in the homes of the workers, this will undoubtedly be reflected in the better work that men will do at their places of labor.

"Housework," thinks Miss Winifred Spielman, the Institute expert who will be in charge of the investigation, "is probably the largest single factor in the health and happiness of mankind," and she goes on to outline the way in which it is proposed to slay the dragon of household drudgery. At the start the investigation will be restricted to middle class homes and to working class homes where servants are not a part of domestic economy. Structure and planning of kitchens, the mechanics of scrubbing and other cleaning operations, in fact the whole routine of home-keeping, will come under scrutiny, in the hope that temper-saving and labor-saving methods may be discovered.

Dr. C. S. Myers of the Institute remarks in the London Times that the Institute has had considerable experience in diminishing fatigue and discontent in factories, shops, offices and laundries, and that its methods may be equally successful in the home. The Times itself goes on to say that the home lags far behind the factory in the matter of so-called efficiency. Housework, the Times points out, is "a form of work which does not lend itself easily to regulation; it is as a rule hard work, dusty work, and fatiguing work. Moreover those who perform this service are not always best fitted to perform it. Thousands of women are compelled to divide their energies between the upbringing of their children and the care of their homes, and energy is frequently insufficient for their double task."

There is so little said in these remarks about mechanical devices which already exist, and which already lighten the labors and sweeten the temper of the housewife, that it must be inferred that British homes are a little behind those in Canada in this respect. The mechanical and electrical era in this country has for a long time extended into the laundries and the kitchens of even the wage-earning classes. Electric stoves, electric irons, electric washing machines, electric refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, floor polishers, dish-washing machines, laundry chutes, garbage disposal plants and dumb-waiters; all these exist more or less commonly in Canadian homes. The day has gone by when a housewife must depend on an iron constitution to keep a spotless home. There was a time when the "good housekeeper" was one who presented a clean and well-kept house at the expense of drudgery and an endless succession of manual tasks, but this is not so today. It is reasonable to suppose that these mechanical innovations have added much to the general good temper and happiness of the Canadian family, and it is also reasonable to expect that the mechanical aids will be increased, simplified, and perhaps, as the British Institute proposes, applied more scientifically to home psychology.

There is still a wide field for the inventor. There is no mechanical contrivance that will wash the front steps or dust bric-a-brac or scour cooking kettles. Perhaps the psychologists will do away with the steps and the bric-a-brac and substitute utensils that can be discarded after being used once. Then the old family frying-pan will be treasured as an heirloom and perhaps attain a status in song and story now held only by the oaken bucket.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The weatherman was kind to the Orangemen. No "walk" in Peterborough's history had more favorable conditions.

General Draper seems to have attained most of his objectives so far as the mail train bandits are concerned, and only the mopping up remains.

Even detours failed to keep the crowd out of Peterborough yesterday.

But what has become of the drummer who didn't consider it a celebration at all until he had driven in the head of his drum?

When Orillia's price for light and power are thought of it is impossible to keep from recalling:

"Of all the sad words of tongue and pen,
The saddest are these, 'It might have been.'"

"Word comes from St. Thomas, Ont., that postmen are taking exception to the quantities of half-cent, unaddressed circulars calling for delivery at every house on a route. A protest to Ottawa may result."—Marketing.

The protest will be most justifiable. In addition to the cluttering up of private letter boxes and the delay or loss of valuable correspondence, this cheap postal traffic thrusts an entirely unnecessary extra burden on a fine body of public servants.—Ottawa Journal.

The Question Box

C.E. Q.—How many rods are there to the side of an acre field?

A.—12,649 rods; 69.57 yards; or 208.71 feet.

N.Y. Q.—Has cast iron or wrought iron the greatest resistance to heat?

A.—The latter. Cast iron will melt at 3,479 degrees above zero; wrought iron at 3,980 degrees.

A.F. Q.—Out of every thousand people, how many live to the three-score-years and ten that is man's allotted span?

A.—240 (Carlisle Mortality table.)

T.P.—What is the Canadian Air League?

A.—The Canadian Air League, similar in scope and function to the Air League of the British Empire has been formed at Ottawa with a view to co-operating in the civil, commercial and military development of aviation, for which there is great scope and opportunity in the Dominion. Not only in the development of national air matters, but in linking up imperial lines in aid of the coming world transformation through aviation.

GOD'S MINUTE

The joy of the Lord is your strength.—Neh. 8:10.

Our Father, help us to find the secret of the Master's joy, that we may no longer dwell in the outer courts where our happiness comes and goes as the flowers bloom and fade. May we enter into the secret place of the Most High where He lived, until our joy, like His cannot be taken away from us.

Teach us the joy of discovering the tokens of Thy presence always—in the song of birds, the fragrance of flowers, the marvelous beauty of sunrise and sunset,but more in the ringing laughter and plaintive cry of little children, in the deep hunger in the hearts of our brothers and sisters, and in our own souls, so that we are never alone.

Teach us the joy of a friendship that leaves no hurt nor sting. Help us to enter into the deep joy of sympathy with our brother's needs, the sympathy that gives insight, and knits heart to heart, until we are able to help where help is needed, and able to receive help when it is offered. Save us, O our Father, from the darkness of selfishness, and unite us with wise and tender love to those who need us, and those whom we need. All of this, and more which we cannot express, we ask in the Master's Name. Amen.

REV. RAYMOND C. BROOKS.

A Thought

JOY AND SORROW.

If the good experienced nothing but joy and the evil nothing but sorrow in this world, how would the higher life be reached; nay, how would even genuine morality be possible? Our moral and spiritual life must be evolved through the recognition of God's purpose in allowing the experience of both joy and sorrow, which work out an ennobled and beautiful life.—J. C. Wright.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 13 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was quiet, there being practically no demand from any source.

A feature of the domestic trade was the strength that developed in Canadian Western oats and prices were advanced two cents per bushel. The demand was fair.

There were no further developments in the local market for Spring wheat grades of flour, prices being steady under a great demand. The trade in Winter wheat flour was also inactive, the demand being principally for small lots to meet immediate wants. The tone of the market was firm.

The market for millfeed was without any special feature to note. The demand from all sources was limited with no change in prices to note. There was no change in prices for standard grades of rolled oats and the volume of business was very small.

The undertone to the egg market was steady, but the volume of business was small as is usual during the hot spell. There continues to be a steady demand from wholesale houses for extras and all offerings from the country meet with a ready sale at 36½ cents per dozen, f.o.b. Ontario shipping points. The receipts were 2,124 cases.

The season for old crop Canadian potatoes is about over, owing to the fact that few are now coming forward from the interior, which indicates that the crop has been well marketed and what few are left will be used for feeding purposes, as new crop potatoes will be ready for the market in a few days now. An odd car of New Brunswick Green Mountains old crop white potatoes sold at 70c to 75c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and Quebec varieties are selling at 65 to 70c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track, while American new crop No. 1 grade potatoes sold at $3.10 per barrel, ex-track.

There was no change in prices for imported beans Wednesday, the undertone to the market being steady, but the volume of business was small with sales of broken lots of choice white hand-picked grades at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive were quoted at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track.

A feature of the local butter trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices scored a decline of ½ cent per lb, which was brought about by increased offerings and the absence of any important buying power. It was reported that New Zealand 93 score creamery butter was offered for October delivery at 38¼c per lb, c.i.f. Halifax, and that sales for December delivery were made at 37⅝c to 37½c per lb, c.i.f. Halifax. The receipts were 1,682 packages.

Owing to the lull in the demand from English importers for cheese Wednesday and the fact that some holders on spot showed a disposition to liquidate, the undertone to the market was weaker and prices scored a decline. The receipts were 7,378 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 13 (Canadian Press).—Wheat, corn and oats all took a decided swing upward in prices yesterday. Reports were current that Russia had bought 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, and that prevalent of leaf rust in Saskatchewan was confirmed. Talk was heard also that a good many stock market operators were turning more actively to dealings in grain.

Wheat values closed firm, 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents net higher; corn ⅝ to 2¼ cents up; oats at ⅝ to 2 cents gain, and provisions showing 2 to 30 cents advance.

Upturns in wheat prices were begun early, helped by the fact that the Liverpool quotations showed comparative strength and that rains in Kansas and Nebraska appeared like-

POSITIVELY LAST REVISION.

This List Will Go to the Sculptor in Toronto On Sunday—Corrections and Add itions Must Be in By Saturday a t 6 O'clock.

So many corrections were made after the last printing that The Examiner thinks one more opportunity should be given to relatives of men killed overseas to see that this list is complete.

Whether you have checked the list before or not, please go over it again:

(1) Is the name you seek in the list?
(2) Is it in the proper section, city, or county?
(3) Is it properly spelled?
(4) Are the initials correct?
(5) Do you know of any relatives who might give information that will make the list more complete or more accurate?

Positively no correction can be made after 6 p.m. on Saturday, and the list as it then stands will be inscribed on Peterborough War Memorial.

It is better to write the correction and bring it to the office, but if you can't call in person, please don't hesitate to telephone.

This is an appeal that should have the attention of every reader immediately.

"EVEN IN BANKING SERVICE—there is a difference"

EVERY business house—and certainly banks come under this heading—has its own viewpoint on what constitutes service. And nearly always you will find this viewpoint visibly reflected in the working atmosphere of the establishment.

As you talk with the managers of this Bank, with the tellers, or with others who take a visible part in giving service, you will very quickly perceive that strict attention to a great volume of business is tempered by a spirit of real friendliness and courtesy.

Your own banking needs may be personal or commercial—local, national or international. In any case, at the branches of this Bank, you are sure of service that is accurate, speedy and cordial—well rounded out in every respect. 109

BABY IS FOUND TO BE POISONED

Mother is Accused of Poisoning Child and Then Burying It Alive.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

SARNIA, July 13. — A mother, charged with burying alive her infant daughter after first administering carbolic acid to it, sat silently in the witness box at County Court here yesterday afternoon, with head bowed and her eyes hidden behind a cambric handkerchief.

Mrs. Bertha Leboeuf, aged 40, scarcely moved as witnesses told of the timely discovery of a baby in a grave hastily dug near the Sarnia Indian Reserve on July 5, and of the admission allegedly made by her to the police that the child was hers and that she had buried it because she had to earn her living and the child would have been in the way. She was committed for trial at the next sitting of the Supreme Court on September 25 by Magistrate C. S. Woodrow, after the evidence of men who rescued the child from a premature grave had been taken.

No Trace of Tears

Portly, dark haired and of robust countenance, Mrs. Leboeuf was apparently only interested in hiding her countenance from the spectators in court. But though she had the appearance of one silently weeping, there was no trace of tears to be seen when for a few moments she removed the yellow handkerchief from her eyes.

Admission by the accused to the police that she had walked four miles to the point where she buried the child and a revelation that she had first dug a hole some distance from the spot where she buried the child, but finally selected a spot that was not so water-logged and that at several points in her passage through the bush she had hesitated and turned back were interesting points in the evidence of High County Constable R. J. Whiting and Detective James Byerlay, who investigated the case. The latter declared that Mrs. Leboeuf admitted to him, after being duly warned, that she had administered carbolic acid to the child in the bush. A small blue bottle containing carbolic acid allegedly found in accused's room at the Arlington Hotel was shown in court.

THOMAS BIRD

MADOC, July 13.—The funeral of the late Thomas Bird was held Tuesday afternoon from his late residence, Rev. T. H. Hall of Merrickville was in charge of the service, which were under the auspices of Madoc Masonic Lodge, A. F. and A.M. No. 46, of which the deceased was a member.

The late Mr. Bird was 44 years of age, and had resided in Madoc all his life. For several years he was engaged in the trucking business. Besides being a Mason, he belonged to the Orange order.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and three children, James, Lenore, and Kenneth; two sisters, Mrs. Benjamin Miller of Madoc Township, and Mrs. John Ellis of Madoc; and two brothers, Arthur of Madoc, and James of Saskatchewan.

His father, Mr. James Bird, Madoc, also survives.

A guitar made of German silver is said to possess great volume, which makes it suitable for orchestral use, while retaining the sweet tone produced by the wooden guitar.

Band, their gay tartan lending a pleasing touch of color to the long line of Orangemen of more than thirty lodges and numbers estimated to be in excess of fifteen hundred. There were several ladies' lodges in the parade, and many complimentary remarks were made by spectators concerning the immaculate appearance made by the ladies lodges. Although the pipers led the procession leaving the grounds, they were further in the rear on the return march due to the method followed in turning the parade.

Speeches Held

John M. Geen, County Master for Hastings introduced the speakers. The Reverend Byers, Stirling, was the first to address the gathering. He said he did not intend to speak for more than a few minutes, since there were celebrated speakers to follow him, and he did not wish to say anything which they probably intended to say. He felt certain that everyone was greatly delighted with the celebration, which was the greatest ever held in the County of Hastings, and the parade was the largest ever held in the village. It was, he claimed, a golden opportunity for Orangemen to conduct themselves in such a manner that the order would increase in favor with the public and their lodge memberships would increase accordingly. Every Protestant should belong to the order. The Orange Association did not stand for persecution of those who held other beliefs, but believed in equal rights for all and special privileges to none. As British subjects, all should be interested in the immigration problem, which had been so much in the limelight lately. Immigrants from the British Isles were to be preferred, he thought. Conditions in parts of the Canadian West were not such as could be admired. He thought that the country ought to know where it stood in case of future wars or similar troubles. In closing, Mr. Byers hoped that the people would appreciate the Orange order, particularly after the demonstration that had been held in Stirling yesterday. He also wished the organization all future success.

Warden Present

Warden Rollins, Hastings County, expressed his appreciation for having been given the opportunity to speak on such a great occasion, as the representative of the entire county. Hastings, he said, had been referred to as the county of a thousand wonders. He wished to congratulate the people of Stirling on the wonderful success of the celebration, and the Orangemen on their splendid appearance. The event had been favored with excellent weather, and the excellent dinner served on the grounds had been an added attraction to those from out of town. The Orange order, he claimed, had built more churches and schools than any other organization. The ladies had made a splendid showing in the parade and had entered the order just at the proper time. It had been said that the interests of the Orange order would pass out of existence with the passing of the older members. But this, he claimed, was not so. People were beginning to realize what the Orange order meant to every home in the dominion. In closing, Warden Rollins once more congratulated the people of Stirling and the Orangemen on the success of the day.

Following the Warden's address there was a selection by the Stirling band.

J. J. Hill, M.P.P., for East Hastings, after tendering his congratulations, said that he had never been at a better celebration anywhere. He had heard that Orangeism was dwindling. But that this was not so had been proved here to-day. Orangemen were not only Orangemen on the Twelfth day of July each year, but every other day of the year as well.

Not Dwindling

Hon. R. J. Cook, M.P.P., North Hastings, had heard it said that Orangeism would pass with the passing of some of the older members. This, he claimed was not so. Every Orangeman should realize that the association was purely a Christian organization. There was a great deal of true Christianity taught in the Orange ritual. That the association was not losing ground was proved partially at least, by the fact that July 12th was now looked on as practically a public holiday. This was not the case with any other organization. The reason for this was perhaps that the different Protestant religions felt the need of unity. In the days of the Magna Charta, the Church of England had been proclaimed the first church of the land. But this did not mean the Church of England as we know it to-day, but all the Protestant churches. At that time there had only been one Protestant church, the Church of England. In the Orange association there was no distinction made between the different Protestant churches. All had the endorsement of the Orange order.

Often In Stirling.

W. E. Tummon, M.P., said he had been trying to recall how many times he had celebrated the twelfth of July in Stirling and had not been able to make sure whether the present day brought the count up to eight or nine. But he had been in Stirling on July 12th more often than he had been any other place. He wished to congratulate the people of the village for the preparations they had made and the Orangemen and Ladies' Lodges for the excellent showing they had made. The Orange Order, he said, was often misunderstood, but there were many who did know what the Order stood for. This was the case with several associations.

It had been said that Canada needed increased population, he claimed. There were two ways to bring about this, by natural increase and by immigration. At the present time the government was trying to attract immigrants from Europe. The population of Canada in 1897 was 5,142,000, and in 1927, 9,519,000. This showed an increase of 4,377,000, he said, for a period of thirty years. During these thirty years Canada had allowed 4,491,156 immigrants to enter her Dominion, 114,156 more than the total increase. During the same period there had been a natural increase of 2,600,000. Therefore Canada had gone behind approximately 2,750,000 in the past thirty years. It was the duty of every citizen to think what was wrong with the country and try to find out what could be done to keep the boys and girls born and brought up in Canada in their native land.

The general impression in the British Isles was that Canada did not want immigrants. They thought only farmers for the great open spaces were wanted, and thus the appeal only went to about ten per cent. of the population of the three countries known as the British Isles. Thus for every one immigrant from Britain there were between three and four from foreign countries. There were also more Canadians entering the United States than foreigners. The people of Canada must maintain a strong, healthy intellectual class of immigrants in order to maintain their standard of citizenship. At the present time the foreign immigrants usually went to the western provinces, while the British immigrants remained in Ontario. One of the country's greatest assets should be a satisfied immigrant. In closing, Mr. Tummon made a strong appeal to the people who came directly into contact with these new citizens to extend to them the right hand of welcome and try in every way to make the newcomers welcome. Thus the bond between the Dominion and the Mother Country would be strengthened.

Cars Provided.

Cars were provided for some of the older members of the Order, as well as some of the Grand officers present.

Paul Kingston, of Rawdon Township, who has been an Orangeman for 71 years, and is now 89 years and enjoying fairly good health for one of his years, was present, and enjoyed himself as much as anyone there.

A game of softball was played between Marmora and Stirling girls of the Trent Valley League, the latter winning by a score of 13 to 5. Patricia Shea pitched and Mary Hulin caught for Stirling.

Only one accident occurred, which happened opposite W. Jones' grocery when a son of H. Wilson of Holloway was knocked down by a car driven by Miss Heasman of Sidney Township. The boy's clothes were torn and head and hip cut and bruised, as he was dragged for some distance.

At Trenton

The day was most wonderful, not too warm, encouraged hundreds of adults and younger folk to gather from this community along with those from every other community to Trenton.

The parade of different lodges was led by the Citizen's Band of Trenton and a number of Wooler boys who play in the band, formed at the Market Square at 1 o'clock sharp.

At the Fireman's Park, the people were assembled to listen to prominent speakers, as the Grand Chaplain, Rev. A. L. Geen; Rev. Major Belford; W. C. Mikel, K.C.; M. E. Maybee, M.P.; C. A. Payne; S. M. G. Nesbitt; George Reed, Past County Master; W. H. Ireland, M.P.P.

The sports were very interesting and amusing. Softball teams in afternoon and evening between the C. P.R. and Leafs; 100 yard dash for Orangemen only, and 50 yard dash for Orange ladies; 100 yard dash, girls, and many other attractions. At 8 p.m. the street dance was well attended, music furnished by the Trenton Citizen's Band.

A New Car .. A New Car Style .. A New Zenith of Low Priced Car-Luxury and Performance

New slender profile chromium-plated radiator—Long, low bodies.—Generous room for 2 to 5 passengers, according to body model.—Luxurious deep upholstery and appointment detail.—New "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine, for use with any gasoline. —Smooth speed up to 60 and more miles an hour.—Chrysler light-action internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes—no other car of this price possesses this feature.

All Chrysler research, engineering and manufacturing have been inspired by the fundamental motive of giving ever greater quality and value for each dollar of car cost. Public recognition of this principle, in four years advanced Chrysler from 27th to 3rd place in sales in the N. A. C. C.

With a new product—the Plymouth—Chrysler is the first to give, at so low a price, the advantages of performance, riding ease, dependability and full adult size which characterize fine cars of higher price.

The new Chrysler-designed and Chrysler-built Plymouth is so revolutionary an advance over other low-priced cars, it is such conclusive evidence that the past year's strides in the science of manufacturing have multiplied the purchasing power of the motor car dollar, that you will surely want to see it and drive it.

And above all, you must see its beautiful lines and finish, and stretch at ease in its deep-upholstered, full adult-size bodies, to comprehend how completely the Plymouth surpasses cars heretofore sold under $1500.

The Plymouth is today displayed by every Chrysler dealer. He wants you to see it and to ride in it.

Please submit the Plymouth to this trial. We believe you will discover there has never been a car anywhere near its price that can approach the Plymouth for power, pick-up, smoothness, easy handling, safety, quietness and roominess—nor that can equal it in beauty and style. 1323

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1928.

Again the stars seem to frown upon the Earth, according to astrology which finds a malefic aspect strongly dominant.

Women are well directed today as a long as they attend to their own affairs, but they should avoid men.

The family should benefit from this sway, which makes for sympathy and co-operation.

Farmers are subject to rather depressing conditions while this sway prevails, but they will benefit later, it is forecast.

Unusual storms may mark the next six weeks, it is foretold, and in certain states heavy losses are presaged.

This is not a lucky day for any sort of new venture and should be auspicious for rest and recreation.

The evening should be a favorable time for entertaining persons in the public eye.

After sundown association with men and women who have attained success should be especially fortunate, making for advantages and favors.

The evening is read as a fairly promising time for courtship and auspicious for those who seek wealth when they marry.

New fashions are to emphasize the trend toward extreme femininity which is to be more and more cultivated by girls, the seers predict.

Women are to return to the home from offices and shops, if the stars are to be believed, and only the few of super ability will pursue public life.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have to wrestle with stubborn circumstances in the coming year, but they have the promise of success and prosperity.

Children born on this day probably will be sedate and trustworthy. The subjects of this sign are usually dependable and they attain careers that assure contentment.

CHAPTER VIX

JENNIFER DECIDES

Gaunt thrust the telegram into his pocket and went hurriedly down to the bar parlor to breakfast. The bacon was cold and the egg too lightly boiled, but he was not in a mood to be critical, and in a quarter of an hour he was knocking at Mrs. Jilly's cottage door.

Mrs. Jilly smiled upon him this morning and volunteered the information that Jennifer was better. "It's the sight of you, if I may say so, sir," she declared. "There's nothing so hard to bear as loneliness when you're feeling poorly."

It spoke much for Mrs. Jilly's honesty that she had never questioned the truth of Gaunt's story. She had always led a strictly respectable life herself, and never suspected other people of doing differently. No doubt Jennifer and her very good-looking husband had had their little differences, but it was all right now—and she was glad of it.

"Mrs. Gaunt is coming downstairs directly," she announced, reeling off Jennifer's new name as if she had never known her by another. "I've a nice fire in the sitting-room, and if you'll give me your coat, sir, I'll dry it in the kitchen—my! but you are wet."

Nicholas handed over his saturated coat and walked into the little parlor.

He was less confident this morning. In the uncompromising light of day things seemed more difficult, and already he foresaw obstacles which last night had not presented themselves to him.

For one thing, Jennifer might have changed her mind.

But before he could pursue that thought farther, the door opened shyly and Jennifer came in. She flushed sensitively as she met his eyes, and his own color rose as he came forward to meet her.

"My dear——"

She seemed almost afraid of him at first, then suddenly she went to his arms.

"You are real, then, and it's not a dream," she whispered.

"Real enough, Jennifer."

He tilted her chin back and kissed he lips. "And are you really better? I've been dreadfully worried about you."

She rested her head against his shoulder. "I believe it was much more unhappiness than a chill that made me feel so ill, Nicholas, and I believe Mrs. Jilly thinks so, too, this morning."

She looked up at him reproachfully. "What made you tell her that wicked story last night?"

He knew what she meant, but he pretended not to.

"What wicked story?"

"You know quite well what I mean."

He kissed her again. "Well, you will be my wife before very long——"

She shook her head. "How can you be so sure?"

His eyes fell. "Such things are arranged every day of the week, my dear."

She shivered and drew away from him.

"I don't like to hear you say that," she whispered.

"Very well, I will not say it again," he promised.

He put her into a chair by the fire and sat down on its arm, pressing her head gently back against his shoulder. "When you are better we are going to have a long talk about things, Jennifer, but until then I am just going to make you happy and get you well, and leave the future to take care of itself."

She looked up at him with eager eyes. "You are going to stay, then? You are not going away again?"

"Of course, I'm going to say. At least——"

He suddenly remembered Joey's urgent telegram and his face changed.

"We'll decided about that presently," he said.

"And how did you find out where I was?" Jennifer asked.

Nicholas laughed.

"I went to your flat and bullied the woman downstairs till she told me."

He bent and kissed her hair.

"Jennifer, you've been very cruel to me," he said somberly.

"Have I?"

She did not remind him of how cruel he had once been to her; but perhaps the thought was in his mind, for he said quickly:

"Never mind, we'll make up to one another for it in the future, won't we?"

Jennifer nodded. She had very little faith in the future—the thought of it filled her with fear; she clung desperately to the present. This was hers at all events. Outside the rain poured down relentlessly, and the wind lashed the sea into angry little waves, but inside Mrs. Jilly's warm, fire-lit parlor Jennifer tasted the first real happiness she had ever known.

It was as if after a long and troubled journey she had at last come safely into harbor.

At half-past eleven Mrs. Jilly arrived with a steaming cup of beef tea.

"Little and often that's the best way for an invalid," she said with a motherly eye on Jennifer. "And, of course, you'll be staying to lunch sir?"

Gaunt looked at Jennifer and smiled.

"Yes, I think so," he said quietly.

It was during lunch—an unpretentious little meal of stewed steak and brussels sprouts—that the second telegram came.

The boy from the post office coasted down the lane at breakneck pace and fell off at Mrs. Jilly's gate, dropping his bicycle in the road.

Nicholas and Jennifer both saw him from the window, and Jennifer's face changed.

"It must be another wire for you. Mrs. Jilly told me there was one this morning. Is anything wrong, Nicholas?"

He tried to say "No," but the lie stuck, and he said instead:

"I'll tell you presently."

Then Mrs. Jilly brought in the second wire.

There was an eloquent little silence while he opened and read the message which, like the first one, had been wired on from London.

"For God's sake come, Edith dying.—Joey."

Nicholas stared blankly at the words, then with an effort he looked up at the two women watching him.

"No answer," he said stiffly.

When Mrs. Jilly had gone he got up from the table and went round to Jennifer.

"It's Edith," he said briefly.

She drew away when he would have touched her.

"Edith?" she echoed with pale lips.

"Yes."

He took the first wire from his pocket and laid it down on the table before her with the second.

"Joey is a Mrs. Rudyard, who went to Italy with her," he explained haltingly.

He waited a moment, then, in spite of Jennifer's resistance, he turned her face up and kissed her on the lips.

"It is for you to say if I shall go or not," he said quietly.

For some moments the silence was unbroken, till Jennifer asked:

"Do you—do you think she can really be so ill?" and Gaunt answered:

"I don't think Mrs. Rudyard would have sent two such messages without urgent need."

Jennifer pushed back her chair. She had lost her radiant look of happiness and was very pale. The cottage was no longer an enchanted place.

"Of course you must go," she said faintly.

Haultain And Deer Bay

(Examiner Correspondence)

Haultain and Deer Bay, July 12. — A camp site has been purchased by the Oak Ridge Camp Company from J. C. Strickland of Lakefield. The site is situated at the mouth of Eel's Creek on the shore of Stoney Lake. The camp is managed by Reg. Bloomfield, of Toronto, who is an expert in Boys' Work.

The camp is for the accommodation of boys between the ages of six and eighteen, and boys are brought to the camp from many parts of the Dominion. The project is an excellent one, and will give the lads the opportunity of enjoying the exhilarating air of Upper Stoney Lake. There will be ample room for sports of all kinds, both land and aquatic.

At the present time, there are two boys enrolled but the camp will not officially open until August 1st and will continue operations until the end of that month. The Oak Ridge Camp Company expect to accommodate only twelve boys this season, but it is hoped that next year when the camp has become more widely known, many more boys will take advantage of the opportunities presented. Mrs. Eph. Bronson of Haultain has been engaged to act as cook for the camp. The camp will be kept under strict supervision at all times by Mr. Bloomfield, who will see that there will be every care taken of the boys encamped. The visitors and those who spend their summer vacations in the various cottages and on the many islands of Stoney Lake will welcome such a camp, and wish it every success.

"SALADA" TEA

ORANGE PEKOE BLEND

20c

No one dreamed 50 years ago that such a fragrant beverage as "SALADA" Orange Pekoe could be produced—pure as science can make it—fresh, superb in flavour—43c per half-pound—and all black tea. A treat indeed for tea lovers.

ly to cause delay to harvest work. Besides, North Dakota advices told of black rust on head stems of wheat near Fargo, and said rust was apparent in practically all fields, with heaviest infection in Fife varieties of wheat. Meanwhile, cash interests and mills were credited with being persistent buyers of future deliveries here.

Highest quotations of the day in wheat were reached shortly before the finish. Late developments included news about Russian purchases from Canada and about leaf rust in Saskatchewan province. The wheat taken for Russia was said to be No. 3 Manitoba. Despatches referring to rust in Saskatchewan noted incidentally that the rust had not yet appeared on stems. A let-up in hedging pressure from the southwest was also reported.

Corn market strength was associated a good deal with word that country holdess were asking $1.00 a bushel for old corn, and were not selling freely under that figure. Furthermore, a little export business in corn appeared to be in progress. Oats derived firmness from the action of corn.

Provisions developed strength as a result of the upward trend of hog values and of grain.

Linoleum should be cut and laid on the floor without being nailed for at least a month. If nailed as soon as laid, the linoleum will bulge and crack very quickly. As few nails as possible should be used to tack it down.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

TODAY I wish to tell you about a really wonderful old house, not twenty miles from Peterborough. I wish I could tell you where it is, so that you might go to see for yourself—but even though the folks who live there are friendly, that would hardly do. Would it? People may be proud enough of their homes to allow me to tell, sub rosa, as it were, but not willing that all the thousands of readers of The Examiner should know that it is their home these delightful things are to be found.

Everything is original in this altogether charming home. Tradition and custom have been thrown overboard, and practically every item of furniture, though the whole was inexpensive, is different. There is no hardwood flooring in the whole house! There is not a bit of wallpaper! There is not a dresser! There is not a carpet square!

* * *

Now let me tell you what there is. And because you have been more amazed by the absence of dressers than anything else, probably, I'll start at the bedrooms. The walls of one are painted cream, and bright jade-green cloth curtains are used, with green cloth roller blinds made on bought rollers by the united efforts of the man and the woman of the house. Bright-colored rag carpets dot the floor, the longest being narrow strips that reach from head to foot of the old-style, high-pillared, wooden bed. The two chairs are home made (that man surely is handy!) to fit cushion seats from a discarded easy-chair. The dressing bench is home-made too—and the dressing table, well what do you think of this? There are three windows in this particular room, two ordinary size and one very wide. The wide window has been made into a dressing table. The mirror is fastened to the sash, so that when the two side panels are pushed back they close the width of the window, but when opened slantwise they let light in around the side. The top half of the window, of course, is open, except for curtains. Certainly the lighting is wonderful for dressing purposes. Green is predominant here, being carried out in candlesticks, bottles and dressing table fittings.

The living room is no less amazing in its simplicity which is more restful than all the high-priced carpets and soft-cushioned furniture in other homes. The softwood floor is painted and polished, the walls are painted a dull white, the ceiling is oak beamed. There is a wide divan, covered with a fawn velvety fabric, and dozens of cushions in varying shades of mauve fairly invite one to roll among them. There need be no couch-cramped reading here! And books! Three shelves reach all across one wall; five shelves about six feet long are tiered on each side of the big old-English fire grate; and several more shelves are set above a large old-country chest of beautiful walnut, a treasure from girlhood days. The floor lamp is an amazing piece of work—simply a spiral wood column, fully nine inches through, supporting a three globe lamp fitted with a dull amber parchment shade. But it seems wonderfully at home in this lovable room. On the grand piano is a witch-ball of bright red glass, and in another corner is a monk's table in oak, with a shelf underneath. The fireplace fittings are the two leading characters from "Punch and Judy," whose upraised hands support the poker, tongs, long-handle shovel, and hearth brush. Very few pictures are used, or needed, in this room, and only the simplest of frames are used.

It has taken a lot of space, this description, but isn't it worthwhile for its novelty and, if you could see it, beauty? It is really amazing what can be done by a handy man and an adept woman when they have imagination to lead them and no fear of breaking away from the crowd!

* * *

Some housewives seem to feel that something is all wrong when a vase or other ornament is allowed to rest directly on a bookcase, table or mantle, without some sort of intervening piece of lace or other fabric. Is it the idea that without these doilies and covers the table looks bare? The tendency for the past decade has been away from doilies and antimacassars and valances, but with all the stores full of new and tempting jim-cracks it is not to be wondered at that some houses are beginning to be cluttered again.

All of which is preliminary to telling you about an Ashburnham home where there are no doilies used—at least in the living room. All the furniture is in walnut finish, with a high polish, and it is really stunning to see brightly-colored vases reflected on table-top and whatnot (yes, there really is one left!) just as bushes by a lake-side are reflected in the calm water. This lady, by the way, uses a certain kind of specially prepared polish put out by a local music store, to which she gives credit for the splendid finish.

Place-mats in a home where I was guest this week were of unbleached creamy-colored cotton, their edges banded with deep sky-blue. A quaint bowl of Oriental flowers was applique-worked in the centre top. The little napkins, of course, matched.

* * *

There's a dainty little silk coat to slip over silky frocks when clouds veil the sun, shown in an uptown store.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Appropriate walking costume consisting of light-weight beige blouse and pleated skirt of confetti-dotted foulard in navy and beige, with purse, handkerchief and blouse trimming to match.

It has become quite fashionable to walk—and the larger grows the number of automobile owners, the more recruits one can count in the army of pedestrians. For one thing there is no longer anything particularly distinguished—about being able to drive your own car and having a car at your disposal whenever you like. For another thing the fashion for slender figures continues. Such boufancy as fashion allows does nothing to hide happiness—and walking really does wonders to melt away superfluous fat about hips and waist.

Now you meet a friend or acquaintance swinging along a suburban road, a country lane or city street. You can tell by her gait that she isn't just going somewhere, saving taxi fares, having her car repaired, or giving her chauffeur a holiday. You can tell by the measured swing of her arms and by her sportsmanlike stride that she is taking a walk. You greet her and she announced proudly that she is walking—meaning that she has joined the army of fashionable walkers. She makes the announcement with as much pride as women used to make the announcement that they were learning to drive a car.

Four or five years ago I knew one woman in a certain fashionable suburb who used to walk to the country club, walk to committee meetings, walk even to card parties and sometimes to dinner parties as well. Busy bodies surmised that she had lost money and was obliged to save gas. They expected to hear that she was arranging to sell one of her cars. It was with some difficulty that they could be made to understand that she was walking because she wanted to.

All of which has nothing to do with dress—though I meant to speak about the clothes appropriate for walking. It is not necessary to dress like a hiker. Personally I have found clothes designed specially for walking rather uncomfortable.

Nothing could be more uncomfortable to me at least than the type of shoes they sell at sports-goods shops when you ask for walking shoes. But your shoes should have reasonably low heels, light weight and securely fastened.

The ensemble shown in the sketch would be appropriate for walking in either city or country.

BRANDED "POLLY"

By Dorothy Douglas.

Edith Leonard was very much annoyed that Dick could even hesitate to accept the offer of a position with the big trust company, which would mean a salary that would enable them to marry almost at once.

"If you stick to the work you're doing now," she said somewhat peevishly, "you will be pottering about with those patents forever and never get anywhere."

"But Edith, dear, if I take this position it will mean grind, grind all the time at someone else's business and give me no time to work out my patents. I know if I could just get a start in selling some of the things I have been working on so long it would soon cleare the deck for bigger things."

"You'll never make a lot of money inventing soaps and can openers and little things like that."

"It's sometimes the little things that make the money," he said stubbornly. "Come, Edith, just give me another year and if I'm not marketing some of my ideas by that time I will give it all up and do as you think best. I have enough money saved now to start putting the soap on the market, and with just a little co-operation from some one who has faith in it—well, I just know it will prove a winner."

When Dick returned to his boarding house that evening he felt discouraged. Certainly the girl he loved gave no encouragement to the schemes dear to his heart.

Not so with little Polly, the daughter of his kind landlady. She was the mothering type of girl, who listened to everybody's troubles and always sent him away much the cheerier.

She had known for some time that their third-floor boarder had of late been worrying and she longed to know his troubles. He had not up to the evening in question confided his ambitions to her, but somehow his last talk with Edith had cast him so low in spirit that he wanted to pour out his troubles to that soft-eyed Polly.

It was eleven o'clock and past Polly's bedtime when she and Dick turned out the sitting-room light and went to their downy couches, but Dick felt as if a new world had opened for him, and Polly seemed to know, without having told Dick so, that she was going to do something to help him in his life's ambition.

For with the true housewife's knack for brain for anything which might light the work of the household, she had at once realized that Dick's patent soap for cleaning windows and mirrors and his wonderful can opener, which opened the can without the usual amount of inward ravings, were both most saleable articles.

And unknown to Dick she got hold of his formula for the soap, and, having got a supply of all that was necessary for the concoction thereof, Polly set to work to get out small sample tins of it.

"I want first to try it among some of our friends and see what they say," she told her mother, "and if it proves worth while I can book orders. And if housewives want it, it will be easy enough to get some of the grocers and shops to order some."

"I believe you're right," said the mother who always added her help to any pet scheme of her daughter's. "I never had anything clean the mirrors so well and it would be grand for motors too—water doesn't seem to blur the windows after using it. And that can opener is a dandy."

"Yes, it's a pity that we can't get a few made as samples, but I'll just have to take this one on my rounds and demonstrate it as I do the soap."

The orders Polly brought back during the following few weeks were not only flattering to Polly and the soap and the can opener, but they were quite beyond anything she had hoped for.

"We will put them on Dick's dressing table this evening," she whispered to her mother. For up to now in the proceedings Dick had been merely the man who held the patent rights. This scheme to put it on the market was still a surprise for him.

When he saw the pile of orders for soap and can openers on his dressing table he felt almost like shouting his joy. It was a great big surprise, a wonderful awakening and a lot of other stupendous emotions all rolled into one.

He dashed down the stairs and into the private sitting-room of Polly and her mother.

"I've never had anything quite so wonderful done for me in all my life," he said, somewhat shakily, "and it is all due to you two. I suppose we will have to form a company now, the three of us, and begin manufacturing. And the brand," he said, and looked long and happily at Polly, "shall be the Polly brand." He gazed at the two women who had made life a different place to live in merely by their faith in him. All his dreams had come into being and he could now spend his energy and his brain power making good in the lines he loved.

"And I couldn't marry Edith now," he said softly, and slipped his hand into Polly's, and with his other arm encircled Polly's mother. "Everyone I love—is just right here. And the sooner we can form our company, which will include the mother of the bride, the bride and the groom, the happier we will be."

CLEVELAND WOMEN TREAT CANADIANS

Press Club Members Visit United States City—Well Entertained.

TORONTO, Ont., July 13.—A friendly international gesture on the part of the Cleveland Women's Press Club was the invitation extended to the Press Women of Canada to pay a visit across the border. About 40 Canadian Press women took advantage of the opportunity to meet the Cleveland Press Women and "had the time of their lives" as they announced on their return. Mrs. Truesdale, President of the Cleveland Club, welcomed the guests, and camera men and newspaper representatives greeted the Canadian delegation on their arrival from across the lake.

"We sailed across the lake in the sunlight and had the pleasure of returning by moonlight," said one delighted member of the party. The guests were overcome with the quantity and quality of favors presented to them at the different functions held in their honor. There were theatre parties, luncheons and dinners and drives in the city and its environs, and also swimming parties.

Judge Allen, a prominent woman magistrate, addressed the banquet held on Saturday evening. An interesting feature of the evening was a roll call to which press women from Montreal (including some French members) from Ottawa, Toronto, London and western cities, responded, among whom were Miss May Clendennan, of London, Dominion President of the Canadian Women's Press Club. Judge Allan in her address, pointed out the value of international amity between Canada and the United States.

During the visit the Canadian press women visited the Cleveland War Memorial and placed a wreath in memory of the soldier heroes.

CLEAN THE FURNACE AS SUMMER COMES

We are all so glad the furnace is through its duties for a while that we are inclined to forget it and leave it full of soot and ashes through the summer. All soot should be cleaned from the pipes and the flues and furnace examined to see if any repairs are necessary. Then when cold weather comes we are all prepared and do not have to wait for the furnace man to repair it at a time when he is most busy.

There are more than 40,000,000 savings accounts in the United States.

A Tip or Two

LIZARD SHOES

To clean lizard or other fancy skin shoes, wipe off first with a damp cloth and then apply one of the colorless cream polishes.

STEP SAVER

A paper shopping bag, tied to the head of an invalid's bed, will catch books, glasses, and so on and save the nurse steps.

TRAVELING ARTICLES

The best wash rags for the traveler are made from squares of cheesecloth. They take little space and can be thrown away when too damp to pack.

SLICED PERSIMMONS

Big, luscious persimmons are delicious if sliced and served with a sprinkling of ginger and lime or lemon juice.

Iron Trade Showed Steady Improvement

TORONTO, July 13. — In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

Steady improvement was noticed in the demand for foundry and malleable pig iron as the summer advanced until the slack season became apparent in June. This year's volume of business has been brisker, however, during that period than it has been for several years, and reports from all quarters indicate the general tendency for a continued improvement in the near future.

The principal recent developments have been the placing of third quarter contracts, and it is estimated that at least 60 per cent. of the regular contract buyers have closed contracts at prevailing prices sufficient to cover their needs up to the end of September. As automobile and other manufacturers turn more and more to forgings, the demand for castings decreases steadily and will continue to do so unless some new and unexpected market opens up.

Structural steel business was almost at a standstill during the strike in Toronto but went ahead at once as soon as the steel workers returned. This will entail a longer employment season than usual in this and allied industries directly and indirectly affected.

Prices are beginning to reflect the trend of improving business. Sheets have dropped a few points while chrome vanadium, in the spring steels, shows a pronounced increase since the last quotation. Warehouse reports are similar in context. Business in a few cases is slack for the moment, but the further outlook is exceptionally promising. Belting manufacturers have been doing fitful and uncertain business during recent weeks, but the average is comparatively high and should gradually strengthen as the general improvemetn is reflected.

Crop reports are uniformly encouraging, while industrially, the Dominion is undoubtedly in better shape this summer than for many years past.

Wright-Hargreaves Cut Present Dividend in Half

Wright-Hargreaves Mines, Ltd., has cut the dividend in half for the present, and on August 1 stockholders of record as of July 16 will receive 2½ cents per share instead of 5 cents as heretofore. In announcing this action on the part of the board of directors, Oliver Cabana, Jr., president of the company, issued a statement giving their reasons for the reduction and telling of developments at the property. The statement was as follows:

"It was thought advisable for the present to reduce the dividend payment to 2½ cents per share instead of 5 cents, as heretofore, due to the fact that in our extensive underground development, including sinking two shafts to the 2,000-foot level, an unusually large quantity of low-grade ore was encountered, resulting in the company not producing sufficient to pay the customary dividend of 5 cents per shade from earnings, and the desire not to draw too heavily on the surplus account.

"The most recent report of the property, submitted at the meeting by the general manager, was quite encouraging. It was the opinion of the management that from now on the grade of ore milled would be considerably higher, and the possibilities of earning the regular dividend seemed very likely.

"The month of July has opened with mill-heads running $9.00 per ton, which is a distinct increase, and General Manager Grant was optimistic as to the improvement continuing."

Wheat Opens Strong But Undergoes Setback

CHICAGO, July 13 (Canadian Press).—With crop reports favorable from the North-West and with harvesting resumed in the South-West, wheat values here underwent setbacks to-day after upturns at the start. Initial gains were associated with word that Russia was negotiating for an additional wheat purchase abroad. Opening ¼c to ¾c higher, Chicago wheat, afterwards showed losses. Corn, oats and provisions were relatively firm, with corn starting unchanged to 3-8c up and subsequently scoring general gains which however were not well maintained.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

As we stated in our market letter yesterday that Noranda would react further, kindly note, that Noranda today touched 48½, six points lower from yesterday's high, and we still say that Noranda can be bought lower.

The writer predicts that the common stock of Lyall Construction Co. will be a sensation on the market this year, and that it will sell at $100.00 a share. The company now has $28,000,000 worth of business on their books, besides their having a good chance of securing some further attractive business at an early date. Under the circumstances, it is confidentially expected that a dividend at the rate of $6.00 per annum will be paid on the common stock.

Briggs on the New York board, has been resting for a week, seems to be turning up again. This stock has behaved remarkably well; reacted about the right proportion and now going through 37½. We advise you to buy Briggs through this point, and have every reason to sustain our previous opinions that Briggs this summer should sell close to 50.

Steady growth is reported by Winnipeg Electric in a progress report just issued. The total load for the first five months of the year is reported at 43 per cent. in excess of the corresponding period of 1927, while the company's gas business increased 2.7 per cent, and even revenue passengers on the trolley lines were up 282,780 or rather over 1 per cent. This, no doubt, accounts in part for the recent sharp run-up of the Winnipeg Electric common to 118.

It has been noted that any decline in Consolidated Smelters stock brings in a run of more than ordinarily impressive buying. Such has been going on for some little time. During the last few weeks a considerable amount of speculative selling has been its appearance but all offerings have been readily observed. This is not surprising when it is recalled that Smelters on the basis of earnings and prospects was far behind the other securities representative of leading companies in big industries during the bull market, as smelters rarely sold at over eleven times its demonstrated earning power while most other prominent industrials were moving generally on a basis of fifteen to twenty times earnings or better.

SUDBURY LODE MINES

The first drill hole on Sudbury Lode Mines, Limited, is nearing the point where it is calculated the extension of the rich surface showing will be encountered. Results should be available within the next few days. Should values in the drill core show high-grade as on the surface, much higher prices for the stock will be in order. Another mineralized zone has been uncovered on the surface and traced for about a mile. This deposit shows excellent values and will be diamond drilled later on. The new discovery is regarded as adding very greatly to the possibilities.

Several Issues Fluctuate Noranda Again Stronger

TORONTO, July 13 (Canadian Press).— Trading was light on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day, with prices inclined to firmness, although several issues fluctuated sharply. Noranda was distinctly stronger after yesterday's lapse, and closed with a gain of 1.20 at 51.10 after selling as low as 47.50. Hudson Bay, too, was higher advancing 50 to 18.75.

Amulet maintained its leadership in sales volume but dropped 18 to 4.52, after opening at the low mark of 4.70. Malartic was unchanged at 1.44. Wright Hargreaves with a heavy turnover, was down 1 at 3.49.

Western issues were firm, Sherritt-Gordon gaining 5 in the closing at 7.10, and Mint Oregon 4 at 37. Pend Oreille was unchanged at 13.50, as was Mandy at 3.30. Central Manitoba gained 1 to 1.07 and Big Missourie was down 1½ at 56. Coast Copper returned to board at 37.75.

International Nickle Is Active Other Stocks Show Gains

TORONTO, July 13 (Canadian Press). — Prices on the Toronto Stock exchange were firmer to-day, with a number of issues showing slight gains. International Nickel occupied the spotlight with an active morning, and advanced ¾ to 92½. Standard Bank, which scored a gain of 20 yesterday, increased this by three during the morning, and imparted strength to bank issues generally. Imperial advanced 3 to 254 and Dominion 2 to 260.

Brazilian, with a good turnover, was fractionally higher at 56¼. Canners issues were firm, common at 19½, first at 92, and second at 22½. Hayes Wheels common dropped one point to 33 and preferred advanced a point to 96. Massey-Harris was slightly lower at 40¼.

The curb list was light with prices firm.

Trading Shows Reduction Call Rate Is Lowered

NEW YORK, July 13.—(Canadian Press).— Stock market displayed a complete reversal of form today selling off sharply at the opening on raising of New York federal reserve re-discou ntrate, and then rallying briskly in response to the lowering of call money rates. Trading showed marked reduction in volume total sales in first three hours running around 1¼ million shares.

Call money renewed at 7½ percent and then dropped to 7 as plentiful supply of funds flowed in from all sections of the country. So great was the supply of loanable funds in the afternoon that loans were arranged in "outside market" as low as 6½ percent and official rate was lowered to that figure. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

U. S. Rubber common was heavily bought on rumors of merger with Goodrich, but these were denied by officials of the latter company. The crude rubber consumption in June broke all records.

Dupont broke 5 points to 363, in the early trading, and then rallied to 372. Wright Aeronautical dropped 4½ points to 136, and snapped back to 143¼. Radio fell 4 to 162½, and rebounded to 168⅞. General Motors rallied from an early low of 181⅝ to 187½, and Curtiss Aeroplane from 97¼ to 102¾.

MOUNT SCOTT IS CONQUERED

Noted Alpinist From Philadelphia Conquers Important Height.

ATTEMPTS A SECOND.

JASPER, Alta., July 13. —For the first time in its history Mount Scott, the peak in Jasper National Park, named after the gallant hero of the South Pole has been conquered. The ascent has just been made and the successful climber is Dr. J. Monroe Thorington, of Philadelphia, noted Alpinist and author of the glittoring mountains of Canada. With him were Dr. Max Strumia, also of Philadelphia, a member of both the American and the Italia Alpine Clubs, William Hainsworth of New Haven, Conn., and Julian Hillhouse of Newton, Conn. The altitude of Scott is 10,826 feet. After establishing a high camp in one of the largest ice basins in the Rockies at a height of 8,500 feet the climbers worked on the spectacular Scott glazier and then made the premier ascent of the mountain itself. There was no doubt about the climb, for it was made twice. On the first attempt, the party found that the south peak which they topped was not the highest. High water added to the difficulty encountered, but the ascent was not marred by any outstanding hardships. Mount Ermantinger, 10,080 feet, and Mount Evans, 10,460, named after another Antarctic hero, were also conquered by this party, for the first time it was claimed.

Dr. Thorington left with Hillhouse to-day for the Columbia Valley, where they will join Eaton Cromwell of Philadelphia, leaving Strumia and Hainesworth in the Maligne Lake area, where they are working on Mount Charlton and other high peaks.

SPEAKER TELLS OF AGRICULTURE

Hon. Duncan Marshall Addresses Kiwanis Club at Luncheon To-day.

INTERESTING LECTURE.

The Honorable Duncan Marshall addressed the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel today, his subject being "Agriculture Education." His address was most interesting, and many of the members of the club came up to Mr. Marshall after to personally thank him for such an interesting talk.

Mr. Marshall started out by saying that he realized that he was speaking to men who live in a city, but offered no apology for his topic, as he promised himself fifteen years ago that at every chance he could get he would talk along the topic of agriculture education. "It has been grossly neglected by governments and people in representative positions. Agriculture education is only twenty-five years old, the science of this complicated study has just started. It always has been easy to make a soil analysis, but they never knew before how to get the strength from this soil. Agriculture is the foundation industry of Canada. We depend upon the crops for our industrial success, and when I was in the West I never made a trip East but someone asked me about the crops in the Prairies.

"In spite of the importance of all this, the great university in Toronto, with its 7,000 students has only 500 in agriculture; in spite of the fact that 50 per cent of the population is engaged in farming. It is the most complete business in the world. A successful farmer would be a success in any business. The lack of education has meant that only 50 per cent of the progress has been made that should have been. I know a number of boys who believe that it is a misfortune to live on the farm, and mothers who hope that their boys will not grow up and slave on a farm," he declared.

"I would like to see the prominent men stir up the government to educate the boys and girls in educational farming and show them it is a real interesting business. Every country in the world is dependent on farming and livestock breeding, and the improvement of livestock breeding is all important. It is the foundation of agriculture and is very interesting.

"Canadians hold farming in a directly opposite view to the English and Scotch farmers where they raise the finest cattle in the world, and farmers all over the earth go to a little islands half rock and scenery, the other half farms to get the best breeds. It is because they take an interest in the raising of good cattle.

"It is a joy to milk a good cow that will give 40 to 60 pounds of milk a day. When the pail is filled and you have to reach for another you get a real thrill.

"This is the age of competition. The tenant system in Scotland made the farmer improve his land and farming in order to pay the high rent They had to progress to make their farms better.

"Twenty-five new schools of agriculture have been established in England. It should be in the heart of every man in public life in this country that the boys and girls should start where their fathers left off. Save the boys for the farm. Dealing with nature and natural resources and the turning out of a completed product of the living things of the farm has no comparison with any other finished product in the world. If we can get the boys and girls now on the land to understand their privileges and that there is nothing more fascinating than watching calves grow, and if our boys and girls would only realize their own opportunities then we will have built up a nation second to none.

"Men who live in towns and cities can do a great deal and a successful live stock show is important. I wish to compliment the Hon. J. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, in securing Dr. G. Christie as president of the Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph. Mr. Christie, a Canadian who has been in Peru, India, for some time, has had the kind of experience necessary and is the man for the job.

"We need more pride in our business and the teaching of the boys and girls on the farms or their opportunities.

"The pioneer spirit has made these lands what they are, and we will have thrown agriculture down if we let our boys and girls go without an understanding of scientific agriculture. I hope to see the day when the standard of education will be the standard set in the farm homes in the Dominion of Canada."

Kiwanian Jack Craig introduced Mr. Marshall, and Kiwanian Jack McNabb expressed in a most impressive way the appreciation felt by all those present.

Eric Roberts and John Perkins, of The Ohiolans at Chemong Park, supplied the musical items on the program by playing a medley, "Home Again Blues," for Kiwanian Vern Morphet, and a piano solo, "Soliqui," by Mr. Perkins, and a request number together.

The guests were Hon. Duncan Marshall of Toronto, W. G. Richardson of Cauyahaga Falls, Ohio, W. H. Richardson, Cleveland, W. C. Bierce, Cauyhaga Falls, Ohio, E. Roberts and J. Perkins of Chemong, J. E. Burnham, of St. Petersburg, Fla., H. V. Almas, Ingersoll, who is the new superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, A. Hundry, Toronto, and F. L. Hall, Cleveland.

Fog Interferes.

LONDON, July 13 (Canadian Press).—A Reuter's despatch from Moscow quotes Prof. Samoilovitch, leader of the Russian rescue expedition aboard the ice-breaker Krassin, as wirelessing that fog would prevent the Krassin from reaching Foyn Island until to-morrow to pick up the party of Alpinists believed there.

The Alpinists believed to be on Foyn Island are commanded by Capt. Sora. They were sighted by the Krassin yesterday, but were not picked up because of the more immediate necessity of rescuing the Vigilieri group off North-East Land.

INITIATIVE GOT CHEAP POWER

which was increased to 1,600 h. p. a few years later.

Orillia suffered its first setback in 1904, when the high water of spring carried away the Patriarche dam, but immediately decided to replace it at a cost of $28,000. The second dam, a temporary one, did not prove satisfactory. The municipality at once provided $75,000 for their third dam, which was completed by Quinland & Robertson and continued in operation until 1917.

The Government's Proposal.

Meanwhile in 1911 the town decided that a new power house was necessary, and in November of that year the Dominion Government suggested that the generating plant be moved to the Swift Rapids. The Government was building the Trent Canal in that section, and engineers reported that $250,000 could be saved by combining the Ragged and Swift Rapids under one head at the Swift. It would avoid a three-quarter-mile cut through solid rock, and would increase the 34-foot fall at the Ragged Rapids dam to 47 feet at the proposed Swift Rapids dam. The Government offered to build a power house for Orillia at the new dam, the equipment costing $180,000 to be provided by the town. This offer was accepted, and in April, 1914, the contract for the dam and power house was let.

Orillia factories were busy on munitions work during the war, using not only the town's 1,600 h. p., but also more than that amount of power, which the town bought from the Hydro-Electric Commission. The Dominion Government would have suspended the construction of the Swift Rapids dam had it not been approved as a war measure, that is to supply power for the munitions factories. It was completed in 1917, and the current was first turned on for Orillia on November 17. A week earlier, engineers, after mining the old dam at Ragged Rapids with eight tons of dynamite, blew it to fragments.

Friendly With Hydro.

Such is the chronology of Orillia's progress as a producer of electric power. With 6,000 h. p. on its hands the town sold a block of it to the Hydro-Electric Commission for a time. To-day it uses most of the output in the factories, stores and homes but could sell up to 1,600 h. p. if it were required. Even now, the peak demand heavily reduces the available surplus.

Orillia's relations with the Hydro-Electric Commission have been pleasant. The town plant is hooked up with the Hydro circuit. Last year the Ontario commission bought from the town power amounting to $214.31.

Declined To Sell.

In 1916 the town seriously considered a proposal to sell its plant and transmission lines to the Hydro-Electric Commission, but the bylaw which was submitted to the ratepayers was defeated almost unanimously. The people are thoroughly satisfied with their investment. They have sold ten issues of debentures since 1899, aggregating $552,000, and have spent about $200,000 from the power revenues. The initial debentures, floated in February, 1899, will be retired next year.

The equipment Orillia bought in 1917 for its new power house cost $184,000. It consists of three 1,500 K. V. A. generators, driven by three water wheels of 2,120 horse power each. The generators were made by the Canadian General Electric Company at Peterborough.

35,000 Lamps in Use.

Orillia with 8,000 people has 35,000 lamps in their homes and more than 1,000 lamps in the streets and parks. The cost of street lighting is $4 for each 100-watt lamp a year, and $10 for 200-watt lamps; park and wharf lights, per 60-watt lamp, a month, ten cents.

The domestic charge for washing machines is 25 cents a month; vacuum cleaners, 25 cents a month; sewing machine motors, 22 cents a month—less 10 per cent. discount.

Managed By Commission.

Originally the Orillia power plant was a department of the Municipal Council, but in 1913 it was transferred to a commission, the Water, Light and Power Commission, whose present members are F. H. Horne, chairman, Mayor R. A. Brown, J. B. Tudhope, Peter Ritchie and J. C. Miller. The engineer is R. H. Starr and the secretary, Frank Gover. Commissioners are elected for two-year terms. Mr. Tudhope has a national reputation as a manufacturer. Mr. Miller has served the town for more than 25 years.

Much of the information in this summary was obtained from Mr. C. H. Hale, editor of the Orillia Packet and Times, who was chairman of the Water, Light and Power Commission for nine years. He has all the details of the town's power development literally at the finger-tips of his memory.

Estimate of Asset.

The Orillia commission's balance sheet for 1927 totals its electrical department assets at $833,156.68, and the liabilities include $276,587.23 debenture debt, $155,176.85 plant depreciation reserve, $32,503.73 insurance contingency reserve, $10,000 general reserve account, also $4.80 accounts payable and a surplus of $358,884.07. This last sum is the surplus of income over expenditures, as shown by the revenue account, before providing for the repayment of debenture debt falling due. Receipts for the year totalled $150,475.88 and expenditures $144,010.76, leaving a credit balance of $6,465.12. Expenditures include $4,774.94 allowance to the town, $6,819 office expenses, $44,491.90 operating and maintenance costs, capital expenditure of $52,718.14 for extensions and improvements, $20,493 debentures retired, and $13,301 debenture interest.

Bethany Defeats Cognawagas By 9-4 Count

STAGE RALLY IN FIFTH TO WIN VICTORY

Hammer Billingsley for Seven Runs to Overtake Cogs' Lead.

LIVELY CONTEST

Game Last Number on Afternoon's Bill of Orange Day Sports.

Bethany with some select hitting in the fifth when they scored seven runs, defeated Cognawagas by 9 to 4, at Exhibition Park, yesterday afternoon, the contest being the last number on the afternoon's bill of Orange Day sports.

Vannest was breezing along nicely and Cogs were leading 4 to 2 when Jack Billingsley went to the mound. But it was the wrong day for Long John. He was hammered for four singles, two doubles and a triple which with a walk went for seven tallies while his team mates were getting two hands down. Vannest returned to the box and ended the frame.

Russell went all the way for Bethany and Cogs got to him only in the third when a single, a triple by Corbett, and two infield outs scored three runs.

Mein, of the Crescents, and Fowler of the Cogs, played with the visitors, the former getting a pair of doubles in the fifth when he batted twice. It was Fowler who led off with a single to help Bethany to victory. The brace of three baggers by Corbett and Ryley were timely, Ryley's long drive sending home two runners, while Corbett scored one.

The players of both teams displayed commendable speed in playing the game, and the big crowd in the grandstand saw a lively contest with plenty of hitting and good fielding. Ryley accepted eight out of nine chances at second base and along with Dawe retired the side in the fourth. Corbett handled a couple of hard foul flies.

SOX BREAK LOSING STREAK

Root Holds Boston to Five Hits as Chicago Wins 4-1.

CARDS WIN 11-1

NEW YORK, July 13 (Canadian Press).—Charley Root broke a losing streak of seven straight games by holding Boston to five hits as Chicago routed Virgil Barnes and finished with a 4 to 1 victory; it was the third straight win over the Braves.

A base on balls, Sisler's single and an infield out gave Boston its one run in the first inning, but after that Root was invincible.

The Cubs hit Barnes hard in the fourth and fifth innings to score three runs and then when Grimm, Hartnett and Beck hit in succession in the sixth, Cooney was sent to the rescue and stopped the Cubs cold with one hit the rest of the way.

Four double plays by the Braves helped hold the score down.

Rain stopped a great ball game between Cincinnati and Brooklyn at Redland Field with the score tied at nothing to nothing in the last of the ninth. Ray Moss had held the Redlegs to three safe hits when the storm ended play with two on and one out in the home half of the last inning.

Pounding Fred Fitzsimmons and Garland Buckeye for twelve hits, seven for extra bases, the Cardinals swamped the Giants, 11 to 1, at St. Louis in the third engagement of the series. The game was called on account of rain after five and one-half innings had been played.

Jess Haines gave the Clan McGraw only five hits.

North Emily Team Clinches L.O.L. Softball Trophy

Winnipeg Team Will Not Go To Olympics

WINNIPEG, Man., July 13. — (By the Canadian Press).— Reports that Winnipeg's senior eight rowing crew which was defeated by Toronto Argonauts in the Olympic trials at St. Catherines, would be sent as an independent entry to Amsterdam, were definitely dispelled yesterday.

In a wireless dispatch received from Con. Riley, coach of the local crew, from the steamer Albertic the right of double representation in the rowing event was denied. The message added that while the Canadian Olympic committee officials would probably not oppose the suggestion, the Olympic regulations definitely prohibited double representation.

Commenting on the matter J. O. Waugh, local rowing official declared, "We felt that there was so little to choose between the Argonaut and Winnipeg eights that if Olympic rules permitted, it would only have been right to have sent our boys across. We were quite ready to finance their passage, but the regulations are against it and we are not complaining."

VICTORS PLAY SMART BALL

Defeat Pontypool by Large Scores in Double-Header.

ORANGE CELEBRATION

North Emily grabbed off an easy win to clinch the softball trophy given in the 12th of July tournament by L.O.L. 321, at the final fixture, held in conjunction with the Orange Celebration at Exhibition Park on the 12th. The final score was 18 to 5.

The winners were a team that had played together a lot before, which resulted in the same story that was told in the earlier game played in the morning at Confederation Park, when they won from Pontypool by the score of 9—4. The northerners walloped the Pontypool men all over the field. In the second innings there were twelve men to the plate. There were nine to bat without a put-out, each man sharing in a run. The second time over the line-up, three were cut off consecutively. The total number of runs chalked up in that inningse was 9.

The Pontypool men made two consecutively double plays, one in the sixth and the other in the seventh. A. Masters, at first, featuring in them both. The first one he scored a put-out at first, and threw a fast one to Grey on third for the second put-out; the second time two birds were killed with the same stone was after putting out his man on first, he threw it to second for the next killing.

North Emily also figured in a double play, when W. S. Thurston cut off his man and threw a second out on third. Middleton, Smith, Calvert, McMann and Thurston were the toppers for the northerners, while Mitchell, Payne and both Masters showed best form for Pontypool. Payne having a peculiar attitude at the plate of his own, seemed to get there.

McKay hit a nice homer out into centre field, as well as Kennedy.

The line-ups:

Pontypool.— Mitchell, c; Graham, p; Clark, ss; Chapman ,2b; B. Payne, cf; Grey, 3b; E. Masters, rf; Aldred, lf; A. Masters, 1b.

Score by innings:
North Emily .. .. 0592002—18
Pontypool. .. .. 0010202— 5
No strikeouts.

Morning Game

The boys from Pontypool did not arrive—that is, not all of the team; only a few arrived in time for the game; so a picked team from brother Orangemen increased the number of players to the required nine. Consequently ball on the part of the Pontypool men was loose, and the team failed to show the machine-like precision of a team of men used to playing with each other.

North Emily had the better team on the field, they had the advantage of having played together many times before, which meant a great deal in the winning of the game.

The numerous errors on the part of the Pool men were disastrous and wild throws all around the bases were the cause of North Emily being able to score many of their runs.

Pontypool was held scoreless for the first six frames of the game, but staged a rally in the seventh to save them from a coat of whitewash and to score four runs. The rally was started with two down when Tamblyn, Alder, and Graham landed safely on the bases after a single each and Clark's home run bringing them all in, and he scoring himself to make the four runs. This timely hit with the bases full, saved the day.

Calvert of North Emily also made a homer, which was a real circus clout, the ball landing into one of the refreshment stands and made things dangerous for a time for the hot dogs. R. Clark of Pontypool was the best player for them; he played his position without an error and used his head often when cutting off the odd run by throwing the ball home at the critical moment instead of taking the safer way and hurling it to first.

The North Emily battery was good. J. Thurston, the catcher, tried hard to handle everything, but was hindered by the ropes and the crowd. The crowd made things unpleasant all the way through the game, as they persisted in getting on the field at all times, interfering with the players.

The line-ups:

North Emily—Kennedy, 2b; McKay, 2b; Middleton, cf; Sloan, rf; Smith, ss; Thurston, 1b; Calvert, 3b; McMann, lf; J. Thurston, c.

Pontypool.—Graham, p; Payne, cf; Clark, c; R. Clark, 2b; Hamilton, 1b; Masters, 3b; Tamblyn, ss; Elliott, rf; Alder, lf.

Score by innings:
North Emily.. .. ..414000x—9
Pontypool.. .. ..0000004—4

Strike-outs—McKay, 3; Graham, 2.

The committee in charge of the softball are: Brothers Fred Batten, E. F. Magee, R. Martin, and H. Tamblyn.

Crescents and Raybestos clash at Exhibition Grounds to-night in an East Peterborough League fixture.

Scoring their winning runs in the fifth inning the Kiwanis Juveniles overcome the early lead of the Moose to defeat the lodgemen by a 12-9 count in a group fixture last night. The game was the final tussle in the juvenile schedule. The play-offs will be announced shortly.

* * * * * *

The victors played loose ball throughout the early stages of the game, heaving the ball to all corners of the lot.

* * * * * *

Hammering out the first home run of the season in the juvenile series, Dunkerley who clouted the ball from home base clear under the score board, wins the tonsorial course donated by the Robinson barber shop on Hunter Street.

* * * * * *

Crescents and Raybestos are the starters at Exhibition Park this evening, when Crescents with several new players in the line-up will endeavor to stop the league leaders and tie with the Cogs for second place. It's a great race with a thrill in every game.

* * * * * *

The Bethany club and the Cognawagas were put to considerable inconvenience to stage their game yesterday afternoon, but Managers Hamilton and Davis responded in fine style. The fans saw a real game with tiresome delays and half-hearted efforts being conspicuous by their absence.

CANADIAN GENERAL VS. QUAKER OATS

Meet in Holloway Injured Players' Cup at King Edward Park.

Saturday's local soccer fixture is the final of the Holloway Injured Player's Cup when the Quakers and the Canadian General meet at King Edward Park. Kick off at three o'clock prompt. Referee Alex. McKinley.

During the previous games the collectors met with a very poor response for this worthy cause which has put the finances away below the average for the season and the executive hope that the fans will meet the obligations to-morrow afternoon.

All soccer fans will be glad to know that player Robb of the Canadian General who broke his leg in a recent game is making satisfactory progress in the hospital.

Will the following Quaker players please be on hand at King Edward Park on Saturday at 2.45 p.m. prompt for the Holloway Cup final: T. Wilson, A. Wilson, T. Williams, R. Carmichael, B. Curtis, J. Buchan, H. Curtis, W. Rankine, G. Logan, M. Studely, W. James, G. Lovet, H. Hotston, T. Foster, T. Craig.

Boxers From All Parts Of Dominion Arrive At Montreal For Olympic Tests

MONTREAL, Que., July 13 (Canadian Press). — With the arrival yesterday of some of the boxers from other parts of Canada for the Canadian Olympic boxing trials which commence at the Forum on Saturday night and continue on Monday, some idea of the kind of men other Provinces are sending here is revealed.

Among the Ontario contingent is Jackson, University of Toronto scrapper, son of Judge Jackson, of Edmonton, Alta., former president of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada. Jackson is regarded as a real contender for the 147 pound class. Others from Ontario include S. H. Hackett, 126-pounder, and Roy Shillie, present 160-pound champion, who is now fighting in the welterweight class.

Manitoba men to arrive yesterday included George Holden, undefeated bantamweight champion of the Prairie Province; Billy Drain, hard-hitting Irish-Canadian, 126-pounder; Frankie Battaglia, Italo-Canadian, 135 pounds, Johnny Wilson, 135 pounds, and Andy Cleven, 160-pounder. Other out-of-town men will arrive to-day.

TIGERS WIN HURLING DUEL

Stage Three-Run Rally in Ninth to Defeat Yankees 4-2.

BROWNS WIN OUT 3-1

NEW YORK, July 13 (Canadian Press).—The Detroit Tigers put on a three-run rally in the ninth inning here yesterday and defeated the Yankees, 4 to 2, in the third game of the series. It was a pitching battle between Henry Johnson and Lil Stoner until the ninth, when Johnson gave way to Wilcy Moore. Wildness cost the young Yankee hurler the decision.

With the bases filled in the fifth, Johnson passed Hargrave, forcing in a run, but personally evened the score with a homer in the Yankee half. The Yanks went ahead by one in the eighth, but Johnson was unable to hold the margin. He was retired in favor of Moore in the ninth with two out and the bases filled.

Moore passed McManus, forcing home the winning run and permitted Galloway to single, adding another.

The St. Louis Browns bunched hits off MacFayden in the sixth inning yesterday and won the third game of the series from the Red Sox, 3 to 1, at Boston.

The Athletics and Chicago White Sox divided a double-header at Philadelphia, Chicago winning the opening game, 4 to 3, and the Mackmen the second, 5 to 2.

A pitching duel between Braxton and Marberry for Washington and Uhle for Cleveland was decided yesterday in the tenth when Langford scored on Burns' single, the Indians winning 2 to 1 to even the series.

Goslin, who has been out of the game because of a sore arm, batted for Braxton in the eighth, was hit by a pitched ball, moved up on a sacrifice and an out, and scored Washington's only run when Barnes singled.

the whole mass. The air was smooth as cream here, and the sensation was just of being suspended and the rest of the world going round.

"Just before I had to come down the moon rose out of the Gulf (Mexico) blood red at first, and appearing through a low cloud bank. I flew towards it it so it showed through the illuminated propellor sweep — the city was in my picture at the left. There were nine other ships in the air with tiny red and green wing lights, making them appear like super insects, and the engine exhausts enhanced the illusion. It was glorious."

HAVE TO WIN FROM PONIES HERE TOMORROW

Petes Hope To Terminate Losing Streak in This Game.

GOING GOOD.

Joe Daley Has His Kingston Gang Working Smoothly.

Joe Daley will lead his band of Kingston Ponies into action here tomorrow in their second last local appearance of the season at James Stevenson Park. The fighting Kingston pilot has his gang going nicely now, their defensive work bordering on the sensational, while the Ponies are hitting hard and showing speed on the bases. All of which means that the Petes have a real argument on their hands to-morrow, and that they will have to turn in one of their good games if they expect to terminate their losing streak and start the climb back up the ladder.

The local gang are of course within reach of the top yet, despite the loss of three games in a row, but to get there they have got to get going. Tomorrow would be a splendid time to start, and a win over the Ponies would be of very material assistance.

The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp, with Jamieson pitching for the Ponies.

It should be an interesting argument.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

NORMA TALMADGE IN "THE DOVE."

Norma Talmadge is as lovely as ever in "The Dove." Her dreamy eyes occupy the centre of the picture during most of its unfolding. But she isn't as interesting as usual, nor as convincing. It is a picture of bombast and spends most of its time in featuring either Norma or the fat, slobbering Noah Beery who enacts the role of the egotistical Don Jose Marie Y Sandoval, "the best damn caballero on the Red Coast," as he assures his listeners at all moments in a tiresome reiteration of a boastful litany. Gilbert Roland, with his odd resemblance to John Gilbert and his equally effective likeness to Valentino, is the somewhat negligible hero who is shoved into the background by the contesting desire for publicity of the star and the "heavy."

It is a colorful picture, crammed full of Spanish haciendas and swaggering velvet cloaks, gorgeous fringed shawls and interiors like those of "The Yellow Pig," where the lovely Dolores is an entertainer of innocent charm that does not chime with her environment. There are moments of tension that come to naught in this picture, making a curious atmosphere to its outlinging. The skirts of heavy drama touch the onlooker at different moments and then peter out to a banal conclusion. Even when Sandoval has the girl and the man at his mercy, he weakens, in a very egotistical climax that may be logical, but is decidedly not satisfactory. "The Dove" has more than a suggestion of opera bouffe in its story.

Jimmie Adams is the volatile hero of the comedy, "Ocean Blues," and there are some very entertaining short reels in connection with the program, including some close up views of the lost Arctic explorer, Amundsen, and the only official pictures of the start of the airplane, "Friendship" on its recent successful trans-Atlantic flight.

To accommodate visitors to the city yesterday, the Capitol had a continuous performance from two o'clock on. —Jeanette.

LOBLAW'S NEW BUILDING

ROYAL'S STAR BASEMAN

When George Stallings, ambitious manager of the Montreal Royals, began to collect a baseball team for the Quebec metropolis, he boasted that his club would be among the leaders. With the season well advanced it must be admitted that George has made the boys in the Toole circuit sit up and take notice. Particularly the Toronto Leafs, whom he has been energetically chasing for pennant leadership of late.

Prominent among the Stalling stalwarts is Red Holt, once a major league sensation. Red is a first sacker who climbed the ladder and was sold to the Athletics for $25,000. Shortly afterwards he was injured and forced to quit the game for two years. This season he has stepped out once more and is staging a come-back with the Royals, for whom he has been playing a bang-up game. Stallings claimed that the French-Canadian capital was one of the best major league cities on the continent and it looks now as if he were right, for baseball is booming mightily in merry old Montreal.

SEVEN MEN DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

All Convicted Murderers Who Were Electrocuted Early This Morning.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 13 (Canadian Press). — Seven men, convicted murderers all, were electrocuted between midnight and 1.30 o'clock this morning at the State Penitentiary here.

Four white men, three of them very young, and three negroes, made up the seven whose deaths in the electric chair set a record for Kentucky. Sullen, defiant, and prayerful by turns, the condemned men were reduced by fear to a condition bordering upon collapse as they went to their deaths.

This year more than 50 per cent. of the students of Robert College, an American institution in Constantinople, are Turks, as compared with only 5 per cent. before the war.

REPORTED STARVING

Here are the four members of the crew of the dirigible Italia reported starving as they await death or rescue on a ice floe off Northeastland. Lieut. Lundborg, who rescued Umberto Nobile, their commander, and subsequently was taken off the pack after an unsuccessfully second attempt at rescue, says the men are going mad. Even with stringent rationing, the food supply has been exhausted and the marooned men have lived solely on bear meat. They cut the meat of the polar bears with scissors, as the encampment possesses no knives. It is cooked with solidified alcohol and eaten with a horn, as there are no table utensils. Their plight is disheartening for rescue appears next to impossible, as the ice is fast breaking up, destroying chances of a plane landing near them. The four are: (1) Lieut. Alfredo Viglieri, (2) Felice Troiani, (3) Giuseppe Biagi, and (4) F. Behounek.

LOBLAW'S ERECTS NEW WAREHOUSE

New Building Will Have 400,000 Square Feet of Floor Space.

The building planned by the executives of the Loblaw Groceterias Co., Limited, represents very advanced ideas for the receiving and distributing of groceries. There are over 400,000 square feet of floor area. This includes inside accommodation for seven freight cars; and twenty-three trucks may be loaded and moved simultaneously without interference. All materials are handled by electric trucks, using a modern skid system before assembling; after which they are assembled and distributed by over two thousand feet of electric tram rail system; the individual shipments being dropped at their respective trucks.

Garage and motor repair sections with carpenter and paint shops, etc., are located to the north. The remainder of the first floor contains the assembly section, receiving and shipping driveways and general storage areas.

The basement contains general storage, refrigerating machinery, boiler rooms, electric sub-station and switchboard rooms, etc.

The second floor contains the executive and accounting offices with general storage.

The third floor accommodates cold storage and operations connected therewith, such as butter and bacon cutting, egg candling, etc. This floor also contains the bakery, equipped with modern electric ovens, and other rooms for light manufacturing.

The top floor is used for light manufacturing and contains cafeterias, dining-rooms, laundry.

The building is equipped with six five-ton fully automatic micro-levelling freight elevators, together with one automatic passenger elevator.

In general, all large exterior doors and main runs of monitor sash are motor operated, and the building has been designed to use the most approved labor-saving devices throughout.

The main entrance to the building is through a solid bronze doorway to a large vestibule and main stairway which has been artistically treated.

We cordially invite our out-of-town friends to visit us any time they are in Toronto.

DR. W. G. ANGLIN RESIGNS POST

Kingston Doctor Tenders Resignation as Medical Officer of Portsmouth.

DR. PORTER ACTING.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 13. — (Special).—Dr. William G. Anglin medical officer at the penitentiary since July first 1920 has tendered his resignation. It has been accepted and he will be granted gratuity. Dr. Anglin, a Queen's graduate of 1883 and later professor of clinical surgery in Queen's Medical College, saw service overseas with the Queen's medical unit. He is a native of Kingston. He is temporarily succeeded by Dr. Sidney E. Porter, a Queen's graduate of 1900 and an overseas man practising here. Dr. Porter is a son of the late Robert Porter, Lindsay, and came here following the war, from South Mountain. It is fully expected his appointment will be permanent. Dr. Anglin is a Conservative and Dr. Porter a Liberal, the second time a Liberal has been in office in half a century.

Found a Short Distance From Where Last Seen Clinging.

MAY BE INQUEST.

BROCKVILLE, July 13 (Canadian Press).—The body of Ameda Ferguson, aged 13, who disappeared yesterday while bathing at Lewis Pavilion, was recovered late last night after several hours dragging. The body was found within a short distance of the spot where the girl, surrounded by other children, was last seen clinging to the dock. It has not yet been decided whether an inquest will be held.

CANADA YEAR BOOK HAS BEEN PRINTED

Present Issue Extends Over 1,100 Pages Divided in Fifteen Sections.

The publication of the Canada Year Book, 1927-28, is announced by the Central Statistics Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This comprehensive volume, which is now ready for public distribution, is the official statistical annual dealing with the resources, history, institutions and social and economic conditions of the Dominion. The present edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its sections the latest information up to the date of going to press.

The present issue of the Year Book extends to 1,100 pages, and is divided into fifteen sections.

Among the new features incorporated in the present edition of the Year Book are the following: A special article on the Climate of Canada, contributed by Sir Frederic Stupart, Director of the Meteorological Service of Canada; a summary of the results of the census of the Prairie Provinces, taken in 1926; improved statistics of immigration, including the languages, nationalities and birthplaces of immigrants; preliminary results of the census of manufactures for 1926 as well as detailed analyses of these statistics for 1925; an extended discussion of Canadian trade; a summary of the first authoritative statement on the tourist trade of Canada; material on the traffic and the financial position of the Canadian National Railways; a special article on Canadan legislation respecting Combination in Restraint of Trade, by the Registrar of the Combines Investigation Act; an important study of the wages statistics collected at the Census of 1921; the results of a new study of the national wealth of Canada as in 1925. The appendix contains figures of immigration and of trade for the fiscal year ended Mar. 31, 1928. The volume, which is illustrated by many more maps and diagrams than in previous years, also includes an index with some 4,000 page-references, and an eight-page Statistical Summary of the Progress of Canada since 1871.

Twelve to fifteen thousand suicides are reported annually in the United States.

THANKS ARE DUE THE ORGANIZER

Edward Huff, Formerly of This City, Has Organized the Coming Trip.

In connection with the coming visit to Peterborough over the week-end of the Automobile Dealers' Association of Pittsburg, who are making their annual trip to Canada, to Mr. Ed. Huff, formerly of Peterborough, but now in business in Pittsburg, there is considerable due in assisting at Pittsburg in organizing this trip for Peterborough and district.

In a letter from E. E. Smith, general passenger agent for Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company, he thanks Mr. Huff for the interest he took in the trip and for many courtesies extended.

Mr. Huff's interest in the city of Peterborough and the district has not waned in any respect since he left here, and the thanks of the city and other organizations here are also due Mr. Huff for the work he has done in connection with this party.

REPRESENTED IN TWO CELEBRATIONS

Campbellford Orangemen Divide Honors Between Peterborough and Trenton.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13.—Local Orange and True Blue Oranges were represented in two different celebrations yesterday. L.O.L. 526 attended the walk in Peterborough, while L.O.L. 36, the Campbellford Lodge of Loyal True Blues and the Lady True Blues went to Trenton. The Lady True Blues won the prize for the best appearance, etc.

Upon their return from Trenton, the lodges followed their usual custom of calling on old members who were not able to be present at the celebration. Going from one residence to another, the members of the marching lodges paid tribute to their sick and aged brethren, an act that was greatly appreciated. Thomas Oulton, an Orangeman for many years, and who has never failed to attend a celebration when humanly possible, once more took the drum sticks in his hands and beat time for one number with all the skill and enthusiasm that he had years ago.

Other members visited were William McKelvie, James Jones, Addison MacDonald, Mrs. Charles Long, John Nicholas and Mrs. McArthur.

AGENT WINS HONOR AGAIN

J. A. McLaren is Member of Nalaco Club For Fourth Time.

LEAVE ON TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McLaren and daughter, Frances, leave to-morrow on an extended motor trip through Eastern Quebec. They will be staying at Murray Bay for a few days, where the Nalaco Club of the North American Life is holding its convention, Mr McLaren being a member, having qualified for this honor for the fourth year in succession. They will be returning via Syracuse, Buffalo and Niagara about the end of the month.

In order to qualify for membership in the Nalaco Club it is necessary that the agent do $100,000 in paid-for business during the year. It is not at all common for a man to qualify four times in succession, and the Peterborough representative is to be congratulated upon his achievement.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON SATURDAY

How are you enjoying your pineapple today?

Stick to your instructions carefully today, as this is probably the hardest day of your fruit fasting.

You will find that the Fairbanks shows that you have lost about ten pounds already, so I am going to be easy on you tomorrow and give you some regular food.

STARTING TOMORROW MORNING

Upon arising, take a warm or cold sponge or shower bath, followed by a short walk around the block, after which you can have the following breakfast:

Breakfast: One coddled egg,
Two or three pieces of Melba Toast,
Three stewed prunes.

Lunch: Dish of cooked Spinach,
Raw Celery,
Sliced Tomatoes.

About four or five o'clock in the afternoon, take a walk of at least a mile. After returning from your walk, take the STANDING-UP EXERCISES, which you have been doing.

From now on it will not be necessary for you to take more than one enema daily, instead of the two enemas daily, which you have been taking up to the present time. The reason for this is that you are getting more bulk in your diet, and, consequently, the bowels will have more of a tendency to move in the natural manner. However, do not discontinue the daily enema as it is very important that you have the proper elimination every day in order to insure the best results.

After your exercises are completed, take a cold shower bath and follow with an enema in the knee-chest position, using two quarts of plain warm water.

Dinner: One-fourth pound of Salisbury Steak,
Dish of cooked string beans,
Plain Lettuce.

The following are some recipes for the preparation of food recommended in the above diet. Save these recipes, as they will not be repeated again.

Coddled Egg: Place the unbroken egg in a pan and pour one quart of boiling water over it. Let stand off the fire from five to ten minutes. Season with butter and a very little salt when ready to serve.

Melba Toast: Cut entire loaf of white bread into pieces one-quarter of an inch thick. Toast slowly in the oven until it is brown all the way through. Butter as desired at the table.

Stewed Prunes: Wash the prunes well and soak over night in enough water to cover them. Cook slowly in the same water until well done. Do not add any sugar to the prunes. Use only pure, sun-dried, unsulphured fruit.

Cooked Spinach: Wash the spinach well and place in a pan without any water except that which clings to the vegetable after the washing. Cover the pan and allow it to simmer over a slow fire for about ten minutes, then turn fire up and allow vegetable to boil for five oten ten minutes longer. Salt must not be added to the spinach while cooking. When ready to serve, add butter and a little salt.

Celery and Tomatoes, Raw: The celery and tomatoes are to be used fresh without any dressing.

Salisbury Steak: Remove all fat gristle from round steak; grind meat in a food chopper. Shape into flat cakes and bake until meat is a gray color (not brown). Bake in a dry pan and season with butter and a little salt when ready to serve.

String Beans: Cut fresh string beans in small pieces and cook slowly for one hour. Do not season beans while cooking, but add butter and a little salt when ready to serve.

By the way, make a scrap-book of these articles so you will not lose them. I shall refer to exercises and recipes already given, from day to day, and space will not permit me to repeat instructions after they are once given.

THE ACME OF PERFECTION IN THRESHING MACHINES

This Threshing Machine is remarkable for its exceptionally strong build and perfect working qualities. No other Threshing Machine patented either in Canada or abroad gives such satisfactory results.

THE DION THRESHER has no equal on the market to-day. The many unique qualities of this Machine are due to the long experience of practical farmers who have invented and manufactured it.

THE DION THRESHING MACHINE threshes all kinds of grain, not excepting the clover. Its construction is highly perfect, but in no way complicated, and offers no difficulty in operating it.

It is the only Thresher invented and patented in Canada that has an Automatic Self-Feeder.

"It is a marvel! It is worth its weight in gold," according to all those who have seen it work.

Ask for our Prices and Prospectus. Agents in localities where we are not yet represented, are wanted.

LUMBER COMPANY COMMENCES WORK

Two Shifts Will Be Run By Peterborough Lumber Company.

The Peterborough Lumber Company started yesterday for the season on one of the largest cuts of logs that has come down the river in recent years. So that the company will have the logs cut by fall they have decided to run a day and night shift for the rest of the season and even with the two shifts it will be late in the fall before the last log is cut into lumber.

MILLS' DEATH MYSTERY YET

restaurant keeper. These two come from Lindsay. George Banner, a man by the name of Hurd, and a Mr. Barker have been called from Oshawa and Albert Dodds of Port Perry completes the list, except for the police reports. Crown Attorney J. A. McGibbon is conducting the inquest.

Fracture Sufficient.

OSHAWA, Ont., July 13 (Canadian Press).—The autopsy examination conducted into the death of Vernon Mills revealed that the bone in his head had been fractured severely enough to cause death.

No official statement has been forthcoming to account for Mills' death, but the finding of the fracture may aid the authorities in their investigation. It is reported the authorities are inclined to believe that Mills committed suicide.

An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Mathers for this afternoon, and it probably will be adjourned until a report on the contents of Mills' stomach is received.

There aren't so many drawings to-day, but to-morrow we will have a big bunch. Isn't that a dainty scene of Leslie Casey's? It reminds me of the Don valley at Toronto. Gladys Cowan's squirrel is eating a nut, and seems quite happy. It's no wonder William Fisher can draw the Lift Lock so well—he lives over on Armour road, and it's no walk at all over the hill. When she grows up, I bet you see "Betty Margaret Deline" on some great pictures. Just look at the pretty chickens she has drawn—and she is only four! George Nimmons forgot to put his address on his drawing of a ship. Is it the Stoney Lake, George? You may think it easy to draw a chair like Grace Dwyer gives us, but just try it. She has done splendidly.

LYRICS OF LIFE

A LITTLE BACK

The little houses that set back
A little from the dust and din,
And yet that welcome never lack,
For every gateway shouts "Come in!"—
O, I would be like houses are
And show a little sympathy,
From others not removed too far,
Yet wear a little dignity.

I would not mix in every strife,
I would not follow every crowd,
But live upon the edge of life,
Be not too common nor too proud.
I would not rush to every fray,
And follow every pounding drum,
But be a house beside the way
Where those who care to come may come.

Yes, I would dwell a bit apart,
That I may better serve mankind,
That here the weary mind and heart
Perhaps may peace and comfort find.
I would not lead the grand attack,
Nor all life's battles aim to win,
But be a house a little back
Where every gateway shouts "come in!"

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE CHOOSE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

We choose because it is unpleasant not to choose. The halting between two opinions, "hanging fire," is a very unpleasant state of mind.

Barrett performed various experiments in the psychological laboratory on choices and reasons for making choices. He gave his subjects certain objects and situations to select from, such as a choice between two pictures, between two or more selections of music, or of several things to eat, and asked them to report the reaction in their minds to the choices made. The subjects could not always give their reasons for their selections except that they were in a predicament and were glad to get out. One reported, "I couldn't arrive at a decision. Then I preferred B without really knowing the reason." The true reason is given by the other report which states, "I chose X to escape the hesitation, without having any conscious motive for X."

Most choices are made in line with a habit, a wish, or some desire. In some cases where no conflict is involved the choice is quickly and eagerly grasped. But if one has to deliberate between two evils or two goods that seem to be pretty well matched the choice is made to get relief from the strain of hesitation. "Anyway that is over with!" We are glad to get rid of the torture of trying to make up our mind.

What really happens in choosing is the balancing of motives and desires with a view of getting the most possible. But when this state is unduly prolonged strain and anxiety get the better of us and we take any alternative primarily to rid ourselves of the strain.

We choose when the ready-made reaction patterns of conduct in the form of habits and instincts do not give us the clue. We have to think, to weigh the evidence, and to cast the weight of our personality on the side that seems wise to us. But sometimes the situation becomes too complicated and distressing so we make a random selection to get out of a tight place and trust to luck that we have hit upon the right choice.

RE-DECORATING CITY BUILDINGS

City Trust is Having City Headquarters House Cleaned.

MANY CHANGES.

Housecleaning, according to Mayor Denne is the way to express the work being done on the city buildings. The City Clerk's office, Council Chambers, Committee Rooms, police headquarters, and police cells are all being given a thorough cleaning as well as all the approaches to the various sections of the buildings. This work is being done by the City Trust with the idea that everything shall be in spic and span condition for the opening of the new business period in the fall.

The city clerk's office is being given a thorough renovation. The partitions in the outer office have been removed giving it a modern appearance. The whole office is being re-decorated, papered and painted. This is being done in order to take away the antiquated appearance of the office and to give the city clerk an up-to-date office in which to carry on.

FORTY-FIVE MINUTES.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Beulah Huffman and Leigh Glover swam across Clear Lake, from Mrs. T. H. Glover's wharf, to the other shore, a distance of one and a half miles, in forty-five minutes. On reaching the middle of the lake, the waves were very high, causing them to drift out of their course. They were accompanied by Miss Huffman's brother, in a boat.

LOCAL GOLFER WINS MATCHES

Robert Abbott Is Well Up In Ontario Amateur Golf Contest.

BEATS SIHLER.

TORONTO, July 13. — (Canadian Press.)— E. C. Gould of Brantford, favorite for the Ontario amateur golf title, was eliminated in the championship fight to-day by R. M. Gray, of Rosedale, Toronto, two and one. The second favorite came through, however, Jack Cameron, qualifying round leader, winning from J. F. Heslop of Welland to-day, three and two.

C. Ross Somerville, of London, defending championship, won the decision over Fred Lyon, of Lambton, six and four.

Four other victors were R. Abbott, Peterborough, W. A. Price, Toronto, F. G. Hoblitzel, Toronto and Len Biddell, Toronto. Abbott and Biddel's matches went to the home hole before they defeated J. Sihler, Toronto and Hugh Reid, Toronto, respectively.

Thirty-two golfers who qualified in the medal round yesterday, started off this morning in the first round of the match play in championship fight of the Ontario amateur golf tournament in quest of the crown won last year by C. Ross Sommerville, of London, Ont. Good weather conditions prevailed.

Jack Cameron, of Mississauga, Toronto, who won the medal round with a card of 75 for 18 holes, was drawn against J. F. Heslop, of Welland, Ont., in the first round, while Sommerville meets F. Lyon, Lambton, Toroito.

R. Abbott, of Peterborough, and J. Sihler, of Simcoe, provided another out of-town duel. Mr. Abbott's score in the first round was 74.

TORONTO TEAM HERE TO-MORROW

C. G. E. Boys Will Play Visitors at James Stevenson Park.

To-morrow is the day and all is set for the softball classic of the season when the boys from the head office of the Canadian General Electric in Toronto travel down here to test their merit with the local Electrics. Both are fast teams and the reputation of the local C.G.E. boys here has spread terror through the softball teams in the city, and they are just aching for a chance to test their skill against the much-talked-of Toronto team. The famous Toronto battery are being awaited with great curiosity, and the locals are on their toes to show this team from the big town that they are no small town aggregation.

It is expected that there will be a record crowd on hand, and everything is set when the umpires call play ball at James Stevenson Park at 6.30 to-morrow night. What a ball game it will be.

C. N. R. TRAIN STRIKES AUTO

Party From Omemee Collides With Passenger Train.

NO SERIOUS INJURY.

A car containing Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brooks, with their baby of six months and daughter, also Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, all from Omemee, was struck by a C.N.R. train at the Townsend Street crossing last night. The train had stopped for the diamond and was proceeding slowly, when it struck the car. The occupants were considerably shaken up, all escaping without injury except Mrs. Brooks, who had her ankle broken in the crash.

Takes Ditch.

A light car, containing a party of six young people from Port Hope went in the ditch about a mile south of Kendry. The driver had turned up a side road in order to turn around, and when backing up instead of turning back on the highway, he backed straight across the road into the deep ditch on the other side. Fortunately the car went straight back instead of the car was level with the road bed, why it did not turn over.

The ditch was so deep that the top of th car was level with the road bed. The motor did not have power enough to pull the car out but passing motorists stopped to give aid and a small army of willing men practically lifted the car on to the road.

WEDDING BELLS

DIXON—DARLING.

The wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Amos J. Thomas at half-past two o'clock yesterday at Howard Park United Church, Toronto, of Thelma Helen, only daughter of Mrs. Margaret Darling of Peterborough, and James Staples Dixon of Kitchener, son of Rev. and Mrs. Soford Dixon, of Bath. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon will live in Kitchener.

SMALLRIDGE—LA DIEU.

On July 5th, at 6 p.m., a very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church of Rochester, N.Y., when Miss Beatrice H. La Dieu of Clay Avenue, daughter of Mrs. H. La Dieu, became the bride of Mr. Melvin H. Smallridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smallridge, of Hudson Avenue, Irondequoit. The Rev. Dr. S. S. Davies officiated.

Mr. Edmund Randolph sang "I love you truly," and Mrs. Hines sang "Oh promise me." Mrs. H. Wilcox was at the organ. A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony, attended by about 45 guests.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and rose point lace, made in bouffant style, and trimmed with orange blossoms. Her veil of tulle and rose point lace was in bandeau style, with pearls and rhinestones, and she carried white roses, lilies of the valley and gypsophila.

Miss Alice Smallridge, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a shell pink taffeta dress in bouffant style, with a large pink hat trimmed with velvet streamers that hung to the hemline of her dress. She carried pale pink butterfly roses, blue larkspur and gypsophila.

Miss Druscilla Smallridge, another sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. She wore an orchid taffeta dress, made in bouffant style, with large hat to match, and bouquet of peach colored butterfly roses and gypsophila. She was accompanied by Mr. Paul Graffrath, also of Irondequoit.

Arthur La Dieu, brother of the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Harvey La Dieu and Edmund Randolph.

The bride's mother wore a rose crepe dress, with hat to match, and shoulder bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley. The bridegroom's mother was in tan embroidered georgette dress, with hat to match and shoulder bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

The altar of the church was decorated with palms and large baskets of flowers of gladioli, larkspur, gypsophila, roses, foxgloves and delphinium. The centre aisle was marked off with white satin ribbon. The house was decorated with the same flowers. On each table were small baskets of flowers and candles, carrying out the colors of white, pink and orchid.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schopfer, of Skaneateles, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh of Bay City, Michigan.

After staying several days at the Falls and Toronto, the bride and bridegroom are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Huffman at their cottage at Long Point, Chemong. Mr. and Mrs. Smallridge will make their home in Ridge Road, East Rochester, after July 20th.

DRAW TO-NIGHT.

Sacred Heart Social Draw Will Be Held To-night.

The drawing for the prizes in connection with the Sacred Heart social will take place to-night on the church grounds at 7.30.

South Beach was the destination of the Hello girls and the Bell staff on Wednesday, July 11th. Nearly seventy-five persons motored to this beautiful spot for a picnic. On arriving they found that they were not alone in choosing the same day and place for an outing but that the Teco stores had also motored up while Mark street Sunday School arrived by steamer.

Undaunted by such opposition the Telephone representatives challenged the trespassers to a game of softball, the Eaton Representatives. Babe Vincent took her old place on the mound and drew a lot of Ohs and Ahs from the fast failing operators who seemed to have got the wrong number. M. J. Brown and Florence Grier were the hurlers for Bell. There was some discussion as to the outcome of the game, the supporters of the telephone claiming the Bell were the winners and then decided it was a tie but after a more careful investigation found to their dismay Teco was on the long end of a 6-1 score.

The time for the sports arrived but no program could be found. The program and its guardian could not be located at the critical moment. Where, oh where was the mystery of the Bell picnic? Well the best possible was done in a pinch and a number of events that could be remembered were held which proved just as interesting as the original program.

They had lunch about five-thirty and one member of the Hello party who has been reading all about the "Clean Up Campaign" decided to remove all the unsightly objects, as papers and boxes from the grounds and burn them in order to leave the place in a better condition than when they arrived. When the manager of the Hotel discovered that a fire was about to be made he interviewed the enthusiastic members of "The Clean Up Campaign" and what occurred after, is the theme of a sad, sad story.

However, the party soon forgot all their troubles and clean up campaigns in tripping the light fantastic for a while after lunch.

OBITUARY

JAMES HENRY KNOX

The death occurred in Toronto on Wednesday morning, July 4th, of Dr. James Henry Knox, in his 45th year. Death was due to heart failure. Dr. Knox had not been in good health for some months past, but was apparently as well as usual when leaving Wednesday morning for the Harris Abattoir, where he was inspector of meats.

Dr. Knox was quite well known in Cobourg, having practised there for some months. He leaves to mourn, his wife, formerly Grace Garneau, and his young son, John.

The funeral took place on Tuesday to Cherry Valley Cemetery, Picton.

MRS. W. MANLEY.

The death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital to-day of Durinea Russell, beloved wife of W. Manley. She leaves to mourn her loss a sorrowing husband, mother and five brothers. Funeral announcement later.

BIRTH.

FOY.—At Nicholls Hospital, July 11, 1928, to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Foy, a daughter—Eleanor Irene.

WHAT ARE MY EYES WORTH?

The worth of your Eyes—the value of Vision—cannot be expressed in any term. Next to life itself is Vision. The importance of your Eyes should create in you a just appreciation of their worth. The Best Glasses should be used and then frequent adjustments are necessary for comfort.

THOMASBURG MAN KILLED

Motor Car Leaves Road

Harold Kerr Is Victim of Road Accident To-day.

NO INQUEST.

Body Found By Edward Good Whose Horse Shied at Scene.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14. —Harold Kerr was killed about 8.45 this morning when the light touring car which he was driving overturned and pinned him beneath it. The accident occurred about half a mile north of Thomasburg, on the Tweed road at a place known as Dingman's Creek. The road was slippery with a slight downgrade, and a gradual curve. The wheel tracks only show the marks of the tires on one side of the car, which seems to indicate that Kerr was travelling at a high rate of speed.

There was no witness of the accident, and the overturned car was first discovered by Edward T. Good, who lives about two miles north of Thomasburg on the Tweed road. The horse he was driving shied at the spot of the accident and refused to go past, making it necessary for him to get out and lead it. It was not until then that he saw the overturned car with a leg and an arm showing from beneath it. The deep ditch hid the car from the view of passers-by.

Mr. Good went to the nearest house and telephoned for a doctor from Roslin, and the lady at the house told him that Kerr had passed about 15 minutes before; so Mr. Good must have arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after it happened.

The doctor called Dr. Mather, Tweed coroner, who decided on arriving, that no inquest was necessary. Mr. Kerr was an employee of the cheese box factory in Thomasburg and was well liked by all who knew him. He was a young man about twenty-three years of age, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kerr. There are also in the family two sisters, Mrs. Harper Broad of Eldorado, Mrs. Gordon Webb of Springbrook, and two brothers, Clarence at home and Percy in Belleville.

GANG WARS MUST CEASE

Declare Bronx Attorney and New York Board of Trade.

SLAYING UNSOLVED

NEW YORK, July 14.—Recent gang murders in New York streets have brought demands from two sources for action by the city administration to break up the gang warfare.

District Attorney McGeehan of the Bronx called upon the police to drive the gangsters out of his borough, promising the full co-operation of his office and a pledge from the Bronx county grand jury to back up the police in an offensive against the gangs.

W. J. L. Banham, president of the New York board of trade and transportation, wrote to Mayor Walker protesting against the failure of the police to prevent gangsters from using the public streets as battle ground.

"Will it be necessary for the citizens of New York to organize and raise a huge sum of money, as was done in Chicago, to restore law and order?" Mr. Banham asked.

Slaying Still Unsolved.

Meanwhile, the police apparently had made no progress in their efforts to solve the murder of Frankie Uale, Brooklyn gang leader, or Benjamin Kanowitz, liquor racketeer of Manhattan, who was killed by a bomb attached to the starter of his automobile.

Giuseppe Periani, called the "Clutching Hand" because his left hand is twisted as the result of a knife wound, was released after police had failed to secure any information from him as to the identity of Uale's slayers. Periani, an associate of the slain leader, is believed by police to know who killed Uale and why, but like other of the gangster's lieutenants prefers to seek revenge in his own way without recourse to the law. The police were forced to release the "Clutching Hand" when the burglary charge on which he had been held while they questioned him was dismissed for lack of evidence.

MOON HAS MUCH TO ANSWER FOR

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 12.—The man in the moon is blamed for all kinds of trouble extant in the world, and now he has been charged with luring a seven-year-old girl away from home.

When Virginia Wetsel failed to report home from school and she could not be found in the neighborhood, her mother and police feared another kidnapping mystery. Searching parties were organized and Radio Station WGBF broadcast a description.

She was found four hours later on her way home from the country lanes which she had been traversing in a vain hunt for "the man in the moon." Virginia's fairy stories will henceforth be confined to goblins.

YOUTH JUMPS INTO ATLANTIC

Challenged To By Daughter of Late Swedish Envoy to Washington.

ON ROCHAMBEAU.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 14 (Special to The Examiner). — "Two remorseful souls" is the description going the rounds in Washington society circles of Morton Hoyt, who jumped into the Atlantic Ocean from the steamship Rochambeau last weekend and of Miss Elsie Ekengren, the beautiful 17-year-old daughter of the late Swedish Minister to the United States, who dared him to do it.

It has been the choicest bit of gossip for a week.

Meanwhile Miss Ekengren stands by her public statement, made when she got off the boat in New York, that she dared Hoyt to make the jump. Hoyt is making a manly though belated effort to shoulder the blame and have the young daughter of the late diplomatic from further embarrassment.

Hoyt admits it was a "fool stunt," and declares he has made his last jump into the sea. Miss Ekengren is the daughter of Madame Wilhelm A. F. Ekengren, who was Swedish Minister here for a number of years, while Hoyt is the scion of the Hoyt household, which has been socially prominent here for years. His father was a Cabinet minister, and he is the brother of Elinor Wylie and Nancy Hoyt, both novelists of Washington. His wife, the daughter of the late Senator J. H. Bankhead of Alabama, divorced him in Reno, Nevada, America's busiest divorce mill, last April.

Hoyt said he met Miss Ekengren for the first time on the ship. They were together quite a lot. "There wasn't any romance," he said. "Miss Ekengren is only 17 and I'm 20. She was good company and I enjoyed being with her."

Heart Pays For Speed In U.S. Says Scientist

CHICAGO, July 14. — Pity the poor, abused American heart. It bears the brunt of all the speed so much a part of the average citizen.

Dr. Franz M. Groedel, heart specialist and professor at Frankfort University, Germany, broadcast this warning here recently.

He told his audience that life in America is putting a terrific strain on the human pumping station.

"You ride in fast autos when you ought to walk; you drink poison when you ought to have light wine and beer; you eat three heavy meals instead of four or five light ones; you tire yourselves with strenuous sports instead of exercising moderately; and most of the strain is on the heart."

And that's that and what of it.

AGED INDIAN BECOMES ILL IN COURT CASE

James Howard is Taken to Hospital During County Police Court.

AKEY CASE.

Local Man Appears Before Magistrate On Several Charges.

Trials of three separate cases by His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley in county police court yesterday was abruptly interrupted when Jas. Howard, an aged Indian of Hiawatha reserve, a witness, became so seriously ill that the attending physician, Dr. T. W. N. Young ordered his immediate removal to a hospital. The distressing incident occurred during the argument and following the taking of evidence in the case against James Akey charged with being intoxicated while in charge of a motor vehicle, and as some of Howard's relatives, also witnesses, were required to attend him since death seemd so near, the magisrate adjourned all three for one week, at which time he will also give judgement in the case already completed.

The charges which were read previous to adjournment and to which each of the accused pleaded "not guilty" were a sfollows: James Akey, charged with consuming liquor in a place other than a private residence, on June 28th, the information also mentioning the fact that Akey had faced a similar charge several months ago.

James Akey, charged with having in his possession without having a permit, the information adding that he had been similarly charged on an occasion in the past.

An Indian woman charged with consuming liquor in a place other than a private residence.

Difficulty of the prosecution to establish that Akey was actually in charge of the car found in the ditch on the Keene road last June 29 by Provincial Constable Thompson and officer Stewart and to show that the word "car" used by the various witnesses in the case, definitely meant a motor vehicle, prolonged the argument at the conclusion of the first, and indeed, the only case tried before the magistrate during the day. Since adjournment of the other cases, referred to above would be necessary, the magistrate decided to withhold his decision until July 20, the day when Akey and the Indian woman will again appear in court relative to the charges of consuming and of having liquor.

Crown's Evidence

The Rev. Rufus Garrett of Hiawatha was the first witness called by the Crown. He told of meeting Akey on June 29th while returning home from Keene. Akey's car was in the ditch and he was standing near it, in what he believed an intoxicated condition. Nobody was in the bar but in a nearby car, owned by Oswald Crowe, was an Indian woman.

"I was there about five minutes and when about to leave, William Anderson, M.P.P., came along. While in Mr. Coward's residence I saw Crowe's car go by. Near Akey's car I saw an empty bottle in the ditch which Mr. Anderson threw over towards the fence.

In cross-examination, witness said it was not an unusual sight to see bottles along this road. He had been driving a car ten or twelve years and had gone into the ditch during that time. "I thoroughly believe Akey was intoxicated from the peculiar inflection of the voice and his appearance. To Mr. Hatton, witness said the car was on the wrong side of the road coming towards Peterborough.

William Anderson, M.P.P., who lives in Otonabee, recalled being on the road to Hiawatha on June 29th. He recalled seeing Akey, two cars on the road, and Mr. Akey's in the ditch. "When I stopped, Akey was in the car and they were endeavoring to get it out of the ditch. There was a broken part of the spring on Akey's car which I thought had been brought about by striking the tree. Akey looked like a man who had been drinking and took the advice of Mr. Fitzgerald, to leave the car there. He didn't seem as alert as a man should be who has a car in a ditch and wants to get out. He was sufficiently recovered to get into the car and yet not able to get it out. I cannot say that he was intoxicated. When he got out of the car he was able to get around though not quite normally," said witness.

Cross-examined, witness said that

MAKE EASY MONEY WITH FAKE FIGHTS

NEW YORK, July 12.—Nearly every night as New York's theatre crowds turn homeward, passers-by are attracted to the scene of a furious battle between two street gamins. The fight doesn't last long, for before the police arrive, one of the boys has taken to his heels after knocking down his opponent.

The beaten lad will weep as he reclines on the sidewalk, and will sob out something about "defendin' my corner." The crowd always is sympathetic; it always reaches down into its pockets and showers coins upon the fallen pugilist. There may be as much as $5 to $6.

Next night, on a different corner, the same boys will be fighting again—and collecting their modest fortune.

Spring Ducks Are Offered For Sale at a Dollar Apiece.

BUTTER HIGHER.

Supplies at the farmers' market were cleaned out at an early hour this morning, but patrons coming at a late hour had the advantage of being able to pick up one or two bargains in fowl Chickens that brought 38 and 40 cents a pound in the earlier stages of the market were offered, in several instances, at 35 and even as low as 30 cents a pound Eggs were priced at 35 to 40 cents a dozen, the latter price asked for large, pure white eggs, and butter was 40 and 43 cents a pound The price of butterfat has gone up to 40 cents a pound, so The Examiner was informed by one lady vendor, and butter will be higher, in consequence No further rise is anticipated, however.

Spring ducks weighing about three and one-quarter pounds were offered at a dollar apiece

On the open market, new potatoes were selling at 50 cents a peck, the product of local gardens, and home-grown strawberries were 20 cents a quart box. Blueberries were 30 cents a quart, and gooseberries were 25 cents for 2 quarts. Big "Coss" lettuce was a nickel a bunch.

The fish man had huge trout from Lake Superior and smaller specimens from Lake Ontario, at 22 and 23 cents a pound, with whitefish at 20 cents a pound.

A small boy with a contented-looking white rabbit that munched lettuce leaves, pausing occasionally to look casually at passers-by, was very proud of his pet, which he offered for sale at $2.00. To the remark that the quotation was a little high, he asserted that the white bunny was a thoroughbred and "a real Angora. You can't get thoroughbreds for nothing."

MALE QUARTET OPENS REDPATH CHAUTAUQUA

Dominion Redpath Circuit Opens For a Five Dav Stay in City.

NOTED SPEAKER.

Edward Tomlinson Tells of South America in a Most Interesting Lecture.

At the opening performance at the Chautauqua tent yesterday, the initial program of the Dominion Redpath circuit which is serving Peterborough this year had a good-sized audience and the entertainment provided was a splendid opener for what promise to be a very satisfying five days.

The Herrick Male Quartet, composed of four musicians of very fine calibre, provided the entertainment in a manner that brought them much applause for every selection, and repeated and enthusiastic appreciation at the close of a splendid program that included a little bit of everything in the vocal line, from bits of old-time melody to renditions of jazz music. The crisp enunciation and fine vocal compass that mark radio singers were features of the music of this very satisfying quartet.

With a first and second tenor of sweet, lyric type, a very fine baritone and a deep, rich bass, the four good voices handled expertly and with every singer giving of his art to the utmost capacity in an effort to please and satisfy, the program was exceptionally fine.

The quartet opened with the popular number "Sylvia," followed by "Sweet and Low," and a laughing song. Then they donned big "cow breakfast" hats of straw and did some barber shop harmony" in colored dialect. A tenor offering of the lovely "Spirt Flower" was much appreciated. As exponents of old-time and modern music, the first tenor, garbed in ruffled coat, sang "In the Gloaming," the bass gave "In the Good Old Summer Time" and "East Side, West Side" with plenty of pep to a Bowery characterization; the second tenor, as Jack Canuck, gave war-time ditties, "Pack Up Your Troubles" and "Roses of Picardy"; and the baritone, a sheik in balloon tire trousers, decorated raincoat, striped blazer, and college youth skullcap, sang a jazz screamer, "Henry's Made a Lady Out of Lizzie," that brought down the house.

In a melange of old and modern versions of the same tune, with the soloist singing the familiar melody and the pianist giving a jazz version at the same time, the audience heard "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "Home, Sweet Home," and "The Long, Long Trail," with an ensemble finale in "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Sweet Genevieve."

To much applause, the first tenor sang a "Mother" song with fine expression and a beautifully reverent quartet number was the "Sanctus" (in English) from Gounod's Mass in A, followed by a lovely rendering of the haunting melody of the "Going Home" selection from Dvorak's "New World Symphony."

Mr. Herrick, at the piano, again brought down the house with his rendering of "Maggie—Yes, Ma," and other popular numbers by the quartet were bits of "Change All Your Grey Skies," "A Shady Tree" and "Mary Lou."

Liquid Air Is Used To Christen Zeppelin Replacing Champagne Of The Steamship Era

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 14.—Baptized with clouds of liquid oxygen instead of champagne, Germany's latest air giant "Count Zepplin," lies ready for its trial flights preliminary to a trans-Atlantic trip in August.

The dirigible was bedecked with greens and flags, with a floral arrangement in the shape of the letter "Z" in corn flowers, the famous inventor's favorite blossom. The ceremony began with Beethoven's choral "The Heavens Proclaim the Glory of the Lord."

A bottle of liquid oxygen was poured against the bows. A sizzling cloud of vapor bewreathed the airship as from a raised platform County Zeppelin's only daughter, Countess Hella Brandenstein-Zeppelin, accompanied by her two young daughters, performed the christening act.

It was recalled that Zepelin at the age of twenty-five served as a volunteer in the Union Army in the American Civil War and participated in the Battle of the Potamac.

The dirigible was designated by Dr. Hugo Eckener as "a bridge of peace between nations."

President von Hindenberg telegraphed good luck and the ceremony ended with a hymn of thanks.

PHONE OPERATOR BLIND 35 YEARS

MELROSE, O., July 12.—When Mrs. Clara Raney, telephone operator at Melrose, was 28 years old, she found herself becoming blind. Doctors were unable to aid her, but she determined that she would not give up her position.

So she trained her hands and ears to take the place of her eyes, and now, at 63, she still is holding the job and hasn't had a vacation in 30 years. Bells have been substituted for the lights on the ordinary switchboard and she never makes a mistake in plugging in a connection. She is on duty from 5 in the morning to 12 at night.

"I haven't any idea when I'll quit," Mrs. Raney says. "I ought to be good for several years yet."

STRINGS AERIAL IN 23,000 VOLTS

Radio Enthusiast Erects Aerial Through Nine Heavy Tension Wires.

DANGEROUS STUNT.

Climbing a pole on which were strung nine 23,000 volt wires as well as several of less dangerous capacity, a radio enthusiast of Peterborough has astonished the Utilities Commission officials by his daring, if foolhardy action. Though the identity of the person is not known to them, there has come to their attention a radio aerial, one end of which is fastened to the pole, as described above, on the north-east corner of Hunter and Water streets. The attachment is high up on the pole, above the power wires, so that the one who effected it would, of necessity, carefully thread his way between the wires. To touch even one of them would have meant death.

MISSION FIELD WORKS MINDS

High Ratio of Mental Trouble Blamed on Erotic Moral Strain.

PSYCHIATRIST REPORTS

New York, July 14.—Dr. J. L. McCartney, a psychiatrist, who has just returned from China, where he passed three years studying mental and nervous diseases at Pekin and Shanghai, reports an inordinate amount of mental disturbances among Christian missionaries in that country.

Of 203 workers in a single mission invalided back home from China, 25 per cent were sent to America because of "neurasthenia," 8.8 per cent for "insanity" and 2.8 per cent because of other neurosis. A total of 36.7 per cent of all cases of "serious illness in this mission group were suffering from psychopathological conditions which incapacitated them fee further mission work."

In his report to the national committee for mental hygiene, Dr. McCartney says it has been customary to blame this condition on the climate, the food, the economic situation and the natives.

"Most of these workers," says Dr. McCartney, "are enlisted during the impressionable period of adolescence, when these young men and women naturally tend toward religious fanaticism, if unduly influenced. Many of the young Americans sent out as missionaries are away from home for the first time. They may have responded to the call to foreign fields because they are seeking surcease from a disappointed romance, or they may just have wanted to get away from the humdrum of the home town."

Dr. McCartney suggests as a solution of this problem that the personnel of the foreign missions be chosen more carefully.

THE WEATHER

A rainfall of one inch on the level is a very heavy rain. Frequently a whole year passes without such an occurrence. It happened last night, however when one inch and 4/100 fell, and the ground received a thorough soaking. Temperature last night, 56 degrees; highest point yesterday, 76 degrees.—W.P.

Hale Of England Is Winner King's Prize With 283 Out of 300

Canadian Is Only Three Points Behind Victor at End of Shoot After Having Chance To Win Up to the Last Range.

74 POINTS INSTEAD OF 70 WOULD HAVE WON CANADA COVETED TROPHY

Other Canadian Competitors Are Well Up in Shoot, Open Only To Serving Or Ex-Service Army Men—Burke Won in 1924.

BISLEY CAMP, July 14 (Canadian Press Cable).—Lance-Corporal A. C. Hale, formerly of the King Edward School Officers' Training Corps, won the King's Prize this afternoon with a score of 283 out of 300.

Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, was second with 280. He was also second last year. Lance-Corporal Hale shot in the final stage of the King's Prize only once before, in 1926.

Lieut. Desmond Burke had a chance to win the coveted award right up to the last range. His score at 1,000 yds. distance was 70 out of 75, where 74 would have given him the prize.

The King's prize is the biggest honor in the Empire for marksmanship, comprising a prize of $1,250 by His Majesty; the National Rifle Association's gold medal and gold badge, all of which go to the winner. The second man receives the N.R.A. badge and $250. The total prize money is more than $6,000.

Only past or present members of the forces are eligible, and the whole match is fired with service rifles in three stages. The King's prize has been won by a Canadian on five occasions since its institution in 1860, when it was known as the Queen's prize. Lieut. Desmond Burke, Ottawa, who was the bronze medallist in the first or qualifying stage last Wednesday, is the most recent Canadian winner, having captured the honor in 1924. Last year he lost it by a single point to Captain Vernon, an Englishman.

Burke Again Second

Captain Castle, with a score of 69 out of a possible 70, won the Alexandria Challenge at Bisley, it was announced today. Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, was second and Lieut. K. R. MacGreggor, Ottawa, fourth.

Leads Aggregate.

Although the official tabulation has not yet been made, it was reliably established to-day that Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, has won the grand aggregate prize at the National Rifle Association meet.

The winner of the King's Prize in 1924 has a lead of six points over other marksmen, according to unofficial tabulation. Tis score was 530 out of a possible 555, the score being compiled from his shooting in ten selected individual service rifle competitions. Hundreds of Empire marksmen aimed for the grand aggregate, first prize in which is a challenge trophy presented to the N.R.A. by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association.

Empire Match Team

Eight of the best shots in the Canaian Bisley team today wre selected to compete in the Empire match with teams from Britain, Australia, India and other parts of the Empire, which will be held here on Monday and Tuesday.

Lieutenants Bishop and Burke of Ottawa, Company Sergeant Majors Emslie and Hawkins, and Sgt. Major Kiddie, of Toronto, Pte. Davies, of Vancouver, and Sgt. H. Burton and Major Richardson, of Victoria, make up the Canadian team.

Scores of Canadians.

The marksmen to-day fired 15 shots at 900 and 1,000 yards distances. Burke, who won the prize in 1924, led the nine Canadians at the 900 mark with a fine 72 out of 75. Sgt. J. H. Regan, Victoria, had 71; Major F. Richardson, Victoria, and Sgt. C. W. Foam, Montreal, each had 69; Sgt.-Major Kiddie, Toronto, C.-Q.-M.-S. Stevenson, Montreal, and Private Davies, Vancouver, each had 68. Sgt. H. Burton, Victoria, had 67, and the ninth Canadian finalist, Sgt. S. Dawson, Ottawa, recorded 63.

ARCTIC DRAMA TOLD BY CREW

Had Given Up Hope When Krassin's Siren Burst On Ears.

LEADER EXHAUSTED.

(Copyright, 1928, by Associated Press).

ABOARD THE RUSSIAN ICE-BREAKER KRASSIN. — Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish meterologist on the ill-fated expedition of the dirigible Italia, died from exhaustion on June 15, and it was not until then that Captains Filippo Zappi and Alberto Mariano left him to push on, the two rescued men revealed to-day in telling of their bitter experiences before being rescued by the Krassin.

The men said that all members of the crew of the Italia who were in front of the gondola at the moment of the crash on May 25, suffered injuries. Captain Zappi himself lay three days with a bruised chest.

Two weeks after the three left the main Nobile party, Dr. Malmgren succumbed, they said, and thirteen days before they were sighted, Captain Cariano's leg had frozen. For ten days they remained on an ice cake, hopeless and helpless until sighted by the Russian flier. When they heard the siren of the Krasin next day they thought they had imagined it, but then saw the smoke of the ice-breaker, and knew they were saved.

Electrocated Youth Comes Back To Life

MAGNOLIA, N.J., July 14.—Although "electrocuted" through contact with a high power line carrying 5,000 volts, Michael J. Lynch is alive to-day although somewhat the worse of his experience.

Lynch was watching a fire when the line fell on his head. Spectators say he was enveloped in a huge ball of flame and thrown twenty feet. Artificial respiration brought him back to life twenty minutes after his heart had apparently stopped beating and within an hour he rose to his feet.

He was out of his mind and could give no account of what had happened. Physicians, however, say this condition will pass and that he will recover complete control of his mental faculties.

ELEVATED ROADWAY.

$50,000,000 Road Between Philadelphia and Atlantic City Under Construction.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—A $50,000,000 double decked steel and concrete elevated roadway stretching between Atlantic City and Philadelphia will be under construction in 30 days, it is announced by the Pennsylvania railroad and other insterests which will finance the project. One week will be used for trains.

Bank Of Commerce Absorbs Standard

MINISTER OF FINANCE APPROVES BANK MERGER STANDARD AND COMMERCE

Government Authority Depends On Ratification By Shareholders.

JOIN 800 BRANCHES.

Amalgamation Will Give Institution Many New Business Connections Throughout Canada.

OTTAWA, July 14. — (Canadian Press.)—It is announced by the Hon. James A. Robb, minister of finance, that consent has been given under section 99 of the Bank Act, to an agreement being entered into for the purchase by the Canadian Bank of Commerce of the Standard Bank of Canada, the consideration for such purchase ' being one share of the stock of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for each outstanding share of stock of the Standard Bank of Canada.

The authorized capital of the Bank of Commerce is now $25,000,000, of which more than $20,000,000 is paid up, officials of the bank told the Canadian Press last night. The Standard Bank's authorized capital is $5,000,000, of which $4,823,000 is paid up.

Both banks last year paid a dividend of 12 per cent. on their stocks, the Bank of Commerce paying a bonus of one per cent. in addition. Bank of Commerce shares have a market value of $298 and the Standard Bank $277. The par value of both stocks is $100.

Merger Statement.

The statement issued by Messrs. White and Logan follows:

"An agreement is being entered into with the consent of the minister of finance, but subject to the authorization of the shareholders, and the approval of the governor-general in council, whereby the Canadian Bank of Commerce will purchase the assets and undertaking of the Standard Bank of Canada on the basis of one share of Canadian Bank of Commerce stock for one share of Standard Bank stock.

"The Standard Bank of Canada has over $100,000,000 in assets, is very strongly represented in Ontario, having more than 170 branches in the province, but is not strongly represented in Western Canada, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces The Canadian Bank of Commerce on the other hand with approximately $600,000,000 in assets has over 500 branches throughout the dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific with additional offices in London, New York, Cuba, the West Indies, Rio de Janeiro, Mexico, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Ore., Newfoundland and St Pierre. The amalgamation will give the Canadian Bank of Commerce many new business connections throughout Canada, a greatly strengthened position in the Province of Ontario, and with the acquisition of the Standard Bank branches the Canadian Bank of Commerce will have in all over 800 branches. The enlarged institution will provide present customers of the Standard Bank with the additional facilities afforded by a chain of branches from coast to coast in Canada, with direct representation in New York and London, including world-wide banking connections, and their business will continue to be administered as far as possible by the present officials of the Standard Bank.

TOURIST TRAFFIC SHOWS INCREASE

Many Boats Are Now Using the Trent Canal Waterway.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14.—There are no great lake freighters cruising the local waters of the Trent Canal but the tourist traffic lately has been keeping the canal water from standing too long in one place. Cabin cruisers and boats of various types and designs from the United States and Canadian cities are not uncommon sights along the canal and the citizens of the town have become quite accustomed to seeing these boats passing up and down the river. But last night there was somewhat more than the usual traffic. When darkness gathered there were no fewer than four American boats moored to the west wharf and canal wall above the Bridge Street Bridge. Of these, three were cabin cruisers and one a speed boat about thirty feet in length and capable of doing forty miles per hour "At her best." All arrived during the late afternoon and evening and the cruisers intend to proceed as far as Healey Falls in the morning for a few days fishing before proceeding on their cruise to Lake Superior and return to their home ports via the Great Lakes. All members of the different parties are delighted with the beautiful scenery and excellent fishing afforded by the Trent water system. One of the skippers said that the Trent cruise is an annual affair with him, this being his third consecutive season in these waters. His boat had scarcely been made fast to the mooring posts before he had his fishing rod rigged, pipe lit and was making sure of fresh fish for his morning meal. Told of a large fish that had been recently caught at Healey Falls, the fisherman's eyes twinkled and he assured the assembled company that he would spend a day or two in those waters.

SEARCH FOR BODY OF MALMGREN

Swedish Government to Demand Report From Nobile on Expedition.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 14. — (Associated Press).—The War Department declares that it is a matter of honor for the navy and the nation that Dr. Finn Malmgren's body should be recovered and bought home aboard a warship. First reports had it that the body had been taken on the Russian ice-breaker Krassin, which rescued Malmgren's two companions. Captains Mariano and Cappi, but later advices received here indicated that Malmgren was not with the survivors, that he had died and his body had been left behind.

The Minister of War has telegraphed the leader of the Swiss expedition at Spitzbergen, ordering him to search for the body of the scientist, and that other members of the expedition not required for this purpose may return to Sweden.

It is explained that there is no intention to send a warship to search, as no warships are fitted to force through the ice, but that if the body is found, the Krassin, or others, it could be transferred to a Swedish warship in a Norwegian harbor. The chances of finding the body now, after a month of floating on the ice, and possibly at the mercy of predatory animals, is considered small.

The Swedish press declares that public opinion will require from General Nobile a clear report of what really happened to his expedition. They complain of Nobile's secretiveness and asked whether he was keeping silence to see if any foreigners of his expedition would be rescued.

The papers admit that it may be a painful experience for Nobile, but they think a clear explanation is due the Swedish people, who have done so much in the search and in keeping hope alive among the marooned men.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GOES TO COBOURG

Norham School Holds Annual Picnic at Cobourg Park.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, July 14. — On Tuesday the Norham Sunday school held their annual picnic at Cobourg Park.

The storm of the previous night had checked haying activities, and thus a large crowd was enabled to be present at the picnic grounds.

After luncheon served under the numerous shade trees throughout the park a soft ball game was arranged among the men and girls. Later in the afternoon swimming on the very fine beach was enjoyed.

The smaller children busied themselves with the swings, teeter-totters and slides, or played in the fine warm sand.

The weather was ideal, and the ice-cream and refreshment booth were well patronized. Everyone reported an exceptionally enjoyable day.

Personals.

Master W. Windover, of Rochester, returned to his home on Tuesday after visiting his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. P. Windover.

Word has been received that Misses Ina Bowen of Warkworth and Ida Clare of Norham, who tried their Primary Theory exam. in Music, at Albert College, Belleville, some weeks ago, obtained First Class honour standing.

Miss M. Huycke of Grace Hospital, Toronto, returned to Toronto on Tuesday after enjoying a month's leave at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin (nee Florence Aylesworth) and Miss M. Huycke, spent Monday in Belleville.

Miss Boyce of Brighton, is visiting her niece, Mrs. S. Brenton.

Miss J. Dilworth of Myersburg has been hired as teacher of Myersburg public school, for the coming year.

MOUNT PLEASANT ANNUAL FESTIVAL

Rev. Richards, a Former Pastor, Delivers an Address on "Four Keys to Success."

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 14.—The Mount Pleasant United Church held its annual strawberry festival on the church grounds on Monday evening, July 9th.

The congregation and friends from many miles gathered to spend a social evening together in spite of the threatening showers of the early evening.

Tea was served in the comparatively new shed on long tables beautifully decorated and laden with a splendid array of edibles.

Garnet Shield acted as chairman in his usual good style, for the program of the evening, which was as follows:

Piano duet, by the Misses Eva and Lillian Race of Omemee; vocal solo, with encore, by Miss Mary Lowe, with Miss Race, as accompanist; ukelele, and piano duet, with encore, by the Misses Gladys and Muriel Smith; vocal solo, with encore, Hubert Lowes, with Mrs. Garnet Shields as accompanist; mouth organ and piano duet by Tom and Grace Best, with encore.

The chairman then welcomed the Rev. R. T. Richards, of Port Perry, a former pastor, on the Cavan circuit, who gave an interesting address to his many Cavan and Mount Pleasant friends. "Four Keys to Success" was the subject of the lecture.

In Mr. Richard's opening remarks he expressed his pleasure for the opportunity to be able to come back to Mount Pleasant.

"Success," he said, "is the hardest thing in the world to analyze.

The first key to success is "Money" —something each and every one of us is trying to get more of. Money is absolutely necessary, it has been said. Money is the universal provider of everything but happiness, and gives a passport to every place but heaven;" money is yourself invested and time will test each one of us in this way, 1st, "How do we make our money?" and "How do we spend our money?" No one can be a good citizen without honesty. The saddest heart a man ever had is when he makes money dishonestly; so is money a key to success.

The second key to success is "Education." Few people scoff at education.

The human brain is a wonderful thing, and is not properly understood even by the scientist—how the poet sits and writes the wonderful poems; how the artists take their brush and paint the most beautiful paintings; how the sculptor takes his hammer and chisel and presents the most wonderful carvings.

The public school is the greatest equalizer the city has—where the rich and the poor, the clever and the dull, all assemble together. No one should disrespect education.

The third key to success is "Energy."

There are many who work hard and are handicapped at every turn with obstructions in every path, who make the greatest success out of life.

If you start out on the journey of life with some definite plan, you usually make a success of life through hard work and stick-to-it-iveness.

The fourth key to success is "Character." Character is the greatest key of life; it unlocks the door of life for you and I, and the greatest thing we have to do is to develop character. It is so easy to get into entanglements, and so many pitfalls by the way — so easy to get off the main track.

No one ever starts out to do anything very bad, but often gets tangled in the web. If we are going to make a success of life endeavor to escape the many pitfalls. Character is the only universal provider of happiness, and so character will aid us in getting a passport to heaven.

The Misses Race delighted the audience with another instrumental after which a vote of thanks was moved by Chester Best and Joseph Boyd which Mr. Shield extended to those who had kindly assisted in the program, the audience showing their appreciation by the hearty applause.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

Lily Lake Sunday School Holds Annual Strawberry Festival.

Last Tuesday evening a very successful strawberry festival was held at the home of C. J. Hancock, by the Lily Lake Sunday school, and despite the fact that the weather was not very good, there was a good crowd in attendance. The tables were laden with good things to eat and prettily decorated with flowers. The Coldsprings Orchestra played during supper. After supper, Dr. J. J. Craig, in his inimitable way, acted as chairman. The following is the program:

Solo and encore: Miss Phyllis Rome.

Readings and encores: Mrs. Bennett, Miss Betty Edgar and Mr. J. John.

Addresses: Mr. Leggott and Mr. W. Saunders.

Duet and encore: Messrs. Winslow and McCamus.

Selections by Coldsprings orchestra.

Duet and encore: Messrs. Winslow and McCamus.

The piano used for the occasion was kindly loaned by Heintzman Hall. The proceeds of the evening amounted to about $130.

Many Arrests Made In European Capitals Over Plot Against Spanish Government

GUETHARY, France, July 14.—(Associated Press).—Ramifications of the supposed plot against the Spanish Government, minimized in an official note issued at Madrid, are widespread, according to border police officials.

It is stated that numerous arrests have been made not only in Madrid but in Barcelona, Saragossa, Oviedo and Orense.

Strict guard is being kept at all frontiers and passengers on international trains are being subject to searching scrutiny.

It is reported that in Madrid a number of workmen engaged on the reconstruction of the Theatre Royal, which is near the royal palace, have been detained for police inquiries. All Syndicalists, known or suspected of being such, are being closely watched. The name of Sanchez Guerra, a former leader of the Conservative Party, keeps bobbing up among the rumors, but his friends in Madrid insist that he has no connection with any plot.

Censorship has been applied to all newspapers throughout the kingdom and none of them is permitted to publish anything about the affair.

Estimates Discussed In London Commons

LONDON, July 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — The house of commons in sweltering heat yesterday afternoon discussed the affairs of West Africa, Cyprus, Malaya, Ceylon, the Dead Sea and Palestine on the presentation of the Colonial Office estimates. Only towards the end of the sitting were the estimates for the department of the secretary for the dominions reached.

In the course of the latter discussions, Percy Hurd, Conservative member for Devizes, who has been closely connected with the Canadian newspaper world, referred to the entirely new conditions which delegates of the Empire Parliamentary Association would discover during their forthcoming visit to Canada. Hurd talked out the dominions' office estimates in the hope of a further opportunity to discuss dominion relations. The debate was automatically adjourned by the house rising.

Hurg was delegate to the Imperial Press Conference in Canada in 1920 and was formerly London editor of several Canadian newspapers.

W. I. MEET AT MARMORA

Report Read of Recent Convention Held at Madoc.

OPEN GRAVEL PIT.

MARMORA, July 14 (Examiner Correspondence). — The monthly meeting of Marmora Women's Institute took place on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. P. Bowen. Owing to the meeting falling upon the twelfth there was not the usual good attendance. For the roll call, members had been requested to bring a story or sketch of a flower. In this respect, everyone contributed well. Miss C. A. Bleecker read the report of the recent convention at Madoc. Mrs. C. Nichol and Mrs. F. Sweet acted as program committee. A question box, whereby questions on general subjects were solicited and answered proved most interesting. A splendid lunch was served by the hostess at the close.

Open Gravel Pit

In connection with maintenance of the new provincial highway, a gravel pit is being opened up on land of George Bailey, at Harold, and three huts are being erected nearby on the same property to house workmen who will be engaged on the building of the new road.

Surveyors are at work on the road from Marmora to Bonarlaw.

THREE WORKMEN FOUND MISSING

Pump Station Men Flood Sewer Where Men Are Working.

CHICAGO, July 14. — (Canadian Press).—Three men were trapped and possibly drowned, early today when tons of water raced through two sewage tunnels in which a gang of 25 men were working. An error in interpreting orders caused the pumping station men to flood the sewers to a depth of seven feet while the men were still in them. A check-up showed three negroes were missing and 22 others safe as the firemen began pumping out water.

GREAT SERMONS
BY GREAT MEN

By Canon H. P. Aiddon, D.D., D.C.L., London, England.

Matt. xi. 7. "What went ye out into the wilderness to see?"

THIS question was put to a large assemblage of his countrymen by our blessed Lord on an occasion of importance. He had just received and replied to an embassy which we may dare to say would have moved His human sympathies very deeply. John the Baptist, whose baptism Jesus had Himself received in the waters of the Jordan,—John the Baptist who had so preached repentance as to be in very deed the prophet of the Highest coming before the face of the Lord to prepare His way,—John the Baptist was in prison. He had dared to tell a plain but unwelcome truth to a sensual king, and this king had acted as powerful vice does act when it is confronted with weak but inconvenient virtue. Herod Antipas, the capricious, tyrannical, unscrupulous, sensual but weak prince who then, under the title of tetrarch, ruled the Jordan valley and the northern district of Palestine, had actually married the daughter of a neighbouring Arab chief, called Aretas. But this did not prevent him from making overtures of marriage to Herodias, the wife of his own half-brother, Herod Philip, and these proposals were favourable entertained, and then it was that the Baptist pointed out to the king the true moral character of this proceeding; and Herod, who would have killed him had it been politic to do so, shut him up for the present in the gloomy fortress of Machaerus, on the Eastern shore of the Dead Sea. It was from this prison that John the Baptist sent the embassy to Jesus. The fame of the miracles of Jesus in Galilee, had reached the ears of the imprisoned prophet, and of the fellow followers that still clung to him with an affectionate devotion that does them honour. It would seem probable that John had in vain endeavoured to persuade these faithful friends that if they would be true to him they must become disciples of Jesus, that his own ministry only meant to lead men to Jesus, and that the miracles of which they heard so much as being worked in Galilee ought to satisfy them that Jesus was the Messiah of Jewish prophecy. The followers of John still hesitated, and then the Baptist determined to send two of them to Jesus that they might ask Him whether He was what John proclaimed Him to be, and might see and hear for themselves. They put the question to our Lord just as it had been a message from their master; and our Lord answered them accordingly. He bade them go and tell John the story of their Galilean experience: how the vivid imagery of Isaiah many a century before had been translated before their eyes into the world of fact; how the blind received their sight, and the lame walked, and the lepers were cleansed; how the deaf heard, and the dead were raised up, and, above all, the poor had the good news from Heaven preached to them. And then as the disciples turned away, well satisfied, we may be sure, to carry back this message to their imprisoned master, Jesus turned to the multitude or bystanders with the question of His own, a question which He Himself went on to answer. As they departed, Jesus began to say to the multitudes concerning John, "What went ye out into the wilderness to see?" What, we may reverently ask, was our Lord's motive in asking this question then and there? It is plain from His own answer to it that He asked it in order, first, to repair, and then to sustain the honour in which John the Baptist had been held by the Jewish people. Recent events would have tended naturally enough to diminish that honour. First of all, there was the broad fact—John was in the prison. The days were when he had at his command the love and the admiration of the entire people; now his work was closed, closed, as it seemed, by the mere will and fiat of a weak and immoral king. Depend upon it, the majority of men thought that the sun of the prophet of the desert had set or was setting in humiliation and in ruin. In their mind's eye they traced over the gate of the fortress of Machaerus the fatal motto, "He has failed." This would have been the popular impression at the moment, and our Lord Jesus Christ knew the people as none had ever known them before or since. He knew that the people, if generous in its judgments, is also sometimes precipitate; that it is apt to be misled by mere appearances; that success often, though not always, passes with it as a certificate of merit, and that failure, if not always, yet often is, accounted a proof of moral wrong. John the Baptist was a prisoner; that was the fact before them, and, however honourable to himself might be the reason for which he was imprisoned, the fact was likely, in the long run, to outweigh the reason, and to leave an imprint of depreciation on his name and character in the coming time. Besides this, in sending to ask whether Jesus was the expected Messiah, John, in his noble self-forgetfulness, had sacrificed his credit for the sake of his disciples: that they might learn the better, he was willing to seem as one who had parted with the secret of his inspiration. For years he had been a great teacher and prophet whose utterances, confident, direct, vehement, had awed multitudes into a change of life. Now it might seem the light and strength of heaven had deserted him; he was but one of the many whom he had taught and led: the great teacher, charged with an inspired message to the world, seemed to have become at once only an inquirer hesitating before a difficulty. And this apparent change of attitude on the part of John towards religious truth could not but have affected the imagination of the people. They may well have thought, as modern critics, with less reason, have thought since their day, that the gloomy solitude of the prison had done its work upon that noble soul; that his faith in his mission as the precursor had at last given way, and that the dreadful thought that his life had been devoted to the propagation of a vast mistake had settled down upon him with all the gloom of a misgiving that usher[illegible] night of an absolute despair.

[illegible] therefore, in order to counteract this unworthy and depreciatory estimate of his great servant, it was to redress the balance of one-sided opinion, it was to rehabilitate the Baptist in the judgment of the new generation that was coming to the front, that our Lord desired His hearers to turn their thoughts back to the time of the great popularity and ascendancy of John. There had been a time when there went out to sit at the feet of the prophet of the desert, "Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan, and were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins." Some of our Lord's hearers had been among that multitude, and our Lord bade them ask themselves why it was that they had thus left their homes. Where was the reasonableness of doing so? What was the governing attraction? "What went ye out into the wilderness to see?"

Our Lord's words do, in fact, raise a very large and interesting question, which we may do well to consider—namely, What it is in human character that exerts the most powerful influence over the hearts of men? Is it what we generally call amiability,—the instinct or habit which makes itself agreeable to everybody, which never opposes, never contradicts, never even holds its own when to do so would cause a passing sense of discomfort? Is it, as our Lord puts it, "a reed shaken with the wind,—a character that bends or that trembles at the first expression of adverse opinion, at a phrase in a speech, or at a paragraph in a newspaper? Is this the character that wins the human heart? Are we really drawn by men who in their intercourse with their fellows conceive one, and one only golden rule of conduct, that of making things easy, and so of voting down principle whenever principle becomes unwelcome or exacting? There are many people to be met with who evidently take this view of life in perfect good faith; they have no principles at all, or none, at any rate, which they care to defend or to make sacrifices for; their one object is to avoid that kind of discomfort which arises from a sense of social collision; and so they go about the world bowing and smiling their unmeaning compliments to all its gathered incompatibilities whom they may chance to meet on their way, and whatever else may be said of them, this most assuredly may be said of them, that they are very amiable people. Undoubtedly such persons are easier to get on with than those who look upon the society of their fellow-men as affording them the same sort of opportunity for distinction which a sea captain might discern in the neighbourhood of a hostile fleet; they are entitled, beyond doubt, to this negative sort of praise, but the question is whether they exert any attractive power upon the heart, and that question can assuredly be answered only in [illegible]. My brethren, what [illegible] of us, in those whom [illegible] love and respect? If we know anything about ourselves we know this, that we are each of us at times weak, unstable, swayed hither and thither by gusts of feeling, of opinion, of passion, by vacillations, of which in our better moments we are ashamed; and therefore, in our Lord's words, we do not go out into the wilderness voluntarily to see a "reed shaken with the wind." We are, most of us, too familiar with that spectacle at home, to make any efforts whatever to study it abroad. That which really draws us to itself is the sight of a man who knows the value of truth and who is strong in knowing it—strong enough to be perfectly courteous to its opponents, and to be, withal, entirely unyielding; strong enough to resist the delicate blandishments as well as the calculated ferocities of error or of vice; strong enough to feel that he can afford to be, and that he is bound to be, considerate and tender, and so by this exhibition of a strength in which you and I know ourselves to be so lamentably deficient drawing us to lean on him in quest of a support which we do not find in ourselves. No, most assuredly. If St. John the Baptist had been the man to make himself agreeable under all circumstances to a king like Herod Antipas, the multitudes would never, never have troubled themselves to go out into the wilderness to see him. Are we, then, generally attracted by the attributes of high station and position? John the Baptist was a man of good family. Was it a man "clothed in soft raiment" who drew the Jewish multitudes from their homes into the desert at the time referred to by our Lord? There can be no question, brethren, as to the attractive power of high station and of the circumstances that encompass it in the case, at least, of the great majority of men. Few persons, I apprehend, are really insensible to their influence, and, generally speaking, those men are least of all insensible to it who go out of their way most ostentatiously to disclaim it. Nor is such an influence to be accounted for by supposing that the great and powerful are only sought after for the sake of what can be got out of them. This vulgar explanation of their influence goes a very short way towards accounting for the facts, since we find that in all ages and countries royalty commands the homage of multitudes who never could expect to add one penny to their resources from the bounty of a sovereign. And in truth, the sentiment in question appeals not to the commercial instinct of making money and getting on, but to a wholly disinterested sense and conception of what is involved in what we call a great position. A great position!—it is the product of some form of human enterprise in bygone days which represents the valour, or the wisdom, or, at least, the perseverance, of some among those whom we call the dead. It has accumulated with the lapse of years a vast assortment of associations, each one of which adds to it some new claim upon the feeling of the people; it has been consecrated, we may dare to say, at least in some sense, by the protecting and upholding [illegible] and so it comes down [illegible] royal dynasty, or as a great family enriched with a thousand subtle but imperious recommendations. And as we look, you and I, on the man "clothed in soft raiment," we yield to him at least, and quite ungrudgingly, a corner in our hearts. And yet, does he really take possession of us? Surely not. His life may be in contradiction to the ideal expectations that are raised by his position, and where this is not the case, reflection here, as in other matters, if not entirely undoing the work of imagination, at least forces us to keep imagination in check.

After all, what we seek in our most solemn moments is not the position but the man; not the soft raiment, but the mind and heart and will that underlie it. The position—it is not the real man, it is merely the decoration outside the man, and when we have stripped it off, and have looked at what lies beneath we find perhaps what we find elsewhere, what we are conscious of within ourselves—a timid, forlorn soul shivering as it gazes up at the justice and the magnificence of God and as little able as ourselves to give the sort of satisfaction that is most needed by the human heart and will. No, dear brethren, if we leave our ordinary occupations, if we go out into the wilderness of thought, it is not to see a man clothed in soft raiment. Such persons, as our Lord says, are found elsewhere, they live in kings' houses, they have their own due and assured range of influence and consideration, but it does not include the recesses of the heart.

Is it, then, mental power which most powerfully affects us? Is it some great endowment which at once places a human mind in a rank high above its fellows, whether it be strength of reason or wealth of imagination, or retentiveness of memory, or subtlety and delicacy of intellectual touch?

Certainly, brethren, many a man bows down to intellect who would shrink from being supposed to care for station or for wealth. Intellect, he says to himself, is part of the man himself. Intellect is not like station or wealth—a mere adjunct, contributing nothing to make the man what he really is. Intellect is the most conspicuous ingredient in the composition of the man; intellect, above all things, is power. Sometimes it is power of the very highest order, having decisive influence upon human affairs. Intellect may well, then, he says, prove a powerful attraction, and the gift of prophecy, although spiritually conferred, was in its exercise an intellectual gift which charmed and swayed the minds of men by the play of thought which was involved in its expression, and this was why our Lord asked His hearers whether they went out into the wilderness to see the popular prophet as if in quest of a form, a rare form, of mental enjoyment. Intellect, no doubt, my brethren, is attractive, but the attraction is waning both in power and in universality. It is not a universal attraction, since, to do justice to intellect, there must be mind enough to take stock of what it is and of what it achieves and most of us make no pretension to be, in this sense, intellectual. And it is not a very powerful attraction. There are large regions of our nature, and those often the most interesting regions, which intellect does not even remotely touch. How often do we see intellect triumphantly silencing adverse argument, yet quite unable to produce conviction the truth being that although no answer seems to be forthcoming, there is within the soul a whisper that there is an answer if it could only at the moment be produced. And this whisper proceeds from a district of the soul for which mere intellect has made, and can make, no sort of provision whatever—that district is spirit. Just as real a department of the soul's life as is that in which intellect lives and works, just as real, but only a much higher one.

There were simple Christians in Paris who had no chance in conversation with a master of profane repartee like Voltaire, but then his brilliant sarcasms left them just where they were, because they did not even touch that region of spiritual instinct in which, as in a native atmosphere, faith and love flourish and grow. The truth is, that intellect often forfeits its legitimate power through being divorced from goodness. There is no necessary connection whatever between goodness and the very highest intellectual gifts. Balaam is an instance of lofty prophetic insight joined to a fatal obliquity or weakness of moral character, he died fighting against that truth which he had defended and proclaimed. Bacon, the father of the inductive philosophy, is a sample of the highest scientific intellect, and yet we almost wish that he could have been, for the credit of intellect itself, less wise than he was, if he could not have been less mean. And not to insist upon other instances, what a conspicuous example of this truth is afforded by the great writer who, perhaps more than any other man, has formed the modern mind of Germany. All the world knows that Goethe's works sparkle with an originality that is all his own, and yet it is difficult to name a book that leaves us with a more melancholy impression of the tyrannical and deliberate selfishness of a human character than Goethe's autobiography. Goethe is all very well for educating taste, for stimulating and, for refining thought so long as the heart and its needs are kept out of the way, and all that is highest and deepest in life is not in question; but in times of real seriousness or real sorrow Goethe would be intolerable; his cold and polished acuteness says nothing whatever to the finest elements of the soul of man. And here he differs conspicuously from our own Shakespeare—Shakespeare, in whom intellect is constantly in felt alliance with higher qualities, and whose majestic language stutters once and again as he feels himself on the confines of a higher world, as if in instinctive deference to a truth or to a beauty which it is beyond the power of human thought to reach.

But in all probability there is no created intellect so acute, so trained, so endowed with all the apparatus of knowledge, so vast in its capacity, and withal so intense in its power of concentrated application, as is that of the evil and apostate spirit—the king of the children of pride. For many thousand years he has been observing, inferring, correcting his observations and his inferences, accumulating knowledge in a vast field of experience which is only less than infinite; profiting by man's wisdom, profiting by man's success as well as by man's failure and his folly; and thus becoming, by a process of unarrested growth, a being of mental powers to which there can, from the nature of the case, be no parallel among the sons of men. And yet when we think of his relation to the all-holy and loving God, of his will stiffened by ancient persistence into determined and irrevocable opposition, and the whole volume of desire in his nature changed from love into a current of malignant hatred, we see how consummate intellectual endowments only in this case enhance our reasons for utterly shrinking from his dreadful approach. No, intellect is not of itself attractive, at least in the long run, and if the multitudes went out into the wilderness to see the last of the prophets, it was because if a prophet, he was more than a prophet, because there was that about him which threw even his great prophetic endowments into the shadow, while it drew to him the inmost hearts of men.

"More than a prophet!" What was it, this something which transcended thus the highest gifts, and which lured the Jewish multitudes from their homes into the desert? Was it the report of a supernatural birth? Was it the spectacle of a hard ascetic life? Was it the firmness of a great character, the simple majesty of a nature that was conscious of a single aim and indifferent to all besides? These things, no doubt, had their weight, but beyond them there was the feeling which is always inspired by a great religious soul of whose consistency we are well assured, but which we only half understand. Such a character lives and moves before us evidently in constant communion with God while shrouding from the public eye much which our curiosity would fain, if it could, explore. All this reserve of spiritual power in St. John, his hermit life in the desert, his wild food, his dress of camel's hair, were aptly suggestive; they showed that this side of existence was repressed for the sake of the other and the higher side, and that to St. John the other was incomparable, and always the vaster and the more real. Without analysing their feelings, the multitudes felt that in coming near to John the Baptist they were like men who stood at the base of a mountain which buries its summit in the clouds of heaven. Instinctively they knew that a man of no common mould was there, and that he was worth understanding if he only could be understood. This reserve, I say, is inevitable in the case of every great servant of God, and it is a reason, generally it is the main reason, of his attractive force over others. We, too, moral pigmies as we are—we, too, long to catch a glimpse of that greater world in which God's spiritual aristocracy lives and works. We listen for the distant echo of its secrets; we are irresistibly drawn to crave such fellowship with it as we can, if only because it touches a chord in our souls which reminds us that we, too, each one of us, are created for the infinite being, and have before us, if we only will, a destiny of boundless magnificence It was this quality in St. John which our Lord desired to suggest to the minds of those who listened to him; for if they did understand that, there would be no danger of their thinking that John was a prophet who had been discredited by the cessation of his public utterances or by his imprisonment. If John was a prophet, it mattered little from this point of view whether he still prophesied or not. If John's body was detained by the bars and bolts of the prison house by the lake, those bars and bolts could not confine the activities or narrow the range of his majestic soul; they could only at their best illustrate the puny impotence of the world of sense when it provokes a conflict with the sublime aspirations and convictions of the world of spirit. It was this quality in St. John which explained his office as our Lord's precursor. "Yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet. For this is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send My messenger before Thy face which shall prepare Thy way before Thee." In truth, such a character as the Baptist's raised expectations which from the nature of the case it could not satisfy; it pointed upwards to the infinite and to the perfect; but as men gazed into the vast azure all became before their eyes vague and indistinct, and the soul fell back upon the dull, concrete realities of everyday existence. If the work of St. John was to be completed and sustained, another and a higher presence was needed—a presence so real, so certain, and yet so unassailable in its majestic beauty that in it the human heart would really find the perfect satisfaction of its highest hopes. It is this quality, depend upon it, dear brethren, which to the end of time explains the attractivepower of churches and of men. Churches do not draw us into communion with them when they ostentatiously profess to have no positive doctrines, and to be only anxious to secure adherents; they do not draw us by the high station of their chief ministers, or even by the intellectual endowments of their most distinguished representatives. The human soul seeks in the Church of God something more than a "reed shaken with the wind," something more than a man clothed in the softest raiment, something more than even an intellectually gifted prophet,—it seeks that felt but indescribable touch of a higher world, which lifts it right above the trivialities of this,—it seeks a temple the threshold of which it may cross, but whose sanctuary lies far away in the bosom of the infinite,—it seeks a life the Divine pulses of which it knows to issue from an invisible heart; but, above all, it seeks that which will lead it itself most effectually, most intimately, to Him its Lord and its God, who alone can satisfy the deep, mysterious yearnings with which He has endowed it. And as with Churches so with men. It is not the easy-going, it is not the highly-placed, it is not the intellectual who win our hearts. The men who really take us captive are the saintly. They take us out of ourselves; they draw us into the wilderness, into some solitude of thought where the common associations of life are not; and then, without a word, by the mere power of their example, they bid us look upwards if we would understand what they are—look upwards beyond themselves to the strength and secret of their life, to Jesus Christ, God and man, incarnate, crucified, risen, ascended. Divine prerogative thus to prepare the way of the Lord! Oh happiness undeserved, unutterable, thus to be drawn to Him, though it be by influences which we only half understand ourselves, and which the world will never understand; and probably will always persecute until all things become clear in the presence of the Judge!

STORIES FOR LITTLE PEOPLE

SAMUEL, OR THE ARK IN THE BATTLE
1 Sam. IV., 1-18.
"(By M.B.)"

I shall tell you to-day how God punished Eli's sons; but first I must speak to you about some people who lived in the land of Canaan, called the Philistines.

The Philistines lived in some of the towns of Canaan: they were wicked people, who worshipped idols, and they hated the Israelites: they often fought against the Israelites and took away their things. When God was pleased with the Israelites, he did not let the Philistines hurt them, but now he was angry with the Israelites.

One day a great number of Philistines came out of their towns to fight against the Israelites. They brought some tents with them, and slept in them at night. The Israelites heard that the Philistines were coming to fight against them: so a great number of Israelites took their swords and spears, and placed their tents near the tents of the Philistines. In the morning the Philistines and the Israelites fought with each other. Who do you think conquered? The Philistines. Yes: God did not help the Israelites as he used to do, so the Israelites were frightened, and ran back into their tents.

Now the Israelites ought to have prayed to God to forgive their sins; but instead of praying they said, 'Let us send for the ark of God. If the ark were here, we should be able to conquer the Philistines.'

You remember that the ark was a golden box, on which God sometimes sat in a cloud. But would the ark save them? No: only God can save people.

The Israelites sent a person to Shiloh to desire the priests to bring the ark to the tents. The sons of Eli, you know, were priests. They brought the ark to the tents of the Israelites. When the Israelites saw the ark, they were delighted, and they gave a very loud shout to show their joy. The shout could be heard a great way off. The Philistines heard the shout, and they asked why the Israelites shouted. Soon they heard that the ark of the God of Israel was come to the tents of the Israelites. Then the Philistines were afraid, and they said, 'If the God of the Israelites should help them what should we do? For their God once killed Pharaoh and all his men, and he could kill us too. Oh, let us be very brave, and let us fight with all our strength.'

So the Philistines and the Israelites came out of their tents to fight, and the priests brought the ark on their shoulders.

But God did not help the Israelites. They were soon afraid, and ran back to their tents, and a great many of them were killed; and the two sons of Eli were killed, as God had said.

What became of the ark of God?

The Philistines took it. How pleased they were to get the ark! They carried it back to the towns where they lived.

Eli had not come to the battle. He had stayed in Shiloh; he was very unhappy about the ark. He wanted to know what had become of it; so he sat upon a high seat just at the gate of Shiloh.

At last a man came running along the road: he had been fighting in the battle, and he came to tell the people in Shiloh all that had happened. He had put dust upon his head, and he had torn his clothes, to show that he had sad news to tell: for people used to put dust on their heads, and to tear their clothes, when they were unhappy. But Eli was very old, and he was blind; and did not see the man; and did not know that the man had sad news to tell. When the man told the people in Shiloh what had happened, the people cried out very loud with grief; and Eli heard them crying, and asked why they cried; and the man answered, 'I am just come from the place where the Israelites were fighting.' Then Eli said, 'What has happened there?' Then the man said, 'The Israelites have run away from the Philistines, and a great many Israelites have been killed, and your two sons are dead, and the ark of God is taken.'

When Eli heard that the ark was taken he was very unhappy indeed: he was sitting on a high seat that had no back, and he fell backwards in his grief, and he broke his neck: for he was a very old man and very heavy. He was almost a hundred years old.

What a very sad way of dying this was, instead of dying in his bed.

How grieved Samuel must have been, when he heard how Eli had died! Where did Eli's soul go? To heaven. Eli loved God very much.

Why was Eli so sorry that the ark was taken? Because the ark was the throne where God used to sit, and he did not like wicked people to have it; so you see that Eli loved God very much.

How sad it was for Eli to think his sons had died in their wickedness, and that God was angry with him because he had not punished them.

The Ark in the Battle.

Was it because his sons had perish'd,
That Eli's heart with grief was torn?
Rather because the ark so cherish'd
By heathen hands away was borne;
That holy ark, where oft, between
The cherubim, the Lord was seen.

And had the Lord at length departed
From Israel, whom he loved so well?
Alas! old Eli, broken-hearted,
From his high seat astonish'd fell.
Oh, who can doubt he loved the Lord,
And that to heaven his spirit soar'd?

But though his sins were all forgiven;
And wash'd away in Jesus' blood,
His way had been less rough to heaven,
Had Eli honour'd more his God.
But sinners, where shall they appear?
If righteous men are punish'd here.

The Law And The Gospel

(By Robert C. Chapman.)

Let a sinner look at himself in the glass of God's holiness, he must see his own condemnation; but by faith in Jesus he beholds himself free from condemnation, and stands before God in Christ as Christ Himself.

The Law was magnified by Christ, and made honourable; and therefore God in His righteousness must magnify for ever Christ and His members with Him.

Under the Law they laboured first, and rested after (Exod. xx. 8-11); but under the Gospel we rest first, by faith in Jesus, and then work.

The Law begins with commands and ends with blessings; but the blessings are fruit upon lofty branches, which fallen man can never reach: he cannot and will not climb the tree. The gospel, on the contrary, begins with promises; and promises give birth to precepts. The Law demands justice; the Gospel delights in mercy through satisfied justice. Moses blesses the law-doer; Jesus pardons the guilty and saves the lost.

Every one who hears the Gospel has a door opened to him of escape from the wrath to come. In the Day of Judgment men shall know all the past. Forgetful hearers of the Gospel shall then with gnashing of teeth remember how they once neglected so great salvation (Heb. ii, 3); their worm will never die, their fire never be quenched (Mark ix, 44).

No child of Adam has a right to anything from God save the wages of sin. Justice, apart from grace in Christ's cross, must allot to every sinner hell for his wages and portion. If the sinner is to have eternal life, he must have it as a free gift from God. Alas that thousands of sinners who hear the Gospel will not have it, because they are too proud to be saved on God's term of pure grace!

What is it to obey the Gospel, but to believe the Gospel? Unbelief says, "I will not receive Christ as a gift from God." Faith, on the contrary, says, "I want Christ in His fulness; my pinching poverty makes me glad of so rich and all-sufficient a Saviour."

A PRAYER
For the Love of God

O God, the God of all goodness and grace, Who art worthy of a greater love than we can either give or understand; fill our hearts, we beseech Thee, with such love towards Thee, that nothing may seem too hard for us to do or to suffer in obedience to Thee. Grant that we may become daily more like unto Thee, and finally obtain the crown of life which Thou hast promised to those that love Thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the LORD revealed For he shall grow up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground: he hath no form nor comeliness; and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him. He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief; and we hid as it were our faces from him; he was despised, and we esteemed him not. Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows: yet we did esteem him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted. But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the LORD hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: he is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth. He was taken from prison and from judgment: and who shall declare his generation? for he was cut off out of the land of the living: for the transgression of my people was he stricken. And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death; because he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth. Yet it pleased the LORD to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in his hand. He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied; by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many: for he shall bear their iniquities. Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong: because he hath poured out his soul unto death: and he was numbered with the transgressors; and he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors. Boast not thyself of to-morrow: for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth. Prov. xxvii, 1.

Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin because he is born of God. We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him. Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren. For whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him? I Jno. iii., 9, 14, 17.

SIR HENRY SCORES.

The efforts made by Sir Henry Drayton to prevent the short circuiting into Ontario of liquor supposed to be for export to the United States will not only put a decided crimp into that traffic but will make the supplying of our American neighbors with the liquor they seem to want in spite of the Volstead Act a decidedly difficult operation.

If the action of the head of the Liquor Control Board is sustained by the courts the situation will be most awkward for the "exporters."

Keeping liquor on the move would be easy enough were it legal for alcoholic beverages to be imported into the United States, but while liquor may be legally exported from this country it cannot be legally brought into the Republic, and there's the rub.

Hitherto the supplies have been kept in export warehouses, waiting for a convenient opportunity to run a shipment into the United States, but that practice Sir Henry Drayton seems determined to stop, and the traffic will be paralyzed if his handling of the situation is endorsed by the courts.

DANGEROUS FLYING.

During the last few days Peterborough has been treated to a spectacular exhibition of flying that speaks more eloquently of the skill of the aviator than of his judgment.

The spectacle of an aeroplane apparently skimming the tops of flag-poles and towers in the business section was a thriller for those who saw it and a demonstration of flying ability above the average, but the element of danger entered into the performance to such a degree that future exhibitions of this nature should be made impossible.

Flying at such a low altitude over a city with its streets crowded with people, as was the case on Thursday evening, is to invite disaster.

Had the flyer's engine developed trouble during this sensational flight it is difficult to see how a terrible accident could have been avoided.

A forced descent on George street would most certainly have caused loss of life, and no licensed flyer has any right to take such chances.

It is to be hoped that there will be no repetition of the performance, which is much too dangerous to the public safety to be tolerated.

THE TRENT CANAL.

The Peterborough citizens who on Wednesday had an opportunity to inspect the Severn section of the Trent Canal have come home more enthusiastic than ever in regard to the desirability of pressing for the early completion of the waterway and more firmly convinced that that completion is justified.

It is to be hoped that it will be possible to have the Hon. Chas. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, make a personal inspection of the whole waterway.

Only in that way will he be able to get that first-hand knowledge of the canal and its possibilities that he should have to deal with the question on its merits, and to acquaint the members of the House with what is entailed in the completion of the waterway.

The average member of Parliament knows little and cares less about the Trent Canal.

He regards it as a political football that has been kicked about by both parties for many decades, and he has no idea of its possibilities from a scenic and tourist viewpoint, of its power developments or any other advantage it offers.

Mr. Dunning, as Minister of Railways and Canals, should be in a position to tell his fellow-members the real facts in regard to the Trent.

THIS DISTRICT NOT DEBAUCHED.

By actual count, the number of motor cars entering and leaving Peterborough via the Peterborough-Port Hope highway on July 12th was 1,841.

That represents heavy traffic, and the fact that there were no serious accidents reported indicates careful driving and an absence of that mixture of gasoline and alcohol, which in some quarters was feared would result from a combination of a holiday of this kind and the Government sale of liquor.

The local celebration was also evidence of the fact that the opportunity to purchase liquor legally is not regarded by the people of this district as an excuse for license.

There were few or no signs of drinking among the huge crowds that were in Peterborough on Wednesday, and the police had no occasion to make an arrest, a condition that not so long ago would have been regarded as remarkable.

The conduct of the army of visitors for the Orange celebration was such as to merit general commendation, and also as to furnish proof that this part of Ontario has not been debauched by the fact that a legal channel for the purchase of alcoholic beverages is now open.

THE PRESIDENTIAL RACE.

Reading the United States press, it becomes increasingly clear that the presidential race is resolving itself into a battle of personalities and prejudices. The contest, in fact, is one between Hoover and Al Smith, devoid of principles and policies except as these are made by the contrasting background, character, calibre, creed, and views of the contesting candidates. In other words, it is a fight between men, not parties.

So far as the parties are concerned, they are curiously and significantly alike. There is not, so far as one can see, a single fundamental difference between them. Neither presents an alternative political philosophy. On no foreign or domestic issue do they radically and cleanly divide. The economic and fiscal policy of the United States will not be altered, no matter which is successful. There is in neither platform a single new, constructive or very interesting proposal.

Even on the tariff, which has traditionally divided Democrats from Republicans almost from the start, there is no real cleavage. The Democratic platform tells the American farmer he is entitled to a higher tariff on the things he produces for export and it tells the American laborer he should be protected against foreign importation. Any Republican can run on that. As to farm relief, about which so much clamor is being made by the Corn Belt, the Democrats, in words, go a little further than the Republicans, but they probably mean no more, and are equally vague and nebulous as to what they propose.

On prohibition, the fact that the issue cuts across party lines and deeply divides each within, compelled both to evade the fact in their conventions and platforms. They adopted practically identical planks upon what was admitted to be the one question capable of genuinely stirring the public. Cautiously refusing to come to grips, they left it to the candidates to express a conviction upon the most controversial question in the country. Governor Smith, it is true, acted promptly, coming out squarely against Volsteadism; but until Mr. Hoover has spoken it will be impossible to know just to what extent prohibition will figure in the campaign.

But whether prohibition is a factor or not, the big fight will centre around the personalities of Hoover and Smith. Already, indeed, there is not a newspaper or review or magazine of any kind from Florida to Oregon that is not speculating upon the possible effect of Smith's religion upon the balloting next November. The American public, despite the loud declaration of religious equality that stands out in their constitution, finds it hard to realize that a Catholic has really been nominated for the presidency. Not that it is true, as so often stated, that Al Smith is the first Catholic to be nominated for that honor. Charles O'Connor, of New York, a Catholic, was nominated in 1872 at a rump convention in Louisville, Kentucky, after Horace Greely had been nominated by the regular Democratic convention. O'Connor was a brilliant lawyer and had helped prosecute the Tweed Ring. He declined the nomination, but the bolters would not listen to him, and in the election he secured 25,000 votes. Smith's unequivocal and moving declaration of his political and religious faith, made in reply to Edward M. Marshall, may assuage anti-Catholic feeling; but there is hardly any doubt that the Ku Klux Klan, or whatever there is left of it, will do all in its power to defeat him; and it is not improbable that others outside the Klan will vote against him on the pretence that his prohibition views are offensive, when in fact his religion will be the cause of the hostility. How far this spirit will militate against Smith's election, remains to be seen.

There is something else—the matter of Smith's birth and origin. He is of immigrant stock; and while it is true that all early United States Presidents were of immigrant origin, it is equally true that for three-quarters of a century the men who have gone to the White House have been, without exception, descendants of what Americans call settler stock. Immigrants and sons of immigrants have ruled United States cities, in some cases they have been made governors, in some cases Cabinet members, but the chief prize has been withheld from them. There are some, competent observers, who think that this will operate against Smith. They are convinced that his nomination will bring into play not only an agrarian hostility to the city man, but a deep-seated hostility to those who are newcomers to American soil. The older the stock, they hold, the more bitter the disfavor is likely to be.

Against this, of course, is the demonstrated fact that Smith, in his contests for the governorship of New York State, has increasingly had with him the leaders of New York's "Four Hundred." Protestant and Jew and Gentile, the gangsters of the Bowery and the silk stocking aristocrats of Fifth Avenue marched shoulder to shoulder behind him. It was Franklin Roosevelt, patrician of American patricians, who so eloquently put him in nomination at Houston.

Then, of course, there is Tammany. Cities such as Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco, Cincinnati and Chicago know perfectly well that Tammany Hall has not been unique in its wickedness. Its dishonesty has merely been better press-agented than the crookedness of political machines in other cities quite as corrupt as it has been. But the public, the large southern and western public, does not know this. They recall the long record of Tammany domination, the innumerable New York scandals, and, remembering that Smith was cradled in Tammany Hall, they associate him with its record and its evil.

Smith's fine story of administrative efficiency in New York may overcome this. His managers and strategists may be able to demonstrate the truth that for six years at least neither Tammany nor any other organization has been his master—but then, again, they may not. Legends die hard, and in no sphere more so than in politics.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Let us hope we are not in for another nauseating dose of publicity about George Young.

The story of the hunt conducted by the Toronto police force should convince everybody that robbery is by no means the safest profession in the world.

The fact that "Tommy" Church walked in the Twelfth of July parade at Toronto has been duly chronicled. It would have been real news if the well-known Mr. Church hadn't walked.

American cars advertising the candidature of Governor Al Smith for President are being noticed over here. There are no votes for New York's Governor in Ontario, but plenty of good-will, judging by casual conversations overheard.

The Question Box

(Address questions to "The Question Box.")

B. O. Q.—To settle an argument, please tell me how many labor disputes there were in Great Britain in 1927. I say six, and my antagonist says only 3.

A.—You are nearer right, but still a long way off the correct figure. There were, in 1927, 308 disputes begun, involving 114,200 workers, with a total time loss of 1,174,000 working days.

S. A. Q.—What does "Line of perpetual snow" mean? Is there a line the same on all mountains?

A.—It varies according to the latitude. The line of perpetual snow is the line below which snow melts, or rather, above which the snow never melts. At 10 degrees it is 14,764 feet; at 40 degrees, 9,000 feet; and at 70 degrees, 1,278 feet.

H. A. Q.—Who was the Duke of Richmond?

A.—The Duke of Richmond was the twenty-seventh Governor General of Canada for the brief period from 1818 to 1819, when he died from hydrophobia caused by the bite of a pet fox. He was with the Duke of Wellington at the Battle of Waterloo, and gave the famous ball on the eve of the battle immortalized by Byron. His administration of Canadian affairs was a disturbed one on account of his interference with the Assembly although the Canadian people were highly flattered at the appointment of an Englishman of such distinction.

GOD'S MINUTE

I will praise Thee, for Thou hast heard me.—Ps. 118:21.

Our dear Heavenly Father, reverently do we approach Thee, the giver of all good and perfect gifts. We give thanks to Thee for all the blessings Thou hast so graciously bestowed upon us. Thou hast kept us day by day unto this hour. We must say that goodness and mercy have followed us. We have sinned, and come short of the glory of God. For the sake of Jesus do Thou forgive all our sins. Wash us in the blood of the Lamb.

Give us grace to perform every duty in life conscientiously, and in Thy fear, O Lord. May we not be slothful in business, but fervent in spirit, serving the Lord. May our lives be fully consecrated to Thy service. Help us to love our neighbors as ourselves. Give us the mind of Christ. May we crucify the old Adam with all his affections and lusts, so that the new man may daily arise within us to live before Thee in righteousness and purity. Give us grace, dear Lord, to live such lives day by day, that when our end shall come we may be prepared to enter upon the rest that remaineth for the people of God. Grant these blessings unto us, and to all our fellowmen, out of the fulness of Thine infinite love and mercy, in Christ Jesus our Lord and Saviour, and for His sake alone. Amen.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, July 14. — Market held steady to firm all through the week on all classes of cattle, except the poorest finished grass cows. As the week advanced there was a slight stiffening in top prices for the choicest butcher offerings.

Shippers are again advised that it may prove good paying policy to hold back poorly finished cows for a few weeks longer on grass feeding. Prospects are said to be good for a continuance of present high price levels, and a waiting policy to give cattle a chance to put on a little more flesh will be more profitable to the shipper in the long run.

Small meats steady to firm, excepting sheep and lambs, which, under heavy runs, eased off a little.

Springers and milkers — Choice springers, $80 to $100; medium cows draggy; choice fresh milkers, $70 to $90. Demand improved on Wednesday

Stockers and feeders — Choice Ontario dehorned steers, $9.50 to $10.00; medium, $8.50 to $9.00; no Western steers coming in; all heifers and of poor quality

Calves — Choice calves, 13c to 14c, with fancy 14¼c; good, 12c to 12½c; medium, 9c to 11c on a brisk market.

Sheep and lambs — Bid lower at 14½c, with an odd lot at 14¾c; good, 13c to 14c; medium, 9c to 12c; choice light yearling sheep, 8c to 10c; choice butchers, 4c to 6c; heavy and bucks, 3c to 4c; culls, 2c to 3c.

Hogs — Held steady at 25c advance for the week at $12.00 f.o.b.; $13.00 off cars; $12.70 fed; road hogs, $12.75 for selects.

The following cuts in hog prices went into effect in Thursday's market, and will remain until further announcement: No. 1 sows under 350 pounds, country points, $4.00 off; No. 2 sows over 350 pounds, country points, $5.00 off; No. 1 stags under 500 pounds, country points, $6.00 off; No. 2 stags over 500 pounds, country points, $7.00 off. Both sows and stags must be well finished for above prices, as the thin and unfinished are not wanted, and will be settled for accordingly.

Beginning July 30, a cut of $2.00 per 100 pounds and from October 1 a cut of $3.00 per 100 pounds will be effective on all buck lambs of the previous spring's lamb crop.

Receipts.

Union Stock Yards — Receipts for the week: 4,339 cattle, 2,179 calves, 3,172 hogs, 3,576 sheep and lambs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 14 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in grain here yesterday was more active and it was reported that some Montreal houses made fairly large sales for shipment to Russia.

A moderate amount of business was reported in spring wheat flour for export account overnight, but the demand from domestic buyers continued of a disappointing character. The undertone was easy, but values were unchanged. There was no change in the winter wheat flour situation, the prices being maintained owing to the small offerings from Ontario millers and the light stocks held on spot. The demand was quiet.

The millfeed market was without any new feature to note, prices being about steady. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats continues very slow and prices were unchanged.

The trade in eggs in a jobbing way was a little more active on account of the fact that grocers and other dealers were providing for their week-end requirements. The tone of the market was steady. The offerings from Ontario shippers were larger, but owing to the small percentage of extras in the lots buyers showed little interest at the present level of the market. The receipts were 1,651 cases.

The feature of the potato trade continues to be the good demand for American new crop potatoes of which supplies have been coming forward in liberal quantities and in consequence buyers have had no difficulty in filling their wants at steady prices, and sales of No. 1 grades were made at $3.10 per barrel, ex-track. Old crop Canadian potatoes were quiet with car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains quoted at 70c to 75c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 65c to 70c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

Depends on People.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir: The 12th of July passed away without the least sign of drunkenness or disorder. Over 1800 cars came in over the Port Hope Highway alone, and went out again, and the smell of liquor was not upon them.

It all shows that control depends upon the people. I am glad to be able to record this fact.

INDEPENDENT.

A Thought

The gold of the poet must be refined, melted, stamped with the image and superscription of his time, but with a beauty of design and finish that are of no time.

Thrice unhappy he who born to see things as they might be, is schooled by circumstances to see them as people say they are—to read God in a prose translation.

Reputation is in itself only a farthing candle, of wavering and uncertain flame, and easily blown out, but it is the light by which the world looks for and finds merit.

There is no such hot-bed for excess of license as excess of restraint, and the arrogant fanaticism of a single virtue is apt to make men suspicious of tyranny in all the rest.

There are two kinds of genius. The first and highest may be said to speak out of the eternal to the present, and must compel its age to understand it; the second understands its age, and tells us what it wishes to be told. Let us find strength and inspiration in the one, amusement and instruction in the other, and be honestly thankful for both.

THE ADVENTURES OF SECKATARY HAWKINS AND HIS CLUB

THE MYSTERY OF THE BIG GUN

I took hold of the dog's collar, and together we entered the little door in the wall, which Dr. Drago held open for us. I wondered what sort of a room this was. In all my visits to the stonewall house, I had never noticed a door here. I had seen the curtain, of course, but who would have thought there was a door behind it? Not me. But here I was, now, through this strange door, and ahead of me was darkness. Gloom filled the space beyond that door. And the minute I was inside my courage began to fail me. My knees began to shake, and the dog gave a low growl.

"What's it so dark in here for, Dr. Drago?" I called out.

But there came no answer. I turned swiftly. The door was shut. I was alone, with only the dog for company. Dr. Drago had stayed outside and closed the door upon me. I umbled around until my hand grasped the doorknob, and turned it—but I could not pull it open. I was so amazed I couldn't think for the next minute or two. Trapped! By Jinks! And I had known it all the while. It was my own fault. I had walked into this place with my eyes wide open. I had seen the big gate barred with logs spiked into the frame. The fact that the servant man made me climb over the wall by a ladder, and lifted me over the dangerous electric wire on top of the wall—that all should have been enough to warn me—but I had gone ahead. Good old Indian, the dog, jumped upon me in the dark and whined.

"Don't worry, old boy," I told him. "I walked right into this to get you back, and I'm not sorry—yet. We won't give up so easy, will we, Indian?"

I turned away from the doorway and looked around, but it was too dark to see anything. I could not imagine where I was. Certainly this was no ordinary room. There were no windows. I put out my hand and touched the wall. I backed up against the wall and walked across, measuring the distance with my footsteps. Before I knew it I came smack up against the opposite wall. It was a narrow passage. Indian kept close to me and rubbed his sides up against my legs as I started forward along the dark passage. It seemed endless; but at last I came upon another door at the other end. I fumbled for the knob, tried it, but knew almost instantly that I would find it locked. Which I did. There was now no doubt in my mind any longer; I was a prisoner.

I began to think, then. I thanked my stars for having got this habit of thinking. I sat down with my back up against a wall and Indian's cold nose touched my hand to let me know he was still with me. It was better than being alone there in the dark, I tell you. And I sat still and tried to figure this thing out. Most fellows would have started howling to get out. I guess, but I knew that wouldn't do any good. No one would hear me except those who wanted me right where I was. But what got me was why they wanted me. That's what I couldn't figure out. Shoving me and my dog into this narrow stretch of darkness and leaving me there to wait. What for? And anyway, even if I had shouted and kicked against the doors, I would have laughed at myself later. Because I knew my club mates back there in the clubhouse on the river. "You can depend on us, sir," Perry had said before I left. And by Jinks! I did depend upon them. There was only one thing that caused me to worry for a moment—supposing they did not reach me in time? Suppose old Dr. Drago—

But that was just thinking of things to worry about, I told myself. Yet, it had me going, I tell you, and I tried to keep it out of my mind, while I sat in the darkness, listening to strange sounds that seemed to come from a great distance, and wondering what was going to happen. Indian went to sleep beside me, curled up under my arm. He had bad dreams, though, for I could feel him jerk every once in a while. And the longer I sat in that darkness, the more that old thought continued to come back again and again—"suppose they don't reach me in time!" True, Doc Waters and Jeckerson would find out from the boys that I had gone to this place in answer to the letter from Dr. Drago, offering me the dog for a present. They would come down to the clubhouse when the boys gathered for singing practice—but that would be some time yet, and if Dr. Drago came back here where he had me prisoner, before I could get help—

It must have been an hour that I sat in the darkness silent and thinking such things. And at last I could stand it no longer. I shoved Indian off my knees and jumped up, every nerve in my body tingling like an electric wire. This darkness and silence were unbearable; I had to think—think, think! Figure a way out of this. I walked up and down the passage. I raised my arms, to stretch my tired muscles—and my fingers touched something cold upon the wall. I reached up again, found it, wrapped my fingers about it, and I knew it was a bar of iron, like a towel rack, about a foot above my head. I wondered what it was doing there. Perhaps I was in a washroom, I said to myself. I gripped the thing in both hands and raised myself to my chin. I wondered if something was above it, and as I let go in coming down, I swept my hands upward—by Jinks! There was another one just like it a little higher up! Oh, boy! Something to take my mind off my worries, anyway. I grasped the lower bar again and reached for the second and wung up higher—yes, there was another—now I knew what it was! It was a set of climbing bars set into the wall. In my excitement I let go my hold and dropped down to the floor again. I patted Indian's head and said: "You stay here, old fellow, and don't you make any noise."

I took a good long breath and my heart was fluttering pretty fast as I started once more to grasp the lowest bar. It wasn't so easy, either, lifting myself hand over hand up those iron bars, and in the dark, not knowing where they led, or what I might bump into at the last bar. But I gritted my teeth and put forth my best effort and up I went, counting the bars as I went up. At the third one I raised my foot up enough to get a toe hold on the lowest one, and then it was easy—just like climbing a ladder. I took my time, and felt my way and counted ten such bars that my hands had grasped when I felt my head touch the ceiling. Something seemed to give above my head and I reached up one hand and gently shoved—and a round portion of the ceiling, like a barrel-top, raised to my touch and a soft light shone for an instant through the little opening. I shoved upon the barrel-top thing and felt it give and slide slowly away a short distance from the opening. The rest was easy. The dog on the floor below me gave one sharp bark when he saw the light come through, but I looked down and whispered huskily at him to be quiet.

Then I shoved myself through the opening, crawled out upon what I thought was to be a roof, but it was only the floor of another room, in which the hanging lamp gave a soft, mellow light. One side of the room bulged inward in a semi-circle, and that caused me to wonder. I crawled upon it and stood up. A little window, about six inches square, was in the wall before me. I peeped through—and by Jinks! I was looking into the room of the telescopes. There they were, the great big, long, round things, pointing their noses up to the round roof of glass, through which I could see the star-spangled sky of early evening. On the farther side I could see a figure, seated on a high stool, looking through one of the big telescopes. I could not tell whether or not it was Dr. Drago, because it was on the other side, and there were many telescopes between that part and where I stood. But I imagined it was the doctor, and right away I got an idea that I was going to tell him what I thought of him for locking me in that dark place the way he did, and I looked around for a door. I found it, over on the right, I jerked it open, and rushed into the room, ready to give Dr. Drago a piece of my mind—

But whatever I intended to say to him went out of my mind in a flash. And in its place came visions of the five hundred dollars reward that Jeckerson was going to give me—

"David!" I whispered, hoarsely. "David! Is it really you, boy?"

For it was one of the lost brothers—the one who could see things miles away but couldn't see anything near him. He turned a pale, thin face my way, and his eyes were brilliant as he smiled, happily.

"Dear old Hawkins!" he said, in a low voice. "I know your voice—but I can't see you."

I ran to him, then, ran through that maze of telescopes until I stood beside him and grasped his thin little hand. "David!" I said. "Boy, we've been looking all over for you—where's Norman?"

"I don't know," he said, sadly; "I think they took him away. They won't tell me anything. But don't you stay here, Hawkins. Go away, quick! Hurry—hurry now—don't you hear them coming for me? They must not find you here—"

I knew they mustn't. Whatever chance I had of getting David out of this place would be gone if they got their hands on me. I heard someone coming the way I had just come in—I looked around wildly for another way of escape—there was only one—the big, metal-covered door—I ran over to it and dragged on the big iron latch, and it swung open. I dived into it, and stood for a moment gazing downward at the hundred steps or more that led into the great cavern beneath this house. A dull red glow came up from below. I waited until I heard the big, metal-covered door swing shut behind me, and then I ran down those rough, rocky steps, not stopping until I came to that niche in the wall where Jeckerson and we boys had hidden ourselves the day we first discovered this place. I was just about to dodge into it and hide myself away, when a shout from below caused me to pause and look down. Three figures moved in the uneven light that came from lamps attached to brackets on the rocky cavern walls. One was Dr. Drago, who came bounding towards the steps on which I stood. Another was a sad faced man who sat beside the great cylinder that lifted itself up through the cavern and out of its roof into the room of the telescopes, and which I now knew was a great gun, or cannon. And the third figure was that of the giant—how tall and huge he seemed now as he came running behind Dr. Drago, passed him with surprising speed, and came up the steps toward me with his big hands outstretched. I couldn't have run if I had wanted to. My mind was dazed with sudden fear, as I saw that big, lumbering man coming up the giant staircase toward me four steps at a time—he reached me quickly, swung out one great hand, picked me up as though I were a feather, tucked me under his arm, and then slowly turned and walked back down the stairs with me, and set me down in front of Dr. Drago.

"Well, well, my little friend," said the doctor, with a cruel smile that jerked the corners of his mouth, "you are just in time to witness the greatest show you will ever see in your whole lifetime. Where is the dog?"

I couldn't answer him, for I was mad as a wet hen, and my breath had been squeezed out of me by that big giant, and there was no use to answer him, for at that minute there came a bark, and we looked toward the rocky staircase to see Indian coming down, followed by the servant man.

"The passage was empty, sir," said the servant, to Dr. Drago, "except for the dog, and I fetched him along. I see you have not lost your bird, however, as I feared." He nodded at me. Dr. Drago smiled again.

"I don't often lose anything that once I get my hands on, do I, my friend?" He turned to the sad-eyed man who sat by the big gun.

"Please don't waste any more time," said the sad-faced man. "I am ready to do my part, if you are ready to stand by your promise. You have kept me here all these days, promising. Now, let us get done with it, so that I may get out into the sunshine once more, and go my ways."

Dr. Drago laughed softly.

"All right!" he snapped, stepping swiftly over to one side, so that the giant could pass between him and the big gun. "Now, listen, my friend," he continued, talking to the sad-eyed man; "you can do this if you wish. Your gun will shoot my machine far enough to give it the proper start—that's all I ask. My machine that I have invented will continue the journey on its own power. It's the power of your gun that I need to get it going. By rights I should punish you instead of giving you another chance. You could have beat them with that first message. But you thought you could fool me, eh? Now, don't lie to me. You did it on purpose. You didn't work this gun as far as it would go. And what happened? The answer lies in the field across the river—they sent us a planet message before they received ours—if we could only read it. But I think I've found a way to make you do your best—we will send them a live, human earth-being to prove that we are the first to navigate the unknown between one planet and another. You might even be tempted to make the gun fail if I sent my servant, or went myself. So I have taken care to see that the one I send will be one you will not want to fail. All right, Johan! Open the cell!"

The giant strode across the space from gun to wall in one great stride, stooped low and with both arms that strained at the muscles he pulled out a great stone. "Come out!" he bellowed into the opening. And after a minute or two there was a stirring inside and slowly out into the red glow of the cavern came a ragged, thin little figure—

"Oh!"

Both, the sad-faced man and I, cried out at the same instant. It was hard to recognize this starved, skinny little ragamuffin—but I could never forget him!

"Norman!" cried the sad-eyed man. "Norman! Oh, my boy—my own little boy!"

He ran to him. But Norman was too weak to move one foot before the other. He blinked in the ruddy light—as his father threw his arms about the little beggar and hugged him and cried.

The giant was busy over in a corner. I saw him lift a great steel cylinder that must have weighed a ton, and carry it like a toy. Dr. Drago ran over and leaped upon the gun, and drew up a hinged piece, that showed the place where the big gun was to be loaded. The giant paced the big steel cylinder in the gun. Dr. Drago unfastened some clamps and showed an opening in the steel cylinder.

"All right!" he snapped. "Bring the boy here, my friend—"

He motioned to the sad-eyed man. But the latter only hugged little Norman closer and shouted: "No, no, no! You are mad! This is my boy—do you hear?—my boy—"

"Of course," said Dr. Drago, with the same old cruel smile, "you'll be more careful with him!—"

"You are crazy!" shouted the sad-eyed man. "I would not send him—I'll die before I let you put him in that thing—and anyway—"

His voice softened. And then I thought I saw the sadness go out of his eyes. Cunning came in its place. 'Anyway," he continued, softly, "he is not heavy enough—it would be a failure!"

Dr. Drago looked at me. And then I began to shake so badly that I could not stay on my feet. The servant man, who had been standing very close to see that I would not try to run away, caught me as I slumped down on the ground.

"Very well," said Dr. Drago, "our little friend the Seckatary shall take his place. I fancy he is about the right weight—"

I screamed, then. By Golly! It was time to scream, believe me. But my scream was drowned out by another sound, a rumbling which came behind me, and I felt myself picked up in a hurry, and when I looked up the giant had me in his arms. As he turned with me, I caught a glimpse behind us and saw what was making the rumbling sound. The great stone that closed the doorway to the Cliff Cave was rolling back, and through the opened space were coming Jeckerson, Doc Waters, the Sheriff and a dozen of his deputies, and behind them the rest of the boys in my club. Such a shouting as they made! The giant swung around with me to face the raiders, and for a moment I could not see what was going on, but I heard a shot ring out, and then I felt myself going down—I had enough sense left to wriggle away out of the giant's arm, so that he didn't fall on me, but the big man was hit and on one knee as I leaped away from him and into the arms of good old Doc Waters.

"You shan't cheat me now!" yelled the mad Dr. Drago, waving his hands at Jeckerson, who stood talking rapidly to the Sheriff's deputies. "It is my whole life's work! I'll prove to the world that I was right. I will go myself—to the stars! Johan!"

At the sound of his name, the giant slowly raised himself to his feet, his hand upon his big head, from which a stream of blood was flowing. Dr. Drago ran to the big gun and leaped upon it, and let himself swiftly down into the cylinder, pulling the cover down upon him. We heard it lock with a ring as it snapped shut. The giant staggered to the gun and closed it. He reached for a lever—

"Here, you!" yelled Jeckerson, wildly, rushing over to the huge man. "Stop! Stop that—"

We all made a rush. But we were too late. Before we had time to reach him, the giant had set off the machinery. We heard only a terrific noise as the projectile thundered through the great gun, but next moment, through the open door at the top of the stairs, we saw the flare of the thing as it shot with unbelievable speed beyond the round roof of glass and continued on its way to the sky, growing each second rapidly smaller, until it resembled only a red star in the dark heavens. And then it disappeared altogether.

For a long time nobody spoke. All eyes continued to look upward, as if expecting to catch a glimpse of something unusual happening in the sky. But nothing happened. And at length Jeckerson turned around, to face poor little Norman and his daddy.

"Please!" cried little Norman, excitedly. "Get David—we must find David—"

Which we did.

Seckatary Hawkins

BOYS AND GIRLS

Just as soon as the Drawing Competition is finished there will be an interesting announcement on this page in regard to a Seckatary Hawkins Club and new competitions.

Hall's Bridge

HALLS' BRIDGE, July 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—There are comparatively few as yet in the village. The cottages owned by Nat. Pearson, and Bruce McKinty are well occupied, but the summer hotels are not well patronized as yet.

Charles Jones was in Apsley and the country north, on Wednesday and Thursday, making a tour of inspection of the various dams there.

Mrs. E. E. Willis is at Lakehurst with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Easson.

Murray Barr, who is employed at Lakefield, spent the weekend at home in the village.

Mr. R. W. Carson, of Peterborough made a trip to Hall's Bridge on Wednesday.

The following Orangemen went to Lakehurst on Sunday evening to take part in the service held at the United Church: Messrs. George Wilson, Wallace Shearer, Pete Nicholls.

Mrs. McIlmoyle, Senior, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Montgomery, at the Sixteenth Concession.

Miss Laura Fulton is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson, of Lakehurst.

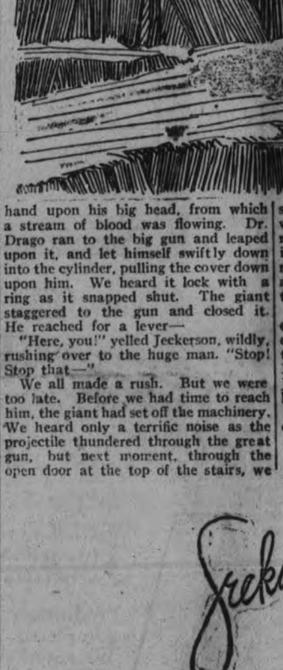
Friends of Jack Elliott will be gratified to learn that he is making a splendid recovery from the attack of pneumonia, which he has been afflicted for some time.

There are many new cars in and around Hall's Bridge. The following are the purchasers: Messrs. George Wilson, Bruce McKinty, and Roland Stockdale.

Jack Clarkson, manager of the grist mill at Campbellford, was in the village on Wednesday.

Max Wilson is now at the Selwyn Cheese Factory, assisting his Uncle, Mr. Andrew Wilson.

Much work has been done on the Hall's Bridge road, and it is in better condition at the present time than it has been heretofore.



Marmora

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, July 13.—Haymaking is seen at almost every farm these days. The crop is one of the best for this district.

Marmora Council No. 279, C.O.C.F., met at the home of Mrs. E. Rose on Tuesday evening for the regular meeting.

Bros. W. J. Cottrell and A. Hart, of Marmora L.T.B., 177, visited Sulphide L.T.B., 322, on Tuesday evening, the former paying his official visit as D.D.G.M. of North Hastings.

Mrs. M. S. Doupe spent Tuesday in Peterborough.

Mr. Merton Baker was called to his home in Stanwood on Tuesday owing to the sudden illness of his father, Mr. Jesse Baker.

Seventy-five per cent. of all the rubber produced in the world is consumed in the United States.

SMITH.

(Examiner Correspondence)

SMITH, July 13. — Among those who attended the strawberry festival held at the Fairview Church on Tuesday evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyle, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roseborough and Mr. William Elliott, all of Selwyn; Mr. and Mrs. James Northey, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Blewett, of Wesley; Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, Hall's Bridge; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charlton, of Douro; Misses Viola Roseborough, Mildred McConkey, Jean McIlmoyle, of Selwyn; Mary Nicholls, of Wesley; Hilda Boyce, of Lakefield; Mae Irwin, of Hall's Bridge; and Messrs. Stanley Pearson, Russell Davis and Wallace Blewett, of Wesley; Clarence Harrison, of Peterborough.

A severe electric storm passed over on Sunday last. Mr. R. H. Alford's residence, near Lakefield, was struck. The radio was completely destroyed, the plaster in several rooms badly damaged, the stove slightly damaged, and also some dishes broken. Several places in Chemong Park were also struck, but not burned down.

Mr. Rollie Armstrong, of Wesley, was in Lakefield on Monday.

Mr. Jack Stabler, of Hall's Bridge, was a visitor to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Messrs. Max Tucker, Art Barker, Harry Stabler and Clifton Wannamaker, of Lakefield, attended the picnic-dance held at Viamede pavilion on Tuesday evening.

Miss Dorcas Lloyd, of Warsaw, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Myla Bogue, in Smith.

Congratulations are being received by Miss Muriel Boyce, teacher of S. S. No. 7, and entrance pupils who tried their examinations at Lakefield. Miss Boyce recommended four and four passed. They were Miss Irene Davis and Ormand Davis, Hugh Preston and Earl Graham.

The farmers are busily engaged with the hay harvesting at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Kidd and son, Harold, of Smith, were visitors in Lakefield on Wednesday.

Mr. Jack Heard, of Oshawa, was a visitor with friends in Smith on Sunday last.

Miss Ada Sanderson attended the strawberry festival held at Fairview on Tuesday evening.

A large crowd attended the Orange walk in Lakefield on Sunday evening. About fifty members walked and twenty juveniles.

Misses Hilda Boyce and Viola Roseborough attended the strawberry festival held at Fairview on Tuesday evening.

Douro

(Examiner Correspondence)

DOURO, July 13.—The people of the community regret to learn of the loss of Peter Maloney, when his house was completely destroyed by fire recently. Mr. Maloney was away at the time and almost all of his household articles were burned.

The thunderstorm which passed over on Sunday afternoon was the worst of the season, although no damage was done in this locality. The rain was very heavy, but was refreshing to the gardens and crops after the intense heat.

Personals.

Michael McKeiver has built a new driving shed with a steel roof. Many of the farmers have the lightning rods placed on their buildings.

Miss Mary E. Tobin, teacher of S. S. No. 4, is attending the summer school at Guelph.

Mrs. Charles Perdue, of Emismore, visited her mother, Mrs. Ellan Buckley, recently.

Among those who were at McCracken's Landing on Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McMurray, Miss Cathrine Leahy, Messrs. Michael Scott, Michael Casey, John Moher, Michael Sheehan and John Fuller.

WAS VERY DELICATE

New Health Came Through Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Caspar Miller, Lourdes, N.S., says that twice in her liftime she has reason to be thankful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her. She says: "I was a very delicate girl going into womanhood, when I first found benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was a sufferer with cramps and pains every month and was hardly able to move around at all. One day when I was very sick a friend came in to see me, and she said to my mother, 'Why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I know they will do her a world of good.' The result was my mother got six boxes and I began their use, and I soon found benefit from them. By the time I had taken them all I felt an altogether different girl and no longer suffered from cramps and pains.

"Then a few years ago I was attacked with influenza, and was sick for six weeks. Again I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and again they brought me good health. I am the mother of a family and do all my own work so you see I have to keep in good health, and depend upon these pills to keep me so. Now I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any of my friends who may be sickly."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood, or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now, and note how your strength and health will improve. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AGED INDIAN

apparently the car had come in contact with a cedar tree. He thought it reasonable to presume that the force of the blow might have an unsteadying effect upon the driver.

Saw Him at Noon

Oswald Crowe, of Hiawatha, recalled June 29th, and seeing Akey about a mile from the lake at Hiawatha at noon. "Akey was standing alongside his car and an Indian woman was sitting in it, sleeping," said witness. "He asked me to bring him to Peterborough, which I did; the woman coming also. He acted drunk, and she didn't say very much.

Provincial Constable Harry E. Thompson said he had visited the scene of the accident, where he saw the car headed toward Peterborough on the left side of the road, in the ditch. The grass and rock were scraped by the car running back and forth trying to get out; and a tree, about fifteen inches in diameter, had some bark knocked off it. In the car was found a pair of gloves, a cap of a beer bottle, a woman's hat, and a broken bottle, with label worded similar to that on the bottle cap was found outside the car.

Smell of Beer

There was a very plain smell of beer in the bottle when it was picked up by the constable. Officer Stewart was also present at the scene of the accident. Witness had examined the car and found indications that the car had come in contact with the tree. The marks on tree and rock were freshly made.

Cross examined, witness said that knuckle balts on the left side at the front were damaged.

The Defence

Bert Manning, a Peterborough garage-man for thirteen years, told of the repairs to Akey's car after it had been brought in from Out West Hiawatha, on the Keene road.

The centre, or tie, bolt in the spring on the left side was sheared off, so that it was impossible to turn the car to the right. It looked as if it had been worn through rather than freshly broken. It would be impossible to drive straight on the road with the bolt broken that way. Such a break is liable to happen on anyone.

Cross-examined, witness said that with this broken bolt the car could be turned to the left but not to the right side. On a straight road, at an average speed, an experienced driver might get stopped within forty feet or so.

The bolt may have been broken for days and yet, the spring clips may have held it so long as the spring did not slip back. There was a slight injury to one fender.

Re-examined by Mr. O'Brien, witness said that he had not known that he would be called to give evidence until a few minutes ago.

This concluded the defense and Mr. O'Brien addressed the bench, pointing out that there was no justification of the charge as the car's going into the ditch was due to a broken bolt, causing the car to get out of control as it might in the hands of the most experienced and sober driver. He contended that there was not proof of Akey being in charge of the car or of his having been intoxicated.

Mr. Hatton felt that there was little doubt that Akey was in charge of the car—the main point to be settled was whether or not Akey was intoxicated at the time.

The magistrate said that to his mind the main points to be settled where, whether or not Akey was driving the car, and whether or not the word "car" used by the witnesses could be taken to mean a motor vehicle.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Sunday, July 15, 1928.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects rule to-day, according to astrology, which interprets the planetary rule as most favorable to inhabitants of the earth.

Under this sway the mind should be open to spiritual and intellectual ideas and there should be interest in religious subjects.

The rule is an auspicious one for the churches, making for their growth and prosperity.

Increase in the number of theological students in colleges is forecast and the seers predict strong reaction from modern materialism.

Women are well directed by the stars to-day. Love will protect them from worry in the home.

Romance is likely to be prevalent while this configuration prevails and there will be many engagements to marry announced at this time, astrologers foretell.

Interest in literature will be strong and new books of lasting value are foretold.

Study of life-problems will be pursued with renewed enthusiasm in the next year when the head of the nation is to encourage practical methods of solving human problems.

Saturn continues to encourage combinations in commercial companies and immense corporations will dominate the globe as time passes, the seers prophesy.

They who read the stars find assurance that great progress is to be recorded in the pages of history for the next decade when apparent miracles are to be performed.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of changes in the coming year which should be prosperous in a small way.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly successful in mercantile pursuits. Girls as well as boys should have sound business sense.

Monday, July 16, 1928.

Astrology reads that this day is dominated by a benefic aspect, which should be fortunate after noontime.

The early morning hours may be destructive to wise decisions and may cause uncertainty of purpose.

At this season, depression and lassitude may be prevalent, for the planetary government seems to presage lack of energy.

This is read as rather an unlucky sway for navigation and those who travel air routes should be cautious in choosing their conveyances.

Under this direction of the stars there is likely to be a strong tendency to gossip and to deal in personalities.

If the stars are rightly read there is indirect or delayed success for a presidential candidate.

The autumn elections will bring surprises in all grades of offices from President of the United States to the least important places.

Uranus continues all through the month to exercise an adverse influence that may greatly disturb certain foreign governments.

Saturn is held responsible for the tendency toward immense combinations of business enterprises.

South America will command attention as the autumn begins and will enter closer trade relationships, it is prophesied.

The Middle West is to focus much public interest through the next six weeks, the seers foretell.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid changes and travel in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be straightforward and dependable. Subjects of this sign are great lovers of peace.

More than half the people in the world live in Asia, on less than one-fourth of the earth's surface.

Do as Mr. Gard

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

The demand for imported beans showed no improvement, and the market was quiet, but as supplies available on spot were not large the undertone was steady and prices were unchanged with car lots of choice white hand-picked quoted at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

There was no improvement in the demand for butter and this combined with the fact that holders in some cases showed a disposition to liquidate created a further weaker feeling in the market and prices scored another decline of ¼c per pound. The receipts were 5,237 packages.

The trade in cheese over the cable was quiet ,but there was some demand from spot buyers and a moderate amount of business was done in this respect. The undertone to the market was easier and prices were again ¼c per pound lower. The receipts were 10,338 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 14 (Canadian Press). — Big arrivals of newly harvested wheat in the south-west acted as more than a counterbalance yesterday for large European buying of wheat from North America. The export business, about 1,500,000 bushels, was made up chiefly of wheat grown in Canada.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ⅝c to 1¼c net lower; corn unchanged to ½c off; oats varying from ½c decline to ¼c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25 cents.

With four leading Kansas points showing receipts of 1,711 cars of new winter wheat yesterday compared with 897 cars a year ago and with favorable spring crop reports both from the American and Canadian north-west, wheat values went downgrade most of the time yesterday. One exception was at the start when transient gains were associated with word that Russia was negotiating for additional wheat purchases abroad. This factor was soon more than offset by advices that weather in the spring wheat belt has not been hot and muggy enough to make black rust a peril for the present, if at all.

Lowest prices of the day were current toward the last in wheat. Buying for domestic mills was in evidence at times, but price bulges quickly brought about profit-taking sales, and consequent declines. General speculative demand was disappointing. North-western interests were credited with having sold wheat freely, although Minneapolis stocks showed a big shrinkage for the week, decreasing 1,070,000 bushels.

Corn although fairly strong at times, closed at a material reaction from the day's top level. The setback was largely owing to wheat weakness. Scantiness of stocks of corn, however, tended to keep the corn market relatively firm. Oats followed corn. The country was selling very few new oats for forward shipment.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

Trent River

Trent River, July 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. Brewster's new cottage will soon be ready for occupancy. James Paget has the contract and is assisted by Ross Pollock. This cottage, which has large openings, screened with bright wire screening, has received the first coat of paint and presents a nifty appearance along the shores of the back channel.

James Mann and son have completed the cottage for Leo Breen; this cottage present a very neat appearance, closed-in verandahs with bit shutters a ventilator is placed in the centre of the roof, ready roofing of leather-brown shade has been used; this cottage is ready for painting and will soon be ready for habitation.

Roseneath

(Examiner Correspondence).

ROSENEATH, July 14.—Farmers in this district are busy harvesting their hay, which is a good crop this year. Potatoes, turnips and mangolds are apparently showing prospects of a prosperous crop, the recent rain having made a noticeable growth.

Many from here motored to Peterborough on Thursday to attend the Orange walk, while many others took in the Fenella S.S. picnic to Peterborough.

TREMENDOUS RESOURCES CREATED THIS AMAZING VALUE

The Production of Over Two Million Willys-Overland Cars has made this low price possible

JULY marks the production of the two-millionth automobile by Willys-Overland.

Production during the half-year just completed greatly exceeded the entire output of 1927. This unit volume makes Willys-Overland the Industry's third largest producer.

So, now—due to savings effected by huge purchasing power—and tremendous sales volume, the beautiful new Standard Six brings to you all the important advantages of the patented sleeve-valve engine—silent power that improves with use, velvet smoothness, simple, trouble-free design, quick starting, remarkable economy—at the lowest price in history.

The new Standard Six is notable for the same qualities which are praised so enthusiastically by over 325,000 Willys-Knight owners. Its unequalled value will speak for itself when you read this list of a few Standard Six advantages.

- Patented, high compression, sleeve-valve engine; 45 horsepower.
- 7-Bearing Crankshaft.
- Mechanical-type 4-wheel brakes.
- 8 Timken Bearings in front axle for easiest steering.
- Roomy, comfortable interiors.
- Wide, deeply cushioned seats.
- Light control for dimming on toe-board at left.
- Adjustable steering wheel.
- Remote controls on doors, right at your hand.
- Narrow front body posts for clear vision.
- Thermostat—air cleaner—oil rectifier.

Willys-Knight Standard Six prices from $1395 to $1525; Special Six from $1575 to $1845; Great Six from $2365 to $3695. Prices f.o.b. Factory, taxes extra.

Rally Peters Out Quickly Yield To Selling Pressure

NEW YORK, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Rallying tendencies in to-day's brief session of the stock market, petered out soon after the opening and the market turned irregular. General Electric, Radio, General Motors, Curtiss and International Telephone all yielded to the selling pressure, but the losses were relatively small.

Pools were at work on a small scale in the selected assortment of Oil, Chain Store, Packing, Copper and Public Utilities. There was little in the day's news to influence price movement.

Indian Refining preferred soared 11 points in early trading, Midland Steel productsp referred 5½ and Atlantic Refining, Kroger stores, American Radiator, Shubert Theatres and Cudahy sold 2 to 3 points higher. Closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 500,000 shares.

Standard Bank Higher Following Merger Report

TORONTO, July 14.— (Canadian Press).—Toronto Stock Exchange experienced a very light session today. The list was narrow and sales were few. Prices were firm on the whole with slight gains well over-balancing losses.

Following the merger of the Standard Bank with the Bank of Commerce, announced last night, Standard took another jump, advancing 5¼ to 268. Commerce was lower by 1½ at 297½.

International Nickel, the most active issue on the list was unchanged at 92, while Brazillian Rallied with a gain of 2 to 56¾. Massey-Harris was fractionally lower at 40¼.

British American Oil, on the curb was up ½ at 38½, and Imperial had a similar gain to 67. Price Brothers advanced 2¼ to 80¼.

Pend Oreille Is Strong Prices Remain Steady

TORONTO, Ont., July 14 (Canadian Press).—With prices holding firm and in some cases reaching higher levels, trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was light at the week closing session to-day. Pend Oreille was a strong spot, advancing 90 to 14.75 on light trading. The Western issues on the whole were the feature of the market, with Big Missouri, under heavy turnover selling up to 70 for a gain of 15, Hudson Bay advancing 30 to 18.60, and Sherritt Gordon scoring a gain of 10 to 7.15. Central Manitoba failed to make any progress and was down one at 1.06. Noranda continued to show strength and registered a gain of 25 to 52.75. Howey, with a good turnover, dropped a point to 87. Amulet was up five at 4.70, and Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves each gained 10 to 10.65 and 3.55 respectively.

Winter Wheat Is Moving Crop Reports Favorable

CHICAGO, July 14 (Canadian Press).—Favorable weather, both in the south-west and north-west led early to lower prices to-day for wheat. The increased movement of new wheat in the winter crop region was indicated with Kansas City especially looking for big receipts on Monday. Opening ¼c to ¾c off, wheat later underwent some additional sag. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, with corn starting unchanged to ¾c lower, and subsequently showing a decided general set-back.

Opening prices: Wheat, July 129 3-8, September 132 3-8; corn, July 107 5-8, September 98½; oats, July 48 7-8, September 41 7-8.

Colgate To Unite With Palmolive-Peet

New York, July 14.—Negotiations for a merger of Colgate & Co. and the Palmolive-Peet Company, makers of soaps and toilet goods, have been closed and the stockholders of the two companies will meet on July 20 to approve the merger. The new company will be known as the Colgate Palmolive-Peet Company. Sidney M. Colgate will be Chairman of the Board of Directors.

While the terms of the merger have not been made public, Mr. Colgate said that no new financing will be involved, and that application for listing the securities of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company on the New York Stock Exchange would be made as soon as the necessary transfer details can be completed. Large economies in manufacturing and distribution costs are expected to result from the consolidation, the combined sales of the companies totaling approximately $100,000,000 annually.

The new company will have, as a result of the merger, large manufacturing units at Jersey City, Milwaukee, Chicago, Kansas City, Berkley, Calif., Jeffersonville, Ind., and Portland, Ore. Manufacturing operations are also carried on in Canada, Australia, England, France, Germany, Italy, Denmark, Sweden, Cuba, Mexico Argentina and Brazil. Executive offices will be maintained at Chicago. At the present time there is in the course of construction a thirty seven-story office building in Chicago which will house the offices as soon as completed.

MARKET OPINION ON VARIOUS ISSUES

MONTREAL, July 14.—Regarding the break on the New York market, helping to scare a number of traders out of the market yesterday forenoon, obliging them to take losses at a time when shrewd traders were buying. Our advice to the small trader is Don't buy on margin. Buy your stock outright and put it away. The local market has performed satisfactorily and believe we are on the threshold of another big upward swing.

I have heard more favorable comment on the action of Lyall which under pressure, reacted to 68, but snapped back to 70. The buying of this stock, as reported to me, came from people who ought to know something about its probable future.

Amulet was one of the mining issues that wanted to act up yesterday, and even it softened back towards noon, after rushing at the opening.

We hear all kinds of gossip about Amulet, and talk about officials going to open up and give something on ore reserves, of diamond drilling having already hit something, and then of Noranda being interested are all "bull" cards. The rumor about Noranda looking for control of Amulet can be taken with a grain of salt.

International Nickel.—According to private advices received from New York this morning there was quite a demand for the shares of the International Nickel Company in the "short loan" crowd yesterday, which means that certain traders are again operating on the short side of the stock. "IK" was second most active stock on the New York board with a turnover of 100,000 shares, to say nothing about shares that were traded in here and in Toronto. Certain local houses who did a goodly portion of the buying on the decline report the same to be of an exceptionally good character. The market action of nickel continues to be impressive.

Hudson Bay.—One of the most promising and high-class mining propositions which have been organized in the past few years, now centres around the Hudson Bay section of Canada, and especially in the district popularly referred to as the Flin-Flon field. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, Limited, was incorporated late last year in Canada to acquire the outstanding stock of the Flin-Flon Mines, Ltd. The company owns mining leases on nearly 6,000 acres in The Pas mining district of Northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Most of those leases run for twenty-one years from 1915, and are renewable for an additional twenty-one years. The company also owns water rights in the same province. The stock is traded in on the Montreal and New York curb markets.

NEWSPAPER IS GREAT COLLEGE

Advertising Executives Told That Traders Have Only Scratched Surface.

LAUDS PRESS

DETROIT, July 14.—Merchants and manufacturers have only begun to "scratch the surface" in their efforts to harness the daily newspaper as an advertising force, G. Adolph Wiedemann, of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin said in addressing newspaper advertising executives of the World Advertising Congress.

"The daily newspaper is more powerful than school or college, because it serves as the university of the people," he said.

He pointed out that correspondents of the Associated Press, "on the job daily in all parts of the wo id," as well as other news gathering organizations, "make it possible for the newspaper reader to see almost eye to eye what they see and learn."

The dead are: Miss Rose Legace, Miss Marmotte Charette and the latter's brother Noel. Antoine Lagace, fourth occupant of the car, is in the hospital, suffering from shock. All resided in St. Germain, Que.

FAKE ACCIDENT RING EXPOSED

Lawyers and Doctors Are Named as Parties to Frauds.

METHODS DESCRIBED

New York, July 14.—An elaborate system of fake accident claims estimated to cost insurance companies $3,000,000 a year has been described at an investigation into ambulance chasing before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel.

Thirteen lawyers and five physicians were named as members of a ring that employed men and women to fake falls over manhole covers and other sidewalk obstructions.

Describes Ring Method.

Operation of the ring was described by Daniel Laulich, lawyers' runner, who now is serving a prison term for insurance frauds, and Irving Fuhr, a truck driver and painter when not engaged in accident "flopping."

Laulich, who named lawyers and physicians involved in the accident faking and estimated the amount of the insurance companies' losses, described in detail the method of operation.

A "flopper," he said, would find a defect in a sidewalk of an insured building, trip over it and then make a false claim of injury. The "flopper," he declared, rarely went to a hospital, but a second man would gather the namte of witnesses to the "accident."

All Work Together.

The claim would be placed in the hands of one of the attorneys in the ring, while a physician also affiliated with the ring would furnish a false medical certificate. Suit would then be filed against the insurance company.

Laulich said the ring had arranged with an insurance broker for information on buildings carrying insurance against personal injury and paid $5 each for such tips. He said he drew a salary of $40 a week from the lawyers and a split of the profits, which averaged $50 a week.

Fuhr testified he at first was employed by an "agency" to fake accidents for a salary of $50 to $75 a week, but later became a "free lance flopper," selling his claims to lawyers on a contingent basis of 50 per cent of the recovery.

Did Ten a Day.

He described the various "flops" in which he specialized and said he did about ten "flops" a day.

Several girls testified they had received small sums, usually $5, from various lawyers for posing as a cident victims before insurance company physicians.

CHAPLIN NO FAVORITE.

LONDON, July 14.—Thirty thousand patrons of London moving picture theatres recently voted on their favorite movie stars, and Charley Chaplin was pulled down from the throne of Comedy King. He ranked twelfth in the list of celluloid funnymen Ronald. Colman and Betty Balfour won first choice as serious actors.

Veteran In Crime Given Life Term

NEW YORK, July 14 (Canadian Press). — When Michael Friedman, 49, whose crime record dates back twenty years, was arraigned in General Sessions Court yesterday and asked if he wished to make a statement before being sentenced, he replied simply:

"Nothing at all. Let's have it."

The Judge gave him life.

Friedman was convicted of robbery while armed.

Examiner Will Forward Papers

Examiner subscribers leaving the city on vacation would greatly assist our circulation department if they would notify the office either to forward the Examiner to their temporary address or to discontinue sending it while they are away. If they prefer the latter alternative they will, of course, have their subscription extended to cover the period during which they did not receive a paper.

ACTRESS HITS SABELLI PLANE

"A Beautiful Woman Kissed My Wing," Says Owner of Roma.

SAVES SIGHTSEERS

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 14.—Miss Joan Clement, the actress, is likely to make as good a record in the air as she has on the stage. By her courage and presence of mind she probably saved the lives of some careless sightseers and she deliberately risked a bad crash to do it.

She had just made a perfect landing in one of the school ships which she had been flying with Lieutenant Max Balfour and was taxiing to the line when several persons intent upon getting as close as possible to the Bellanca monoplane Roma, ready for its trans-Atlantic flight, walked across the field directly in the path of her plane.

Miss Clement looked for an opening, saw there was none, and kicked her rudder over in time to dodge the sightseers, but crashed into the wing tip of the Roma and came to a stop.

Her propeller blade tore away the fabric and broke the spruce bracing of the wing tip besides scratching a strut.

Sabelli Rushes Out.

Lieutenant Cesare Sabelli, who has been working day and night for weeks to get ready for his flight to Rome, rushed out to see who damaged his plane. He saw a tall, beautiful girl in a white flying suit climb from the cockpit of the offending plane and then he saw Balfour.

"Sapa," ejaculated Balfour.

"Reckless dubs," declared Roger Williams, co-pilot of the Roma, who had followed Sabelli in the rush to the scene of the accident.

"I'm so sorry," said Miss Clement as she looked first at the damage and then at Sabelli.

"It is nothing," Sabelli answered as he gazed at Miss Clement, and he added, sotto voce, "It is nothing. My wing was kissed by a beautiful woman. That is all."

ing the ten republics of the southern continent as to their geographical aspects, Edward Tomlinson, noted lecturer and writer, addressed an encouragingly large audience at the opening evening entertainment of the Dominion Chautauqua, now located in Confederation Park.

Tomlinson, a native of South Georgia, of Scottish and English parentage, who attended the University of Edinburgh, was in the British Army during the Great War, and who, as a writer, has contributed to many noted magazines, proved a highly entertaining speaker with a thorough knowledge of his subject. In his address he dealt with the resources and possibilities of South America, its governments and described its beauties. He mentioned the ten countries of the continent—Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru Chile Bolivia, Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, and Brazil and during the course of his lecture revealed that Brazil is as large as Canada minus Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia; that Chile is 2,800 miles long, the distance from Montreal to Vancouver, and that Uruguay is three times the size of New Brunswick, though it is the smallest of all ten. He declared that in the one state of Amazonas, Brazil, there is enough lumber to supply the world for fifty years, and that there are two thousand species of hardwood in that supply; another state, Sao Paulo, produces three-quarters of the world's coffee; and Bolivia contains half the world's supply of tin.

Second in World.

Chile has two most important industries, the mining of copper (she is the second country in the world in this production) and the mining of 95 per cent of the world's supply of nitrate. Of Argentina, Mr. Tomlinson stated that she is the second wool producing country in the world, with forty million head of sheep, and that she exports more corn than any other country.

Beautiful Harbor.

A beautiful and vivid description of the harbor at Rio de Janeiro, which rivals the harbor of Naples for its beauty, was given in the course of a description of the beauties to be found throughout the continent, after which the speaker went on to give some interesting comparisons regarding the climates of North and South America. He surprised many of his audience with the declaration that the highest that the mercury has ever soared was one hundred degrees, and this in the Amazon Valley along the Equator, while in St. Thomas, Ontario, the maximum of heat was reached at 102 degrees. In Argentina, the climate compares with that of the United States save that in the extreme southern part where Antarctic conditions prevail, while at Quito, Ecuador, right on the Equator, it is necessary to wear an overcoat every night.

The latter part of Mr. Tomlinson's address seemed the more interesting for in it he described, for one thing, the snake farm in Sao Paulo. Since the only peril to life and efficiency is the presence of poisonous reptiles and insects, a study has been made, partly through the facilities provided by this farm, and the death-rate from snakes and insects has been reduced eighty per cent. in twenty-five years. In this work, a Pan-American Sanitation Bureau has played an important part, so that not only in the cities, but in out-of-the-way places as well, the health of the people has been guarded and improved.

The musical part of the evening was a repetition of the good performance of the afternoon, and if the first afternoon and evening may be taken as a criterion, ticket holders are certain of some splendid entertainment during the next four days.

OLD EMPLOYEE WANTS PENSION

Manager of Bacon Factory Asks $25 Per Week From Lipton's, Limited.

SALARY WAS $3,150

LONDON, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—The relations which existed between Sir Thomas Lipton and his old employees were considered in an action before Justice McCardie, when Michael Storrie claimed a declaration that the firm of Lipton, Limited, were under a binding obligation to pay him a pension of $25 weekly. Counsel said Mr. Storrie was 66 years of age, and had been employed by Lipton's for 41 years, starting as a bacon curer, when Sir Thomas Lipton was the owner of the business, and finishing as manager of the bacon factory at $3,150 a year. Sir Thomas had promised him a pension when he left, and in January, 1925, when he received a month's notice to leave the employment in consequence of changes then being made, a small pension was granted to him, but on the intervention of Sir Thomas, this was stabilized at $25 a week.

C. P. Tomlin, managing director of Lipton, Limited, since August, 1924, said that when Sir Thomas Lipton retired it was necessary to effect economies and reduce the staff, some of whom were receiving more than they were worth. The pensions were reviewed, and several claims had been settled.

His Lordship: "The directors thought Sir Thomas had gone too far in promising pensions?"

Counsel: "Yes, in this case. The defendants were legally advised that they were not bound to pay."

His Lordship said the question of pensions was a serious one, and in this case touched the name of Sir Thomas for wisdom and generosity. Apparently the company, after being reconstructed, found they were weighed down with a burden.

After the adjournment it was announced that the matter had been settled by the plaintiff accepting an offer of $10 a week for life and the parties paying their own costs.

Sheriff Killed In Gun Battle

EUREKA, Calif. July 14 (Canadian Press).—Charles Carpenter, 40, a deputy sheriff, and two unidentified robbers were shot and killed at Salter Creek, east of here, yesterday, when four sheriff's deputies and four unidentified men engaged in a running gun fight following the robbery of a store in Willow Creek. Two of the robbers escaped.

Dodge Brothers Standard Six is the fastest car, with the fastest pick-up in its price class.

HOWEVER

That is only HALF the story. The IMPORTANT point is that this exceptional speed is made practical by Dodge ruggedness of chassis and body construction.

OTHERS

Might succeed in building a car at this price with equal SPEED, but to do so successfully they would also have to build a car with equal STURDINESS . . .

AND

That is where Dodge Brothers, with years of experience in building a dependable low-cost product, are years ahead of the field.

FOOD MINERALS.

Mineral elements have been neglected by the older school of dietitians, but recent investigations have proven that though only used in small quantities, mineral elements are essential to life itself. Thinking that it might be interesting to my readers, I have decided to give a list of these elements and their uses, together with the foods which contain the largest amounts of each.

Some of these minerals, as they are found in the chemical shop, are exceedingly poisonous, but after they have been absorbed and made use of by plants, some changes take place in their structure and they become useful elements. While every natural, unrefined food contains all of these elements in some proportion, it is convenient for dietetic purposes to group these together which are richest in special elements. It would be well to clip out this and the following article for reference.

'Phosphorus' is a stimulator of growth and activity. This tendency must be curbed by the presence of sulphur and alkaline elements or there will be a tendency to tumors, irritability, and bony exudates. Some phosphorus is essential to the thinking processes. This does not mean that you can eat phosphorus and develop an enormous brain any more than eating meat will develop enormous muscles. Only the actual work of thinking can make the brain use phosphorus. The foods which are richest in phosphorus are kale, bran, liver, truffles, radishes, pumpkin, pike, cucumbers, cheese, swiss chard, lettuce and egg yolk.

'Sulphur' is an intestinal antiseptic, and it gives the skin and hair a luxuriant pliability. It acts as a brake or damper to the oxidation of phosphorus in the body and in this way preserves the nervous vitality. The absence of sulphur leads to irritability, nervousness, insanity, tumors, and some skin disorders. The foods which are richest in sulphur are watercress, kale, Brussel's sprouts, horse-radish, spinach, raspberries, string beans, cabbage, and turnips.

'Silicon' is used in the formation of the muscles, blood, nerves, skin, hair and nails. It forms sort of tissue framework, and a lack of it causes falling hair, brittle nails, softened teeth, and possibly diabetes. Since silicon is found mostly in the skins of fruits and bran of cereals, one may deprive one's self of this valuable element by discarding these parts. Silicon is found in asparagus, cucumbers, lettuce, bran, dandelion, parsnips, fruit skins, strawberries, and beets.

'Chlorine' increases the body's resistance to tissue parasites and is necessary for the digestion and assimilation of protein. A lack of it may result in uremic poisoning and indigestion. It is found in quantities in oysters, cheese, lettuce, egg whites, spinach, celery, parsnips, cabbage, radishes, and whey.

'Iodine' is used by the thyroid gland to form thyroxin which regulates body metabolism. The medicated iodine treatment is based upon the fact that crude iodine is a gland atrophier. The danger of its administration is that an atrophy of other body glands may result. Many cases of sterility can be traced to this. By taking iodine as it is found in food, this danger is averted. The foods richest in iodine are: grey shrimp, crab, lobster, herring, oysters, carrots, green lima pineapple, mushrooms and kelp.

Questions and Answers.

Question—Mrs. P. writes: "Please advise me what to do to help my mother who is seventy-seven years old. The doctors say it is just old age, but she is failing so fast. I feel something could be done to give her back her strength, at least so she could walk around the house unsupported. She has no fever, but very little appetite and oftentimes would not eat anything unless almost forced to do so."

Answer: Let your mother have her way about not eating much. Just prepare the proper kinds of food for her and she will eat enough if she is really hungry. If she follows your urging to eat when she is not hungry, you will only be forcing her to do something which will shorten her life.

Question—E. S. J. writes: "What kind of vegetables, meats, fruits, and pastries can one eat who has ulcer of the stomach and intestinal gas? Will the same diet correct constipation?"

Answer: If you really have an ulcer of the stomach, milk is the only food you should be using until all signs of the ulcer disappear. Then your diet should consist of well-balanced combinations such as I recommend in my weekly health menus. The same kind of foods properly used will correct constipation.

Question—Ernest asks: "Will you tell me the cause of a cracking when I move my head and neck, and how to cure it?"

Answer: The cracking noise is caused by ligaments slipping back into their proper places. This is because the ligaments are either too short or too long. They become short because of the contraction of muscles, and too long because of straining, such as holding the head in a faulty position. Persistent exercise of the neck muscles will correct the trouble.

WAR OUTLAY CHARGED Y. M.

Italy Sues For $100,336 In Freight Bills On Merchandise.

SUMMONS IN 1924.

NEW YORK, July 14.—A dispute between the Italian Government and the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association over the repayment by the Y. M. C. A. for moneys advanced by Italy in connection with Y. M. C. A. war work has resulted in a suit in behalf of the Government to collect $100,336. This was made known when the Italian Government filed an application for permission to serve a complaint in the case in which a summons was issued in 1924.

An affidavit by Romolo Angelone, for many years Commercial Attache for the Italian Government in New York, in explaining why the differences between his Government and the Y. M. C. A. developed into a lawsuit and why no complaint had been served four years ago, said that the money sued for in the present action was advanced to the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. in payment of freight on merchandise shipped by the organization during the war.

Mr. Angelone said that in 1920 and 1921 he was assistant to F. Quatrone, Italian High Commissioner to the United States, and that two claims were entrusted to him against the Y. M. C. A., one for moneys advanced by Italy to the United States Shipping Board on account of the personnel of the organization sent to Europe during the war, and the other for moneys advanced on freight shipments.

"After prolonged negotiations, extending over a period of several years, the claim for moneys advanced for personnel was adjusted and paid," said Mr. Angelone.

Because of the inability to bring about a settlement of the other claim, a summons was served on the defendant on Jan. 26, 1924, and the defendant appeared through its attorneys. The plaintiff got an extension of time to June 9 of that year to file a complaint, but since that time the case has been held in abeyance, "the plaintiff believing it would be settled amicably," Mr. Angelone explained.

The bill rendered by the Italian Government to the Y. M. C. A. for freight payments, which is attached to the papers, shows that they covered seven ships sailing in 1918 and 1919 from New York, Wilmington and Baltimore for European ports.

A man has 520 muscles. The muscle record is held by the elephant; in its trunk alone it has 40,000.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XV

NEWS FROM THE PAPERS

Nicholas laid his hands on Jennifer's shoulders.

"I will only go if it is your wish. You are a thousand times dearer to me than she is."

Jennifer dared not raise her eyes. There was a torturous battle going on in her heart.

She did not want him to go. She was jealous of every moment now which he did not spend with her, and yet—if Edith were dying!

She remembered her own loneliness and distress yesterday before Gaunt came, and she told herself that if all his future was to belong to her, she ought not to grudge this other woman a few short hours.

She looked up at him, trying to smile. "It is my wish, dear," she said.

Gaunt caught the evening train back to London, wiring to his valet to meet him at Paddington with tickets and the necessary luggage.

He said goodbye to Jennifer in Mrs. Jilly's little parlor.

"Take care of yourself. I shall count every moment till we meet again."

"And you will write to me?"

"Every day."

"And Nicholas"—she was clinging to him now"promise me to come back soon."

He took her face in his hands. "You have only to say the word and I will not go, Jennifer."

"No, no! It's only that I'm silly and—perhaps a little jealous," she whispered.

He answered her with passionate words and kisses, only tearing himself away when the jingle boys at the gate called out impatiently that they would miss the train.

"Goodbye, my darling, my best beloved."

A little shivering moment of finality and he had gone, leaving Jennifer alone in the darkening room.

She listened to the quick trot of the pony's little feet up the hilly lane, then she gave a stifled cry and ran to the door.

"Come back!" She thought she spoke the words aloud, but no sound passed her lips, and with an effort she dragged herself back to the chair by the fire.

"I was a fool, a fool to let him go," she told herself passionately. "Supposing he never comes back!"

Mrs. Jilly tapped at the door with words of consolation and a cup of strong tea.

"It is bad luck, having to go off like this when he'd only just come," she said sympathetically. "Never mind, you must hurry up and get well and strong for him when he comes back. I daresay he won't be long away."

"He'll come back the moment he can," Jennifer said fiercely. "Someone is very ill—perhaps dying, or he would never have left me."

"No need to tell me that," Mrs. Jilly said warmly. "I know devotion when I see it. If I was you, I should go and have a lay down. Nothing like a lay down to put you on your feet," she added, rather mixing her metaphors.

But Jennifer was only too anxious to get well, and in less than a week she was quite herself again, and the rain-clouds had obligingly dispersed and allowed the sun to shine through and warm the chilled earth, and she took it to her heart as an omen of assured happiness to come. Gaunt had wired and written from London, and again from Paris, and Jennifer knew that now she must possess her soul in patience for a few days before further news could possibly reach her, and at the end of the week she bade goodbye to Mrs. Jilly and went back to London.

The time was passing at all events, and she hugged the thought to her heart that almost any day now she might hear that he was on his homeward journey. She had looked in vain in the newspapers for mention of Lady Edith's illness, but on the morning of her return to the office she found a small paragraph in a Social column.

"Lady Edith Gaunt, who has been seriously ill in Italy, is reported to be well on the way to convalescence, and hopes shortly to be able to make the journey home. Mr. Gaunt has arrived from London to be with her."

Jennifer's heart gave a quick throb and seemed almost to stop beating.

So she was going to get well! . . .

In shame she tried to dismiss the thought.

"I don't want her to die," she told herself, panic-stricken. But it was not the truth. She hated Gaunt's wife with her whole heart, hated the little intimate wording of that paragraph.

"Mr. Gaunt has arrived from London to be with her!"

It was Edith who had the right to him and always would have. With all her own passionate love she knew herself to be the stranger woman in his life for whom the world would say there was no place. At the office Mr. Gurney welcomed her with kindly, critical eyes.

"Your holiday does not seem to have done you much good, Miss Fry," he said in his downright fashion. "And you've got thin."

"I caught a chill. I've been in bed a week," Jennifer answered.

"You had bad weather, I'm afraid," Mr. Gurney said, but he sighed as he opened his letters. He had missed Jennifer very much, and had looked forward to her return, and it hurt him to see the strained look in her eyes and her nervousness. She almost seemed to him like a woman who was feverishly waiting for news of death or disaster. A dozen times during the day it was on the tip of his tongue to question her further, but he was a man who never interfered in people's lives without encouragement, and Jennifer gave him none.

Three days after her return to the office, Nicholas Gaunt wired that he was on his way home and would arrive on Saturday.

He said nothing about writing—he had not written since he reached Venice—but Jennifer did not care. The suspense was ended, and soon he would be with her again. She bought herself a new frock and had her hair waved. She spent ten shillings with the flower-girl at the corner of the road on roses and love-in-a-mist for her sitting-room, and she asked Mr. Gurney if she might take the Saturday morning off. It was the first time she had ever asked a favor of him, and she saw the look of surprise in his eyes.

"I know it's very soon after my holidays," she faltered. "But I will stay late next week to make up for it."

She thought Nicholas might arrive in the morning, and she dreaded missing even an hour with him. "Take the morning and welcome," Mr. Gurney said at once. "I hope you are going to enjoy yourself, Miss Fry?"

Jennifer blushed. "A friend is coming from Italy," she explained. She di dnot know that when she left the office that evening Mr. Gurney was at the window watching her cross the road.

"The friend is a man, of course," he told himself sadly, "and equally of course, she's unhappy about him. Probably someone she picked up when she was away. Probably a married man!"

It made him unhappy because Jennifer was unhappy. Lately it had surprised him to find how very fond of her he had become.

GARDEN PARTY.

Annual Festival Held at Hoard's United Church On Thursday.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Petherick's Corners, July 14.—This community was well represented at the annual garden party of the Hoards United Church on Thursday evening when the local softball team met Mt. Pleasant, and were defeated by the narrow margin of one run, the score being 13 to 12. Ranson, of Mt. Pleasant, starred with three extra base hits in as many times to the plate.

Favored with ideal weather, the garden party was most successful, being largely attended by visitors from other districts. After a splendid supper, a short program was given, consisting of readings by Miss Lloyd of Belleville, one of the most popular young elocutionists ever heard locally, and music by the Carmel orchestra. Mr. MacTavish very ably filled the office of chairman. Proceeds were well over $170.

League Meeting.

Petherick's Corners, July 14.—Under the leadership of Mrs. W. Scott, with Thomas Fry, devotional convener, in charge of the program, Friday evening's league service was as enjoyable as usual. Fifty-four were in attendance and the contest race shows the Whippets still in the lead, with the other groups practically tied for second place. The devotional period was led by Mrs. A. Petherick and Rev. Mr. MacTavish. A hymn by the Chevrolet group, reading by Mrs. L. Watson; duet, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnum; music by Freda Petherick and Gladys Simpson; and the discussion topic, "Young People and Worship," by Thomas Fry, were the program numbers.

Cavan

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Cavan, July 14.—Cavan Centre Sunday School will be withdrawn on Sunday morning, July 15th, in order to give some of its members the privilege of attending service at St. John's Church, Ida, where a representative of the Bible Society will speak at the service, which will be held at 11 a.m.

Representatives of the C.N.R. were around last week interviewing the farmers, through whose farms the line ran from Omemee to Millbrook, re the ties, rails, &c., of which were lifted last summer.

They were allowing the farmers to have the use of the pasture on this old track, on condition that the farmer pays one dollar a year and the taxes.

The majority of the farmers interviewed signed the contract.

There was a rumor last fall that the old track might be made into a motor road, but there does not seem to be any signs of such being done.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Cavan, July 14.—Messrs. Archie Matchett, Ralph Staples, Emery Smith, Eldred Snyder and Will Swain motored to Presque'ille on Friday and attended the junior farmers' field day.

Miss Bertha McNeil, Ottawa, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. McNeil.

Mr. C. Halliday, Gowenlock, Sask., was the week-end guest of his cousin, F. M. Staples.

Miss G. Hutchison and brothers motored to Presque'ille on Friday.

Mr. A. Matchett, from the United States, is visiting his nephew, Richard Matchett.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, Mr. Ford, Gordon McLean, and Herman McLean, Toronto, motored down and were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Sutton. With them they attended Decoration Day in Peterborough.

Mrs. R. Matchett returned on Sunday from a visit in Toronto.

Mrs. Rowen and grandson, Elias White, returned on Saturday from a visit in Toronto. Another grandson, Howard Bell, accompanied them home for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Toronto, visited her mother, Mrs. Johnson, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Staples and Olla Staples visited Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Staples on Sunday.

Colin Arnott, Toronto, visited his cousin, R. Matchett, on Sunday.

Clean-up the Source of WEEDS

1 In vacant lots and partially cultivated fields.

2 In fence corners where the ploughshare cannot penetrate.

3 Along the roadways of your district.

Each year weeds destroy Ontario's crops to the extent of millions of dollars. You must help rid your community of this menace by co-operating in every way. See that your own land is clear. Report weed growths on roadways, vacant properties or uncultivated fields to your representative on your local council or to your weed inspector.

Thus you will be doing your duty in exterminating one of the greatest enemies of successful farming—noxious weeds.

Identifying the "Finest of Low Priced Sixes"

THE Pontiac emblem, now a familiar sight on every highway, is the distinguishing mark of the world's finest low-priced six.

It identifies the smoothness of Pontiac's Six-cylinder engine, with its new improved G-M-R cylinder-head . . the enduring qualities of Pontiac's sturdy chassis . . the easy-riding comfort of Pontiac's Lovejoy Shock-Absorbers . . the countless refinements of engineering and construction that spell "quality" in a motor-car.

And, just beside the hood of the New Series Pontiac Six is another symbol of a fine automobile . . the "Body by Fisher" emblem, with all that it implies of luxury, craftsmanship and stylish beauty. Pontiac is the lowest-priced six which can claim the distinction of "Body by Fisher".

Whenever you see the familiar "Indian Head" emblem, and say "There goes the New Pontiac Six", you are identifying, beyond doubt, the world's finest of low-priced sixes. P-14-7-28B

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

... WAS walking along a certain street (oh, no! I won't tell what street) ... one morning this week when a lady came out on an upper balcony and ... shook a so-called dustless mop vigorously. The dust and lint came around me in a cloud, and settled on my hat, clothes, face and shoes. I assure you I saw it on my shoes. It's not right!

With waxed wood or linoleum floors all that is necessary for ordinary cleaning is to go over the floor with a dustless mop and the dust is picked up on the mop. Then it is shaken off somewhere—and it must settle somewhere. With the proper current of air that dust would have streamed into the lower rooms of the lady's house instead of settling on me.

* * *

Personally, I wish the wind had been kinder to me!

* * *

Aside from the inconvenience caused to passers-by and to neighbors, dry dusting is not the most efficient way to clean floors. From the point of view of perfect cleanliness—or cleanliness as nearly perfect as possible—the best way to clean any floor is by washing or by wiping with a moist cloth. If a damp cloth is used it must be frequently washed out in water and wrung from clear water, so that floor dust does not fly and is eventually carried off in the drain.

* * *

This week's Whatnot seems to run to home-furnishing topics, and I'm going to round out a perfect record by describing the wonderful attic of a Murray Street house. Garrets are not usually inspiring places, with their unfinished sloping roofs and nude scantling and frame walls. But this one has been made differently picturesque.

* * *

The wide-board floor is painted and varnished, and strewn here and there with Oreintal-looking rag and plaited rugs in brilliant hue. The ordinary frame walls, too, are painted, and the two-by-fours are picked out in brilliant red and blue. In two corners are screens, self made and decorated in typical Oriental designs of dragons, birds and flowers. An ordinary kitchen table with turned legs takes on a new personality when coated with vermillion paint-enamel. Two old steamer chairs and an ancient arm chair are similarly treated.

* * *

Adding decoration are tea chests, all paper-covered with reddish chrysanthemums and pretentious labels, with edges banded by jade green. They are used as stands for brilliant vases and as cupboards.

* * *

Across a third corner is slung a hammock, with a lovely view of trees and garden from one of the three windows. On the two straight walls are big hand-painted Oriental designs. A brilliantly-painted basket with plaited handle takes scraps of paper and makes their carriage to the garbage can easy. Little ledges, set between the upright scantling, are painted red for books and, as an occasional break in the wall-length, blue and green candlesticks. On one side a wider ledge holds gaily-colored inexpensive pottery.

* * *

Roof lights are shaded by Chinese lanterns, and a desk lamp is painted in the same vermillion that marks the general scheme, set off by occasional touches of yellow ocre. A dainty little sewing cabinet, all yellow with meandering dragons in red and blue, and a common or garden sewing machine and a typewriter answer the reason-why of the colorful place. It is a retreat for both senior members of the household.

A huge Budda, formerly used in a drug store to advetise a certain incense, greets one at the head of the stairs, where he sits on a tea-chest altar—and seems to welcome one to the peaceful seclusion of this unique comer over which he presides.

* * *

If ever I have an attic, I hope to redeem it from garret-bareness and make it half so interesting as this!

* * *

Mrs. H. B. writes an excellent description of a costume seen at a summer hotel. It was in mustard yellow material (kasha, she thinks). The coat was cut straight but ample from the shoulders and trimmed with rows of silk stitching. The blouse was of yellow jersey, with zig-zags of openwork gold thread, and the skirt mounted over the blouse. The collar was of kasha tied over a starched linen collar. I do not recall any costume like this appearing locally, so presume it was worn by a visitor, probably from acrossthe line.

* * *

Certainly there are many visitors here from the southern half of this northern continent! And is it any wonder? Here we have a half continent of varying beauty, brisk with tonic wind. Forest and virgin waste, unspoiled by passionate pilgrims; what a land is ours! And here, in Peterborough county, is a miniature of all that Canada offers. If we have not the towering peaks of the Rockies, we have granite uplands that are strongly reminiscent of mountain fastnesses; if we have not the rolling breakers of the maritimes, we have broad lakes, island studded, that are as tonic to the soul; if we lack the sentiment of the land of Evangeline we have traditions of Champlain and the haunting story of the Maiden of Lovesick Lake, given us in the poem by Emily Marguerite Marshall.

. . . All are gone, yes gone for ever,
Nothing in this world doth last.
But the waters still are rushing,
Now, they call it "Lovesick Lake,"
For the one who loved the Maiden,
And the Indian Maiden's sake.

The Art of Attraction

No. 2.

To gain the attention of the opposite sex is one of the main ambitions of the girl who wishes to attract men. And to do this, she doesn't emulate the role of the modest violet. She goes out and appears wherever there are members of the masculine gender to be found. She 'always' (and this is a very important point) tries to be as feminine as possible. She knows that a man may admire a boyish bob and a line of snappy slang, but he doesn't often fall in love with the possessor of these attributes of the more mannish type of woman. The eternal feminine is always a drawing card.

She remembers the advice of the old man in the homely ballad: "Don't thee marry for money, Johnny, but go where money is." She doesn't exactly try to be a man-hunter, but she always manages to be where men are found. And she manages also to catch their attention with her pretty attire and her trim, neat appearance.

When a man catches her eye, she drops her lashes at once in confusion. Try it, girls; it's a good trick.

CHIPPEWAS RESENT USING WORD SQUAW

Indians Show Trace of Gallantry Towards Women Folk at London.

LONDON, Ont., July 14 (CP).—There is no lack of gallantry toward their womenkind to be found among the Chippewa band of Indians on the Muncey Reserve, near London, for they have declared war on a London newspaper for having talked of "squaws and papooses" in reporting the probe into charge of maladministration on the part of Indian Agent McGookin.

William Tomingo enlightened as to the viewpoint of the Chippewa band whom he represents as a council man:

"White people don't seem to know," he said, "that to the Chippewa 'squaw' does not mean a lady or wife or woman in the inoffensive sense. It really means shape of a female, with vulgar suggestions."

Americans spend $500,000,000 a year for gems.

Social Amenities

Lakeshore: Is it necessary for a girl to wear a beach coat of some sort over her bathing suit if she must walk a short distance to the beach?

At some places you are asked to wear a wrap over your suit, probably not at any resort near Peterborough, but this should be done whether required by law or not. Modesty has a charm all its own.

Pat: Since there is no side entry where the groom and minister and best man can stay awaiting the wedding march, you might arrange to have the minister lead the procession, the groom and best man follow and wait at the altar for the rest of the party. The ushers could walk together, the two bridesmaids next. Generally, the maid of honor walks alone, preceding the bride, who walks with her father. Certainly, leave on your wedding dress for the wedding supper.

ROYALTY'S COLOR IN WINDOW BOXES

LONDON, July 14.—When window boxes filled with blue hydrangeas appeared at the front of the house of the Duke and Duchess of York in Piccadilly a new fad was set in England. For as every one knows blue of the sort seen in the hydrangea is the duchess' favorite color, and she had especially ordered these window boxes so that she might share her favorite color with those who passed by.

Other women speedily followed the example of the popular duchess. A baronet's lady who is partial to bright red ordered bright geraniums for her boxes hitherto filled with yew. Yellow daisies appear in the front windows of a knight's daughter who has a penchant for yellow. Visitors in London can no longer complain of the colorless gray tones of the city if this fad for bright flowered window boxes continues.

Fish eyes are considered a great delicacy in the West Indies and Eastern Asia.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

PEANUT WAFERS.
(Sent by Miss V.B.)

Beat two eggs, add five level tablespoons of flour, one teaspoon baking-powder, a pinch of salt, ½ pound brown sugar, and one cup chopped peanuts. Mix together and roll on a board into thin sheets. Cut in small circles and bake in a hot oven.

RAISIN AND NUT SANDWICHES.
(Sent by Mrs. C. S., Lindsay.)

Grind one cup seedless raisins and one cup chopped walnuts together; add a pinch of salt, moisten with cream, and spread between buttered slices of whole-wheat bread.

A Tip or Two

To be sure of a Yorkshire pudding being light beat the batter till bubbles form on the top. Make the dripping in the tin very hot, put the pudding into a sharp oven at first, then reduce the heat as it cooks.

Brush screens with kerosene to remove dust and keep away the flies. If very rusty apply screen enamel after screens are absolutely clean and thoroughly dry. A coat of white paint on the inside will prevent passers-by from seeing inside, but will not obstruct your outside view. All screen paint should be very thin.

TRAVEL-LOG.

A STORY BOOK CASTLE.

All the castles of France are books of romance, and when I rode over to Chaumont from Blois, I found in that old pile one of the most fascinating. It is full of old tales. For four hundred years, this hunting lodge de luxe has seen kings and lovely mistresses loll about its chambers and boudoirs, and it takes precious little imagination to fill the rooms again with the rustling of their gowns and the clanking of their swords. Chambord took twelve years to build, and its vast wings and galleries required the labor of two thousand men during that period. In the north room, Moliere, at the command of Louis XIV acted and made a failure of his first comedy, but later he played before the court here and had even the king in rapture over his art. It seemed strange to me, as I climbed about the place, that no one then supposed that we would have to look up a history book to see who was Louis XIV, but that the obscure actor,—for he was then obscure and an actor by fame more than a dramatist,—would be known wherever books are read of civilization had extended. Louis is dust, Moliere is immortal, but Chambord yet stands witness to the days when they amused each other.

WOMEN ARE BEST AT EXPLORATION

"They Haven't Enough Dull Common Sense to Know When They're Beaten."

London, Ont., July 14 (CP).—Are women good travelers? Miss Rosita Forbes, the great woman traveler, who has been in many parts of the world where no other woman has ever set foot, is firmly of the opinion that women make the best and most daring explorers, she says so very plainly in her latest book.

"Women," she says, "ought to make good explorers, because they haven't enough dull common sense to know when they're beaten. Their imagination will always show them just one possible or impossible way out.

"I think women bear not only pain, but discomfort, better than men, and I agree with a certain traveler who, when asked if her husband accompanied her, replied: 'Oh, no! It's not the sort of country you can take a man to!'

"Habits are our jailers and possessions our prison walls," she writes. "A wanderer can have no household goods, and he must also be indifferent to such unportant things as food, sleep and washing.

"I've slept on anything or nothing—on a sloping shelf of rock above the red cave city of Petra in the Hedjaz; on a table in a Tongan shed; on a native mat in Fiji; on an opium couch in Siam; on desert sands in Africa and Arabia; in the ammunition wagon of a Chinese troop train; in an armored car in Palestine; on the decks of innumerable junks, sampans and dhows; on the earthen floor of as many huts, stables and caves.

"Once I couldn't wash my hands for 17 days. Often I haven't had a bath for months. I've lived on dead camel, locusts, sea-worms grilled till they tasted like spinach, octopus, floating in oil, its inside scooped out and filled with garlic, and once, in a Samoan isle, on what my host described as a 'leetle sick horse,' which tasted like suckling pig."

SUMMER COMPLAINTS KILL LITTLE ONES

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little one Baby's Own Tablets or in a few hours he may be beyond aid. These Tablets will prevent summer complaint if given occasionally to the well child, and will promptly relieve these troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee that they are absolutely safe. They are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness," will be sent free to any mother on request.

HOW TO KEEP COOL

(And No Title Could Tell More)

(By Jeanette.)

"As a rule, man's a fool. Always wanting what is not. When it's cool, he wants it hot. When it's hot, he wants it cool. As a rule, man's a fool."

But no matter whether this theoretical man, or woman either, wants it hot in the summertime and is quite satisfied to take what Nature sends in the way of sweltering days, still he or she likes to be as comfortable as possible. Several Peterborough ladies were interrogated as to their particular methods of achieving comfort in the dog days, and the result of much kindly response to such a request is contained in the following paragraphs.

One lady said very emphatically: "Don't be without a maid in the hot weather." That is very nice for those who can afford such comfortable appurtenances to any household, but for the great majority something must be done to lighten housework in days of sultry heat and consequent tired feelings, although one housewife who accomplishes a great deal in the way of keeping her home and herself and her surroundings in the pink of condition, while maintaining an aspect of attractive, leisured grace, just as emphatically says that to be moderately busy is the greatest antidote to that hot feeling. She evidently goes on the ancient formula of never "letting down." To keep up and to keep going seems to be a universal recipe for contentment.

One woman never dries a dish with a towel in hot weather. She simply washes the china and stacks it up in a wire rack and lets the warm, fresh air do the rest. She thinks this is more sanitary than the practice of going over the surface with a more or less spotless dish towel and it saves her quite a lot of work in the twenty-four hours. Of course, she dries her silverware and utensils very carefully.

To use green blinds, which darken a room more effectually than light ones, and to keep the doors and windows closed and the blinds drawn is the praetice of one housekeeper, who seals her home in this way from morning until the evening coolness arrives and then opens every aperture wide and allows the evening and night air to have full access. This method is also followed out in one of the big boarding-homes of the city, where a menu of absolutely cold meals, finished off by iced tea, is used throughout sweltering weather. Cold meats, salads, ice-cream, fruit desserts and chilled puddings are some of the items on the daily meal lists.

And, by the way, an idea for making ice-cream the day before and letting it freeze hard in the ice-box over night, is the method employed by a housewife who uses this frozen dainty as a midday dinner dessert. When made in the morning, it was often quite soft at noon, but the manner of making the night before brings it crisp and hard from the trays for the following noonday meal.

For residents at summer cottages, a few ideas gleaned from a lady who has lived for many years at Chemong during summer months, may be of value. Lacking a refrigerator, use was made of a barrel with the bottom knocked out, to allow drainage and for extra coolness from the ground. This was placed in a deep hole and half filled with sawdust. Twenty-five cents' worth of ice would keep it in a frigid condition for a week, while the same amount of ice is necessary each day for the ordinary refrigerator.

This same lady always sprinkled her floors and mats liberally several times a day during hot weather with a mixture of cold water and liquid ammonia.

Another little idea for use in summer houses is to whitewash the inner side of screen doors and windows. This gives them a white, rather than a dark and dingy, appearance, next the white curtains and has the added advantage of making wandering mosquitoes and bugs more apparent against the white surface.

The same lady who told us about the whitewash recommends the inclusion of a box of talcum powder in the box of picnic accessories. When children come, gritty and sandy, from the water, an application of the drying powder after a towelling makes it much easier to slip on stockings and other clothing.

The same mother gets around the idea of medicine in the summer months by taking her quart sealers of milk in the morning and emptying them into other receptacles. Before replacing, she adds a tablespoonful of magnesia to the children's milk. Just recently, she heard one of her small daughters assuring a neighboring child that "We never take medicine in the summer, in our house."

A mother with a year-old infant just about ready to cut one of its first teeth find a relief for the fretful baby and herself in using commonsense methods in clothing and food. She is giving it nothing but milk and Bovril, the latter used with bread crumbs, and she takes off everything but rompers. Just why infants of tender years are required to appear in public in starched, frilly garments that manifestly cover two or three underthings, with knitted bonnets and knitted socks and bootees, while the thermometer is climbing skyward, is always a mystery to a childless person. Although a lady of experience assures us that flannel is the thing for infants in hot weather, as it absorbs the perspiration so much better than linen, which becomes cold and clammy and gives the child a chill.

This small infant of a year takes a sunbath twice a day, before ten and after three o'clock. With three minutes allowed for each side, he is considered properly "done." The violet rays of the sun are said to take the place of cod-liver oil in building up bones and tissue.

Another mother who likes her children to have plenty of fresh air at night pins back the window curtains with an ordinary clothes pin, which does not tear the fabric. "You may enamel them if you like. Mine are plain," she says.

An old-fashioned person who wanted to wean her baby in August had difficulty with it until someone told her to use whey. She procured a dried rennet and twice daily an inch square was cut into bits and soaked for half an hour in a tablespoonful of warm water. This was strained into a quart of new milk and when the whey rose to the top, it was dipped off, leaving the white curd. The whey was sweetened and given to the baby which did not like it at first, but was trained to the change by constant repetition.

Lentil powder is another accessory to squeamish infants' diet, recommended by the same old-fashioned source, and crust coffee made from browned home-made bread, while a bath of soft water in which sea salt has been dissolved is also regarded as very excellent. A recommended substitute for toilet water is vinegar and the lady who recommends this says that a cold bath is "all wet," or words to that effect. A good hot sponge is her idea of a hot weather aid to comfort.

Frequent changes of clothing and especially of underwear are indicated in the dog days. Things that are washed often in the hot weather may run the risk of wearing out quickly, but if perspiration is allowed to collect on underthings or stockings, the results are more injurious than are frequent visits to the tub. Dimities and crepes that are lighter in weight and require less ironing than silken things are favorite with many women.

Hot weather recipes for food and drink are always acceptable, and several amiable ladies have contributed from their store of housekeeping knowledge.

An uncooked salad dressing is made from the following recipe: Take two eggs and separate the whites. To the yolk is added one level teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoon of mustard. These are mixed well and to them is added ¾ cup of cider vinegar and one large tin of condensed milk. Stir well and add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Beat together well.

The same housewife gives a recipe for a lemon sponge pie for the picnic basket: 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, yolks of 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoonful baking powder, 1 cup sweet milk, pinch of salt, the grated rind and juice of 1½ lemons. To these add the stiffly beaten whites of the 2 eggs and bake in an uncooked shell in a slow oven.

To make a refreshing hot weather beverage, take the rinds and juice of six lemons, with 3 cups of white sugar, 1 ounce of tartaric acid and one-half ounce of citric acid. Add to one and one-half pints of boiling water and stir until the syrup is dissolved.

Another interesting drink is made from the juice of three lemons and one orange, with a sprig of mint and a cup of granulated sugar. These are melted together and a pint of water, with a bottle of grape juice, is added. Put on ice and serve with aerated or ice water.

A method of doing up raspberries for winter use without the expenditure of much labor is as follows: Pick berries over well and carefully sterilize sealers. Fill sealers with the berries and pour over them a syrup made of white sugar and hot water. Set the sealers in a tub of boiling water, cover with oilcloth and several layers of newspaper, to keep the steam in, and let stand over night. In the morning, tighten the rims and put away. The berries do not break with this method, they have a nicer flavor and less work is involved.

"an you make a cherry pie, Billy Boy, Billy Boy?" asked the old song. Well, here is a recipe for a cherry pudding that sounds mighty nice: Into a baking dish put 2 full cups of cooked cherries without juice. Pour over this a batter made of one egg, ¾ cup sugar, 1 cup milk, a scant cup of flour and a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder. Bake and serve with a sauce made of the fruit juice and cornstarch.

For a sour cherry conserve, time enough in this season of the sour cherry, one takes two quarts of pitted fruit, 2 quarts of sugar, the rind and pulp of 3 oranges and 1 pound of raisins. These are cooked until thick and then poured into glasses.

A raisin sunflower salad that sounds rather simple uses one package of cream cheese, two tablespoons of mayonnaise, canned peaches in slices, seedless raisins and lettuce. The cheese with the mayonnaise is heaped in the centre of six lettuce cups, with slices of peaches around them to represent a sunflower. The cheese is garnished with the raisins.

A book entitled "The Girls' Own Annual," a quaint volume designed to attract the Sunday-afternoon attention of the modest damsel of a quarter of a century back, with careful love stories and little bits of refined poetry as garnishes, gives the following recipe for a compote of fresh fruit for winter use. It says:

"Pour one bottle of very good rum into a large new stone or earthenware jar and add to it any kind of fresh fruit, using with each pound of fruit the same quantity of white sugar. Stand the jar in a cool cellar and stir the fruit once a day with a wooden spoon used only for that purpose. Different fruits may be added as they come in season. Small fruits should be used whole and larger fruits should be stoned, skinned and halved. Pieces of pine apple and chestnut may be added. If the rum is good, this will last indefinitely." Much, therefore, depends on the rum, and one should be a good judge of that favorite drink of the pirates of old before embarking on this adventure in recipes.

SAGGING FLOORS

If your floors have sagged and a crack is seen between the baseboard and floor, take off the beading around the bottom of the baseboard and lower it.

HOT-WATER BAGS

Fill hot water bags about half full of water and then squeeze out the air before screwing in the top. This keeps it hot longer.

PORCH TABLE

A camp stool, covered in gay chintz and painted a vivid color, makes a fine end table for porch use; just the thing to stand a tray on or lay books.

RELIEF FROM GAS STOMACH PAINS DIZZINESS

The doctors tell us that 80 per cent. of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you refuse food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mrs. George Bell, of 317 Grey Street, London, Ont., writes as follows:

"I had suffered for years with stomach trouble. Gas would form and bloat me up so I could hardly catch my breath. My nerves were shattered; I did not sleep because weak and run-down; and spent enough on medicines to furnish a home.

"Two months after starting Tanlac, however, I had gained eleven pounds and was entirely free of indigestion. Now I have no gas, no pains in my stomach. The headaches have disappeared. My nerves are calm. I sleep like a child, am always ready for my meals, and my housework seems like play to me."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run-down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs, and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist to-day. Money back if it doesn't help you.

IMMIGRANTS MAY TEACH CANADIANS

New Citizens To Form Staff of School of Handicrafts.

Winnipeg, Man., July 14 (CP).—So eager to learn the handicrafts of our foreign-born sisters have been the women visitors to the New Canadian Folk-song Festival held here, recently(where, for instance, at one booth a clever Norwegian lassie displayed a working knowledge of over 50 dye-producing plants she had discovered in Manitoba), that already plans are being discussed for a school of handicrafts with these new citizens of Canada as the teachers.

In view of the wealth of handicraft lore possessed by the various races settled on the prairies, as demonstrated in the different booths forming the component parts of the Canadian Handicrafts festival, Winnipeg may find itself with a training school for this kind of work before long with travelling exhibits arranged for the various parts of the province.

The establishment of short courses where housewives and others would be given demonstrations in the desired crafts was suggested, to which the government would be invited to lend some support when the popularity of these homecrafts becomes more generally known. Priceless pieces of lace, it was pointed out, so costly on the European market that only royalty and the ultra rich have been able to afford it, are among the exhibits of work done in the homes of prairie settlers who in their old lands worked at lace-making as a profession. It is with the idea of disseminating such skill and preserving it for Canada that a training school for the encouragement of home industry is being talked of.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

AT WOOLER

The Wooler branch of East Northumberland Women's Institute met on Wednesday afternoon in the town hall. Not a full membership was present, but those present were very enthusiastic in the discussion of different subjects.

The president, Mrs. W. Orvis, in the chair, presided over the meeting, opening the meeting with the Institue Ode:

A good thing it is to meet
In Friendship's Circle bright,
Where nothing strains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

Mrs. J. J. Way, secretary treasurer, read the minutes and letters from George Putnam of Toronto, concerning the Summer series of different classes, in connection with the Women's Institute.

Discussion derived from the minutes was most interesting, and reports of the First Aid equipment in each school were given.

As the classes of millinery, sewing, cooking and First Aid work had already been taken up, it was decided to take up a study class of another nature, to be decided next month.

A report from the committee of visiting the sick and distributing red geraniums. Mrs. V. Teal donated these plants and placed six in the different homes mentioned.

The roll call—"The hints on floral culture," was most heartily responded to, after Lulu McColl recited two popular numbers.

Many questions were asked on canning raspberries and the making of jelly and jam.

One member said the secret of jelly making was not to have the fruit too ripe and not to use too much sugar.

Mrs. L. H. Rowe presided at the piano and led the community singing. The lunch committee served a very tasty lunch and the meeting adjourned to meet in the hall, on August 8, when Mrs. Dr. McMullen of Trankford will address the meeting on "Vitamines."

AT MOUNT PLEASANT

The Mount Pleasant branch of Women's Institute are endeavoring to have a number of the girls in the neighborhood to take part in the girls' judging competition, to be held in Millbrook.

Mrs. Garnet Shield and Mrs. Ira Lowe are a committee appointed by the Institute to interview the girls and will be pleased to received as many names as possible of the girls between sixteen and twenty-six and up to thirty years if they care to come.

It is planned that the coaching work for the girls of the district will be held at Cavanville in the community hall, on Monday and Tuesday afternoon, July 30 and 31, from 1.30 to 5 o'clock.

The judging competition will be held in Millbrook on August 9th. The girls will be expected to bring notebooks and pencils to the coaching work.

The girls will enter their names for the contest on the morning of the competition.

A copy of the proposed rules and regulations for the judging competition is as follows:

Junior Women's Household Science Judging Competition
Rules and Regulations

1.—Each contestant must judge in all classes.

2.—Contestants are allowed fifteen minutes for placing and writing reasons.

3.—Reasons may be taken both orally and written.

4.—No contestant may win more than one prize.

5.—The basis of awards will be 50 per cent. for placing, and 50 per cent. for reasons.

6.—An entry fee of 25c will be charged each contestant.

7.—Open to all rural girls of the County of Durham under thirty years of age.

Prize List

Class A.—Nutrition, school lunches and family menus: 1st, $4.00; 2nd, $3.00; 3rd, $2.00; 4th, $1.00.

Class B.—Housefurnishing; farm living rooms, and kitchen plans: 1st, $4.00, 2nd, $3.00;; 3rd, $2.00; 4th, $1.00.

Class C.—Good dressing(dress parade and country girls' wardrobe.—1st, $4.00; 2nd, $3.00; 3rd, $2.00; 4th, $1.00.

The three high girls under 26 years of age will receive a prize of $5.00 each to assist in defraying their expenses as members of county team at the Canadian National Exhibition judging competition.

AT LAKEFIELD

The Women's Institute at a meeting held some time ago appointed a committee on historical research, which should prove to be a remarkably interesting and illuminating subject. The committee, who are at present at work on the question and will report at the September meeting, are Miss B. Graham (convenor), and Mesdames Cameron, Ridpath and Marling.

A large volume could be written of the early days in Lakefield with the lumbering activities and agricultural development to say nothing of the social life in the settlement. There are scores of authenic anecdotes many of which are humorous and indicative of the brave pioneer spirit of those early settlers who made, in the main, a splendid construction to the history of the district.

AT CAVAN

In a farm magazine Laura Rose Stephen describes a visit, which she made this year to the northern part of Ontario, referring to the place which "the Institute," holds in the lives of the women of that district. She says it has been a real God-send to that new country. Especially is this so where the country is sparsely populated, and the opportunities of meeting one another, few. For the women to come together one afternoon a month, talk over their difficulties and prospects, sing together, have a cup of tea and then trudge back to their houses or small shacks, refreshed and encouraged, makes every Institute in the north country worth while. Many walk miles through the bush or over rough roads to attend the Institute.

She says they deeply appreciate the help which has been sent into fire-swept areas of that country by the Institutes of old Ontario. They are a hard working people doing pioneer work ,and just as anxious as those in older districts, to beautify their homes and surroundings, but the means at their disposal are so few. It is somewhat well worth doing—sending cheer into the lives of those less favourably situated and may the Institutes ever rally to the calls for assistance from worthy causes.

AT MILLBROOK

The minutes of the organization meet of the Women's Institute in ... bring to light some interesting items. The gathering was held in the Town Hall here on March 22, 1901, and was "advertised by the President, Mr. T. A. Kelly, and the secretary-treasurer, Mr. J. A. Vance, of the Farmers' Institute, who kindly assisted the ladies to organize."

There were but twelve ladies present, and Mr. Kelly acted as chairman until after the election of officers. Letters from Mr. Creelman, superintendent of Institutes, were read explaining the object of the organization, and among the resolutions recorded are the following:

Miss Ada Richardson moved, and Mrs. (Dr.) Hassard seconded the motion: That a Women's Institute be formed in the district of East Durham, and South Monaghan.

Miss Earl and Miss Kelly: That Miss Ada Richardson and Miss M. S. Fair be directors for Cavan municipality.

Miss Richardson and Miss Kelly: That Mrs. C. Reynolds (Bethany), Mrs. John Vance (Bethany), and Mrs. William Hannah (Bethany) be appointed directors for Manvers municipality.

Miss Earl and Miss Fair: That Mrs. John Riddell (Bensfort), and Miss Lucas (Bailieboro) be directors for South Monaghan municipality.

Mrs. Mulligan and Miss Smith That Miss Henry, Mrs. J. W. Martin: (Canton), and Mrs. James Wood be directors for the municipality of Hope.

Mrs. Peacock and Miss Earl: That Mrs. W. C. Allen, Miss A. Vance, and Mrs. (Dr.) Hassard be directors for municipality of Millbrook.

The officers elected for the initial branch "to be known as the Women's Institute of East Durham," were:

President, Miss Ada Richardson; vice-President, Miss M. S. Fair; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. John Mulligan; Auditors, Miss Smith and Miss Earl.

Mr. Kelly vacated the chair in favor of the new president, who was received with applause, and who made a "short and appropriate address."

Among the business transacted was the authorizing of the secretary to apply to the Counties' Council for a grant of $10.00, soliciting the support of the following commissioners: Messrs. S. Ferguson, T. Donaldson, G. Staples, T. Smith and R. Fisher.

The directors in each municipality were asked to apply personally to their respective councils for a grant of $5.00 to the Women's Institute of East Durham.

It was moved by Mrs. J. Mulligan, seconded by Miss Kelly "That this Society hold its annual meeting on Friday, June 7, the same date as the Farmers' Institute hold theirs." Carried.

The meeting was then adjourned until the call of the president.

AT WARSAW

Sometime about thirty-five years ago, Warsaw District held its last Fall Fair. Just why they were discontinued is not apparent. They had good fairs, good exhibits and good attendance.

Warsaw Women's Institute decided a Fair would be a success. Plans were made for one. Many flouted the idea, but the Institute cared not for that. It believed a Warsaw district fair would be a good thing and a success, and it certainly was. The display of all kinds of garments, needlework, crochetting, knitting, flowers, vegetables, fruits, canned and preserved goods, cooking, in fact of everything for use or beauty in the home done by the women was excellent. There was also a splendid display of children' work. The men became enthused, and got up a number of sporting events. The fee for entry for those who were not members, was twenty-five cents more than for the members, but that automatically made them members. Some made use of their membership, others did not.

The attendance at the fair exceeded expectations. True, many came just to see what kind of fool thing the women could put up, but the most scornful changed their minds, and the fair was a decided success in exhibits, attendance and finances.

There were two more fairs. More and more the children's work was encouraged. The Institute wished to work with the Department. But the District Representative said that was impossible according to regulations. School fairs were coming into the ascendency, the war was on, there was much Red Cross work to do, so the Institute decided to withdraw their fair in favor of a regular school fair, and assist the schools. They took quite a bit of assistance at first over and above special prizes. The Institute worked quite hard, but the schools helped pay expenses by giving a concert. After a time the school fair was wholly on its own feet, and the Institute was no longer needed on the committee, but that was not until a band and other accompaniments of fairs had been secured.

Since then the Institute has given a special prize each year. Some of the prizes have been for individual and school singing marching composition on "Dummer," leaf naming, driving, judging of good taste in dressing.

Coaching Class.

The coaching class in domestic science, good dressing and household conveniences will be held in the Warsaw Institute rooms on Monday afternoon, July 16 and on the following Monday, July 23; each session at 2 o'clock. This is a slightly different arrangement of time from what has been given previously. All girls, married or single between the ages of 15 and 23 years are urged to attend. There is no fee. A girl does not need to be a member or related to a member; it is for any girl.

Last year Miss Anna McMurray got a trip to Toronto and eleven dollars as prize. There are competitions at Peterborough Exhibition and at Toronto. In Toronto thereo are pen competitions. Even if a girl does not enter a competition, the lessons themselves are well worth the time.

THE SATURDAY MARKET BASKET

As the season advances, more local fruit and vegetables take the place of the foreign ones which were placed on the market earlier in the year.

Although strawberries are nearly done, other fruits advance to take their place. New arrivals include gooseberries, cherries and grapes. These, of course, are not home grown.

Peaches, pears and plums are getting more plentiful each week and more varieties and sizes are in the market. Plums are priced from 3 for 10 cents to 30 cents a dozen. Dark red sweet cherries sell for 30 cents a pound. Others sell for 15 cents a quart, or $1.75 a basket. Peaches and pears are 5 cents each.

Melons are very plentiful now, watermelons for $1.25, cantaloupes for 20, 25 and 30 cents; and honey dew melons for 35 and 40 cents.

Small green grapes are priced at 30 cents a pound.

There are always bananas at 3 pounds for 25 cents and 30 cents a dozen; eating apples are 5 cents each or 50 cents a dozen; cooking apples, 20 cents a measure; some grapefruit at 3 for 25 cents, and oranges at 60, 70 and 80 cents a dozen.

Spinach may be had at 2 pounds for 25c. Green peas are quoted at 20 cents a quart, and yellow string beans are 30 cents a quart or 20 cents a pound. Carrots are 10c. a bunch; beets, 3 bunches for 25 cents, and green onions, 5 cents a bunch. There are quantities of radishes, red and white, for 5 cents a bunch. Cauliflower heads are marked at 15 and 20 cents a head and cabbages at 5 cents a pound.

Iceberg lettuce is still on the market, priced at 10 and 15 cents a head, and leaf lettuce for 5 cents a bunch. Cucumbers, which are priced according to size are 15 and 18 cents for the larger ones and 3 for 25c. for smaller ones.

Tomatoes are 15 cents a pound for imported ones and 30 cents a pound for hothouse tomates. New potatoes are 45 cents a peck and old ones about 23 cents.

Gooseberry Cream.

Here 's a recipe for using gooseberries:

Stew one pound of gooseberries and 3 ounces of sugar in a covered jar in the oven or in a pan of boiling water When soft rub through a hair sieve and stir into a gill of custard and three-quarters ounces of gelatin, melted in two tablespoons of water

When cold, stir in one-quarter pint of whipped cream, color with green coloring and put into a mould. rinsed out in cold water, and leave until set If liked, the mold may be lined with clear jelly and decorated with pistachio nuts and glace cherries

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

A Series Giving Hints on Arranging Parties. By LAURA.

When you think of giving a party, does it mean the same old music and the same old fox-trots and steps, with the same old ice-cream and cakes? Or four tables of bridge, with salad and sandwiches and a prize?

It doesn't take much to make your party different, to give it that little individual touch that makes people say, "It was so original, don't you know."

Now, instead of just giving a dance and having it called Mrs. So-and-So's dance, being distinguished only by the name of its hostess from Mrs. Jones' dance last week, give it a name and a character all its own.

You might call it a Bo-peep dance, or a Shadow dance, or a Spanish ball, or a Black Hand masquerade. The invitations set everyone's curiosity on edge to start with, and you can be as elaborate or as simple in the arrangements as you choose.

Supposing it's a Bo-peep dance, send out invitations on Bo-peep writing paper. Decorate the house or porches with pink and blue lanterns over electric light bulbs, Bo-peep colors, you see. The unique touch is to hang from each lantern a wee, little, woolly lamb.

Your guests, too, will be simply wild about some of your feature dances, such as The Crook one-step, the Baa-baa, the Boy Blue waltz, the Black Sheep fox-trot, and "Let-Them-Alone."

The Crook one-step opens with ordinary dancing. When a whistle blows, the girls break away from their partners and run behind screens. Presently the men see only a bevy of Bo-peep crooks, ribbon-tied, beckoning over the top of the screens. Each man must choose a partner by "hook or by crook."

The Baa-baa dance is accomplished by the orchestra music. At frequent intervals through this number a long-drawn baa-a-a startles the dancers.

In the Boy Blue waltz each man is handed a gay little tin horn and asked to call a partner by winding his horn in her ear.

The Black Sheep fox-trot is one of those ever-popular contests. Each couple draws a number from a hat and goes on dancing. The numbers are called off at random and the couple holding each number must take seats as soon as it is called. The last couple left on the floor are hailed as black sheep and receive black woolly lambs as prizes.

"Let-Them-Alone" is danced to any kind of music. During its progress, partners must not touch each other but go through the same motions.

Of course, before supper there may be passed wide-brimmed Bo-peep hats and three-cornered Boy Blue ones.

A dainty salad for this is buttercup salad, which is chicken salad sprinkled with little rounds of hard-boiled egg yolks. The ice-cream may be served in little hay-crocks with a wee Boy Blue doll asleep under each stack.

For favors, the little white rubber lambs which squeak when squeezed are always well received.

SUNBURN IS A LA MODE

Modern Girl Doesn't Object to a Healthy Tan—But CARE IS NEEDED

Yes. Be sunburned!

Sunburn and tan, to be endured until they fade away, are no longer avoided by smart women in Peterborough. Instead of wailing because they are sunburned, they wail because they are not. If you do not want to be tanned and crave that healthy color, you simply do not have to have it.

The modern girl has stolen the favourite color of the pic'caninny. Well-tanned arms and necks are now regarded as assets, and the burned note in complexions has been cultivated in every way. A girl with tanned skin is considered one of the season's smartest women.

Fashion has aided in this vogue. Sleeveless dresses for sports wear are now in style, so that those who play tennis or golf cannot help being burned unlessthey take special pains to avoid it. The latest movement in the campaign for fashion's sunburn seen in Europe is off the shoulder decolletage, an oddity in afternoon gowns, appearing in the early mid-summer displays. The corsage is so cut as to leave one shoulder entirely bare when the little ensemble coat is removed in order to expose the skin to the burning rays of the sun. The line of the dress slants from the left shoulder to a point under the right arm in such a way that the symmetrical line that is the fad of the hour will be the impression left by sunburn.

Lotions and tinted powders are even applied to the skin by some of the season's smartest women, who have not patience or perhaps opportunity to get the necessary rays from the sun. This reverses the beauty routine of their grandmothers who in their days tried to disguise sunburn effects.

The woman who wants to be tanned—to get her color from the sun, wears clothing that aids in doing this.

If nature is to do the beautifying and coloring, your wardrobe must be planned very carefully, so that daytime and evening frocks will look chic, and to do this it would not be right to have a white area showing alongside the warm tanned skin. For instance, if your tennis frock has a pointed V neck in the front, your dancing frock must be likewise. The blond who burns well is fortunate. For her are the whites, the corals, and pine-needle greens, colors that show off sunburn to the greatest advantage. A brunette generally takes pride in her pure white skin, and does not wish to be tanned. To overcome this, one can obtain creams and powders that will protect the skin, and at the same time give a sunburned look.

One must choose, then, long sleeved frocks for tennis and golf and spend idle moments under a parasol.

If you decide to be one of the smartly tanned women, do not try to get burned in one day. Take it in doses gradually or sunstroke is likely to follow. If you find that you burn an ugly red, give it up and be a "white" girl—but decide now what you are going to be this summer!

A GOOD CLEANSER

A little turpentine on a soft cloth will clean spots and dirt from an enameled bed with a single motion and leave a good gloss in its wake.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

For golf or general country sports wear this white jersey suit was worn with tuck-in crepe de chine blouse, a navy blue and white printed scarf, and a blue beret.

The sketch shows the working regalia of a French golf enthusiast. I think you could tell from the way she wears her little basque beret and the arrangement of her scarf that she was French, or at least an American who dressed a la Francaise. You might also be led to this conclusion from the fact that she wears her blouse tucked in. French women of fashion are to a certain extent as careful to produce a smooth, slender hip line as we are, but they are, it seems to me, much less reluctant to wear tuck-in blouses because the revelation of bodily curves has never been considered such a crime against fashion in France as it has here. And the tucked-in blouse of course permits one to guess that a woman is not proportioned like a bean pole.

Generalizations concerning women of different countries are often misleading, but I think one of the most interesting things about seeing any golf or tennis tournament in which women of different nationalities take part is to see the essentially different way in which they dress.

There are English women good to behold because they look every inch sportsmanly. No women can wear the strictly conventional sports costume better than they—and that is why they are so notably successful in wearing riding attire, about which traditions cling so persistently.

The French aspirant to honors in golf or tennis, though appropriately dressed, always contrives a little coquetry, if it is only in the way she has arranged her scarf or tied her hair bandeau.

The most notable feature of the manner in which the modern American sportswoman dresses is a quality that might be called casualness. She wears her sports clothes with such perfect composure, looking much as she might appear for a cup of tea at the club house—yet withal with every detail of her dress perfectly suited for the sport in which she is partaking.

TELLING IT TO THE MARINES

By H. Irving King.

"The silver trumpets blew across the dome," quoted George. They were seated on the deck of a steamer which had just dropped anchor off Port au Prince. The silver trumpets George referred to were the bugles of the marines on shore, sounding taps. And the dome was the dark, vast dome of the tropic night.

Across the dark waters shone the lights of the city. High up, black against the black sky, loomed the giant mountains, and from those dark shores seemed to steal out a sense of mysteries, the romances and the tragedies of blood which, since Columbus first sighted the island, have made Haiti their own.

But the tragedy of Haiti was not of any special interest to George Gordon and Mariam Crawford just then, for George and Miriam were considering the question of getting married. The marines were taking care of Haiti anyway. George had proposed two days before and Miriam had asked a week in which to consider her answer.

Miriam was accompanied by her aunt, an austere person with a will of her own and a desire that her niece should marry the wealthy George Gordon. Miriam had known him for years and rather liked him, though there had been somebody, once, whom she had liked much better.

When they parted she had promised to wait two years for him and the two years had been up a month before she had sailed on this Caribbean cruise—and no word had come from Arthur Leighton. When Arthur's father had died leaving instead of the great fortune he was supposed to possess nothing, or next to it, Aunt Martha, who had brought up the orphaned Miriam, had raised a terrible rumpus and accused the young man—upon whose suit she had hitherto looked with favor—of being a fortune-hunter and of desiring to marry her neice only for her money.

And being young and impulsive and high spirited he retorted that he would not, under the circumstances, ask Miriam to fulfill her promise of marriage until he was in a position which would render it impossible for any one to repeat the accusations of Aunt Martha. Miriam of course said that she was ready to share Arthur's poverty—she would divest herself of all her wealth and become poor like him.

"What nonsense you talk, child," cried Aunt Martha. "You can't divest yourself of your money—your fortune is in the hands of trustees until you become thirty-five years old and whether you want it or not the income will be yours."

Even the lovers saw that Aunt Martha was talking common sense, although she did it in a most disagreeable manner. So they had parted, Miriam promising to wait two years and Arthur promising to return at the end of that period "with the goods."

Miriam thought of all this a she sat on the deck with George by her side. She had waited the two years promised, but only a few weeks more. She had been weak in allowing her aunt to persuade her into taking this trip. Suppose Arthur should even now be in New York bearing his sheaves with him and seeking for her in vain! Miriam was not really weak but she had been all her life under the masterful, dominating spirit of her aunt and had never learned to assert herself. And Aunt Martha had drilled it into her that the affair between her and Arthur Leighton was only a boy and girl romance, until Miriam had almost come to believe it herself, and when George proposed had instead of giving him a decided "No" asked a week in which to consider.

But now as the bugle calls died away on shore there arose in Miriam's heart a great outcry against fate. "I can't, I can't! Oh, Arthur, Arthur, why did you not come back to me?"

The next day they went ashore to see the curious sights of the Haitian capital. As they walked along the principal street, Aunt Martha and Miriam escorted by George, Miriam suddenly stopped, gave a gasp and cried out "Oh." A young man in uniform was coming toward them a lieutenant of marines.

"It's Arthur!" stammered Miriam.

It was. He greeted the party unconcernedly, as if their meeting down there in the tropics was the most natural thing in the world, placed himself and the whole marine outfit on the island at their disposal during their stay and was about to pass on. But he had not gone six steps when Miriam turned and ran after him calling out. "Arthur, stop a minute." He stopped. "Why did you not come back at the end of the two years?" she demanded.

"Because," replied Arthur, I could not come back as I had promised to do—with wealth sufficient to prevent your aunt from again accusing me of being a fortune-hunter. I have managed in the past two years to achieve a commission in the marines—but I have nothing but my pay."

"You have your commission and that's enough," replied Miriam. "An officer and a gentleman need never fear being accused of fortune hunting. I am tired of all this talk about money. I have lived under Aunt Martha's thumb all my life. Now I am going to assert myself. Do you still want to marry me?"

"Miriam," said Arthur softly and the look in his eyes and the tone of his voice gave her the answer.

"Well, then, I am ready," said Miriam and turning to the astounded Aunt Martha and the no less astounded George she said. "Auntie, you and George walk on ahead, Arthur and I will follow you. I want to talk to him."

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE.

L'AMOUR I CARE?

(Sent in by T. P. L.)

We loved so well, we two,
Our souls became as one;
Each to the other turning
As flowers to the sun.
But love and flowers die;
From each we turned away
To learn that love like flowers
Must fix its roots in clay.
Because our souls are one,
Among new friends and fair
The one without the other
Shall be a stranger there.

ONCE WE WERE IN LOVE.

You will go the short way,
Along the river edge;
But I will go the long way
And dream beside a ledge.

And you will see the high hills,
The azure of the sky;
But I will see a place where
I once made you cry.

For you will think of new days,
But I will think of old—
Of wading in the hill stream
In search of bits of gold.

And I will find the bluebird
We told our secrets to,
And see if he remembers
A day when I kissed you.

And all along the long way
The wind will sing above,
A song now grown a legend:
Once we were in love! C.P.

To be sure of Healthful Cleanliness the invisible impurities which are often a menace to health, must also be removed with the visible dirt.

This is what Old Dutch does; its particles possess natural detergent qualities—they erase the dirt and by a process similar to "adsorption" take up and carry away all impurities.

Raybestos Win Easy Victory From Crescents

PLAY GOOD BALL TO WIN 13-4 DECISION

Poor Fielding By Crescents Responsible For Heavy Defeat.

MAUDSLEY STARS.

Losers Bunch Hits in Fifth to Save Themselves From Shutout.

Friday the thirteenth had no terrors for Raybestos who went out and trimmed the Crescents 13 to 4, at Exhibition Park, last evening. Crescents succeeded in bunching hits off "Scotty" Maudsley in the fifth, thereby spiking the Sailor's shutout record after gaining three in a row.

"Bun" Frost was forced to labor long. Crazy fielding by his team mates gave the Rays three runs in the first when the league leaders should have been retired in order. And as the game proceeded the Crescent's defense became a sieve, Joe Jones alone relieving the monotony by taking care of everything in left field. But at that the Rays were pounding the ball, only one batter going out on strikes. Frost called it a day with one out in the ninth, reaching second base, to escape the shelling. Jack McDonough finished the game and after Corrin hit in the thirteenth run, the gates were down.

There were a number of entertaining features. When a step would have taken him to the bag to force Ross coming down from first, Frank Scully picked up McDonough's grounder and lashed a wide throw to first. First baseman Barry dunked a third strike foul; Harold Nicholls slammed out a three-bagger with two on; Lew LeBarr dropped an easy fly at first, and then there was the Crescents' lineup in the fifth when they socked Maudsley's shoots for all a row for three runs. The boy pitcher made a great comeback by fanning the next two, and Harry Corrin finished off the opposition with a nice catch of Mein's long fly. Lew LeBarr got a hit in the seventh, pilfered second and third but was nabbed at the plate as he went in with the pitch.

Maudsley fanned nine and passed only one batsman. He hit cleanly on three out of four trips to the plate, his second clout being a real double.

It was Ted LeBarr who started the Crescents in the fifth. The count was three and two when he picked the ball for two bases. Williams dribbled one between second and short, and Joe Jones singled to middle to score two. Ross hit in Jones and L. LeBarr slashed a hit through Barry. Then Maudsley struckout McDonough and Moore. Mein flew out to Corrin.

Crescents fourth run came in the seventh when Scully's rumble put Jones on. Jones scooted and scored on L. LeBarr's single.

Raybestos got three in the first. McDonough took Hillier's drive, LeBarr dropped H. Nichols' fly and Foley failed to get under Scully's fly, Nichols scoring. Barry hit in Scully. Ted LeBarr dropped Corrin's fly, and Barry counted on Rogers' sacrifice fly to Jones.

A deadheader, four singles and a pass, gave Rays four tallies in the second, and another pair of runs was added in the third on a double by Maudsley, Hillier's single and Mein's low throw to the plate.

After going out quickly in the fourth, Raybestos came back with four more in the fifth, getting five singles and a triple. Art Primeau's athletes stopped at that and went out in order in the sixth.

ROYALS BEAT NEWARK BEARS

Montreal Breaks Even in Home Series, Winning Two.

BISONS LOSE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 14.—Montreal captured the fourth and final game of the series with the Newark Bears here yesterday afternoon, 6-2, evening the engagement at two victories apiece.

Roy Sherrid, pulchritudinous young collegian right-hander of Royals set the Bears down with six hits and from the second inning until the eighth allowed no hits.

Three double plays by the Royals in the second, eighth and ninth innings got Sherrid out of the only minor difficulties he experienced.

Tom Gulley, the home-run artist of the Royals, won the game in the fifth with the longest circuit drive to be made in the Royals' Stadium this year with two on bases.

Two former Boston Braves twirled against the Royals, Goldsmith relieving Hugh McQuillan in the sixth.

Keys Win

BUFFALO, July 14.—The Reading Keys made it three out of four over the Bisons here yesterday when they captured a game abbreviated to five innings by rain.

The score was 3 to 1 and a downpour halted proceedings after Whitman had singled and Conroy sacrificed in the Reading half of the sixth.

J. Moore, Conroy, Walsh and Whitman did the hitting, which accounted for three Reading tallies off Art Mills, former Boston National hurler.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The Bantam group play-offs of the city league will be announced in the latter part of next week.

The local Electrics play an exhibition game with the Toronto Head Office team to-night at 6:30 in James Stevenson Park.

* * * * * * *

The Junior group city league play-offs will open on Saturday, July 21 at James Stevenson Park between the Royals and the Kiwanis. These two teams have been battling it tooth and nail all through the season and a tidy battle can be expected by the hardball fans on this date.

* * * * * * *

Thursday, July 19th marks the opening of the juvenile finals with three games to be played in all between the Moose and Kiwanis, one on the date mentioned and the other two on each succeeding Thursday. The home team will be decided at the first game.

* * * * * * *

While the Seniors and the East Peterborough league were no doubt the big attractions here, the junior group have had a fair gathering of fans at their games throughout the season. Entering the play-offs for the city championship next week a large crowd should turn out to help the youngsters in the deciding games.

K. of C. and C.G.E. will open the week's schedule in the softball league with Harrison's at Teco on Friday and Lockworks and De Laval to follow on Saturday.

* * * * * * *

There's a bill of three East Peterborough League games next week. Crescents and Cogs play Monday night, Bethany comes here Wednesday to meet Raybestos and the Cogs and Rays play on Friday, the latter contest being a replay of their tie score in the first half of the schedule.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

Harold Nicholls had a good chance to stretch his triple into a homer, but was held at third. He scored two runs and was hit home by Scully. The Rays are a tremendous improvement over last year, with all the players doing a full share.

Olympic Boxing Tests At Montreal To-Night

MONTREAL, Que., July 14 (Canadian Press). — The eyes of the Dominion will be centered upon Montreal again this weekend as the Olympic boxing trials commence to-night, and will be concluded Monday night.

Boxers from all parts of Canada, who have proved their mettle, have gathered here for the honor of contesting the right to represent their country at Amsterdam.

To the winners, who are adjudged capable of Olympic competition, there is the trip to Amsterdam, as well as the medals, which will be presented by the Olympic committee, and the gold watches which will be the gift of the Civic Athletic Commission.

The runners-up in the various classes will be the recipients of silver medals, and if they display marked ability, they stand in the way of recommendation to the Olympic team.

NINE CANADIANS IN FINAL STAGE

Will Compete For King's Prize To-day at Bisley Competition.

AT LONG RANGES.

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., July 14. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — At long ranges calling for the finest marksmanship, the King's Hundred shoot to-day in the final stage of the King's Prize. Among the hundred are nine Canadian marksmen, just half of the Canadian Bisley team, and among Canada's representatives is Lieut. Desmond Burke, who won the honor in 1924 and missed it only by a point last year.

Lieut. A. E. Martin, of Glasgow, a nephew of Lieut. Alex Martin of Calgary, was silver medallist with top score in the second stage yesterday. He scored 145 out of a possible 150. The best Canadian score was the 143 of Company Quartermaster Sergeant R. Stevenson of Montreal, who was closely followed by Sgt. H. W. Burton of Victoria, with 142.

To-day's shooting is at the 900 and 1,000 yard ranges, 15 shots at each. The scores made in the second stage are added to the third stage total, and the aggregate determines the winner. Lieut. Burke yesterday shot 138, so that he is seven points behind the leader, a respectable deficit. Stevenson and Burton naturally are in a better position.

The Canadian finalists with their scores in the second stage yesterday are:

C.Q.M.S. Stevenson, Montreal..	143
Sgt. H. W. Burton, Victoria ..	142
Lieut. D. Burke, Ottawa	138
Sgt. J. H. Regan, Victoria	138
Sgt. C. W. Foam, Montreal ..	137
Major Richardson, Victoria ..	137
Major Richardson, Victoria	137
Sgt.-Major Kiddle, Toronto ..	136
Sgt. S. Dawson, Ottawa	136
Pte. T. R. Davies, Vancouver	136

The last three qualified only after a shoot off with other 136-men for 33 remaining places in the final stage.

Weather Holds Up Heeney's Training

FAIRHAVEN, N.J., July 14.—(Canadian Press.)— Rain, persistent in its downpour but refreshing to the countryside, forced Tom Heeney to suspend all training activities yesterday except for a five mile run over the roads yesterday morning. When he returned to his camp the rain had set in and Heeney did not leave his quarters until dusk.

The challenger for the world's heavyweight championship, good natured and carefree, mingled all day with newspaper correspondents and visitors, spending most of the time in a big rocking chair on his screened porch while outside the rain came down in a drizzle. He whiled away the time joshing with everybody and reading letters from admirers in England, New Zealand and Australia, wishing him success in his title engagement with Tunney, July 26.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

As this is being wrote Thurs., Mac, and every 2 or 3 mins. a fife and drum band passes, and as I simply can't sit still when there is any music on the move, you and the customers will have to excuse me if this here letter seems more rambling than usual. The 12th ain't no time to sit in a Geo. st. office and try to write letters, but anyway, Mac, I'll dash off a few bright thoughts, if any, just between bands.

I'm sorry, old-timers, I ain't got no good news about the doings of the Petes, which since my last has dropped themselves 2 more ball games. Sat. they knocked the sweat shirt off of Mister Duke Dainty in a little better'n 3 frames, and looked like they couldn't be caught by nobody that day. And then the boys what make motor cars on the few days they ain't playing ball just rose up and smeared our athaletes all over the landscape. Our Mister Hardill was a good fellow when he had it, but the trouble was he didn't have it long enough, and when he tailed off the Motorists just remarked to themselfs, "Well, if that's the way it is," and then they started to fatten their batting averages. Them last 4 innings was tough to sit through—unless you come from Oshawa.

Wed. was another day, Mac, but the luck wasn't no better. Every 3 or 4 years the Petes win a ball game in Kingston—but this ain't 1 of the years, for they have been knocked for a row every trip down there. The affair this week wasn't a bad ball game, specially on the part of the Ponies, which did some of the nicest fielding I ever lamped, as well as a lotta smart ball on the bases. The Petes wasn't so hot either place, and while they didn't oughta been beat so far off, they weren't entitled to the verdict on the play, which was different from the previous win by the Ponies, which was a gift.

Now the gang has to fight a uphill fight to get themselves back in the thick of the battle. After knocking Belleville out twice in a row and outgaming Deloro at home, they looked to be away for a run of wins, but the Ponies and Oshawa threw a banana peel in front of them.

Meanwhile they ain't been able to get no reinforcements. A lotta people keep saying to me, "Wouldn't so-and-so from the East Peterborough loop look good in the outfield?" Yes, and so would Babe Ruth if you could get him. None of them intermediate managers is letting anybody go, and so the Petes will have to worry through with what they got. It ain't hardly fair to any players what want to go up, but the E. P pilots have the last word and it's up to them. If they choose to keep boys outa senior ball what wants to play there they ain't nothing you and me can do about it. They's other years coming, however, and young ball tossers what is ambitious to get to the top will know what to do other springs when certificates is being passed around. It's a long lane that ain't got a garbage can, Mac.

Well, enough now. I hear another band coming.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

LEADERS BEAT ELECTRIC BOYS

Clerks Have a Strangle Hold On Top of Softball League.

SCORE 7-3.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14. — There were star players on both teams last night. A win for the Electrics would have cinched third place for them with their chances for dropping below fourth place practically nil. The Clerks' victory will relieve their minds of any anxiety of losing their place at the top of the league for at least a week. Their game with the Legionaires on Monday night is generally expected to result in a victory for them, and this will make them certain winners for the season. Although the Electrics could not possibly make first place at this stage of the season, they might have done considerable damage had they succeeded in defeating the Clerks last night. Bernard Blute, pitcher for the Clerks, gave his fielders a chance to play some of the game, and they supported him with scarcely an error. "Huck" McArthur, catcher, maintained his reputation for grabbing fouls hot off the bat, and was responsible for many of the outs when the Clerks were in the field. Harry Tinney, Electrics' short stop, made one of the most spectacular catches of the season when he sailed into the air and came back with the ball safely clutched in his hands. It seemed but a fraction of a second between the time the ball left the bat till Tinney shot into the air for his snappy catch. One of the features of the season has been Bernard Blute's batting. It is usually conceded that a good pitcher is a poor batter. Blute has built up a high batting average during the season's play. He came up five times last night, hit on three occasions, and on two of these made home runs.

Defeat Giants 11-6 to Increase League Lead Five and Half Games.

GAMES POSTPONED.

NEW YORK, July 14. (Canadian Press).—Knocking out Vic Aldridge in the second and continuing their assault against Dutch Henry, who succeeded him, the Cardinals ran up a lead of 9 to 0 against the Giants in the first three innings at St. Louis yesterday, and eventually won by 11 to 6, to make it three out of four from the New Yorkers. The Cardinals now lead the runners-up, the Reds, by five and one-half games and the third-place Giants by 6½ games.

Bill Sherdel started for the Cards, but crumpled under the Giants' fifth inning attack, capped by a home run by Cummings, a pinch batsman, with the bases filled.

Frankhouse then entered the game and stopped the Clan McGraw without a hit over the rest of the route.

The high note of the Cardinal offensive was George Harper's eleventh home run, which greeted Henry as he relieved Aldridge with one on and two out in the second. Chick Hafey got two singles and two doubles in five attempts. The Cardinal total was fifteen hits for twenty-three bases.

LADY BOWLERS GO TO COBOURG

Lawn Bowling Club Hold Enjoyable Picnic at Cobourg.

SPORT EVENTS.

The ladies of the Lawn Bowling Club held a very enjoyable picnic to Cobourg this week, about thirty-five motoring down for the afternoon. The weather was ideal and a very pleasant afternoon wase enjoyed on the beach and in the park. The president of the Cobourg Ladies Club, Mrs. Mook having heard of the anticipated outing was on hand to welcome the ladies to their town. We found they had a notice on their board asking us to have a friendly game of bowling with them Club, Mrs. Cook having heard of the during the previous night and the fact that the men's tournament was being held the next day this pleasure had to be cancelled.

A number took advantage of the splendid swimming beach, while others enjoyed themselves in the park until all were called together for the sport events. These caused great amusement to those not participating in such strenuous exercise, and many of those taking part declared they had not run so far in years.

The following are the winners in the sport events:

100 yards dash (thin ladies)—Mrs. Eldred; Mrs. Yeotes.

50 yards dash (thin ladies)—Mrs. Borland; Miss Henry.

100 yards dash (stout ladies) — Mrs. F. Williams; Mrs. H. Staunton.

50 yards dash (stout ladies) — Mrs. Burnham; Mrs. Andrews.

Walking race—Mrs. Miller.

Slow time race—Mrs. Burnham.

Relay race—1, Mrs. Eldred and Mrs Williams; 2, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Staunton.

Hop, skip and jump—Mrs. Henry.

At 6 o'clock all sat down to an excellent supper to which they did ample justice, some attributing their appetite to the invigorating breezes from Lake Ontario; others to their strenuous exercise, while others said it was the appetizing spread before them. Any way it is needless to say that the baskets returned empty.

At 7:30 they left for Peterborough but arrived at Cambourn found a strawberry festival in full swing there and the Cobourg Kiltie Band playing so they could not pass there without a pause and more refreshments. Again when they reached the Trinity Social at Mrs. Carveth's on the highway some were again lured in by the bright lights and gay music to enjoy their hospitality arriving home at last tired but happy they declared "they had one of the finest picnic af the season" and many hopes were expressed for future trips.

Mr. Henry and Mr. Coleman who were present kindly acted as starter and umpire for the sport program.

Preacher, Mr. Massey-Cooke.

LAWN BOWLING

The men bowlers held their usual Friday night tournament last evening, but owing to the unsettled condition of the weather, not as many rinks as usual participated in the game. Before the second games were played it started to rain, but nothing would dampen the spirits of the enthusiastic boys, and they finished the third game in a heavy downpour of rain. Fox's rink, composed of Fox (skip), Wood, Chesler and Lowe were the lucky winners of the strawberries with three wins and a plus of 11 points.

Freeman's rink, composed of Freeman (skip), C. Seymour, Gemmell and Sorenson, carried off the second prize with two wins and a plus of 10 points.

Cairns, Ringer, Downey, W. Wood; plus 6.

Allen, Braund, Anderson, R. Coleman; plus 2.

Curvin, McDonald, E. Coleman, McNabb; plus 0.

Freeman, C. Seymour, Gemmell, Sorenson.; plus 10.

Fallon, A. Grant, Dawson, Henry; plus 0.

Sedgwick, Bredin, Sloane, Seymour; plus 5.

Bennett, Gilles, Dyer, Howson; plus 8.

Fox, Wood, Chesler, Lowe; plus 11.

The men are holding their annual tournament on July 18 and 19, and already a large number of entries are in. It is anticipated that if they are favored with good weather, that it will be one of the largest bowling tournaments held in this city. The club has over one hundred members this year, which will tend to more local entries, beside more outsiders have signified their intention of being present. The members of the ladies' club are serving meals in a large tent on the grounds and are also running a booth, where ice cream, soft drinks, etc., will be sold.

The lady lawn bowlers have completed the first half of their schedule rink games, with Mrs. C. Wright's team as winners. This team, composed of Mrs. Wright (skip), Mrs. R. J. Devey (vice-skip), Mrs. C. Wiggins (second) and Mrs. C. Cheverill (lead), only lost one game of the series. Mrs. Greenslade's rink, composed of Mrs. Greenslade (skip), Mrs. D. Eldred (vice), Mrs. C. Wiley (second) and Mrs. R. J. Martin (lead), were close seconds.

The winners of the first series will play the winners of the second series for the prize.

The second series has been started, with the following scores:

Tuesday's games:
Mrs. Wright 20, Mrs. French 8.
Miss Allen 14, Mrs. Miller 7.
Mrs. Coleman 15, Mrs. Gimblett 14.
Mrs. Greenslade 10, Mrs. Graham 7.

Friday's games:
Mrs. Miller 21, Mrs. Wright 9.
Mrs. Graham 17, Mrs. Coleman 5.
Mrs. French 10, Miss Allen 8.
Mrs. Greenslade 12, Mrs. Gimblett 7.

The ladies have arranged for a ladies' tournament on August 25, and are making plans for a large number being present. At a meeting held on the green they decided to enter all their own rinks as they play in the schedule games. It was also decided to entertain the visiting ladies at afternoon tea on the day of the tournament.

THE LEADERS

With all major league games but one rained out, and with Frank Frisch still on the Cardinal bench because of an injured finger, the Big Six drew an absolute blank yesterday. The standing to date:

GIRL SPRINTER

On your mark, set, go! Myrtle Cook, the fastest girl sprinter in the world, caught by the cameraman just when she was about to make her last practice spin before starting for the Olympics. In the Canadian girls' trials at Halifax she beat the best record for all time in the 100 metres—12 seconds flat. Myrtle seems to go faster every time out. She'll soon be going as fast as Percy Williams, her male vis-a-vis on the Canadian team.

HASTINGS WINS FROM LAKEFIELD

Game is Played in Rain, Score Was 7-4.

(Examiner Correspondence).

LAKEFIELD, July 14.—The rain played havoc with the East Peterborough baseball game played in Lakefield last night. The rain started before the game, but the players decided to start because of the fact that Hastings had travelled so far. The playing was made very difficult in the downpour and all the players were soaked through before it was finished. The game went the required five innings and part of the sixth, but on account of the rain it was stopped. The score at the end of the five frames was 7-2 for Hastings.

In the second and third innings there were two double plays by Lakefield which came at the right time. Lakefield was playing without a few of their regulars. Fitzgerald saved Lakefield from a whitewash by scoring both runs, one of which was a homer in the fourth.

The fielding was good on both sides, Hastings perhaps showing up a little better. In the last of the fifth Green replaced Madill at the mound for Lakefield.

The line-ups:

Hastings—Ivy, p; Cawell, c; Zufelt, 1b; Forbett, 2b; Stevenson, 3b; Baker, ss; Scriver, rf; Herrington, lf; Lemair, cf.

Lakefield—Madill, p; R. Payne, c; Fitzgerald, 1b; Stabler, 2b; Briant, 3b; Green, ss; Junkin, rf; Webster, lf; F. Payne, cf.

Score by innings:

Hastings.. .. .. 12004—7
Lakefield.. .. .. 01010—2

Umpires—Dr. Gibson at the plate; H. Walsh at the bases.

Gene Tunney Takes Jaunt Through Hills

SPECULATOR, N.Y., July 14.—(Canadian Press.)—A six mile jaunt through the hills about Lake Pleasant was the only exercise Gene Tunney engaged in yesterday to prepare himself for his heavyweight titular contest with Tom Heeney in the Yankee Stadium on July 26.

The champion put off all ring work as he is due to have thorough workouts with sparring partners and punching bags today and Sunday. Tunney has yet to break the Sababth, but he will do so this week-end to entertain Tex Rickard, who is expected to make his first visit to Speculator to witness the champion's signing for the New York Boxing Commission contract for the coming bout.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

RICHARD DIX

Will be seen in the Fun Classic "Easy Come, Easy Go," at the Capitol on Monday and Tuesday—New Summer Policy of Three Changes each Week will be inaugurated on Monday.

The Capitol's new summer policy of three changes each week will be inaugurated on Monday, with Richard Dix in his new fun classic, "Easy Come; Easy Go."

This latest Dix picture is the screen version of the Owen Davis play and the production is excellently staged and developed. The theme is light and wholesome, the acting cleverly appealing and the situations handled with all the finesse of which veterans are capable.

Dix takes the role of youth, honest and industrious, but temporarily downcast and in need of a job. At the crisis in his life, he meets a girl, and almost simultaneously is unwittingly induced to aid a clever but good natured crook in a bank robbery. When he discovers what he has done, he is in such a position as to make restitution difficult and embarrassing and those persons most interested in recovering the money do all in their power to frustrate his good intentions.

The part is one peculiarly adapted to Richard Dix's art. It is a fast-moving, action producing part with a distinct note of sympathetic humor which is easy to understand and easy to respond to.

Supporting Dix is Nancy Carroll, whose previous success in the picturization of Anne Nichols' "Able's Irish Rose," won her a favored place on the screen. She increases her lead on real movie fame by her work in this picture. A full cast of well known Paramount players portray characters which are decidedly representative and appealing.

PARTY VISITS KAWARTHA LAKES

Executives of General Motors Are Greatly Pleased With the Trip.

On June 23rd and 24th a party of executives of General Motors of Canada, Limited, Oshawa, Ontario, visited the Kawartha Lakes. Arrangements for their trip data and so forth, had been previously supplied by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, who believe the Oshawa field is worth exploiting in a publicity way. Of interest to Peterboro people is the following letter from those who made the trip, and who are contemplating a return trip this Fall:

"I would like to say that everything turned out 100 per cent.

"The arrangements, we might say, were very satisfactory and we must thank you very much for your kindness given us in this matter.

"There may be a possibility that I may be in touch with people who are desirous of going to the Kawartha Lakes for a holiday and would suggest that they get in touch with your office for the necessary arrangements. We are contemplating another trip on September 15th.

"Again thanking you for your kind help in arranging this very pleasant week-end."

SHAPING UP FOR ONTARIO GOLF TITLE

Once again the Ontario open golf title goes up for competition at Hamilton. Last season, for the third time in four years, ANDY KAY, the Lambton Club pro, romped off with the silverware, notwithstanding some hard luck, for in the final round his ball struck a spectator at one hole and dropped on a road, while at another it hit a caddie on its way to the green. Fortunately for Kay, he didn't have a monopoly of the bad breaks, Nicol Thompson, one of his most dangerous rivals, landed in a troublesome bunker at the tenth and several times rolled right over the hole on the green. SANDY SOMERVILLE, the brilliant amateur of the London Hunt Club, was unlucky in being matched against Kay in the earlier rounds and thus eliminated much sooner than was expected. Sommerville is nevertheless a force to be reckoned with in Canadian golf. During last year's championships he played with steel shafted clubs and the increased distance imparted thereby to his drives was noticeable. Sandy is perhaps the longest driver in the Dominion. The rivalry between Somerville and Don Carrick, famous Varsity boxer and rugby player has been one of the high lights of Canadian amateur golf but last year Sandy broke into an early lead over Don and held it throughout. This year Somerville will be again seen in the Ontario open.

"I wasn't buying adjectives— I wanted FACTS" Said one owner.

That's Why He Bought a Whippet Six

We presume you too, want the unadorned facts. Facts that are the outcome of exhaustive tests. So here they are in brief form. A two-minute study of these facts about the Whippet Six will prove to you that in all your automobile experience you have never seen so much value for so little money—never.

1. NEW WORLD'S RECORD for speed and endurance in a 24-hour run of 1357.5 miles.
2. 7-BEARING CRANKSHAFT (instead of the usual 3 or 4) gives vibrationless smoothness and brilliant performance.
3. HIGH-COMPRESSION ENGINE—speed over 65 miles an hour, and the ability to maintain it steadily.
4. ACCELERATION—5 to 25 miles in 7.2 seconds.
5. ECONOMY—24.7 miles per gallon—oil consumption remarkably small.
6. LOW-SWUNG BODIES in rich color tones, smart interiors luxuriously upholstered.
7. THE LOWEST PRICE IN THE WORLD for a 6-cylinder car with 7-bearing crankshaft, Invar-strut pistons, silent timing chain and many other advantages.

Willys-Overland has been doing some great things this last four years—and the new Whippet cars are in many respects the greatest things Willys-Overland has done. Record breaking sales prove the public's marked preference for Whippet values. The first five months of 1928 were by far the greatest in Willys-Overland history.

In May of this year 44,559 Willys-Overland cars were shipped. Demand continues at the same high level. July marks the two-millionth automobile by Willys-Overland. Production during the first half-year just completed greatly exceeds the entire output for 1927. This unit volume now makes Willys-Overland the industry's third largest producer.

Step in and see these remarkable cars—enjoy a demonstration. Only then can you fully realize their unapproached value.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY HUSBANDS RUN AWAY.

Among the various lost and found bureaus in a great city there is one for lost husbands. When a woman comes to his bureau to say that her husband has disappeared the officer in charge assures the distracted wife that over ninety per cent of strayed, lost or stolen husbands are recovered. This is certainly a very high percentage as compared with ordinary recovery of lost articles.

The other startling thing about lost husbands is that they are not running off with some other woman as it commonly supposed. They are running away from a woman and not after one. This we have upon the same high official authority who says that the great majority come back.

Running away from home is the poor man's divorce. He cannot afford a legal divorce so he takes to the road. His course seems to be the less permanent, because he can usually find some pretext or other for coming back. Many of them get lonesome in a strange place and are glad to return. Others are broken and out of work in the distant city and telegraph to wifey dear for the price home. And now and then a man finds better employment and sends for his family.

Deserters are named according to the cause for running away: 1. The "spurious deserter" merely pretends to abandon his family in order that they may secure aid from charity. 2. The "gradual deserter" has good intentions but being away from home so much he gets used to it and finally fails to return. 3. The "periodic deserter" leaves at certain regular intervals such as spring or winter or whenever the urge impels him; 4. The "temperamental deserter" leaves after a quarrel or when he is impelled by wanderlust or some other emotional cause; and, finally: 5. The "last resort" type of deserter who has honestly tried in every way to adjust his family li'e and finds the situation impossible.

The fact that such a large percentage of deserters return would seem to prove the wisdom of a prolonged vacation as an effective preventive of family troubles, desertion, and divorce.

LYRICS OF LIFE

BLAMELESS

Let me smile, but let me smile
Not at my friends but with my friends.
Yes, let me laugh a little while,
But not if someone's laughter ends.
Let not my gain be someone's loss,
Let not my crown be someone's cross.
I cannot see the joy of things
If joy it takes, not joy it brings.

Let me rise to some success,
But not if I must push aside
Some other fellow in life's press,
Some brother who as bravely tried.
For this is what makes betting sin:

IN POLICE COURT

CAMPBELLFORD, July 14. — Charged with fraud in connection with a motor deal, a Seymour township man paid fifty dollars and costs into court this afternoon. The charge arose from the removal of three tires from a car after the dealer had seen the car and arranged terms for the transaction.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Upon arising in the morning, do the standing-up calisthenic exercises which I gave you several days ago.

After you have completed your morning exercising, take a warm or cold shower bath.

BREAKFAST: One poached egg,
One shredded wheat biscuit,
Small dish of stewed raisins.

Try to take a short walk during the morning; I am sure you can find the time, even if you are working in an office.

LUNCH: Cooked string beans,
Sliced tomatoes.

About four or five o'clock in the afternoon, you are to take your usual afternoon walk, but this time you should be able to walk at least two miles. Gradually increase the distance each day, as your strength permits.

The walk is very important, especially for those who wish to reduce weight around their waist and on the buttocks and thighs.

After returning from your walk, take the exercises you have been doing, and add the following:

Lying on the Back.

1.—Hands extended over head. Raise upper body—keeping knees stiff—touch the legs as far towards the feet as possible with the finger tips.

2.—Raise knees alternately to chest and return. Raise knees together to chest and return.

After you have completed your exercises, take the daily enema followed by a cold shower bath.

It is a good plan to rest for a few minutes before having your dinner.

DINNER: Small portion of lean mutton,
Cooked cucumbers,
Salad of lettuce and tomatoes.

The following recipes explain the preparation of foods recommended in the above diet. These recipes will not be repeated.

SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUIT: Break the biscuit open and retoast under the broiler. Because of its being so brittle it can be eaten by pouring hot water over it, and then seasoning with butter. It can be eaten with a spoon, and is a very tasty substitute for toast.

STEWED RAISINS: Wash the raisins well and soak over night in enough water to cover them. Cook slowly in the same water until well done. Do not add any sugar to the raisins. Use only pure, sun-dried, unsulphured fruit.

MUTTON AND LAMB: You will find some difficulty in being able to obtain a leg of mutton in the butcher shop, as the butchers, at the present time, seem intent on selling only lamb, and will give you this immature lamb meat when you ask for mutton. It is always advisable to pick out the largest leg of mutton you can find, as this will usually indicate that the animal was more mature when butchered, and, consequently, that the meat will be more easily digested, immature meat being always more difficult of digestion. Mutton chops may be broiled, but the most desirable method of preparation is in the form of a leg of mutton. Roast with a slow fire, and on no account flavor the meat with onions, garlic or salt or any other seasoning.

COOKED CUCUMBERS: Cucumber may be cooked with or without its peel, but if the peel is removed, most of the strong acid, which is apt to irritate a delicate stomach, is removed along with it. Cook in just enough plain water to cover, so that too much flavor is not cooked out of the water. This may then be mashed and buttered and a little salt added, if desired. (If cucumbers cannot be obtained, summer squash, or succhini may be substituted.)

POACHED EGG: This is to be prepared in the customary manner. When ready to serve, season with butter and a very little salt. Be sure to cook over a slow fire. Eggs are more easily digested when cooked slightly soft, and are harder to digest when used in their raw state or cooked hard enough to become leathery.

A Secret — about Salads and Sandwiches

Fashionable and experienced hostesses know that it is the dressing on the salad or in the sandwich filling that spells success or failure for their efforts. And that is why they prefer to make this dressing themselves.

Freshly-made dressing has a tang and charm which add much to the flavour of any salad or sandwich, also it is pure — wholesome — economical.

Make your salad dressings in your own home — and use Keen's Mustard in every dressing you prepare.

We have prepared a fascinating little booklet containing many delicious new recipes for Salads and Sandwiches. We will gladly send you a copy FREE upon request. Write to-day.

Golden Dressing

1 cup canned pineapple juice, yolks of 2 eggs, ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons Keen's Mustard, 2 tablespoons lemon juice. To the hot pineapple juice add the sugar and flour (mixed together). Cook over hot water until thick, then add the beaten egg yolks and lemon juice and cook three minutes more. When cold add one cup of cream whipped.

There, now! I promised you sixty pictures this week, and you are going to have some time picking the winner. There were so many good drawings that I really don't know, myself, what one I would pick if I had to do it!

For seven years old, you certainly can draw a nice bunny, Isobel Milliken Where will you go when you get a car like that all for yourself. Annie Bromley? I don't think I ever saw a cuter looking pup than that of Edward Copperthwaite's, did you? And that's just the cutest little girl you have drawn, Frances O'Brien Is it your own picture? I'm sorry, V Markwick, that I can't make out your first name. That is a very pretty vase you gave us. Your steamer should be table to make good speed, Billie Turner, with all those funnels. Is your lady going shopping, Celestine Metcalfe, with her handbag? That's a great race horse and jockey, Anna Dwyer. Just see how the jockey's chin sticks out—he is certainly determined to win if he possibly can. Your kitten is all ready for rain, Jack Primeau, and the umbrella will keep that spotted dress from being spoiled. Isn't that a nice alarm clock Marjorie Benson has drawn for us? Your rabbit looks stuck up, Jean Anderson, but it's a very nice rabbit and maybe it can be excused Carl Henry's Indian has a lot of beads and feathers, hasn't she? Maybe that is Aunt Jemima that Marguerite Lambert has drawn—anyhow, the very look of her makes me feel hungry How did you draw that kitten, Margaret Pitchford? It's great. And your witch, riding on a broom, made the shivers run up and down my back, in spite of the heat, Kathleen Lawrence. Do you believe in witches?

Now, boys and girls, there are only 104 drawing left, and if we can get them all into the paper next week, then we'll start another kind of competition for you. Won't that be nice? You know, we have had hundreds and hundreds of drawings since we started th is contest in March. My basket was just filled to the top righ along until to-night—and now I have 104 drawings left. Of course, some boys and girls made their drawings too big, and others traced them, so that we can't print them.

What do you know about that? I've just found another drawing—making 105! Well, one more or less doesn't make muc hdifference—and doesn't make much difference—and look out for the new contest.

HERE IS THE VOTING COUPON:

WELCOME DETOUR UNSAFE FOR TRAFFIC

Bridges Are Being Constructed On County Road Near Canton.

Of interest to motorists journeying south on the Kingston Highway at Port Hope is the letter just received by the Peterboro Automobile Club from C. A. Robbins, resident engineer, Port Hope, giving interesting facts as to the condition of what we sometimes are pleased to call the Welcome detour. The letter says:

"The detour situation on the Port Hope-Peterboro road is admittedly rather difficult. The county, at the present time, are reconstructing a bridge at Canton, and we would hesitate to detour traffic straight south to the Welcome Road, as the bridges on the detour are none too safe. Within the next ten days or two weeks, it will be possible for us to bring traffic down the Port Hope Road as far as Rossmount, and then detour easterly for one mile and then south as far as Dale. This detour will only be two miles longer than the highway, and should be in fair condition.

"I do not see how we can better the conditions just at the present moment, and would suggest that you continue to direct traffic over the official tour."

SEEKS GIRLS' CAMP.

Parent Wants Suitable Camp For His Thirteen Year Old Daughter.

The following letter just received at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce, Peterborough, might prove food for thought on the part of some person, or persons, who might be interested in establishing, in the Kawartha Lakes area, a girls' camp, similar to the many in the United States, and throughout certain area of Canada:

"Can you refer me to some camp in the region of Lakefield or Stoney Lake where I can secure accommodations for my thirteen-year-old daughter, which accommodations will include instruction in swimming and canoeing, and opportunities for tennis? If you know of such place please refer my letter to them, and have them send me particulars. I will furnish references acceptable to the management as to character and other matters that may be required."

ANOTHER VICTIM.

Joseph Fall Is Shot By Chicago Gunmen.

CHICAGO, July 14 (Canadian Press)—Another notch was carved in assassins' guns last night when two men in an automobile shot and killed Joseph Paul, 33, business agent of the Plumbers' Union.

Paul, lounging in his motor car parked in front of his home, was sprayed with slugs from automatic pistols.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Many have mistaken Churchianity for Christianity, thinking that the doctrines preached by the so-called church were part and parcel of Christianity. Some of these doctrines preached by the church are not only false and unreasonable, but absurd. The doctrine of "endless torment" believed by credulous ones has caused many to become insane, and others have been led to curse God and repudiate the Bible; others have become agnostics and indifferent; others have blindly and unthinkingly accepted what their church leaders have taught them; and some others have intelligently faced the whole question, and by using reason and common sense, have found out the truth for themselves, regardless of any preacher. The fire and brimstone mentioned in Matt. 25, 41, have been made to mean real fire and brimstone by Churchianity. The Bible makes it plain that the lake of fire and brimstone is a symbol of complete destruction and that the devil is to be cast into it, which means his destruction. Rev. 20, 11. — M. T. SEARCH BEGINS SEWER SCANDAL

Safety Deposit Boxes of Six Montreal Companies Are Opened.

HEINS IMPLICATED

MONTREAL, July 14.—Search for $3,000,000 alleged to be part of the proceeds of the Queens sewer scandal in New York City has been launched here. A writ of seizure was issued in the Superior Court offices to give access to safety deposit vaults of six local companies.

The action was taken by Attorney General Ottinger of New York through Bertrand, Guerin, Goudrault and Garneau, local attorneys. The suit is directed against the heirs of John M. Phillips, Francis Phillips, Francis Martin, Mrs. Francis Martin and two other persons to be identified by photographs, from which it is hoped identification may be made of the persons supposed to have deposited the money in a safe deposit vault here.

"Debt" is Demanded.

In the affidavit attached to the writ it is set forth that the defendants are personally indebted for a sum of $3,000,000. The debt, according to the affidavit, was created as follows:

For the past ten years John M. Phillips has defrauded the City of New York through conspiracy with Mauric Connolly and Frederick Seeley of the sum of $3,000,000 by selling directly or indirectly to the City of New York sewer pipes at grossly excessive and extravagant prices.

The defendants are secreting or making away with, have secreted or made away with, or are immediately about to secrete or make away with their property with intent to defraud their creditors in general or the City of New York in particular, and the plaintiff will thereby be deprived of his recourse against the defendants.

Around the City

Peace still reigns at the fire department. There have been no fires since the small chimney fire of the 12th, and the firemen believe that it is too good to last.

22 Pound Fish Caught in Waters Of Rice Lake

OSHAWA, July 14.—Take about fish stories! This one is real. Mr. and Mrs. Roy McKenzie of Westmount Heights, Oshawa, caught a huge muskellunge, forty-six inches long and weighing twenty-two pounds.

The lucky fishing enthusiasts were trolling in Rice Lake yesterday afternoon, when Mr. McKenzie, who was rowing and had the line held between his knees, felt a powerful tug, the forerunner of the greatest fishing battle so far this season. Using a light steel line with a Delaney spoon, Mr. McKenzie fought the fish for fully four miles, the battle lasting one hour and forty minutes. Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie alternated at the line, before the huge natator finally tired and rose to the top, following an effort worthy of Joe Wright, by Mr. Mckenzie, at the oars.

The muskellunge is a beautiful specimen with an exceedingly large head and with the tenacity of its breed put up a terrific battle before giving up the ghost.

A REAL CATCH.

NOT SERIOUS.

CORNWALL, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—With her left cheek slashed by a jack knife, Mrs. Emma Hunt is a patient in the Cornwall General Hospital, and her husband, Joseph Hunt, 28, is in the County jail here on remand for a week, having been sent down yesterday by Deputy Police Magistdate D. G. McDonell, on the charge of attempted murder, preferred by Sgt. T. W. Cousans, of the Provincial Police. The injury which is not considered serious, was the outcome of a dispute, police say, between the man and his wife at St. Lawrence Park, near here.

INDIANS BRING SACRED BELTS

Gather at Njagara Falls For Celebration of Treaty Rights.

HIDDEN IN WILDS.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Attending the celebration here to-day by several hundreds of Indians from Canada and the United States to mark the return to Indians of their treaty rights to cross the international border at will, five Algonquin Indians from Quebec have brought with them three sacred wampum belts which have lain hidden in the wilds of their province for 125 years.

Cached when the Algonquins feared the whites would make an effort to seize them, the belts only recently were brought to civilization by a group of Indians travelling by canoe and through forests. No one knows how old the belts are, but Chief Michel Cote, heading the visitors, states they were fashioned thousands of years ago. No white man has set eyes on them for more than a century.

FIRE BREAKS OUT ON PASSENGER LINER

NEW YORK, July 14.—Passengers on the Mallory liner Algonquin, which docked here yesterday after a trip from Galveston, Texas, Key West, Florida, told a story of a sleepless night after fire had been discovered in one of the holds, packed with cotton, while the ship was off Cape Hatteras Wednesday night.

A little curl of rank smoke, passengers said, crept through the ship's deck beams, late Wednesday evening and sailors investigating found there the cotton bales in number four lower hold, down against the keel, were burning. They promptly began pouring water into the compartment and against the sides of the adjacent holds.

In the meantime, Captain L. W. Leek had issued a warning to all of the ship's 300 passengers to be ready to leave the ship at any minute, and the life boats were swung out on the davits. At the same time he ordered full steam for New York.

After several hours, the crew was able to quench the fire, and the passengers were told they could retire in safety. The damage was confined to about eighty bales of cotton in the hold and some of the personal clothing of the stewards.

SOMERVILLE IN THE FINALS

Champion Will Meet Jack Cameron This Afternoon in Finals.

BEATS ABBOTT.

TORONTO, July 14. —(Canadian Press).—C. Ross Soommerville, of London, Ontario, and Jack Cameron of the Mississauga Club, Toronto, will meet in the final of the Ontario Amateur Golf Championship here this afternoon.

In the semi-finals this morning, Sommerville, the defending champion defeated Robert Gray of the Rosedale Club, Toronto, 4 and 3, while Cameron, bested 16-year-old Joe Thompson, of the Chedoke Club, Hamilton, 2 and 1.

Despite the heavy rains of last night the course at Lakeview Golf Club here is in excellent condition for finals of Ontario amateur championship.

Second Round

Somerville defeated Abbott, of Peterboro, 2 and 1.

Gray defeated Price, 6 and 5.

Cameron defeated Hoblitzel, 2 and 1.

Thompson defeated Biddell, 4 and 3.

CONERT ENJOYED.

Despite Bad Weather Quite a Crowd Gathered in Victoria Park Last Night.

Despite the elements last night, a wonderful audience assembled at the Victoria Park to listen to the second of the series of concerts to be put on this season by the Peterborough Male Voice Choir. A fine program was arranged by Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., conductor of the choir, and the three numbers rendered were received with pleasure. Assisting the choir on this occasion was Miss Daisy Murray, soloist, and her songs, four in all, were delightfully sung and received. A novel feature on the program was the appearance of the Harmonica Quartette. Messrs. Reynolds, Thompson, McCannan, and Wearing. These gentlemen put on four medleys of popular airs, and cleverly, too, and the audience were not slow to show their appreciation.

Community singing was another feature enjoyed by the assembly, and with the National Anthem, accompanied with a heavy shower of rain, the program was concluded.

H. L. Armstrong accompanied the choir.

The piano for the occasion was kindly loaned by Heintzman Hall.

G. RAEBURN CARMAN.

(Examiner Correspondence).

MADOC, July 14.—There passed away, recently, after a brief illness, G. Raeburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Carman, of Eldorado, aged 2 years and five months. He was a bright little fellow, and the whole community is saddened by his going. He leaves to mourn his loss his loving parents and a baby sister, Doris. At the funeral a comforting address, based on the eighteenth chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, was given by Rev. Adamson, minister in charge. Burial was in Fox's cemetery, Eldorado.

Veterans Honor Dead

Hold Annual Memorial Parade and Decoration at St. Peter's Cemetery.

BISHOP IS SPEAKER

Large Crowd Assembes to Honor Men who did not Return.

Legion Decoration Day at St. Peter's Cemetery was carried out with a very impressive service and with a large number of people present to pay their respects to the departed warriors. The dark and threatening clouds were symbolic of the thoughts in many minds as they remembered what the day was for. The massed units of the Canadian Legion, Peterborough Rangers, and the Fire Department marched into the cemetery headed by the Salvation Army Band playing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The parade, under the command of Captain J. A. Abraham, encircled the memorial square in the middle of the cemetery. Those present stood in the pouring rain with bared heads and reverent attitude while the band played "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

J. Abraham was in charge of the program and spoke a few words of introduction in which he said that on account of the threatening weather the speeches of tribute to the dead would be short. "We must not forget your sorrow is our sorrow. This is a fitting time to honor our glorious dead," he said.

Bishop O'Brien

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien was called on and was the only speaker of the afternoon, because the weather was unsuitable to hold the longer program that had been arranged. He said he was very glad to express his feelings and for the privilege of speaking. "Go and decorate those graves with flowers and let us who live decorate our own lives with flowers, kindness, goodwill, goodness, and consideration, so that we may help the living as well as the dead." With these words he closed.

Bandmaster F. Robinson sounded the Last Post and the assembly stood at attention before the lowered flag with bowed and bared heads. This part of the ceremony impressed many of the returned men more than anything else, recalling the many times they had heard it in Flanders where they left comrades never to return.

The veterans then decorated the graves. A wreath of flowers was placed on each grave, and A. Gash placed a tiny Union Jack on each grave for the men.

While the soldiers were winding in and out between the graves carrying out their duty of love and remembrance the sun broke through the clouds and shone upon them with a radiance which seemed to symbolize that their deeds were recognized by a greater power. There was only one little clear spot through which the sun shone past the dark

Boy Scout Body Bans D rive On Smoking By Girls As Not Part of Scout Work

NEW YORK, July 16.—The recent action of the executive committee of the Cleveland Boy Scout Council in suggesting the creation of a sentiment against smoking by women by the million Boy Scouts of our country" has been repudiated by the executive board of the Boy Scouts of America. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, takes the Cleveland body to task for acting in a matter which involves "misunderstanding as to the real aims and purposes of the Boy Scout movement."

He deplores the interpretations which have been given to the Cleveland resolution. According to some reports, representatives of the Boy Scout Council in that city said that Scouts would approach women smoking in public and ask them to give up the habit. Mr. West declared that the Boy Scout movement seeks to instil habits of good character in boys, but it does not intend to lead Boy Scouts to interfere in the private concerns of individuals.

FINE PROGRAM IS PRESENTED AT CHAUTAUQUA

Clever Entertainers Provide Amusement for Large Crowds.

MAGICIAN EXCELS.

Music and Humour Incuded in Afternoon Program by Novelty Company.

Saturday's double program at the Chautauqua tent was one of mirth and merriment, and the large audiences that gathered for both afternoon and evening performances seemed to appreciate to the utmost the efforts of the entertainers on both occasions. A popular concert by a trio of clever entertainers in the Grosjean Novelty Company made up the afternoon program, while Laurant the Magician offered the evening entertainment of mystery and mirth.

With music and humorous readings and a ventriloquial act, the two young ladies and the man in the Grosjean Company, headed by Miss Floss Grosjean gave an extremely snappy afternoon program. Their marimba-xylophone music was a feature, the trio playing some very fine numbers that included the famous "Poet and Peasant" overture, a group of old Spanish pieces that included "An Old Guitar" and "An Old Refrain," the lovely "Blue Danube" waltz, and the "Doll Dance," and a lot of popular, swift music of the jazz type. Their trio numbers with piano, banjo, and saxophone were also of the popular type and the solo xylophone selections by the male member of the trio were "Rainbow Ripples" and the pretty "Gipsy Love Song."

Miss Grosjean received enthusiastic applause for her ventriloquist's act, which was more than ordinarily clever. Her small doll partner, Jerry, was more human than automatic in his funny little speeches and he sang "School Days" in a manner all his own, with his mistress looking on in manifest pleased appreciation.

Miss Grosjean proved herself a very clever entertainer with her readings

CAMPERS END FINE HOLIDAY AT CLEAR LAKE

First Group Leaves Camp Skookum To-day after Pleasant Outing

HIKES ENJOYED

Ball Games Among Campers and with Visitors Provide Plenty of Sport.

The first camp period is over! With great reluctance the boys began packing their equipment in readiness for the departure from Camp Skookum on Monday morning for Peterborough and other points. It has been two weeks of joyous, exciting experiences.

Fortunately the weather, except for the last two days has been ideal from the camper's viewpoint. During the fine spell of weather about fifty boys between the ages of ten and twelve enjoyed camp life. Except for the occasional sunburn there was little to cause discomfort.

The first week was crammed full of work and play in getting the dock and water slide, etc., repaired. During this week only one trip was taken. That was a trip to Burleigh Falls which was partly by boat and partly by land. During this week a baseball tournament was held. In this, team No. 3, emerged victors after a stiff fight with No. 4. The same week the camp team played George street Sunday school team. The Sunday school won by 13-9. Until the last innings the camp was ahead 9-8.

During the second week a hike was taken to McCracken's Landing and a boat trip to Gilchrist Bay. On both occasions there was much fishing on the part of the boys, but few fish were caught.

During the last week the camp also had the pleasure of two visits from the C.G.I.T. girls who were camping on the opposite shore. On the last trip they brought their baseball team but failed to beat the boy's team, even with the aid of Doug. Loonis and his assistant.

On Sunday, visitors day, sixty-six visitors registered; also a visit was paid to the camp by the President of the Rotary Club, W. R. Morris. He was much impressed by the general air of good spirits shown by the boys.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday was a day of passing showers, some of them being quite heavy in some places and light in near-by localities My rain gauge showed a total of about one-third of an inch, or .34. Highest temperature yesterday 69 degrees; lowest last night 61.—W. P.

Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay—Light to moderate westerly winds; fine and warmer.

Northern Ontario — Moderate to fresh west to northwest winds; fair and warmer.

Ottawa Valley and Upper St. Lawrence—Moderate to fresh westerly winds; mostly fair and moderately warm; possibly local showers in eastern districts.

Maritimes — Moderate southwest winds; partly cloudy with fog; possibly a few scattered showers; much the same temperature.

To Banks—Moderate to fresh southwest winds; partly cloudy, with fog.

Lake Superior—Moderate winds; mostly fair; possibly a thundershower in west portion; warmer in east and warm in western districts.

Western Provinces — Mostly fair and a little cooler; probably a few scattered showers.

Death Falls Swiftly On Harry Donnelly Saturday Evening

Press-room Foreman of The Examiner Had Just Completed Day's Work.

FORTY YEARS HERE.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien Operates in a Vain Effort to Save Life.

William Harry Donnelly, 475 King Street, for nearly forty years press room foreman of The Examiner, died in hospital on Saturday night an hour after he had been struck on the head by a falling metal cornice in the Toronto Savings and Loan block just north of The Examiner.

Mr. Donnelly had just left The Examiner office after completing the run of Saturday's paper from the press, and was walking along the sidewalk about three feet from the wall, when a fragment fell from a height of twenty feet. A sharp corner of the heavy piece of iron struck the back of his head, and he did not regain consciousness.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien and Dr. Joseph A. Morgan quickly responded to the urgent call, and the injured man was carried to St. Joseph's Hospital in an ambulance.

Loved His Press.

After forty years of faithful duty with The Examiner, following a period with the old Review, Mr. Donnelly knew every idiosyncracy of the big press for which he cared and from which he turned out the more than ten thousand copies which were carried into every home in Peterborough and district. His was an unvarying-ly cheerful disposition, and for this, as much as because of his long association with the paper, he was admired and respected by all his fellow-employees.

Not only did his interest in The Examiner manifest itself in the care he took of his mechanical details. He was one of the proudest men in the shop when a "good sheet" was turned out, and he time and again made suggestions to the management that proved valuable in bettering other departments of the plant. When he was struck, he had in his hand what was probably the last copy of Saturday's Examiner turned out by his press, and certainly the last copy he had seen of the newspaper to which he had given so many years' faithful and outstanding service.

Operation Futile.

At the hospital, Dr. O'Brien operated immediately in a desperate effort to save the ebbing life. With a complete fracture of the skull, however, not all the surgical skill on earth could avail, and at seven o'clock Mr. Donnelly passed away. He had regained partial consciousness for a few minutes, and was heard to utter a prayer. Rev. C. V. McLean, of St. Andrew's United Church, was in attendance at the hospital, and Mrs. Donnelly arrived there before her husband passed away. There will be an inquest.

There are left to mourn this tragic loss, his sorrowing wife; two sons, Alex and Mac, and a daughter, Isobel, as well as his only sister, Mrs. George Buckham, Westmount.

If a man were as strong in comparison to his size as a flea he could pull a seven-ton load on a wagon.

Memorial Will Have 638 Honored Names

When, after many months of work, The Examiner closed revision of the list of names for Peterborough's War Memorial at six o'clock on Saturday evening, there were 638 on the Honor Roll. Of these, 400 were boys from Peterborough city, and 238 from the county.

The list has been published with corrections many times, and yet when the last call was made on Friday it brought in twenty corrections and fifty-one additions.

The Examiner handed over the list to the War Memorial Committee on Saturday night, to be sent to the sculptor.

FARMING JOBS NOT ACCEPTED

Peterborough Boys Show Inclination to Shun Learning Trades

SALARY CHIEF POINT

Humanity shows up its curious traits in applying for jobs at the local employment bureau. The Peterborough office gives The Examiner some interesting information. There are some men on the list who have been there year after year and seem to make the bureau a regular calling place and have a hard time trying to locate a job. When men and boys are in search of jobs they usually pick their positions, and have something in mind as to what they would like. Then there is the question of money. If the salary is large enough they might take any kind of a job, but there seem to be very few lads who want to follow trades at present, and there is no demand for farm positions. The men and boys seem not at all desirous of earning their living by farm work.

A returned soldier dropped in the bureau this morning in search of employment, and when he was offered a job on the farm he said there was nothing doing. At the same time there was a lady in looking for some one to help her husband on their farm, not for seasonal employment, but for steady work.

When applying for a job some of the applicants fuss and shine up, while others come in working clothes. This is attributed to the kind of work they are searching for as well as to the fact that there are always fussy persons who are as neat as a pin. Often when positions are obtained the men are able to take them up at once and if they are laborers they lose no time in getting to work by being ready in their working clothes.

Nearly everyone has a hobby or is mechanically inclined which gives him an idea as to what kind of em-

Peggy Joyce Shyly Admits Her Betrothal To Lord Northesk; They Await His Divorce

PARIS, July 16.—Digging her pink toes into the sand of Deauville beach Peggy Hopkins Joyce shyly admitted that she is marrying Lord David Northesk as soon as his divorce from the former Jessica Brown, of Follie fame, becomes effective.

Peggy said: "David's proposal was the most romantic I have ever had. Last night, when we were dining alone at the Ambassadeur, David went over to the orchestra, and asked it to play, 'When I Marry You.'

"A few minutes later, he whispered, 'When, Peggy' and I said, 'Yes,' and I guess that is all."

The future Countess Northesk delicately poised one white leg and dipped it into the water before joining the young Englishman, who was already bathing. Peggy shuddered, decided the water was too cold, and awaited his Lordship on the beach.

Besides, Peggy's bathing suit looked very impractical for bathing.

ADVENTURES OF ENGINEER DESCRIBED

Major John J. Hill Tells Rotary Some of his Unusual Experiences.

A FINE PROGRAM

Chautauqua Entertainers are Guests of Local Service Club.

Entertainers who are here to-day for the third day in the Chautauqua program were guests of Rotary at the weekly luncheon at the Empress, and their contributions were greatly appreciated by Rotarians.

Major John J. Hill, a Canadian, who spent many years in the darkest part of dark Africa, was the speaker and his rapid-fire recital of some of his experiences held his audience entranced.

Major Hill was one of the engineering staff of the Cape to Cairo railway, and when that line was being built was selected to go far ahead of the steel as an envoy of goodwill among the natives. For some years he did not see another white man, and had some amazing adventures among the bushmen.

The speaker's experiences with the black medicine man was told with a realism as well as with a touch of humor that made it full of interest and his description of the habits of the natives, who work only long enough to secure money to purchase ten head of oxen to trade for a wife, was equally effective. Major Hill declared that most of Africa was not governed by various European countries, as the map would seem to show, but really by the medicine men who were the greatest obstacle with which missionaries, traders, and prospectors had to contend. South Africa was one of the greatest countries in the world, and yet in spite of the millions of blacks there was a scarcity of unskilled labor because the natives for the most part refused to work.

In conclusion, Major Hill told of some of the adventures with gorillas, snakes, and other animals and reptiles during the construction of the Cape to Cairo railway.

Frau Hiser, of the Chautauqua entertainers, sang two numbers in delightful voice, his first offering being "The Desert Song" from the musical comedy of that name, and his encore the favorite, "For I Love You Truly."

Miss Opal Flood's readings were a feature of the program. The young entertainer first gave an amusing imitation of a small boy at bath time and then a couple of baseball readings that were both in the left field stand for a clean homer.

The artists were introduced by Rotarian George A. Gillespie of the local Chautauqua committee.

Vice-President Ross L. Dobbin was in the chair for to-day's luncheon in the absence of President W. R. Morris.

ONTARIO LADY DESCENDANT OF EXPLORER

Miss M. A. Cooke of Pembroke Claims Capt. Cook as Great-great-great Grandfather.

TELLS OF DESCENT

Hawaiians Plan to Celebrate 150th Anniversary of Discovery of Islands

(Special to The Examiner)

VICTORIA, B.C., July 16.—Does a descendant of the famous Captain Cook live in Ontario, in spite of the belief that has prevailed for half a century that the last of his relatives had passed away?

Miss M. A. Cook, of Pembroke, Ontario, who has been in touch with the Hawaiian Historical Society, seems to be in a fair way to establishing her claims of being a great great grand daughter.

The Hawaiian Historical Society has been investigating claims in England, Canada, and South Africa in connection with the sesqui-centuary of the discovery by Captain Cook of the Hawaiian Islands, being celebrated there on August 15 and following days. The event will be attended by warships from Britain, Australia, and possibly Canada.

Miss Cook has furnished Bishop H. B. Restarick, president of the Hawaiian Historical Society, with the following details: "I am Captain Cook's great-great-grand daughter. My Father, William Cook, was born on August 1, 1836 and died in Canada, Sept. 24, 1896. His father Robert Cook, was baptised on November 24, 1790, died May 17, 1881: buried at Sheriff Hutton. He was the son of James Cock, who was drowned January 25, 1794, aged 31. Robert Cook was the only grandson of Capt. Cook."

Commander Wild, who has for some years been farming in Northern Zululand, has been invited by the Hawaiian Historical Society to attend the sesqui-centenary as a direct descendent of Capt. Cook.

Upturned Canoe Seen

Two Boys Stated to have Swum Safely to Island This Afternoon

NOT NEAR CAMP.

Upset Occurred a Mile Away from Rotary Boys' Headquarters.

YOUNG'S POINT, July 16 (Special to The Examiner). — The report from Clear Lake that two boys had been drowned today was incorrect. A canoe in which a boy named Morris and a companion were paddling overturned, but the boys reached an island in safety.

The report reached Peterborough shortly after noon, and at that time search parties were reported out scouring the lake for two boys last seen in a canoe which later was found floating upside down. A sweater with the name of one of the boys was found, also, floating on the lake, and the two boys were missing from their cottage.

Apprehension was caused by the rumor, which associated the accident with the Rotary Boys' Camp. This was altogether incorrect, as the canoe was found a mile from the Rotary Camp, and there has not been any accident at the camp. The boys involved were not connected with the camp.

Search parties were about to leave from Peterborough when the contradiction was received by The Examiner.

(By Staff Reporter)

The two boys previously reported drowned were found quite safe on Hamilton's Island this afternoon. They are from Cleveland, and are holidaying at a cottage near Mrs. Graham's, close to the lighthouse, just a mile from Kawartha Park.

While they were paddling on the lake half a mile from the island, below Hanna's Lock a sudden squall upset the canoe and they were unable to right it. They struck out for the nearest land and reached Hamilton's Island safely, but exhausted.

The canoe, and the sweater bearing Morris' name, were found by Doug., Loomis and a boy from the Rotary Camp, who went to Kawartha Park under the supposition that the boys had been lost. The victims of the accident are now at their cottage.

BRITISH HAVE LEAD

WOULD ROUSE HOSTILITY.

Daily Chronicle Dubs Minister 'The Busy-Body in the Home Office."

LONDON, July 16 (Canadian Press Cable).—A speech by Sir William Joynson Hicks, Home Secretary, over the week-end, in which he said: "We desire to appeal to the great United States, when our signature is placed alongside that of the other nations and say to them: "We are signing the pact at your request, yet we understand you are increasing your navy,' provoked the Daily News, Liberal, to-day, to suggest that it is surely time that this appalling politician was muzzled by a special act of Parliament." The News cannot imagine, it states, any public utterances of a British Minister better calculated to arouse the angry hostility of the whole American nation.

The Daily Chronicle, in similar vein, refers to Joynson-Hicks as the "busy-body in the Home Office."

Firemen Enjoy Prolonged Rest

The fire department is still enjoying a prolonged rest. There has been no fire since the 12th of July to disturb the peace and quietness about the station.

Yesterday the firemen made a very nice showing when they fell in with the spirit of co-operation for which they are noted at the decoration service which was held at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Unemployment Line Longer in Britain; Luxury Trade Booms But Staples Lose

LONDON, July 16.—Nearly 8,000,000 people, or about 15 per cent. of the population of the United Kingdom, are in the poverty line, latest unemployment reports published by the ministry of labor reveal.

The army of unemployed has been growing since the end of May. The number of those receiving unemployment doles amounted to 1,149,000 June 11, and reached 1,218,000 July 2.

Export figures indicate an increase of nearly $17,000,000 since last year, but economists point out that this increase is far from satisfactory, since the luxurious trades have been booming while staple industries are losing ground daily.

The coal industry is the main sufferer. Output has fallen for the week ending June 30 to 4,437,000 tons, or a half million tons less than in the corresponding period last year. Other important industries, such as boots and shoes, textiles, jute, tinplate and shipbuilding show decreasing returns.

The increase of unemployment reduces considerably the purchasing power of the individual and the manufacturers cannot dispose of their goods. The result is that they are reducing output and increasing further the long line of men and women who are barely able to live out of the meagre dole the treasury is compelled to pay them.

Police Say Men Found in Bullet-riddled Car Attempted Hold-up.

DETROIT, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Peter Ziola, 20, was found dead in a bullet riddled car here yesterday. Nearby lay Carl Fitzpatrick, dangerously wounded. Police said they were hijackers and had probably attempted to hold up bootleggers.

Fire Destroys Overturned Car

A large touring car overturned about five miles down the highway on Saturday. The wreckage seems to indicate that the car was travelling at a high rate of speed. After the accident the auto was destroyed by fire. All evidences of ownership were removed, and the markers were taken off the car. The wreckage was removed some time between late Saturday night and early Sunday morning.

Soviet Vessel will Resume Search for Amundsen and Italian Parties.

MOSCOW, July 16 (Canadian Press).—The Russian aviator Chukhnovskiy and his four companions who were marooned by a forced landing near Cape Platen on July 12, were taken aboard the Russian ice-breaker Krassin at 10 p.m. Sunday. News of the safety of the party came by radio from the Krassin to-day.

The Krassin to-day was pounding its way toward Advent Bay to fill up its bunkers with coal in preparation for a further search for the missing Amundsen party and the six men carried off in the balloon of the Italia on May 26.

The search party, headed by the Norwegian guide Nose and three Italians, which had been sent from the Braganza to aid the Soviet fliers, also was taken aboard.

PITTSBURG DEALERS VISIT CITY

Presented Cup to City

Pittsburg Automobile Dealers Spend Enjoyable Day in City.

BANQUET AT NIGHT.

Colonel Dennis Presents Mayor Denne with a Handsome Silver Trophy.

A day of unusual pleasure, made possible by the excellent facilities and accommodation available in Peterborough district, as well as a general spirit of hospitality found therein, was afforded members of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, to the number of seventy, who arrived by special C.P.R. train on Sunday morning. They enjoyed a water trip to Jubilee Point, Rice Lake, on the steamer Stoney Lake, in accordance with the program of their annual four-day excursion, and in the evening sat down to a delightfully informal banquet in the Empress Hotel. There, the pleasures and profits of the day were reviewed in brief addresses by members of the touring party, as well as representative citizens of Peterborough.

The motor drive, which took place immediately following the end of the river trip, through the courtesy of local citizens, was a feature far from the least favorably commented upon.

An Annual Event

The four-day train excursion, an annual event, which this year brought the Pittsburgh party to the Kawartha Lakes district, left Pittsburgh at eight o'clock Saturday evening, five cars providing every facility for the enjoyment of those on board. The first, and most lengthy, stage of the trip concluded at the local C.P.R. station twelve hours later, and at nine o'clock, accompanied by the secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, as well as several private citizens, the entire party went aboard the boat. Jubilee Point was reached in due course, and there dinner was served by T. H. Hooper and sons, and many of the party attempted fishing, which, however, was not practical because of a high wind and rough water. Lunch was also served aboard the boat.

Took Motor Drive

An indication of the genuine hospitality which Peterborough citizens endeavor to extend to all American visitors, was the turn-out of some twenty, who, with their cars, drove the entire party about the city, out to Lakefield and returning by Chemong Park to the Empress Hotel.

Music Enjoyed

Music of an unusually enjoyable calibre, was provided at the banquet last night by Eric Roberts and his Ohioans, the orchestra which has proved so popular at Chemong Park this summer season, as well as by the Triangle Quartette of the Philadelphia company, which is a part of the excursion party. A continuous program during the supper hour was featured by the rendering of numerous request selections, as well as group singing accompaniments played by the orchestra which also appeared to be quite generous with encores.

Presented Cup

Colonel F. L. Dennis, as chairman during the evening, proved a most acceptable one, and he it was who introduced His Worship Mayor Denne, President James Dutton of the Chamber of Commerce as well as other speakers and who also, toward the close of the evening, presented Mayor Denne with a handsome silver trophy, a token of the appreciation of his fellow travellers for the kind hospitality extended to them.

Numerous Speakers

During the evening brief but sincere addresses of welcome were given

NEW TRADING FIELD

This map indicates where the Hudson's Bay Company hopes to open out a vast new trading field in the Western Arctic by establishing a 200-mile tractor trail from Cockburn Bay to Wager Bay and thence to the Hudson Bay Railway terminus at Fort Churchill. It is estimated that six months will be saved in transporting supplies and furs.

FIVE PUPILS SUCCESSFUL

Roseneath School Made Splendid Showing in Last Four Years.

FISH STORY.

(Examiner Correspondence).

ROSENEATH, July 16.—The five candidates of S. S. No. 2, Alnwick, who tried their entrance examinations, passed successfully, namely: Clifford Nixon, Neil Brisbin, Edward Turner, Bessie Turner, Hazel Covert. Mr. Marcena Davey, teacher. In the last four years, the Roseneath School has sent up twenty-four candidates and twenty-two secured certificates. The community is very proud of its younger generation and their teacher, Mr. Davey.

A number of tourists are holidaying at different points along Rice Lake, especially over week-ends; it has been difficult to get accommodation at some of the resorts.

A Fish Story.

Just as every season brings to light a new crop of flashermen, so also each season brings to light an entirely new crop of fish stories, and of course all fish stories are true, only some are more truthful than others, but it may be that the anglers in this section have not as yet learned the knack of elaborating on their tales of conquest on the lake north of the village. It is not so long ago that a local angler, after spending six hours on the lake without so much as a nibble, was rowing his weary way down the lake for his temporary home, disgusted with the world in general, and Rice Lake in particular, when suddenly there was a terrific jerk on his line.

Visions of a wonderful catch loomed large before the angler, and after several minutes of strenuous struggle, the line was pulled in, and there, dangling on the end of the troll was an almost tiny mud-turtle.

Since that day Rice Lake has had one less fisherman.

RAIN DAMAGES COUNTRY ROADS

Washes the Surface off in Many Places—Delays Paving Work.

MANY BROKEN SPRINGS

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 16.—What damage, if any, has been done to the crops throughout the district by the heavy rainfall of Saturday can only be roughly estimated as yet. But the roads throughout the district has suffered to a considerable extent. At times the downpour approached the density of a cloudburst and as it was accomplished by a wind, few persons and objects at all exposed managed to miss a thorough soaking.

At various places along the country roads the surface material has been practically all washed out. Particularly is this the case wherever fresh material has been placed on the hills. There has been an unusual demand for automobile springs over the weekend for cars which, although fairly common in the district, are not of the makes for which local dealers carry a complete line of spare parts. Drivers report that water flowed over the road at many low places and resulted in a stony surface being left which accounted for some of the minor repairs being required for motor cars.

At least two places along the freshly paved streets of the town, the material used for filling along the sides has been washed out, leaving the concrete base already laid, unsupported. This will result in a further delay in the completion of the paving program.

Local cottagers at Trent River were undecided whether or not to risk a wet weekend at their summer homes. The result is that many of them decided to remain in town.

LEADERS ARE LEAVING CAMP

Belleville Boys after Two Weeks' Fun Leave Moira Lake Camp.

FINE PROGRAM.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, July 16. — The Belleville boys of Community Camp, Moira Lake, are bidding good bye to the camp to-day, having been here from the 2nd to the 15th, and filled the time full of camp and community activities.

The Belleville Boys' Work Board has prevailed upon the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. to release Joe Shortt, the General Secretary, and Ralph Morden, the Physical Director of the local Y.M.C.A., in order that they can direct the Boys' Camp of Moira Lake.

The Y's men and the different directors of the Board of the Y. are supplying the necessary relief staff in order to allow these officials to spend two weeks in the Belleville Camp.

These men will have a good opportunity to serve the boy life of Belleville, as well as that of the county, as several groups of boys will be in attendance from Tweed, Cannifton, Trenton, Madoc, Corbyville, Stirling, etc

Rev. Mr. McCutcheon has agreed to give the campers at the Boys' camp an inspirational talk sometime during the two weeks' camp and Rev. G. W. Rivers of Madoc will also give an address to the boys.

Personals.

Mrs. Christie, R. N., of New York, Mrs. Holt of Oshawa, Mrs. Gerow, Mrs. Whattam, and Mrs. Welsh of Picton, were guests at the home of Mrs. William Orr, on Tuesday.

Misses Bessie Fleming and Jessie Duggan of Ivanhoe left on Sunday to attend Summer school at Knox College, Toronto. Miss Dugagn will visit friends at North Bay and New Leskeard before she returns.

Mr. Gordon Mansfield of Toronto, who spent the week end at Moira Lake landed a twelve-pound maskanonge.

TRY TO CLEAR UP MALMGREN'S FATE

STOCKHOLM, July 16 (Canadian Press).—The Russian icebreaker Krassin to-day was searching in the neighborhood of Brock Island, off North-East Land, in an effort to clear up the fate of Dr. Finn Malmgren.

The Krassin was prevented by fog from searching to the east for the six men who drifted away in the balloon part of the dirigible, and turned its efforts toward finding Malmgren.

"Try Again" Motto of Car Thief Who Succeeds In Sixth Attempt

MARMORA, July 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—Three unsuccessful attempts at least to steal a car were made in this village some time during Friday night. The lock of the rectory garage was forced open and traces were left by the would-be thief of his having attempted to get away with the Rev. A. B. Caldwell's new Ford, the thief-proof lock on the car baffling him.

The heavy lock on Kerr's garage proved no hindrance to this marauder, but inside, he discovered that there was no car good enough for his purpose; the only one being a car that the proprietor had had insufficient time to repair.

On Saturday afternoon, as Lloyd Bailey went for his car which he had left the previous evening in the United Church shed, he discovered that the switch and distributor had been tampered with in such a way as to suggest that the attempt to steal, had been made by a novice driver.

On Saturday evening, a sedan belonging to W. A. Sanderson who runs a livery here, was stolen after an unsuccessful attempt to get away with T. Warren's car and damage had been done to W. Forsythe's car.

ORANGEMEN CELEBRATED AT WARSAW

Fifteen Lodges of East Peterborough Clebrated Glorious Twelfth at Warsaw.

MANY SPEAKERS.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARSAW, July 16. — The Orange walk for East Peterborough was held in Warsaw on Thursday. There were thirteen L.O.L. Lodges and two L.O.B.A.'s, one from Havelock and one from Hastings, in the parade. The ladies were dressed in white, the Havelock group wearing orange hats, and the Hasting's one, white hats with red bands. The parade formed at the Warsaw Orange Hall about two o'clock and marched past the school, and back along Warsaw main street to the Baptist Church, where they turned and walked to George Brown's woods, where the addresses were made.

Grand Master Harry Wildman presided, Rev. Mr. Stillman led in prayer and Dr. Munro gave the address of welcome. The other speakers were: J. A. Sexsmith, ex-M.P.; Dr. Embury, M.P.; Rev. J. T. O'Conor-Fenton, Norwood; Rev. Mr. Stillman, Norwood; Rev. Mr. Philpot, Norwood; Pastor Eikenaar, Warsaw and Indian River; Rev. Hugh Brown, Havelock, and Rev. H. B. Herrington, Warsaw. Six ladies also spoke.

When the addresses were over the Lodges paraded to the village, and after walking around the cenotaph, were dismissed.

Automobiles of all descriptions lined the streets and filled the sheds. Many brought their lunches, but hundreds flocked to the United Church basement, where the Ladies' Aid served meals, or to Payne and Darling's rooms, where the Women's Institute provided lunch.

The Orangemen put on an entertainment in Warsaw Town Hall in the evening. Dr. Munro was chairman, and his orchestra played during the interludes.

Larry O'Brien was the main performer. His first appearance was in Highland costume. He wore several medals, and explained how they were gotten. He gave various numbers on the guitar and ukelele, some songs and recitations. His most appealing number was a song and story of an Italian laborer who came to this country, lost his wife, and, later, his little daughter Rosa. He wanted to buy a rose for her grave. At first the florist was nasty, but after hearing the story he gave him many roses. Another pretty number was a Dutch lullaby. He would have been a whole entertainment in himself, for his repertoire was very varied and all good. Before his last number he told that his grandfather, an orangeman, had lived in Cavan, and all his people were Orangemen. He belonged to the Blacks, and wore his black sash.

CEREMONIES ARE PLANNED

10,000 Troops and Squadron of Airplanes will Participate at Funeral.

MEXICAN FLYER.

NEW YORK, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Impressive ceremonies, in which 10,000 troops and a large squadron of airplanes will participate, are to mark the departure of the body of Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican flier, who was killed when his plane crashed near Mount Holly, N.J., last Thursday night, for Mexico City next Wednesday.

Captain Carranza was killed shortly after he set out from Roosevelt Field on what was to be a non-stop flight to Mexico City on the return journey from a good-will flight which took him from Mexico City to Washington.

At the request of Arture Elias, Consul-General at New York, no religious ceremony of any kind will be held in New York or at any point on the route of the funeral train which will bear the body of the Mexican ace to the capital of his own country.

Plans formulated yesterday by American and Mexican army officers provide for the largest military funeral cortege that has ever escorted the body of a soldier through the streets of New York.

SCIENCE IS BAFFLED BY BOY'S MALADY

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 12.—After a three-year fight to control an infection in the face of a boy, now 10, science has quit the case as hopeless.

Bill Mattingly, one-time prize baby, lies in his bed almost unrecognizable even to his mother. Four major operations and treatment by 14 doctors have failed to stem the tide of the disease.

Three years ago the boy bumped a pipe in his father's tin shop. Bone infection set in and now arm paralysis is robbing him of his only pastime, sketching.

FIVE BROTHERS MEET AT SOO

Hollingsworth Brothers Have Been Separated For 50 Years.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 16.—The five Hollingsworth brothers, William, James and Richard of MacLennan; Edward of Bar River, and John of Sublimity, Oregon, met recently for the first time in half a century. There were only five brothers in the Hollingsworth family and all are living. The last time the brothers were together was at the old home at Melrose in Hastings County before the family was broken up. John Hollingsworth left for Oregon to stay three months, but remained for 35 years. Edward and James came to Algoma in 1878, landing at the Soo where they stayed but a few days. They proceeded from here to Bruce, and finally located at Hilton on St. Joe Island. James and Richard also came to St. Joe Island, but later farmed in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. James returned to Algoma some time ago and Richard followed him in 1922. The eldest of the five is William, 75, and the youngest, John, 62.

Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the exchequer, who says once the dominions withdraw the trade preference now in effect for the benefit of Britain, the Old Country will take a sorry place as regards exports in comparison with the United States.

The United States, Sir Robert told a business men's meeting in London, was making a great effort to capture new trade in Australia and New Zealand. Great Britain had sent out excellent commercial travellers, but the Americans had gone one better by sending their business chiefs.

DOCTOR LEFT TO DIE ALONE

Dr. Malmgren Sent Italia Survivors Ahead on Long Trek for Help.

REMAINED ON ICE.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 16. — (Associated Press).—Dr. Finn Malmgren, with both feet frozen and an arm broken, sent Captain Filippo Zappi and Captain Alberto Mariano ahead on their trek for help for the survivors of the dirigible Italia, and himself remained on the ice to die alone, said a report to the Ministry of Defence, received on Saturday from Captain Thornberg, chief of the Swedish relief expedition at Spitzbergen.

The Captain quoted a message from the Krassin, where the Italian officers are recuperating after their rescue by the Russian ice-breaker from a small berg.

The report said that the two Italians carried away all the provisions of the trio in order to realize their plan of reaching North Cape and obtaining help for the six survivors, including General Umberto Nobile, whom they had left encamped on floes near Foyn Island.

The Swedish Admiralty Saturday night said that it had received no confirmation of Dr. Malmgren's death, and on the slim chance that he was still alive they have ordered the Swedish fliers in Spitzbergen on an intensive search in order to clear up the mystery as soon as possible.

Sacrifice Life.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend," was the tenor with which the affair was discussed in official quarters here. They recalled, too, a parallel to Malmgren's self-sacrifice in the case of Captain Lawrence E. G. Oates, who walked out into a raging Antarctic blizzard to die in order that three others of the fateful Scott expedition might have a better chance to reach safety.

Captain Oates' great sacrifice was in vain, but Malmgren's companions were snatched from the jaws of death three weeks after he bade them farewell.

Swedish officials are considering what steps they may take toward a formal inquiry into the whole Nobile expedition. One expert on international law said there was no hindrance from that body of rules but that difficulties of a political nature might be encountered. He believed that a method will be found, perhaps for Sweden, to propose a Norwegian trial of some sort since the Spitzbergen Archipelago is under jurisdiction of Norway.

General Nobile has sent a message here saying that he had no misunderstanding with Dr. Malmgren and that the relations of the whole party were at all times frank and hearty. Outlining the conditions which confronted them after the wreck of the Italia on May 25, the General said that the dirigible's radio set was workable two hours after the catastrophe.

Signals Sent Out.

Distress signals were sent out unceasingly for several hours, but then a defect developed and there was an interruption to these efforts of one day. On the evening of May 26, signals were again broadcast and this continued without interruption, day or night, until the morning of May 30. Yet no answer came from the outside world.

"The pack ice was in motion during these days, and our position was considered desperate, said General Nobile's message.

"Perhaps I, myself, was the only member of the party still hoping that the signals would one day be heard.

"Malmgren, Mariano and Zappi

Evening Examiner Fashion

A Modish Frock

There is nothing smarter than the coat dress for daytime wear, and the style pictured here has most slenderizing lines. An inverted plait at each seam provides for the necessary fulness, and the clever arrangement of the collar is new. There is a set-in pocket at the right side, and the sleeves are dart-fitted or loose. Buttons are sewn in groups at the left side and are the only adornment on this chic frock. No. 1667 is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 38 requires 3¾ yards 39-inch, or 3 yards 54-inch material.

MARION'S MAIL

"DEAR MARION:

Do you think conventional lies are justified? I was brought up in a very religious family, where nothing but the absolute truth was tolerated in most matters, but even my mother gave in to the "not at home" white lie when unwelcome visitors called.

Just as an instance, at a bridge party not long ago my hostess (whom I did not know very well) said to me: I do hope you like olive sandwiches. I just adore them, and I made these specially for your visit." Now, personally, I detest olives in any shape, and especially the stuffed kind when made into sandwiches—but what could I do except protest that there is nothing I like better?—and eat them of course!

Another evening I went to visit an amateur artist whose work is more prolific than beautiful. I was taken into a room where every wall was covered with daubs, and the artist stood expectantly by waiting for me to exclaim over each and every one. Worse than that, she demanded my candid opinion on some. Now, if I had obeyed my bringing-up, I should have said "Awful. I never saw good paint and canvas worse used." But could one? The artist positively glowed under my enthusiastic praise.

I shall be glad to know your viewpoint on this—and your suggestion as to how to tell the truth and keep friends too.

Yours very sincerely,
Dora."

Well! This is a problem. I think it should have been put up to a minister rather than to a Women's Page writer, because, you know, I simply have to keep friends! In fact, Dora, I'm going to ask some ministers, and perhaps I may have the answers for you next week.

"Dear Marion:

I want to tell you, from the point of view of a farm woman, how much I like your pages in The Examiner. Before you started The Whatnot and the other articles, the paper was just for the men folk, but now there's something for me to look forward to every day.

I live in a farming district not far from Peterborough, and we have our little troubles and annoyances here just as you have in the city. Just now there is an argument waging in our Ladies' Aid as to whether women should be independent or not—whether they should go in for careers or whether they should be just "home bodies." What do you think?

I really don't think the modern girl is so bad. She doesn't stay tied to mother's apron strings so long, but then she takes mother along out of the rut of home life and gives her a taste of youth again. But I do think that girls should be either independent or not—there should be no half and half, I think. There's no use in trying to make a happy home where a woman is going to give half her time to her husband and half to a career—neither will be successful.

I have a splendid recipe for a cocoanut mould dessert, if you would like to print it.

Yours truly,
Mrs. J. W."

I am more than delighted to know that you like my page, Mrs. J. W., and I hope that the women readers of The Examiner will help me to make it really worthwhile.

I can quite agree with what you say in regard to the half and half proposition in marriage. The transition of woman from dependance to independance is yet incomplete, with the result that she wishes to be independent while at the same time having some male upon whom she can fall back in case of reverse. Most certainly semi-independence does not seem to be working out in practice—look at the cases of divorce among women of "careers." There are two or three outstanding examples of success, of course, and no rule is yet set. How this question works out will be one of the wonders of the twentieth century. I shall be glad to know what other readers think.

Please send in your recipe for cocoanut dessert—these are days when such a name sounds inviting!

"Dear Marion:

A few days ago I heard this expression: 'That we are so often unable to say the things we feel is certainly one of love's greatest tragedies. Yet not one tenth the tragedy of being unable to feel the things we say.' Is this original?

Yours truly,
Another Marion."

No. It is used by Charles G. Shaw in "Notes on The Tender Passion."

• • •

"Dear Marion:

Is it true that if, say two writers marry, or two singers, the marriage turns out unhappily?

C. F."

Not at all, C.F. I can name, offhand, ten couples engaged in art whose marriages are all working—in the answer to "Mrs. J. W." I mentioned the outstanding exceptions and I saved them to answer your letter. In only 3 cases out of the ten does the wife use her husband's name professionally. They are: Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Hunt (Theatre Guild); Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford; Bertrand and Dora Russell, (lecturers); Lee Simonson and Carolyn Hancock (Theatre Guild); Elinor Wylie and William Rose Benet (novelist and reviewer); Kathleen and Charles Norris (novelists); Ted Shawn and Ruth St. Denis (dancers); Mary Lewis and Michael Bohnen (Metropolitan Opera); Carl and Irita Van Doren (authors); John Emerson and Anita Loos (she wrote "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and he turned it into a play and movie). You will notice that success in these marriages may be founded upon the parties speaking the same language—a different thing altogether from having the husband, say, an electrician, while the wife soared into novel writing.

• • •

C.E. There is no relationship between the names "Khaki" and "Khaiki." The former is properly applied to a cotton cloth in khaki color (resembling the color of the ground, from Hindustani for "earth") while the latter is a Japanese silk of plain weave, not so fine as habutai.

STARCHED LINEN AGAIN IN VOGUE

Stiff Collars and Cuffs Revived After Twenty Years Lapse.

PARIS, July 2.—Stiff, snug starched linen collars of the sort that women left off wearing eighteen or twenty years ago have been revived by a number of prominent French dressmakers. This may mean more starched work for the laundry men—but it may not, because there is no indication at present that the fashion is to become widespread.

Jenny of Paris psovides some of her new three-piece costumes with collars that have been called "curate's collars"—rather high, stiff, and fastened at the back. They are worn beneath the somewhat lower collar of blouses used with tailored suits. Sometimes there are stiffly starched linen cuffs to be worn beneath the closely fitted sleeves of the blouse.

Louiseboulanger, another prominent French dressmaker, also shows starched linen collars but these are usually of the shape that boys wear with Eton suits and are usually of colored linen. Lanvin is another French dressmaker who makes use of the stiff starched linen neck accessory.

Another late Victorian fashion which has reappeared recently, causing some concern among those who are content with comfortable styles as they are, is the pompadour. The last word in hair dressing for the short haired is the arrangement of the front hair brushed high up off the face for all the world like the high pompadour that Christie girls used to wear. It is considered extremely smart to wear the hair brushed in this manner with one of the new curate collars from Jenny.

FIGHTING MTOHS.

It is said that one hundred and four days is needed to complete the cycle of moth to moth. That is the time which is required for the moth to lay eggs, which are hatched into larvæ, these into pupa or chrysalis and later, into moths.

So the enterprising housewife would do well to see that her fur and woollen possessions, before being put away for summer, shall be absolutely free of moth eggs or larvæ. Because the little pests can go ahead for quite a length of time, having an enjoyable existence and feeding on the warm things that are needed for the following winter season.

Cold storage is advocated as a deterrent to the process of moth production. also mothproof bags and boxes. A preventive to the trouble is to have everything thoroughly cleaned before putting away, as the little villains prefer soiled and spotted garments to clean things.

The use of napthalene or dichloricide is advocated for confined spaces, such as parcels, boxes, chests and small cupboards.

The fumes, to be efficacious, must be confined closely. They will not injure the fabrics and are non-poisoneous to humans, but must be used in tight compartments to make them effective.

TRAVEL-LOG.

"THE UGLIEST CITY OF EUROPE"

The city of Reykjavik in Iceland has been called "the ugliest city of Europe," but I would not dare call attention to the slander, if I were not able to add, as Icelanders usually do, that in the first place, it is not in Europe, and in the second place, whoever it was who so christened it, has not been there of recent years to see how beautifully it has grown. When a tiny fishing village becomes the capital of a country, it takes a considerable number of generations to make it look like Paris or Vienna, and most folk who extend their summer holiday to include a cruise to Iceland, do not go there to see great cities, but a quaint and interesting life which Paris would like to boast of if it could. Corrugated iron buildings are slowly giving way to stone and the House of Parliament is a worthy building. But we go to Iceland to see how the people live amid hot springs, geysers and volcanoes, to see how they live where the season is too short to grow grain, to see their herds of cattle and ponies and flocks of sheep and watch the eider-down collected from the nests of the eider duck, all of which cannot be seen to as good advantage elsewhere and well repays a visit.

ONE OF THE OLD GUARD PASSES.

The sudden death of William Harry Donnelly, press-room foreman, has removed one of the old guard of The Examiner family and abruptly severed almost forty years' faithful and loyal service with this paper.

Harry Donnelly was one of the oldest members in point of service of The Examiner's staff, and yielded to no one in the establishment in interest in and enthusiasm for his work and for the paper to which it was his duty to impart the final operation before it came into the hands of the readers.

For almost four decades he had been in charge of The Examiner press-room, and he loved his press as old railway engineers loved their locomotives. He was rarely absent from work in all those years, and this paper has never had a more conscientious employee.

His unfailing good nature and his quiet unassuming manner made him a general favorite with members of The Examiner mechanical, editorial and business staffs, many of whom had been associated with him over a long period and fully appreciated his worth and his qualities.

It is difficult for those who have been his friends so long to imagine The Examiner press-room without the personality that has over all these years dominated that section of the office.

To the bereaved relatives the sympathy of the whole Examiner family goes out in fullest measure.

THE PRICE PETERBOROUGH PAID.

The price paid by Peterborough City and County during the Great War is revealed by the fact that the final list to be engraved on the local war memorial comprises the names of 636 soldiers of all ranks.

Of the city's quota to Canadian overseas forces no fewer than 398 made the supreme sacrifice, while the county's war dead consisted of 238.

In other words, one out of every fifty-two of the city's population laid down his life in defence of Canada and the cause for which the British Empire was fighting.

Plain indeed is the duty of the community to see that the self-sacrifice and patriotism of those gallant lads is fittingly commemorated, and it is a matter of general satisfaction that the unveiling of Peterborough's war memorial is an event that can be expected in the near future.

That ceremony will be a testimony that Peterborough has not forgotten and will not forget her brave sons who unhesitatingly offered their lives when their homeland and their Empire were in danger.

CLOSER INSPECTION JUSTIFIED.

Saturday's unusual tragedy was one of those inexplicable twists of fate that seem to confirm the theory of those who are believers in predestination.

That this heavy piece of ornamentation which for many years has withstood the attacks of winter blizzards and summer gales should on a calm July afternoon suddenly topple from its position and in its fall strike down and fatally injure a well-known citizen, is a fact that brings home the uncertainty of human life.

It should cause, too, a more careful inspection of buildings, especially those of ancient construction, many of which have similar ornamentation to that which caused Saturday's accident, and have been standing long enough to suggest reasonable doubts as to the safeness of such decorations.

Now that the danger has been tragically demonstrated it would seem essential that other possible sources of peril should be dealt with, for the conclusion is justified that if one piece of iron-work can fall on a calm afternoon there may be others that but await the next high wind to come crashing down into the street.

There are many venerable buildings in the business section and elsewhere that might well be checked up from the viewpoint of possible accident hazard.

KILLING GEORGE YOUNG.

There are signs that Ontario people are to be treated to another deluge of publicity in regard to the coming marathon swim at Toronto, and more particularly about George Young, the Queen City boy who won the Catalina contest and was a dismal failure in the Exhibition race last year.

It does not seem to have occurred to some of the Toronto newspapers that their readers were served with so much clattertrap and rubbish about Young and his troubles before the last race that long before the date of the marathon most people were hoping that he would be beaten, and no tears were shed when this hope was realized.

Publicity of that kind that goes into details to a sickening degree has a reaction that is bound to hurt the recipient of such dubious favors at the hands of newspapers that do not know when to let go of a story.

George Young was killed as a Canadian hero by the rubbish some of his newspaper backers printed about him, and now the same mistake is being repeated.

Let us hope those papers will let Joe Wright alone; he is too fine a sportsman to be made a victim of such crude journalistic judgment.

ROADSIDE VANDALISM IN QUEBEC.

The Minister of Roads of Quebec, the Hon. J. L. Perron, is much incensed because a census of the trees planted along the highways of the sister Province has revealed the destruction or maiming of no fewer than 1,321 of them, and threatens suitable punishment for any individual who is found guilty of this form of "pure vandalism."

It must be disheartening for Mr. Perron and those who are associated with him in the establishment and control of the provincial roads to find their efforts to beautify those highways thwarted by the deliberate vandalism of wayfarers. The trees that have been destroyed were in the great majority of cases mere saplings, some of them being not more than six inches in diameter. They were planted for the express purpose of rendering the highways more agreeable for motorists and others making use of them. And now more than 1,300 of them must be replaced because they have been broken or maimed by passers-by.

Mr. Perron is not alone in making the complaint that he utters. There is something almost inexplicable in the attitude assumed by people who will deliberately break down a tree or trample upon a bed of flowers. And yet the thing is being done every day wherever trees have been planted to advantage or a flower-bed established for purposes of beautification. There seem to be individuals, adults as well as juveniles, who simply cannot resist the temptation to set at naught all of the efforts which are being made to render communities more beautiful and more pleasant. Mr. Perron takes the proper ground when he indulges in vigorous protest against the practice and threatens to make it hot for any person found to be indulging in it.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

POSSIBILITIES OF EMPIRE TRADE GROWTH.

It has been a question for many years for certain writers to predict the downfall of the British Empire or its disintegration. An American correspondent of the New York Sunday Times takes recent trade statistics as the basis of his article, to show, or rather to suggest, that while the Dominions broke away from Great Britain politically at the last Imperial Conference, they will soon be free economically and spiritually.

In the House of Commons the other day Sir Phillip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the Board of Trade, portrayed the situation with a few elementary figures:

Of the United Kingdom's imports in 1923, 24.87 per cent. came from the British Empire, 40.27 per cent. from Europe and 34.86 per cent. from the United States, South America and the rest of the world.

In the first three months of 1928—notice the slight difference—the figures were 29.35 per cent. from the Empire, 36.7 per cent. from Europe and 33 per cent. from the rest of the world.

Thus in fifteen years there has been an increase of 4½ per cent. in the Dominions' exports to the Mother Country. Conservative England may consider that progress, but the colonies, more impulsive and ambitious, do not. They feel that more should have been achieved with a British market of fifty millions who must be fed and a British manufacturing industry which has an insatiable appetite for raw materials.

There are, of course, a few important commodities in which the Empire leads. Twice as much wheat, meal and flour and twice as much frozen mutton and lamb come to the Mother Country from Canada and Australia as fro mthe rest of the world together. Wool from South Africa and Australia is bought by England in overwhelming quantities, compared with other wool-producing countries. Tea for this greatest tea-drinking nation comes from within the Empire—from India, Ceylon and Hongkong. Cocoa from British West Africa, leather from India, cheese from New Zealand, rubber from Malaya, Straits Settlements and Burma—there are other Empire products which England is buying in preference to those of other countries.

But there is another side to the picture. England still buys more oats from the United States and the Argentine than from Canada. England buys ten times as much maize from Argentina as from her own Dominion of South Africa. Great herds of cattle roam the fields of Australia and Canada, yet England has given Argentina a virtual monopoly of the chilled beef entering her ports. And from the United States and South America England buys three times as much frozen beef as from Australia and New Zealand.

England buys five times as much ham from the United States as from Canada; she buys more ox and cow hides from Italy and Argentina than from all her own empire countries. She buys more rice from the United States than from British India, twice as much coffee from Central America as from her own coffee-producing colonies, more hemp from the Philippines than from her own hemp-producing domains in the East.

The American correspondent places too much stress on the trade figures submitted by the Board of Trade. He gives no place to sentiment which is a very potent factor in keeping the Empire together. England has always been a Free Trade country, believing that trade and business know no international barriers. She has dealt with others on that basis, her own ports being free for world products. Perhaps a change is coming in this regard, and Empire preference will govern future policy. But the statistics given in the House of Commons should be convincing enough that there are great openings for trade within the Empire. The Dominions can, like Canada, seek other fields for business and we are wisely doing so. The Empire, however, rather than being anywhere near disintegration may be on the threshold of remarkable expansion. The British people realize this; hence, London is placarded with signs as to what British Empire goods may be bought to advantage. The expansiveness of the Empire has not yet been fully appreciated by the Britisher, who still buys his wine from Portugal whereas it can be bought within the Empire. The same with tobacco, and other commodities.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is to be hoped our Pittsburgh visitors were given to understand that yesterday was not a fair sample of a July day in Ontario.

Lieut. Desmond Burke has once more just missed getting the King's Prize. The Ottawa crack has in five years won the coveted honors once and has twice finished second—a wonderful record.

July resembles Governor Al Smith inasmuch as both seem to be running on a wet ticket.

If consistency is a jewel, the Peterborough baseball club is a gem of purest ray serene inasmuch as it has lost five games this season to the Kingston Ponies.

Another use for auto horns is to applaud band concert numbers.

Several cities are taking action against too noisy radio loud speakers. But saxaphone players are so far at least immune from prosecution.

An escaped lunatic was recently recaptured while he was giving a lady his seat in the Tube. He certainly shouldn't have drawn attention to his eccentricity like that.—London Punch.

"Man wanted for gardening, also to take charge of a cow who can sing in the choir and blow the organ."—Yorkshire Post.

"Knickerbocker's" is singular; they look that way.—Oshawa Times.

The Question Box

P.B. Q.—What city is it that is called "Modern Athens"?

A.—Two cities have been called this fanciful title, but Edinburgh, Scotland, has prior claim. The other is Boston, Mass.

* * *

M.D. Q.—To build 400 superficial feet of wall, 8-in. thick, how many brick do I require?

A.—About 6,000.

H.M. Q.—Whether is beech or ash the heavier wood?

A.—Beech.

G.C. Q.—Where is the National Gallery of Canada?

A.—The National Gallery of Canada is in Ottawa. It owes its existence to the Marquis of Lorne when Governor General from 1878 to 1883. It was not, however, until 1907 that the National Gallery began to come into its own through the backing of the Royal Canadian Academy and the appointment of the Advisory Arts Council and later a Board of Trustees. It contains a valuable nucleus of paintings which are often sent out for loan exhibition in the larger Canadian cities.

GOD'S MINUTE

Nay in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us. For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things, present, nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.—Rom. 8:37-29.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, in Whom we live and move and have our being, we render Thee our humble praises for Thy preservation of us from the beginning of our lives to this day; for Thy many mercies we bless and magnify Thy glorious Name. And since it is of Thy mercy, O gracious Father, that another day is added to our lives, we here dedicate both our souls and our bodies to Thee and Thy service.

We would remember before Thy Throne of Grace all those who are near and dear to us, and all for whom we are bound to pray.

Be merciful to all who are in any trouble, and be graciously pleased to take us and all things belonging to us under Thy Fatherly care and protection this day, and for evermore.

We ask it for Christ's sake. Amen.

A Thought

POWER OF ELOQUENCE IN THE PULPIT.

(By V. R., Campbellford.)

What is a man worth to-day if he is afraid of the tongues of the people; if he is afraid that someone is going to sneer at him? What the church people need to-day is plainer and more forcible language. A messenger from God cannot stand behind the pulpit Sunday after Sunday and give to his congregation something that is foreign to their ears; something that lacks explanation. A preacher cannot stand behind the divine desk with his hands behind his back, head bowed to fifteen or twenty sheets of notes, and then expect the people to see God with quivering, shining faces. What the preacher needs to-day is the power to speak the self-expressive, thrilling and persuasive language.

How is one to reach the uneducated, cold, dying hearts of people if he stands in the altar motionless and cold himself? One has to get out from behind the pulpit and read the hearts of his people first. Then preach as Jesus preached, with simplicity, eloquence and new hope.

Eloquence is a solace to the saddened. It bursts the smouldering fires of religious sacrifice into flames. It heals and softens the hearts that once were hardened with stiff, icy language.

What is needed is more positive preaching by men who have experienced second birth through the spirit of God. Why are so many people loosing grip on the old faith? Why are the churches being run with clogged wheels? It is because our faith has been severely shaken by the lack of powerful, yet simple, preaching.

To be eloquent behind the pulpit one must preach the candid facts of truth. The voice must reach the ones outside the church as well as the every-Sunday worshipper.

There are throngs of people who are slipping away, and it is up to the ambassadors of God to clean up those rusty wheels.

God wants men whose eloquent manner and voice will reach the staggering, bruised and storm-tossed humanity. Voices are needed that will bring the finger of God before the eyes of the world. Come on, ye ambassadors, and speak with lifted head and glowing face. Must old religion die because we have failed to wipe away those shadows that dim the sinners' eyes from the glowing sunset?

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 16 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain here on Saturday notwithstanding the fact that local exporters offered wheat in all sections at lower prices. There was some demand from New York exporters for Argentine corn, and a lot of 40,000 bushels was sold at $1.09 per bushel, c.i.f. for shipment to the United Kingdom through this port. The car lot trade in oats was quiet, and prices were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was done in spring and winter wheat grades of flour, and prices were firm.

The trade in all lines of millfeed was quiet, but the undertone to the market was steady. The movement of standard grades of rolled oats was small, but prices were unchanged.

The demand for all grades of eggs continued good, and values were well maintained. The receipts on Saturday were 764 cases.

The butter trade was again of a disappointing character, and the undertone to the market was easy. The receipts were 5,640 packages.

The cheese market was without any special feature to note. The receipts were 12,089 boxes.

FORT WILLIAM GRAIN.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 16 (Canadian Press). — Shipments of all grades from the head of the lakes last week were 3½ million bushels less than those of the previous week, stocks being reduced by less than 4½ million bushels standing at 41,052,834 bushels, of which over 36½ million are wheat. Oats and barley showed a slight increase. For the last few days grain shipments have been below a million daily.

In the Western Inspection Division, visible wheat stands at 55,217,386 bushels, of which over five million is in store at Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

Vancouver receipts for the last week were small, being 505,304 bushels of wheat and 13,614 bushels of oats, with ocean shipments of 766,883 of wheat. Prince Rupert neither took in nor shipepd any grain

Following are the figures of stocks, receipts and shipments at the head of the lakes for the week:

In store — Wheat, 36,676,548; oats, 1,294,253; barley, 763,030; flax, 1,003,968; rye, 1,315,015.

Receipts — Wheat, 4,486,238; oats, 649,886; barley, 251,951; flax, 78,341; rye, 93,082.

Shipments — Wheat, 9,087,630; oats 402,012; barley, 58,862; flax, 28,3207; rye, 99,749.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 16 (Canadian Press). — General selling of wheat and corn resulted on Saturday from favorable weather and from prospects that Monday would witness record-breaking big receipts of wheat south-west. Besides, European demand on Saturday for wheat from North America appeared to be virtually at a standstill.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Friday's finish to ½c lower, with corn 1½c to 2½c down, oats at ¾c decline to ½c advance, and provisions varying from 2c setback to a rise of 50c.

Kansas City in particular was reported to be looking for a greatly enlarged volume of arrivals of newly harvested winter wheat. Bears made much also of assertions that wheat crop conditions in Canada have never before in thirty years been so ideal as at present. In this connection, forecasts of a very early harvest in Canada were circulated, with a start in many districts predicted for as soon as August 1.

On the other hand, black rust reports from the North-west were given a little more consideration on Saturday than has been the rule of late. One report from Fargo, N.D., said that rust conditions would be as bad as in 1916 if the weather becomes hot and muggy. Late advices of hail and rain in some sections of the wheat harvest region south-west tended likewise to bring about price rallies as the day neared an end.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 16 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here on Saturday as follows:

Demand—$4.87⅛ to $4.87¼.
Cables—$4.87⅛ to $4.87¼.

Chemong

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Chemong Park is beginning to assume its usual summer activity. Most of the cottages are occupied. There are a few still empty, notably those of Commandant Bunting and Major McElhinny of the Salvation Army, both families are expected to take up residence next week.

Mrs. Jordan's cottage is without a tenant and Mr. and Mrs. Griffin are expected to occupy this cottage soon

The cottage owned by Mr. James Lewis is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Webb and two daughters, of Kitchener and Mr. and Mrs. Dolby, with two sons, from California. Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Dolby were formerly the Misses Worth, of Peterborough.

A rather alarming accident happened to Mr. and Mrs. Redman, of Toronto, when a flash of lightning struck their summer cottage in the park last Sunday during the thunder storm. The lightning came down the chimney into a bedroom, ripped off the wainscoating, stripped one of the rafters, knocked a piece of wood right through a chair and greatly alarmed the inmates, none of whom fortunately was hurt. Mrs. Redman said it seemed like a bomb exploding. Others who saw it from without said it was like a ball of fire. The damage is now being repaired.

Fish seem plentiful in Chemong lake this summer. Several good catches have already been reported. Mr. C. Forsyth, of Bridgenorth, caught 8 lunge last week. Mr. Roderick Davis of Peterborough, caught six bass and two lunge, while Mr. Ronald Theamer, of Kitchener, had a similar catch. Two American visitors, who live in Dan Sullivan's cottage, were fortunate in getting three good sized bass, while a stranger caught a fine lunge in five minutes.

Most of the cottagers are now illuminated with the electric light and find it a wonderful convenience.

Rents for cottages are lower than usual this year, some of them being let for less than ever before.

Mr. H. Forler, of the Pavilion, said the detour was not keeping many of the younger people away from the Park, although he did think it was keeping some of the older folks from coming out.

Opinion has been expressed by prominent Peterborough people that a mistake was made in closing Chemong road entirely. They seem to think that a path should have been left, as a one way road from the city to the lake and the detour by Jackson Park should have been used as a one-way road back to the city. Adverse criticism was also made with regard to the present state of part of the Lindsay road, where loads of earth and gravel are being dumped with little or no attempt at levelling it.

ARRESTS MADE.

RUETHARY, France, July 16. — (Canadian Press).—Border police officials say that numerous arrests have been made throughout Spain to suppress what is termed a widespread plot against the Government. All the frontiers were under strict guard to-day.

LORD PLUMER WILL VACATE POSITION

LONDON, July 16. — (Canadian Press).—Field-Marshal Lord Plumer, as already announced, is to vacate the position of High Commissioner for Palestine and Trans-Jordan. Lord Plumer, who was 71 in March, is well remembered by Canadian veterans both of the Great War and of the South African War. In the Great War he commanded the Second Army during some of the most eventful operations on the Belgium front, in which the Canadian divisions were involved. The Field-Marshal always had a good word for the Canadians. He had Canadian troops with him almost all through the war. The 2nd Canadian Casualty Clearing Station operated with the 2nd Army, on the Connaught lines, near Poperinghe, for two years. Whenever the Canadians scored in the long, heart-breaking contest, the first telegram of congratulation would almost invariably be from the rugged veteran in command of the 2nd Army. In the final advance when two Canadian divisions accompanied the 2nd Army across the Rhine, General Plumer took the salute of the 1st Division on the Suspension Bridge at Cologne, while the 2nd Division marched past Sir Arthur Currie on the Bridge at Bonn.

Lord Plumer, as already mentioned, commanded Canadians in the South African War. He was one of the few generals under whom there happened none of those "regrettable incidents"—as the War Office in those days was wont to term downright reverses.

BRITISH COLUMBIA
"the land of opportunity"

The Pacific Era Dawns

IN its Pacific Province, Canada possesses the ideal industrial centre . . . all the natural advantages of raw materials, climate, power and location, combined with splendid transportation facilities, in the same area. During the past ten years, production has increased 101.3 per cent. With its great industrial development, British Columbia has become the outlet for 17 per cent. of the entire Dominion's export trade. British Columbia products are in steady demand throughout America, in the markets of the Far East, and through the Panama Canal, the countries bordering on the Atlantic. With the Pacific era just at its dawn, British Columbia has become the Land of Opportunity! The investment of ambitious energy and capital in the safe, sure future of the West, will reap rich reward!

INDUSTRIAL ADVANTAGES

Raw materials are available in inexhaustible supply from British Columbia's forests, fields, mines and sea. The equable climate, conducive to the best labor conditions, assures open harbors throughout the year. British Columbia's strategic location places it on the direct trade routes to all parts of the world. Unlimited waterpower is available, the amount of electric energy generated in this province, today, ranking third in Canada. Three transcontinental railways and numerous branch lines, over fifty-two steamship lines, and a network of excellent highways, cover the transportation situation efficiently.

617,000 PEOPLE PRODUCE

With its present mere handful of population, British Columbia is producing stupendous annual revenue from its natural resources . . . lumbering 84 million dollars; agriculture, 73 million; mining, 62 million; fisheries, 27 million. One need only realize that this vast province is thrice the size of the United Kingdom, and greater in productive area than the states of Washington, Oregon and California, combined . . . capable of sustaining a population of twenty millions . . . to vision its wonderful potentialities!

WEST, THIS YEAR!

Combine business with pleasure, in a tour of British Columbia this year. Look it over from a business standpoint . . . while you're enjoying the vacation of a lifetime! Nowhere else such scenic travelling . . . such beautiful boat trips . . . magnificent motorways . . . glorious forest parks . . . lovely mountain and lake resorts . . . alluring cosmopolitan cities! You can enjoy all your favorite recreations with new thrills . . . golf in the mountains or beside the sea . . . swimming in the warm Pacific, and an hour later ski-ing on the mountain tops.

URGES LESSENING OF MIGRANT RESTRICTIONS

Overseas Settlement Committee Considers Annual Movement of 65,000 Creditable.

NUMBER FALLING OFF.

There Is Rarely a Surplus of Farm Hands in This Country.

LONDON, July 16. — (Canadian Press).—A more vigorous emigration policy is recommended by the Overseasons Settlement that the numbers now going out from this country do not meet the need either here or overseas, and the Committee recommend that a gradual modification of the restrictions be made. It is said to be surprising that in face of these restrictions the numbers of persons assisted under the Act fell from 65,530 in 1926 to 63,027 last year, althought the quota taken by Canada had risen by 8,382. The number assisted to Australia fell from 32,678 to 29,132 and that to New Zealand from 11,795 to 4,446. "The numbers, especially in the last two years," the report states, "are not unsatisfactory. Although an annual total of some 65,000 assisted settlers and a gross outward movement to the Dominions of some 130,000 a year may seem disappointing to those who expected or hoped that the Empire Settlement Board would bring about a transfer of the population from the congested areas of this country to the large and sparsely-inhabited districts overseas of 250,000 or even half a million, a year, yet this result cannot be regarded as other than successful if account is taken of the difficulties which, under modern conditions, prevent a more rapid movement."

Among the various hindrances to overseas settlement, unsatisfactory trade conditions are mentioned. It is pointed out that the cost of travel has risen. The improved conditions of the works in this country are said to have discouraged emigration to some extent, but the greatest check has evidently been the restrictions imposed by the Dominion Governments, who have found it necessary to insist that assisted passages be granted only to those for whom employment can be guaranteed, usually land workers or women for domestic service, and to those going out under the nomination scheme. The report notes that there is rarely now a surplus of farm hands in this country and that from being 4.4. per cent. of the population in 1881 they had decreased to 2.5 per cent. in 1921.

"It is thus surprising," the report proceeds, "considering the far-reaching character of the restrictions upon assistance, that the numbers assisted have been so large. But they are not large enough to meet the needs of the situation either in Great Britain or in the Dominions, nor on present lines is any substantial increase to be expected. Yet the situation appears to demand a more rapid transfer of population between Great Britain and the Dominions. For the next few years, while industries are still in process of reorganization, there will be available appreciable numbers of men and women, boys and girls, whose chances of becoming effective producers will be better overseas than in Great Britain. They wish to go overseas, but cannot do so without the assistance which the Empire Settlement Act contemplates. Their departure would be in many ways a loss

MRS. DAVID SUTTON.

Nancy Elizabeth Barnhart, widow of Colonel David Sutton, died in Cavan on July 15th, at the age of 63 years. She passed away after a short illness. The funeral of a life long resident of Cavan will take place from her home on July 17, at 2.30 p.m., to Gardiner's cemetery. The Rev. W. W. Jones will be the officiating clergyman.

ELIZABETH TRUDE

LAKEFIELD, July 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — The death of Elizabeth Trude occurred on Saturday afternoon at the residence of her brother-in-law, S. R. Leggott, after an illness of several weeks' duration. She was born in Devonshire, England, 72 years ago, and had lived in Canada more than fifty years.

She was of a retiring disposition and was held in high regard by all who knew her.

Miss Trude is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Leggott and Mrs. Fred Waldon of Lakefield, and one brother, W. F. Trude of Smith.

The funeral takes place this afternoon from Mr. Leggott's residence, at 2.30, proceeding to the Lakefield cemetery.

CLERGY CHANGE FOR ONE SUNDAY

Campbellford Services Conducted by Marmora and Burnbrae Pastors.

JOURNEY DELAYED

CAMPBELLFORD, July 16 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Some thing of a change took place among the ministers of two of the local churches for the regular Sunday services yesterday. Anxious to hear what was done at the Synod meeting held in Regina during the month of June, the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae, invited the Rev. James Grier to preach to them at one service. The Rev. D. A. McKenzie, Burnbrae, and Mr. Grier exchanged pupils in order to accomplish this end.

The Rev. N. Clarke Wallace, rector of Christ Church, exchanged pulpits with the Reverend A. B. Caldwell, Marmora; Mr. Wallace conducting the morning service in Marmora and the afternoon hour of worship at Trinity Church five miles north of that town. Mr. Wallace reports that tire trouble on the way to Marmora caused him to arrive barely in time to conduct the morning service. Had he not been fortunite in securing a "lift for the last eleven miles of his journey, it is doubtful if there would have been a service in Marmora yesterday.

The rector abandoned his newly acquired car about one mile east of the Seymour-Rawdon boundary on the Springbrook road. He was forced to consider time as the prime factor, and the fact that he had not a complete set of tools necessary for changing a tire by the roadside. He was fortunate in being able to make arrangements to have his car brought on to Marmora in time to proceed to Trinity for the afternoon service.

Mr. Caldwell reported no trouble of any kind on his journey here and was not anticipating any roadside repairs on his return journey to Marmora.

thought that all hope was gone for us so long as we remained there on the ice. So they determined to march to North Cape, where they hoped to find stores.

"They promised to try to bring relief to us as fast as possible, and finally their start was fixed for the evening of May 30.

"The parting with these dear comrades was sad and pathetic. We sent greetings to our families, and from our little tent watched them march toward Foyn Island. Two days later we could see that island.

"I was convinced the whole time that they would not reach the coast, but only the pack ice. Yet at heart I was optimistic and was sure that my comrades would one day be found.

"Now I receive a report of the rescue of Mariano and Zappi, but my satisfaction over that is troubled with deep grief for the loss of my friend and good comrade, Malmgren. He was not only a scientist, but a brave man and one of my best companians. His fate is to be deplored, but we all did our best."

by Mayor Denne, James Dutton, President Joe John of the Kiwanis club, Ross Dobbin of the Rotary Club, Charles Brewer, on behalf of Peterborough Automobile dealers; James Juby, of the Peterborough Automobile Club; Art Reynolds, vice president of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce; Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the same organization; while those among the visitors who spoke in appreciation of Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes district were Col. Dennis, Robert Abbott, manager of Canadian Raybestos Company; Clarence Williams, general passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Pittsburgh, and Edward Smith, general passenger agent of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad.

Running through the fabric of all the addresses was a keen consciousness of the value of friendly relations between the two countries and an appreciation of their respective advantages and possibilities.

With the closing of the evening's program, the visitors from Pittsburgh returned to their train which at midnight left for Bobcaygeon, the party being scheduled to spend Monday at the summer home of Edward Huff, on Jacob's Island.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON TUESDAY.

If you have been watching the scales, you will see that you are not losing as rapidly as at first, but this always happens when you start using regular food, after the fruit fast regime.

Your body is really reducing, but the weight of the extra food makes it appear that you are not losing. From now on, you will notice a loss of from a few ounces to a pound each day.

When you get up to-morrow morning, I want you to take all of the exercises that I have given you, using all of the Standing-up exercises, and also the two new ones which I described to you in yesterday's article.

Follow the exercises with a warm or cold shower bath, using the cold shower, if you get the proper skin reaction. After this, take your daily enema.

BREAKFAST: French omelet,
Three or four pieces of Melba toast,
Small dish of stewed prunes.

During the morning, take your usual walk of about two miles.

LUNCH: Small dish of cottage cheese,
Salad of lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers.

In the afternoon, take a long walk of at least two miles. Follow this walk with the complete set of exercises which I have given you. These include the Standing-up exercises and those taken while "lying on back."

DINNER: One-fourth pound of broiled steak,
Dish of cooked celery,
Salad of plain lettuce.

The following are some recipes to explain the preparation of some of the above foods. (Recipes will not be repeated.)

French Omelet: To two ounces of milk add an egg. Put in a dry frying pan over a slow fire and beat the milk and egg together. Stir and beat constantly so that it does not stick to the pan, and continue this until the mixture assumes a jelly-like consistency. Do not fail to keep on stirring the mixture even after it has been taken from the fire, as the frying pan will retain a good deal of heat which will continue to cook the egg. Serve in sauce dishes or egg cups.

Cooked Celery: Cut the celery in small pieces and cook in plain water for two hours. This time seems necessary to develop a certain flavor which the celery acquires if prepared in this way. Of course, it may be cooked for only a few minutes and will still be a desirable food even if prepared in this manner, but you will find that the flavor will be entirely different if the two-hour period is used. No seasoning of any kind should be added to the water, but if the water is cooked out sufficiently, a small amount of butter may be added when ready to serve.

Broiled Beefsteak: Any kind of cut of beefsteak may be used, but because of the added pleasure from eating tender meat it is preferable to use sirloin steak for broiling. If the fat is entirely removed thcmeat will be rendered more easily digestible, because the fat spluttering upon the lean part of the meat during broiling will toughen it against the digestive juices in much the same way as if it were in the pan. This steak may be done quite rare or it may be well done, depending upon the desire of the individual, as the digestive juices will flow more strongly when meat is prepared in such a way as to please the appetite.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

TUESDAY, JULY 17, 1928.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Positive benefic aspects rule today, according to astrology which detects certain minor adverse influences.

This is read as a day favorable to those who already enjoy prosperity and not so fortunate for those who struggle.

Weddings on this date should be lucky, making for prosperity and a friendly partnership.

Lovers should benefit and the midsummer romance is likely to be more serious than is usual during the silly season.

Under this sway young men probably will not be so susceptible as those of greater age. Many widowers become sentimental under this direction of the stars.

The date is auspicious for public meetings or for entertainments of any sort. Even campaign speeches may be endurable while this configuration lasts.

Financial matters should be cheering at this time when there will be an opportunity to take stock of one's possessions.

Banks and bankers continue to benefit and women will gain confidence as executives.

The Pacific coast now comes under a sway making for important events that attract world attention. Commerce should be especially prosperous.

This is an auspicious rule for those who desire to purchase clothing. Fashions are to undergo radical changes that will benefit modistes and importers it is predicted.

Mexico may suffer from serious seismic shocks within the next few weeks. The country's trade is likely to be good during the autumn.

Canada continues under a rule making for great prosperity all through the summer.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year marked by important events.

Children born on this day may have distinct artistic talents, but they must be well directed. Subjects of this sign often have powerful friends.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

THE STORY THUS FAR:

JENNIFER FRY is saved from drowning by NICHOLAS GAUNT, wealthy young man-about-town. Later he takes her to tea and asks to call, but she refuses because she is ashamed of her humble surroundings. They continue their friendship and Jennifer comes to love Nicholas, but he is suddenly called abroad by his mother's illness. During his absence Jennifer's father dies. She reads of his engagement in the paper, and stands in the crowd to see him and his bride come from the church after the wedding. Her mother died. For the next five years she was almost happy, working as secretary for a kind-hearted, middle-aged man named GURNEY. Then by chance she meets Nicholas again. He comes to see her. They find friendship difficult, and finally Jennifer says she cannot stand it. Gaunt leaves her, telling her to send for him if she wants him. She goes on her vacation to the shore, and Nicholas comes to her. He tells Jennifer he will divorce his wife and marry her. A telegram saying his wife is dying reaches him. Jennifer tells him to go to her. Then she reads that the wife has regained her health. Gaunt telegraphs that he will come to London.

CHAPTER XVI
A PROMISED YEAR

Jennifer rose at an absurdly early hour on that Saturday morning. She knew very little about Continental trains and boat expresses, but she had a vague sort of idea that travellers often reached London in the early hours.

She passed the day in a fever of nervous tension. Every time a car or a taxi drove through the quiet backwater she was sure it must be Nicholas; every time there was a step outside, or a movement about the house, her heart almost stopped beating.

But the morning passed and he did not come. She was too excited to think of lunch, though she had made preparations in case Nicholas wanted food. She just made herself a cup of tea and went back to the window again to watch for him.

The afternoon passed and Jennifer's spirits sank. Supposing something had detained him after all? Supposing something had happened to the boat, or to the train? Panic closed about her heart.

She ought never to have let him go; she had always felt that she would never see him again. An hour of overwrought agitation ended in a burst of nervous weeping, out of which she struggled with difficulty. The evening was drawing in, but she would not put the curtains or turn on the light. She had had no food all day, and her head ached with nervous excitement. At seven o'clock she gave up all hope. He would not come now, she was sure. The first freshness of the roses with which she had decorated the sitting-room had faded: they hung their scented heads as if sharing her bitter disappointment. The fairness of the day had changed surprisingly to a rising wind and fitful showers.

Resentment took the place of fear in Jennifer's heart. Gaunt might have let her know if he had been delayed. Was he so sure of her that already he had lost his first ardor? She had whipped herself to harsh thoughts of him when he knocked at the door. Almost hysterical with happiness, she flew to admit him.

"I thought something had happened. I thought you were not coming," she was laughing and crying in his arms. "I've been so frightened and miserable. I thought you would be here early. I took the morning off from the office. Oh, it's been such a dreadful day!"

"The boat was late, and the train—every confounded thing was late," Gaunt explained. He sounded a very tired and rather irritable man. "I sent my luggage home and came straight to you."

With his arm about her he drew her into the sitting-room, where the air was heavy with the perfume of the roses. "Well, let me look at you. Are you quite well again?"

"I am, now you have come."

There were tears on her cheeks, though she laughed as he turned her to the light and studied her face with passionate tenderness.

"Are you glad to see me again?" he demanded.

"I have never been so glad about anything."

"Have you missed me?"

"It would make you conceited if I were to tell you how much."

"Kiss me, then."

She kissed him many times with all her heart on her lips, and then drew away to say in concern:

"You must be tired out, and aren't you hungry? I've got lots of food."

"I dined on the train coming up from Dover. I don't want anything except to talk to you and look at you."

It never occurred to him that she had eaten nothing all day, and in her happiness Jennifer had forgotten herself. There were thousands of questions clamoring timorously in her mind, and presently she found the courage to ask one.

"And how did you find her? I saw in the paper that she was better."

His face changed, and he frowned and looked away from her. "She is for the moment, but she was very ill—she nearly died! Jennifer, she will die soon, they say. It is her heart."

"Oh!"

He went on in a halting voice as if he wished to be just and sympathetic and found it difficult to be either.

"They say she has lived too strenuously. She was never a strong woman. I shall take her to see a specialist when she returns to London. We had a good man out there, but I must do everything possible."

"Oh!"

He was unconsciously hurting her in a thousand ways.

"I shall take her to see a specialist!" Jennifer could have screamed at his tone of possession. She thought of what those few days must have been in Venice, and an insane jealousy took possession of her. She moved away from him, and it gave her a fresh pang because he seemed not to notice it. He went on talking.

"The Italian doctor told me that even with the greatest care it was his opinion Edith could only live for a few months—possibly a year. She has taxed her strength in the most amazing way. I think he considered I was very much to blame." He laughed dryly. "I've no doubt Edith made her own case good with everyone before I arrived."

Jennifer moistened her trembling lips.

"And what are you going to do?" she asked, and Gaunt answered:

"That is what I want to talk to you about. We have very little time. Unless anything happens to change her plans Edith expects to leave Venice next week. She wanted me to wait for her, but I persuaded her to let me come on and make arrangements here for her comfort."

"Oh!" It seemed absurd that she could say nothing but that foolish little word.

Gaunt turned and looked at her with steady eyes.

"Jennifer, how well do you love me?"

There was a little silence, then she forced herself to meet his gaze. "You know how well."

"And do you trust me, too?"

The color rushed to her face, and away again, in passionate agitation. She thought she knew what was coming. She thought he was going to ask her to go away with him.

"Yes, yes, yes," the clamoring answer came to her lips, but she kept it back to ask faintly: "What do you mean?"

Nicholas took her in his arms.

"I am going to ask you to do something for me, Jennifer, something hard to prove that you do trust me."

"Yes, what is it?"

But for a moment he seemed to find it impossible to begin, and it was only when she had urged again faintly: "What is it, Nicholas?" that he told her.

"When I reached Venice I found Edith desperately ill. She was very frightened, too, poor girl, and that made it worse. She never has had any courage. She was horribly afraid that she was going to die, and her fear made the danger greater." He took his arms from Jennifer and moved away, leaning an elbow on the narrow mantelshelf and staring down into the empty grate. "For the first time for years I believe she was really glad to see me—I think she imagined that in some way I could help her and make her well. She—she——"—he stammered helplessly and broke down, conscious of Jennifer's burning eyes—"she wanted me to stay with her—she distressed herself very much when I said, I could not. She—she"—he turned desperately—"Jennifer, by some means or another she has heard about you. She knows that we have been about a good deal together. She guesses that we love one another."

"Yes."

The monosyllable was a ghost whisper in the room, and Nicholas went on again almost angrily.

"She asked me a great deal about you—and she cried!" He began to pace up and down in extreme agitation. "I did not dare tell her all the truth. She was too ill I had to do my best to comfort her. She said she had always cared for me, but that she knew I had never cared for her; she said that she knew she had not long to live—she said—"

"Go on," Jennifer prompted, in a dangerously quiet voice, and Gaunt struggled on once more.

LYRICS OF LIFE

WHAT MATTERS

Today we think the battle won,
And proud our banners fly.
"Oh, world, behold what we have done!
And proud our banners fly."
Exultantly we cry.
But in the night fate moves its troops,
The night brings up new men,
And from the sky an eagle swoops,
And we must fight again.

Perhaps we think the battle lost
When this new day is o'er,
Behold our wounds, and count the cost,
And think to rise no more.
But in the night new hopes are born,
New inspirations flow'r,
And then we see our brightest morn
Displace our darkest hour.

If but a clearer view were his,
Then mortal man could see
That nothing ever really is Defeat or victory.
Whatever losses seem to come,
Whatever heights we touch,
Remember all things matter some,
And nothing matters much.

OVERLOOKED TARIFF.

In further reference to the inability of a former Peterborough resident to secure a through tourist's ticket from Cadiz, Ohio, to Peterborough, Ont., is quoted a letter just received at the Chamber of Commerce, Peterborough, from the manager of tariff and ticket bureau, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which says in part:

"Yours of June 9th, our general agent at Pittsburgh advices that the Pennsylvania Railroad quote a fare of $29.24 from Cadiz, Ohio, to Peterborough, Ont., via Toronto and our line, returning same. This rate applies via Cleveland and there is a rate slightly higher via Pittsburgh. The ticket clerk at Cadiz apparently overlooked tariff quoting this fare, but his attention has been particularly drawn to the matter and I do not think there will be a recurrence."

A TEMPTING DELIGHT
BAKER'S COCONUT

Why We Do What We Do.

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

WHY WE SEE GHOSTS

We usually see what we expect to see.

The boy who is terribly afraid of ghosts in the dark is quite likely to see them. His imagination makes every shadowy object look like a ghost. Similarly the half starved person sees food where there is no food, the thirsty man famished for water sees water in the desert where there is nothing but burning sand. The German-Irish airmen, who were the first to cross the Atlantic from the east in a heavier than air machine, testify that while flying through dense fog over the ocean they thought they saw many beautiful landing places. There was the one thing they were desiring above all else to see.

We all see what we are afraid of or what we long to see whether it be ghosts or food and shelter. The reason for this is that the fear or desire holds the idea of the thing in mind until it becomes so vivid that we mistake our idea of the thing for the reality in the outside world.

We are quite likely to mistake our fears and wishes for realities. Dreams and daydreams seem real enough to us at the time because by them we project our unfulfilled wishes and longings into time and space. In the daydream we turn the idea over and over again until it becomes almost as clear to us as a red apple we see with the eye. We mistake our own idea for the thing itself. A so-called guilty conscience will not allow a man to forget the scenes of the murder. The gruesome details of the crime—the glassy eyes of the murdered man, his dying gasp, etc., are gone over in the mind so vividly that the murderer sees the dead man's ghost. The image looks shadowy because despite the vividness of the image he is seeing what is not really there and hence it cannot be quite as vivid as the actual sensory experience of seeing a live man before his eyes. This accounts for the fact that ghosts are seen only at night.

400,000 WORDS IN DICTIONARY

New Edition to Oxford Dictionary Has 3,000,000 Quotations.

15,000 PAGES

LONDON, July 16. — By the Canadian Press. — The completion of the Oxford English Dictionary after seventy years' labor, termed by Premier Stanley Baldwin the greatest work of its kind in history, was the occasion of a notable dinner given by the Company of Goldsmiths in London recently to the editors and staff of the dictionary. Outstanding among the workers was Prof. Sir William A. Craigie of Oxford, knighted by the King for his work. The Company of Goldsmiths financed the sixth volume.

Premier Baldwin pointed out the immensity of the work in his address, which was the feature of the affair.

It comprises 15,000 pages, 400,000 words and 3,000,000 quotations. "Prof. Craigie has indeed stood by and helped to rock athe cradle of our tongue, and has listened to the alliterative babbling of our ancestors in the nursery," the premier said. "He has watched that tongue through the ages, in its births, its marriages and its deaths, and in its associations with foreign countries and he has brought it up to the time when, as we have known it for long, it is the most efficient instrument that has ever been used by the tongue of man.

"What was the genesis of this great work? It was this: the desire to safeguard and to record and establish for all time the manifold riches of the English tongue. It was that desire that led a small group of men to lay the foundations of that structure whose completion we are celebrating to-night. It is half a century now since Dr. Murray had his first interview with the delegates of the Clarendon Press.

"Lord Oxford not long ago said that he would choose the forty volumes of Balzac, if he were cast away on a desert island, and could only choose one work. I would choose the dictionary every time. It is a work of endless fascination. It is true that I have not read it—perhaps I never shall—but that does not mean that I do not often go to it."

Prof. Craigie recalled a similar occasion more than 30 years ago when, in the hall of Queen's College at Oxford, there was gathered a goodly company of those who had helped in the beginnings of the Dictionary. He was the infant of the party—a child of three months—so far as the Dictionary was concerned, and he felt himself very new and insignificant compared to the veterans then present, including the grandfather of the whole, Dr. Furnivall, who even then had been connected with the work for forty years, and the immediate parent of the Dictionary, Dr. Murray, who had been the main guider of its fortunes for nearly twenty years.

"It might be thought that after 70 years of such work very little would remain for the English lexicographer to do," said Prof. Craigie, "but that is very far from being the case. The English language, even in the past, to say nothing of the present and the future, is too vast, too rich, to be mastered by the labors of a single age. Each of the periods into which it might naturally be divided still call for closer study and fuller illustration."

NEW GOVERNOR FOR GIBRALTAR

Sir Alexander Godley is Appointed to Command Fortress.

SALARY $27,500

LONDON, July 16 (Canadian Press. — Sir Alexander Godley, who retired recently from the position of Head of the Southern Command at Salisbury, will succeed Sir Charles Munro as Governor of Gibraltar, in September.

Gibraltar being an army fortress the appointment is always held by a military man. The salary is $27,500 a year, with $2500 entertainment allowance.

One of the most popular officers in the British Army, General Godley is known by the nickname of "Do it again, Alec," from an exclamation made by a man who saw one of his exploits in Cairo when he was with the Anzacs.

He is a man of many fights. He went through the Matabele affair as a staff officer in 1896, and was in the siege of Mafeking, afterwards commanding its western defences.

In the Great War he commanded the New Zealand Expeditionary Force from October, 1914, to October, 1916. He was at the Dardanelles for fourteen months, and then he went to France, where he was highly praised for the work of his 22nd corps at Cambrai in 1918.

In March, 1919, General Godley went to the Rhine, and his tact and skill were shown on many occasions, when incidents connected with the occupation might have given rise to trouble, if handled too impulsively.

A good example of his tolerance was his clemency towards a Frenchman who had insulted the British flag. After consultation with the French officers about the man, General Godley discharged him with a caution.

His farewell to the British soldiers on the Rhine was an inspiring tribute to the way they had carried out their difficult duties.

General Godley is now 60.

MAHARAJAH TAKES WONDERFUL SUITE

Indian Princes Gather in London for Important Conference.

LONDON, July 16. — The Maharajah of Patiala, one of the Indian princes who are gathering in London, has taken the "Suite State" of 25 rooms, occupying the whole riverside front on one of the floors of the Savoy Hotel. He has brought his own chef and some of his jewels.

More Indian princes will be in London this summer than have been here since the coronation of King George. They are arriving for the conference of the Chamber of Princes with their counsel, Sir Leslie Scott, K.C., to arrange the case of their Chamber for the Indian States Enquiry Committee.

The Maharajah is fond of color and blue, red and gold are the predominating hues of the decorative scheme in his suite. The walls of one room have been hand-painted with a floral design.

A bushy beard and a neatly-trimmed moustache are noticeable features of the Indian ruler's full face. He wears European clothes, but retains the turban, ornamented by a rich jewel, and affects gold earrings and a jewel studded bangle.

He has brought with him, besides sumptuous Indian uniforms, a store of his precious gems, of which two servants have charge. In Patiala, he has a system of 20 interlocking steel trunks to hold the treasure. None of the trunks can be opened without the rest and the key of each is kept by a different servant. When one trunk is to be opened, the 20 men have to be assembled before the operation can be performed.

The Maharajah's meals are served from the hotel's French menus; but curries cooked by the Indian chef who has brought over a large supply of the special spices of the east that are required, are served half way through the meal. The chef has also brought with him special silver vessels for preparing the curries.

BUILD CUBIST HOUSES.

PARIS, July 16.—Out in Passy, a residential section of Paris, is a small street of cubist houses in startling designs. They are built of reinforced concrete and hollow tile. The second and third stories are set back in terraces and the lines are broken by irregularly set windows of unusual dimensions.

WANTS INFORMATION.

The following letter from the Montreal Touring Club, 92 Notre Dame Street East, has reference to 1927-8 Trent Waterway-Kawartha Lakes De Luxe publication and is indicative of the usefulness and popularity of this publication throughout the section of United States and Canada in which Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and Peterborough Automobile Club, also Trent Waterway Development Association, are carrying on an active publicity work:

"Would you be kind enough to send us one hundred copies of the "Trent Waterway" publication for distribution at our information bureau? Your letter of June 16th reached the writer to-day, while your beautiful booklet has been in our office for some days."

SUMMERTIME BREAKFAST FAVORITE.... THE WHOLE WORLD ROUND

WHEN mothers the world over plan breakfasts these summer mornings, crisp, delicious Grape-Nuts is one of the most popular foods. Grape-Nuts is sold in every country in the world. For more than thirty years it has had world-wide popularity.

The reasons for this tremendous popularity are especially apparent in summer. Grape-Nuts is ideal for summer breakfasts. It is cool—ready to eat from the package. Its flavor is delicate, different, deliciously nut-like—gloriously tempting.

And the energy which hot summer days take out of you—Grape-Nuts puts back! It gives your body a wealth of nourishment—dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron to enrich the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bone; protein for muscle and body building; and the very important vitamin-B.

Grape-Nuts is inexpensive to serve. Four teaspoonfuls is sufficient for each person—and costs less than one cent. Serve with milk or cream.

Grape-Nuts for Delicious Nourishment

Made in Canada

Grape-Nuts is Good for Your Teeth!

Doctors and dentists everywhere stress the importance of including crisp foods in your daily diet to give healthful exercise to your teeth, gums and facial muscles. Also because chewing prepares the digestive secretions of the stomach for their work. Grape-Nuts is deliciously crisp—you like to chew its golden kernels.

Kingston Ponies Snatch Victory From Petes

SIX RUN LEAD MEANS NOTHING TO PETES WHO FADE IN FINAL STAGES AND LOSE TO PONIES

Joe Daley's Men Score Seven Runs in Last Three Games to Win 8-7.

A SAD FINISH.

Britton's Triple Starts Final Rally for Fighting Ponies

(By F. D. C.)

It is a nice problem to know how many runs lead this Peterborough ball club needs in a game to be absolutely safe after Saturday's experience when, after holding the small end of a 7-1 score at the end of the sixth frame the Kingston Ponies garnered seven runs in the last three frames and beat the luckless Petes for the fifth time in succession, Saturday's count being 8 to 7.

Up to the seventh the Petes seemed to have tossed the Kingston jinx for a total loss.

They had crashed through Yammy Jamieson's service for two big innings and seven runs while Joe Daley's men were doing nothing against excellent pitching by Hardill.

And then the Peterborough outfit skidded into the ditch in the seventh frame when the Ponies bunched five timely hits with an error to score five runs to put themselves right back into a ball game in which they hadn't looked to have had a chance to win.

And having reduced the lead to its lowest possible figure the Ponies went out in the ninth inning and batted themselves in two runs which was enough to win the argument.

Joe Daley's crew have taken five games in a row from the Petes, but Saturday's win was one they should never have got away with. The home talent had such a big margin for the greater part of the battle that it was criminal to allow the game to slip out of their clutches in the final stages.

Hardill's effectiveness deserted him in the seventh and again in the ninth although it must be admitted that several of the Pony hits were soft ones while Fred Ash's failure to remember that with a six run lead the only safe policy is to make sure of one man rather than to look for doubtful double play, was to a considerable degree responsible for the Ponies' big seventh. Playing safe on that one would have meant but two runs instead of five for the Daley gang in that frame.

Keith Mein of the Crescents made his Central Ontario League debut at short stop for the Petes and made a good showing despite a couple of boots. He went hitless but drove in two runs on an infield out and a sacrifice fly and should be a help to the senior outfit.

Jamieson did the hurling for the visitors and with able assistance from his team mates held the Petes in check in all but two innings. They gave him a real shellacking in the second frame when they scored four earned runs and again in the sixth but outside those two frames the little right-hander was effective.

Hardill held the Ponies to three scattered singles until the seventh but they broke out with eight hits in the last three frames, Britton opening the ninth with a triple that marked the beginning of the end.

Max Swanston was an absentee and Hap Wilgar caught a bang-up game besides coming through with two timely hits and scoring two runs.

The game was played on a heavy field and in a drizzling rain and apparently it was too dark for the umpire, Sullivan's work behind the plate being far from perfect while one decision given by Lebarr at first presented the Ponies with their first run.

In the first Arniel and Buck fanned and Britton rolled to Hardill.

For the Petes Macdonald struck out, Johnston flied to Buck and Ash bounded to the box.

Cherry first up in the second for the Ponies, rolled to Mein. Ada singled past third. Tetro was thrown out by Wilgar. Elliott was safe on Harrison's fumble and stole second, but Stone fanned.

The Petes got four in their half. Harrison dropped a single into left and Heckman hit to right for one base. Both scored on Hardill's ringing double to left. Wilgar singled past third and stole second. Hardill scored while Elliott was tossing out Mein and Wilgar registered on Bert Hall's sacrifice fly to Cherry. Macdonald rolled to Elliott.

In the third Jamieson walked and Arniel was safe on Johnston's low throw. Buck flied to Macdonald. Britton rolled to Johnston. Cherry hit one through the box which Hardill partially stopped and Johnston's quick peg looked to have the runner at first but he was called safe and Jamieson's scored. Cherry tried to go to second while the Petes were crabbing at the decision and was tossed out.

For the Petes Johnston rolled to Stone, Ash was safe on Britton's fumble but was forced at second by Harrison and Heckman then forced Harrison.

Ada rolled to Harrison to start the fourth and Tetro struck out. Elliott was safe on Mein's fumble but Stone fanned.

Hardill led off for the Petes with a single to left but was caught off first as Wilgar fanned. Mein flied to centre.

In the fifth Jamieson flied to Hall and Arniel to Macdonald. Buck scratched a hit down the first base line but was out stealing.

For the Petes Hall fanned and Macdonald rolled to Jamieson. Johnston got a lucky hit on a pop fly which dropped safely between Jamieson and Stone. He went to second on a wild pitch. Ash rolled to Jamieson.

In the sixth Britton was safe on Mein's error. Cherry flied to Macdonald and Britton was forced by Ada, Mein to Harrison. Tetro walked. Ada stole third and Tetro second on the next ball. Elliott fanned.

The Petes got three and apparently put the game on ice. Harrison walloped a long double to the left field fence and Heckman was hit. Hardill fouled to Arniel. Wilgar singled to centre scoring Harrison and sending Heckman to third. Mein's sacrifice fly scored Heckman and Wilgar counted on Arniel's low throw on Hall's roller. Macdonald walked. Johnston rolled to Jamieson.

And then came the deluge. Stone, first up for the Ponies in the seventh, singled to centre. Jamieson hit an easy roller to Ash who started to make the play to second and then changed his mind, tossing the ball to Harrison who came over on the run to cover first. Harrison dropped the toss and everybody was safe. As it turned out the failure to play safe on this play was costly. Arniel singled to centre scoring Stone and sending Jamieson to third. Buck's roller to Harrison gave Jamieson a chance to score. Britton singled to right and stole second. Cherry hit to Johnston whose high throw to Wilgar failed to get Arniel at the plate. Ada hit through short to score Britton. Tetro's single to left scored Cherry with the fifth run of the inning. Hardill stopped the massacre then by fanning Elliott and Stone.

The Petes did nothing. Ash rolled to Arniel. Harrison was safe on Jamieson's bad toss but Batten, batting for Heckman, who had retired because of an injured arm, flied to Buck and Hardill forced Harrison at second.

In the eighth Jamieson popped to Mein and Arniel and Buck fanned.

Wilgar flied to Elliott. Mein rolled to Stone. Hall singled to left but Macdonald rolled to Jamieson.

The Ponies' wrecking crew was up in the ninth and came through. Britton hit the first ball pitched for a triple and Cherry was passed and stole second. Ada singled to left scoring Britton with the tieing run but the batter was out when he turned first too far toward second and couldn't get back. Tetro, however, supplied the necessary hit by singling to right, scoring Cherry with the winning marker. Elliott popped to Mein and Stone to Ash.

The Petes died in order. Johnston rolled to Arniel. Ash flied to Buck and Arniel was under Harrison's foul fly.

WINS TROPHY

Lieutenant Desmond Burke, winner of the King's Prize in 1926, who wins grand aggregate at Bisley shoot.

ORIOLES LOSE TWO TO ROYALS

Bisons and Newark Bears Split Even in Free-Hitting Contests.

ROCHESTER WINS TWO.

MONTREAL, Que., July 16 (Canadian Press). — The Royals captured both games of the double-header here yesterday afternoon, winning the first 9-3 and capturing a thrilling 2-1 victory in the second game in eight innings. Herb. Thormahlen breezed through to his second straight win as a Royal in the first game, outpitching three Oriole hurlers, but the Montrealers experienced considerably more difficulty in taking the second.

For seven innings the game was a hurling duel between Buckalew and Hubbell, recently acquired by the Birds from St. Paul of the American Association. Hubbell appeared to have won his own game when he poled a homer over the fence in the eighth, but Montreal came back and scored two runs before any were out in their part of the frame to score their double triumph.

SPLIT EVEN.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 16 (Canadian Press). — The Bisons and the Newark Bears split even in two free-hitting contests here yesterday with the home guards burying the Johnson men, 18 to 2, in the first game, and the Bears turning around and winning 8 to 1 in the second.

The hitting of Thomas, who belted four safeties, features the first game. Lou Malone, former Bison, was the all-around hero of the second game. Malone blasted four hits and played a remarkable fielding game.

ROCHESTER WINS TWO.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 16 (Canadian Press). — Rochester defeated Jersey City in a double-header, 12 to 4 and 8 to 2, yesterday. Bell won his fifteenth game of the season in the first fray, and Berly held the opposition safe in the second, allowing but four hits, three of which came in the seventh and final inning to score two runs. Felix and Ira Smith hit homers in each game.

YANKEES TAKE DOUBLE HEADER

Babe Ruth Connects for his 34th Homer with Koenig On.

WASHINGTON LOSES.

NEW YORK, July 16 (Canadian Press). — The Yankees defeated Cleveland in both parts of yesterday's double-header, 3 to 0, and 6 to 4. Myles Thomas made his first start in the second game, and got credit for the victory, though Hoyt finished.

Babe Ruth rapped out his 34th homer in the first inning in the second game with Koenig on base, while Lou Gehrig connected for his 19th in the fifth, with none on.

The Yankees piled up a lead of five runs in the first two innings of the second clash, and this lead pulled them through. Cleveland's rally in the eighth, topped off by Joe Sewell's homer shot Thomas to the showers and gave the Indians the last of three runs in that inning.

In the first game Pennock ran his consecutive scoreless innings to 26, his last two starts having been shutouts. It was Herb's fifteenth victory.

St. Louis Wins

St. Louis pushed across two runs in the twelfth inning off Burke at Washington, to win the second game of the series 6 to 4 from the Senators.

The Senators came from behind in the seventh to tie the count at four all. O'Rourke, St. Louis third baseman, drove in three of his team's runs, while Barnes hit two triples for Washington.

SOMERVILLE WINS IN FINAL

London Golfer is Again Amateur Champion of Ontario.

TORONTO, July 16.—C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, of London Hunt Club, won his second consecutive Ontario amateur golf title when he defeated Jack Cameron, of Mississauga, 2 and 1 in the finals here on Saturday. Somerville played perfect golf to defeat the Ottawa boy. The champion was out in 38, and only needed a 4 on the 18th to equal the course record.

Sandy outdrove his opponent from most of the tees, Cameron getting the greater distance against the wind. Somerville made the turn one up, while the next four holes were halved. The Londoner won the 14th and 15th, while Cameron took the 16th. Both made the 17th in par threes, to end the match.

Burke Captures the Trophy

Lieutenant Desmond Burke of Ottawa, the young Canadian who two years ago won the King's prize at the Bisley shoot and who finished second last year, has again brought honor to Canada in this years National Rifle Association meet. Although Burke was beaten by three points for the most coveted prize which the Empire offers to her marksmen he carried off the Challenge Trophy offered to the National Rifle Association by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association for the winner of the grand aggregate. Lieut. Burke made a most credible showing, scoring 520 points out of a possible 555 in the ten individual service competitions.

A Real Athletic Club

As a promoter of Athletics in the City of Peterborough the Canadian General Electric and Social Club has stepped well to the fore since its formation almost two years ago. They have their own intershop games but sports have been carried further and several strong teams have entered in various sporting activities in the city. The men's bowling team were always most formidable opposition last year. The C.G.E. has always been well represented in the softball league; they have had their glories in hardball and on Saturday the soccer team added another laurel to its crown and another trophy to its list when it won the Holloway Injured Players Cup beating the Quakers in the finals.

Sandy Wins the Championship

Ross "Sandy" Sommerville, of London, is again amateur golf champion of Ontario, for on Saturday he defeated Jack Cameron of the Toronto Mississauga Club in the final, two up and one to play. The game was one of the hardest fought battles in years with both players giving of their best and playing fine golf. Robert Abbott of the Peterborough golf club made a most remarkable showing winning in the preliminaries and going into the sixteens which he won in the last hole to be beaten by no less than "Sandy" the Ontario twice golf champion in the eighths.

The Big Tournament

The event of the season for the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club will be staged this week when visiting rinks from all parts of Central Ontario will compete on the local greens in the annual tournament. The club under the leadership of J. H. Sedgwick and an able executive has made most rapid progress in the last few years and now the time has arrived when the greens are fast becoming too few in number for the many new players who are joining up every year. Several unsuccessful attempts have been made to secure larger space to bowl on and the executive hope that before long they will have a plan to offer to the club that will fill the much needed want.

SPORT CHATTER

The Petes' batting averages give one reason why the home crew are not further up the sernior league ladder. Only Al Heckman and Hap Harrison are hitting over .300 on the season's play, Fred Ash being just outside the charmed circle with a .296 mark. Heckman is hitting .344 while Harrison who has played in all but two games is batting .318, his fourteen hits including four triples and four doubles. Hap also leads the Petes in runs scored and in runs batted in.

The Petes play three games away from home this week, a double header in Belleville on Wednesday and a game in Oshawa on Saturday. Belleville have not lost a game since they were beaten by the Petes on Dominion Day while the Petes after winning from Deloro that afternoon have not won a verdict since. On the season's record the local gang have beaten the railroaders three games in three starts.

SCOTT'S HOMER BEATS TORONTO IN CLOSE GAME

Reading Beats International Leaders Six Runs to Four.

THREE ERRORS.

Prudhomme Tied to Score in Sixth when he hit Circuit Blow.

READING, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Everett Scott's home run with Tweet Walsh on base in the sixth inning gave Reading a six to four victory over Toronto here yesterday. The teams jumped here for one game then immediately back to Toronto to resume the series. The game was called at the end of the eighth to permit the teams to make train connections. Johnny Prudhomme, Toronto pitcher, tied the score in the first half of the sixth, when he hit a home run with two on base.

GIANTS BEAT CINCINNATI

Fitzsimmons Wins His Own Game with Double in Eighth.

LEADERS LOSE.

NEW YORK, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Fitzsimmons won his own game in a pitchers' battle with Red Lucas when he hit a double in the eighth inning to score Ott from third, giving the Giants a 2 to 1 victory over the Reds at Cincinnati yesterday afternoon.

Both pitchers gave only six hits in which doubles to the same spot in left field by Ott and Fitzsimmons broke the tie. Lucas had tied the score in the sixth with a single which scored Allen from third; Curt Walker misjudged Welsh's long fly in the opening inning, and it went for a three base hit. With the setting perfect, Reese singled to put the Giants one up in the opening round.

Phillies Lose

The Chicago Nationals won their sixth consecutive game when they beat Philadelphia 6 to 3 at Chicago. It was the Cubs third straight win over the Phillies.

The game opened turbulently for Bush, Cub pitcher, who allowed seven hits in the first four innings, but his team mates kept him out of serious trouble. After that, he tightened up and held until the ninth.

Then the Phillies threatened by filling the bases with none out, but they retired with only two runs.

Brooklyn Wins

Del Bissonette's stickwork drove in two of the three runs which again slowed the Cardinals' league leading pace, and the St. Louis nine lost the second game of the series to Brooklyn at St. Louis 3 to 1 yesterday. It was Bissonette's double in the third and his single in the ninth which sent the runs across. The other tally came in the fifth as the result of one of Mitchell's six passes and a pair of singles. The Cards' only run was pushed over in the eighth.

NEW ZEALAND WINS

BULAWAYO, South Africa, July 16 (Canadian Press).—The New Zealand All-Blacks rugby football team, now touring South Africa, Saturday overwhelmed Rhodesia, 44 to 8.

BURKE WINS CHALLENGE CUP AT BISLEY

Young Canadian Captures National Trophy for Grand Aggregate.

SCORE 520.

Possible Score was 555 in the Ten Individual Service Competitions.

BISLEY CAMP, July 16.—(Canadian Press Cable).— The challenge trophy offered to the National Rifle Association by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association as the award for the winner of the Grand Aggregate at the N.R.A. meet at Bisley was won by Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa with an aggregate score of 520 out of a possible 555. The scores in ten individual service competitions determined the winner of the grand aggregate, which is an important feature of the great empire meeting which concluded at Bisley Saturday.

In addition to the cup Lieut. Burke won $50. Sergt. Lewis of the Welsh Regiment was second to win the silver cross and $30. The Australian Bisley team leader Pavey was third to win the bronze cross and $20.

The Canadian under Burke in the Grand Aggregate finished as follows: C.S.M., G. M. Emslie of Toronto, fifth, won $15; C.S.M., W. A. Hawkins, Toronto, 32nd, won $15; Major F. Richardson, Victoria, 23rd, won $15. Pte. T. R. Davies, Vancouver, won $10, as did Lieut. Alec Martin, formerly of Calgary. Five dollars was the amount won by Sgt. J. H. Regan and Sgt. H. Burton of Victoria; Sgt.-Major Kiddie of Toronto; C.Q.M.S. Stevenson and Sgt. C. W. Foam of Montreal; Lieut. MacGregor and Lieut. Bishop of Ottawa, and Lieut. Alex Skinner, formerly of Fort William.

Sergt. Lewis won the All-Comers Aggregate, first prize in which was a challenge cup valued at $250, and Wing Commander Wells of the Royal Air Force was second, with Pavey of Australia third. C.S.M. Emslie of Toronto, fourth, and Lieut. Burke, fifth, each won $22.

The Canadians finished as follows:

	2nd stage	3rd stage	total	place	amount won
Lieut. Desmond Burke, Ottawa	138	142	280	2nd	$250
Sgt. Major R. Kiddie, Toronto	136	134	270	13th	24

ITALY DEFEATS CZECHO SLOVAKIA

Will Meet United States in Interzone Final of Davis Cup.

MILAN, Italy, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Winning the two final singles matches yesterday, Italy defeated Czecho Slovakia 3 to 2 in the final rounds of the European zone Davis Cup play.

P. Caslini evened the count in the first of yesterday's matches by defeating P. Macenauer of Czecho Slovakia, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3. Baron H. L. Demorpurgo, Italian ace, then scored the final victory over Jan Koseluh, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

A large crowd saw yesterday's matches which gave Italy the right to meet the United States in the interzone final. The winner of that encounter will play France in the challenge round.

Only one of the matches yesterday was in doubt, although both were hard fought. It was taken for granted in advance that Baron De Morpurgo would have little difficulty in winning his singles match from Kozeluh, star of the Czecho Slovakian team.

FOUR BALL GAMES IN E.P.B.L. SERIES

Bethany, Lakefield and Local Clubs to Take Part in this Week's Games.

Exhibition Park will be the scene of four ball games this week, commencing with the Crescents-Cognawagas contest to-night. To-morrow evening Lakefield will be here to meet Lock Works in the county series of the E.P.B.L., and a win for the local club will put them in the playoff with Hastings.

Wednesday evening, Bethany meets Raybestos, and on Friday, the Cogs and Raybestos replay a tie game from the first half.

A special meeting of the P. and D. F. A. will be held this evening in the Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock. Representatives and executive members please note the time.

Official confirmation was received this morning by the Canadian General Soccer Executive that the Davenport C.G.E. team will play here on Saturday, July 28th at Nicholls Oval. Further information and data will be given later.

FOUR REMANDED IN ROBBERY CASE

Men Held on Vagrancy Charge will Appear in Court 19th.

TORONTO, July 16. —(Canadian Press).—Finlay McLeod, Sr., Everett McKibbon, Alex. McLeod, and Jack Sullivan, the four men held in connection with the mail car robbery of June 19, appeared in Police Court today on charges of vagrancy and were remanded until July 19, when they will appear on more serious charges.

Police today expressed confidence that they would get the "Key Man" they are searching for in the United States Cities.

Killed Stepfather For Family Peace

BISMARCK, N.D., July 16. —(Canadian Press).—Ada Biggs, 19, was in the county jail at Farmington to-day, after police said she had admitted killing her stepfather, William Simpson to "bring peace into the family." She stated her mother and uncle, Oscar Greenwahl, plotted Simpson's death with her.

CAN. GENERAL WINS HOLLOWAY SOCCER CUP

After Ten Minutes' Play the Winners were Leading Two Goals to Nothing.

C. G. E. 6; QUAKERS 1.

Quakers were Very Disappointing—Fans Consider Tussle was Poorest this Season.

The Canadian General soccer team added another trophy to their list on Saturday afternoon, when they defeated the Quakers by Six goals to one in the final of the Holloway Injured Players Cup, at King Edward Park, before a fair attendance of spectators that faced the elements all afternoon. The winners had the services of Bolton in goal (late of the defunct Thistles). A great many of the fans went away disappointed in the calibre of soccer shown while some recommended that the winners should be playing outside teams, instead of local ones. The winners will get that opportunity soon when they meet the Toronto C.G.E. on Saturday, July 28, in this city.

First Half

There was no choice in the spin of the coin because there was no disadvantages shown by the wind or sun—but the super-abundance of rain that continued to fall throughout the whole ninety minutes. Opening exchanges went in favour of the winners. Jack Wade went right up the field with the ball at his foot to miss scoring, when he was given the legal shoulder while in the act of kicking the ball. It was cleared upfield, where the opponents grasped the opening to keep Bolton busy for a while. Play run from end to end until a foul was given against the Quakers outside the goal-area which proved costly.

Dawson Scored Far Out

All the players concentrated their attention to the goal, with the exception of Dawson, who accepted the ball from his team mate on the wing. He dribbled his way past two men then let drive for goal, at a distance of twenty yards out, that found a vacant corner of the upright. From the kick-off the Canadian General returned to the same locality on the left wing again to manouvere for an opening that came to them when Burgess centred into goal. Wade was in an offside position while the sphere was in transit towards the citadel but he came back into the goal area to head the second tally past Curtis.

Quakers Were Lost

During these successful bounts in favour of the winners the losers never gave up fighting but time and again they would beat the defence nicely to finish with a poor effort at goal. No matter what they endeavoured to accomplish, they failed to carry out their mission to a satisfactory end. Strudley and Carmichael repeatedly worked inside the full backs to find that the C.G.E. forwards were down assisting the hard pressed fullbacks in the Quaker's attempt to get near Bolton's charge. The Quaker's inside man evaded three men, one after the other, to finish with a rocket drive that was diverted past the upright for a fruitless flag-kick. Foul-throws and free kicks were the order of the play for the next ten minutes in which both elevens practised to perfection. Near the interval the ball became very heavy and the men found it difficult to control. Play was in mid-field when the referee announced the respite from the struggle that was anything but pleasant to witness. Half Time, C.G.E. 2 Quakers 0.

Second Half

Quakers came into the picture on resuming, and T. Wilson had hard lines in not counting with a hard shot which was blocked in the nick of time. Keeping the ball in the proximity of the goal only brought a succession of flag-kicks that were never pushed to a desired purpose. The game was contested on much more even terms this half, yet the respective backs saw to it that the custodians were well protected, albeit neither sets of forward caught the eye with their shooting.

Quakers Cracked

After a very keen argument, the losers blew up at a very unfortunate period, because Dawson travelled down the field with ball, after a poor attempt to score at the other end. He beat it for goal, then passed the ball to Mitchell right in front of the goal. The latter player tapped the ball to his favorite boot—like a rocket it ripped inside the post for number three. As time went on, the Canadian General added three more goals to their total while the Quakers fell into the position of a disorganized team. There was nothing to enthuse over in the game, and taking the play all through the C.G.E. deserved their victory even they were a little lucky in their method of accomplishing it. The Quakers had several chances they might have turned to account but it invariably happened they were too flurried to take advantage of them. Full Time—C.G.E., 6; Quaker Oats 1.

The teams:

Quakers—W. Curtis, goal; H. Curtis and Foster, full backs; Buchan, Craig and Rankin, halves; Carmichael, James, Strudley, T. Wilson and T. Williams, forwards.

Canadian General—Bolton goal; F. Wade and Blowers, full backs;; Dawson, and Mann halves; Clarke, Donoughe, J. Wade Mitchell and Burgess forwards.

Referee—Alex McKinley.

NEW SUMMER POLICY OF THREE CHANGES EACH WEEK, COMMENCES AT THE CAPITOL TODAY WITH RICHARD DIX IN THE VERY FUNNY FARCE COMEDY, "EASY COME, EASY GO"

Commencing to-day, the Capitol offers their new summer policy of three complete changes of program each week, with that screamingly funny farce, "Easy Come, Easy Go," featuring Richard Dix.

Its humor, as in so many of the Dix farce comedies, is based entirely on the sympathy theme. It portrays the struggles of a clean-cut young American, thoroughly honest and capable, but unfortunate, and his embarassing experience with a wily, but good-natured crook, who gets him into a great deal of trouble from which his own ingenuity, alone, extricates him.

"Easy Come, Easy Go" is certainly the type of story which Dix does best. It is straightforward, simply told and unstrained. There is no striving for effect but the action unfolds in increasingly funny sequence with the necessary dashes of romance to enhance the humor theme.

Nancy Carroll, Dix's new leading woman, who made an outstanding success in the Paramount picture of Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose", adds new laurels to her crown by her work in "Easy Come, Easy Go". She gives every evidence of becoming one of Paramount's favored stars.

ployment he wants. Many times, however, they are not able to fill the bill or the money is too small. This age of automobile, The Examiner was informed at the Bureau, may have something to do with the kind of jobs that the boys select. Boys are not following trades. The money to start with is too small and it seems to be every fellow's ambition to own a car of some description. They do not realize that they can have all these things after they have learned their trades and are making bigger money with some kind of a future ahead instead of taking positions where they make fairly good money as unskilled laborers at first, but have no advancement.

Parents do not accompany their children who are seeking positions, and, according to the local bureau, they are glad of the fact. If parents are with their boys and girls they have a tendency to do all the talking, and consequently those who are trying to locate the applicants do not know much about them after the interview is all over. This seems to be especially true with girls whose mothers accompany them. The parent endeavors to enlighten the bureau as to what a wonderful person her daughter would be to take the job and the poor girl who is to do the work has not a chance to say a word.

Boys who apply at the office do not seem to be influenced by the work their fathers do. The whole question seems to be one of money. As long as there is good money paid they will take the job. Boys usually follow their father's footsteps in profession or trades, and these boys do not seek employment at the local bureau.

Vacation periods usually bring an increase in the number of applicants for positions. When the boys have completed all the schooling they are going to take they sometimes make application for positions and then there are always the more ambitious who are looking for a job in the summer holidays, but who turn out to be very particular about the positions they take. They will not take a farm job where there are many openings for the summer at least.

FINANCE'S TRIP.

The Canadian Olympic committee will finance the trip of but one swimmer to the games at Amsterdam, it was announced after a series of conference with members of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association. The man the Olympic committee will look after is Walter Spence (inset) of British Guiana and Montreal, a United States holder of the nation breast-stroke record, and title holder of the Canadian 200-yard breast-stroke record. The Ontario branch of the C.A.S.A. will finance the trip of Garnet Ault of Ottawa and University of Michigan, holder of the quarter-mile and mile Canadian records, also shown. Spence is a veritable wizard in the water. His lightning turns astonished the experts at the trials.

SHOULD HAVE WORN LONG FROCK COAT

Manager Was Dismissed on Account of Dress He Wore.

LONDON, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy, rich not gaudy,
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.

The appropriate dress for the manager of a general store was discussed in the King's Bench, before the Lord Chief Justice.

John Hay Morren, of Golders' Green, said he was engaged as general manager of the provision and general stores of Excel Co., Ltd., of Russell Gardens, Kensington. He was suing them for wrongful dismissal, because he alleged that although he was engaged as general manager at $2,500 a year, rising to $4,000, he found that after he arrived from Scotland he was given merely the managership of a branch shop at Golders' Green. He resented this, and was dismissed.

Montague Abrahams, the managing director of the company, said that he found Mr. Morren in the shop at Golders' Green wearing a hard felt hat, and an ordinary lounge suit. He ought to have worn suitable clothes.

His Lordship: "As if he were going to a garden party?"

"He was cynical, and I told him that he would have to 'drop' that, as most of his customers were women, and he must be affable to them," Mr. Abrahams said.

"Do they like an affable manager? Does it make them buy an extra half pound of butter?"

"Sure they do like it."

His Lordship: "Was the manager to wear a frock coat, and a white apron at the same time?"

"He was to wear a long frock coat, as worn by men in a similar position. I don't recollect anything about a white apron."

The jury found for Mr. Morren $1,800 damages. Judgement was entered accordingly, with costs.

TO VISIT LAKEFIELD

Army Boys' Band will Conduct Open Air Service On Wednesday.

TWO CHILDREN WERE VISITING

Police and Parents Comb the Countryside Seeking Missing Pair.

AT GRANDMOTHER'S

TORONTO, July 16 (Canadian Press).—After being missing from their home for two days, during which ceaseless search was conducted by parents, police and neighbors, Irena and Eldene Hall, aged 9 and 5 respectively, were found to-day, safe and sound, at the home of their grandmother.

It now develops that the affair was the outcome of domestic troubles, and likely will be aired in County Police Court.

On their way home from a movie on Saturday, it is now stated, they were met by their father, who took them and installed them in his parents' home. Mrs. Hall, the mother, it develops, has been separated from her husband for some time and living with another man.

NEW COMMISSIONER

Col. Sir John Robert Chancellor, Governor of Southern Rhodesia since 1923, who has been appointed High Commissioner for Palestine and Transjordania, succeeding Field - Marshal Lord Plumer. A report was current in London that Lord Plumer was retiring because of a disagreement as to whether the cost of maintaining military forces in Transjordania should be borne by the Imperial Government or Palestine. Sir John Chancellor is a native of Scotland, is 58 years old and has had a distinguished military career.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Angelo January, Who lives at 343 McDonnell street, celebrated his birthday yesterday. From early morn until late at night his numerous friends passed through the welcoming doors of his home to offer him their congratulations at reaching the half century mark.

He and his wife had made ample preparations for the guests and three large tables were spread in the house, where the visitors were all treated royally. There were over one hundred persons who visited Mr. January

Note From Saint Roman Found In Bottle; French Aviator Lost Since Last Spring

RIO JANEIRO, July 16. — What may be the last message of Captain Saint-Roman, the French aviator, who disappeared on May 6, 1927, when within 200 miles of the coast of Brazil, on a flight from St. Louis, Senegal, has been found in a wine bottle picked up from the sea by a fisherman of town of Prado, State of Bahia.

The note, written in French and English, said:

"To the people of the world. Paris and Latin-America.

"Fell 300 miles from Brazil. Am at sea, hungry and thirsty, on a solitary unknown rock. Civilized people, rescue me."

The note was signed "Saint-Roman."

Captain Saint-Roman and a flying companion left the African coast on May 5, 1927, for a flight to South America. A report of their having been seen within 200 miles of the Brazilian coast was never confirmed and extended search failed to reveal trace of them.

On July 16, the wreckage of an airplane was found by a fisherman in the Amazon estuary and taken to Para. There an engineer identified it as a Goliath machine, the same type as that flown by Saint-Roman. The engineer said, however, that the plane must have made a fair landing as the wheels showed no damage.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 16 (Canadian Press). — Trading was on an extremely light scale in Saturday's short session of the Montreal Stock Exchange, with price movements for the most part of an unimportant nature. Brazilian was leader in volume and closed a small fraction higher, while of the other leaders in volume International yielded a small fraction, while B.E. Steel Second Preferred closed unchanged. Firm spots in the morning's list included Canadian Bronze Preferred, Canada Power, Canada Steamship, and Power Corporation.

Brazilian led in activity, with a turnover of 2,260 shares, and closed at 27 for a net gain of ½. International Nickel came second in activity, with 835 shares dealt in, and closed at 91¾ for a net loss of ¼. B.E. Steel Second Preferred was third in activity, with 540 shares dealt in, and closed unchanged at 7.

Power Corporation recorded the greatest advance in the list, closing at 74 for a net gain of 3 points, with 300 shares traded in. Lyall suffered the greatest loss, closing at 70 for a net decline of 2 points, with 275 shares traded in.

Total sales amounted to 6,967 shares as compared with 2,116 shares on the previous aSturday.

Market Opinion on Various Issues

Companion Producing Nickel Have Paid Over Hundred Million in Dividends.

Montreal, July 16.—Up to the end of June, this year, the two nickel-copper producing mines of Sudbury, International and Mond Nickel Companies, have returned to shareholders dividends in excess of 100 million dollars. This is the greatest dividend record that has ever been established by any class of mining in Canada.

Sydney, N.S.W.—The Sun understands that the new $35,000,000 Australian loan being issued in London will be used for the purposes of development and loans to the various states for settlement of migrants under an agreement with the British Government. The Parliament of Western Australia has ratified the financial agreement between the Commonwealth and the States, which involves complete revision of the financial relations between the Commonwealth and the States. It includes a joint sinking fund and provisions for co-ordinated borrowing, and all the States have now ratified it.

An amendment to the charter of J. I. Case Plow Works, Inc., has been filed in Baltimore for the changing of the name of this company to the Massey-Harris Company. It will be recalled that early in the year Massey-Harris purchased the assets and business of J. I. Case, paying $1,-252,500 cash and assuming the outstanding bonded indebtedness. In May last shareholders of J. I. Case voted for dissolution in a plan providing for payment to preferred stockholders of $60 a share and $1.64 a share to the class B stockholders. Massey-Harris are now in full possession of the business end, the changing of the name is a formality in connection with the deal.

We feel very optimistic on the future of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, and we wish to state that the stock is a purchase around current levels. In fact, the common shares look like an attractive investment speculation at present level. Recent buying is stated to have been of a very intelligent character.

In conversation with a prominent local broker, the writer was given the opinion that movements of stock prices will be very narrow for the next month or two. The concensus of opinion in the "street" is that sharp bulges should be taken advantage of to cash in profits whilst any sudden weakness that develops offers the opportunity of picking up the good stocks for turns. In other words, a trading market is the most that can be expected until there is a decided change in the whole situation.

CHICAGO, July 16. — (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices today dropped to below any level which September and December deliveries had touched heretofore this season. Big receipts of wheat southwest and the weakness of Liverpool quotations were bearish factors, opening ½ to 1¼ off, Chicago wheat underwent an additional sag, but then rallied somewhat. Corn and oats were also weak, with corn starting at ¼ to 1¼ down, and later showing a more pronounced decline. Provisions held firm.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July, 128; September, 132¼; Corn, July, 105; September 96¾; Oats, July 48¼; September, 41⅝.

TORONTO, July 16 (Canadian Press)—Trading was somewhat spotty on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day, with a number of issues suffering sharp declines in prices. Rumors of the closing of a deal with Smelters caused some activity in Big Missouri, but the issue closed with a drop of two at 68. Hudson Bay and Pend Oreille were heavy losers, the former dropping 30 to 18.30, and the latter 40 to 14.35. Hollinger was down 35 at 12.50. The other Western issues were firmer.

Teck Hughes was down 15 at 10.50, and Amulet closed with a loss of 15 at 4.55. Abana was one of the few stocks to advance and was up 9 at 3.30. A number of cheaper issues were quite active.

Sherritt Gordon dropped 10 to 7.05 and Noranda reacted 1.95 to 50.00.

Early Trading Dull in Toronto Exchange

Many Sharp Declines in Toronto Exchange.

TORONTO, July 16 (Canadian Press).—The early session of the Toronto Stock Exchange was very dull. Sales were scattered and small with prices showing slight changes. International Nickel was the morning's feature, with a large turnover, losing two points at 89½. Photo Engravers, with few sales, advanced 4½ to 5, while Hayes Wheels climbed one point to 33.

In the banking section, Standard, with large trading, dropped 1½ at 235, with Canadian Bank of Commerce sagging 3¼ to 205.

Among the unlisted, sales were few and prices mostly firm, with losses about balancing the gains. British American dropped a half to 36, and International Petroleum lost a half to 4. Seagrams gained half1234 3 4an33 39½. Standard Paving and Distillers Seagrams gained half point to 27¼ and 18 respectively.

Resumption of Selling Sends Stock Prices Down

Season's Lowest Prices Paid for Wheat To-day.

NEW YORK, July 16 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness again characterized to-day's stock market with the general list drifting lower on the resumption of selling for both accounts. Standard Industrials and rails fell one to five points as supporting orders were withdraw and a few of the high-priced specialties broke five to eleven points.

Call money renewed at 6¼ per cent and was in such plentiful supply that the rate was dropped to six in the early afternoon. There was no appreciable calling of loans.

Despite the favorable character of most of the current sales and earnings reports, motors yielded rather readily to selling pressure. General Motors fell 3¼ points before it encountered effective buying support, and Chrysler, Studebaker, Packard, Nash, and Hudson yielded a point or more.

Airplane shares were again the targets of bear attacks, Wright being hammered down four points and Curtis 3¼. The oils, which showed signs of starting a new forward movement last week, also joined in the decline, Houston breaking 6¼ points.

DROWNINGS FEARED

Two Construction Workmen Employed at Stewart, B. C., Missing.

STEWART, B.C., July 13 (Canadian Press).—Edward Nelson and Nels. J. Lindstrom, employed on construction work, are reported missing and it is feared they have been drowned in Marmot River.

DENIES CONNECTION WITH KNIFE BOTTLE

Owner of House where Fight Occurred says he was Away.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 16.—(Canadian Press)—Frances Co Cimini in whose home James Roberto and Patsy Palmamo were seriously injured in a knife fight yesterday, surrendered to the police today and said he knew nothing of the affair, being in another house at the time.

Charles Desante and Nicolo Nicholo also injured in the fight, will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER

Winnipeg Rumanian Believed Slain by Alien Smugglers Months Ago.

WINDSOR, July 16. —(Canadian Press).—Believed to have been robbed and thrown overboard by alien smugglers in trying to enter the United States, the body of John Chedik, 25, a Rumanian, of Winnipeg, has been taken from the Detroit river, apparently after having been in the water about a year.

FRENCH MINISTER TO BE APPOINTED

George Knight, now in Canada, Mentioned as Likely Choice.

PARIS, July 16.—(Canadian Press) Appointment of the first French Minister to Canada probably will be made as soon as the Senate, after summer vacation, passes the appropriation. George Knight, former French Commercial attache in the Far East and now in Canada on a special mission, has been mentioned as a likely appointee.

FOUR WOMEN HURT IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

GUELPH, Ont., July 16 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. R. Saunders, Mrs. George Bond, and Miss Saunders and Miss Bond, all of Guelph, were seriously injured between Preelton and Dundas yesterday when their car crashed into a ditch.

Wine Worth Million Is Adrift On Seine

PARIS, July 16. — Canadian Press).—Lower Seine was closed to navigation to-day because of the danger to ships' propellers from 6,000 barrels of wine adrift from the French steamer Moenreb. The vessel went aground near Monfleur and her cargo, estimated to be worth $1,000,000, is believed to be a total loss.

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE BLOOD.

The heart is a very industrious organ, working vigorously from several months before our births till our deaths. It has no rest except the very slight, almost imperceptible pause between the beats. In infants the heart beats about 120 per minute, and in adults the average is 72, but there is a large margin of variation. Doctors can often tell whether a mother is going to have a boy or girl baby before it is born by counting the fetal heart beats. This is because a girl baby's heart usually beats faster than a boy's.

The heart has its impulses to contract and relax within itself, and if all nerves leading to it are severed, it will continue to beat for a short time. (Fishermen sometimes observe a shark's heart beating for two hours or longer after it has been cut out of the body.)

There are two sets of nerves leading to the heart; one to make it beat faster and the other to make it beat slower. One acts like a brake and the other as a whip. A doctor can press on these nerves and control (within certain limits) the speed of the heart.

The contractions of the heart are called systole, and the dilations are termed diastole. Before birth there is an opening between the right and left sides of the heart so that the blood will not be forced into the lungs but will pass directly back into the circulation. With the first gasp of air, this opening closes and the contraction then starts the blood flowing through the lungs so that the oxygen is absorbed. Occasionally this opening fails to close and we have what is called a "blue baby," it having a blue color because the blood is not forced through to the lungs to absorb the oxygen.

As you know, the venous blood is blue and the arterial blood red. This is because the venous is laden with carbon dioxide gas which is thrown out through the lungs and the oxygen absorbed makes it red. As you can see by this, the arteries and veins traveling between the lungs and the heart are an exception to this color scheme. There the veins have red blood, and the arteries blue.

In addition to this red and blue blood circulation, we have a white fluid stream traveling toward the heart and emptying into veins deep in the right and left shoulders. This is the lymphatic circulation, which is the protective filter system of the body against many disease germs and toxins. All along the lymph vessels are lympahtic glands or nodes, which are the filters. In cases of blood poisoning and various diseases, these glands may become enormously engorged and swollen with toxins to that they are easily felt from the outside. Most of these glands are grouped in the neck, under the arms, and in the groins. You will undoubtedly be able to feel some of these on yourself. These lymph capillaries collect the liquid that has soaked through the blood capillaries around the cells, and carry the fluid back to the heart. You can see that this lymph only flows one way—toward the heart. It does not return in lymph vessels, but may soak back again from the blood. When these lymph vessels do not drain the tissues properly, the fluid collects and may form a dropsical condition.

The lymphatic vessels from the small intestine have a special function. The sugars and proteins of digestion enter the blood capillaries of the intestinal villi, but the fatty elements after the lymph capillaries. Exercise and massage will speed up the flow of the lymphatics.

The colors of our flag were selected before very much was known about anatomy of the blood stream, and it is interesting that the colors are similar to those of our body. We have red blood in the arteries, blue-like blood in our veins, and white fluid in our lymphatic vessels.

Questions and Answers.

Question—Mrs. O. H. asks: "What is an alligator pear?"

Answer: "Alligator pear" is a name which has been given to the avocado, but this name should not be used, as it does not describe the avocado. It is not a sweet fruit as the name "pear" suggests, but a salad fruit of a nut-like, buttery flesh, rich in vegetable oil, with also some proteins and carbohydrates. This fruit may be used at almost any meal, and combines well with any other article of food.

Question—Mrs. C. writes: "I have palpitation of the heart, but all the doctor does is to give me some medicine to use whenever the trouble becomes bad. I know I am worse whenever I have gas on my stomach. Please mark off the gassy foods I should not eat. I am enclosing a list."

Answer: As you did not give me your name and address I could not send you a direct answer, so will merely name those foods you have listed which are often found to be gas producers with those who have this tendency: Brown or white bread, potatoes, apple pie, cake, porridge, lettuce, beets, bananas, peas, corn, and chocolates.

Question—J. H. J. writes: "Just clearing my throat without any effort brings up little sacs of clear mucus. Do you think this necessarily a forerunner of tuberculosis?"

Answer: The little sacs you mention are simply the exudation of catarrhal phlegm and cannot be considered the forerunner of tuberculosis. Of course, an extreme catarrhal condition may develop into tuberculosis, but your problem now is to get rid of your catarrh, which you can do by living on a mucusless diet.

Feeley, Pte Michael Lonergan

The short ceremony was closed with God Save The King. During a great part of the afternoon the weather was unkind to the assembly

Mayor Roland Denne, E. A. Peck, M.P., William H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Alderman W. Stocker, R. Cotton and G. Macdonald, were present and were to have taken part in the service. It was with great regret on the part of those who assembled to watch the service and those assembled to pay tribute to the fallen that these prominent men could not be heard from. With a suitable day this would have been one of the finest memorial services ever held in Peterborough. As is was the short service was very impressive, touching the hearts of those present and recalling memories of those who did not come back.

A DECIDEDLY SPANISH DESIGN
Parkinson & Halley, Architects.

Few homes possess such marked individuality and character as that shown here. Its beautiful Spanish atmosphere is acquired by the treatment of every detail in a manner which clearly shows the designer's intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the style. Its colourful exterior treatment is obvious from the perspective, and well merits careful study.

There is no incongruity of character between exterior and interior. Imagine for example the impression one would receive on entering the hall. The walls are finished in brown travertine effect, floors are tiled, trim of dark oak, and balustrade and lighting fixtures of iron, hand wrought in Spanish design. These materials, combined with the unusual raised stair landing arrangement, form a hall of marked character which would not be readily forgotten. From a convenience viewpoint, the lavatory and coat room which open from it are noteworthy.

The living room continues the atmosphere in no diminished degree, for this spacious room, with its oak floors, brown toned stippled antique effect walls, and beamed ceiling is further enhanced by a Spanish style fireplace.

In the kitchen, however, the aesthetic yields to the practical efficiency more appropriate to its purpose. Despite this fact there is a beauty about its well ordered symetrical arrangement, and white enamelled woodwork, which is not to be denied.

The upper floor accommodation comprises a large owner's room, two medium sized bedrooms, and a maid's room.

A house of this type, particularly when surrounded by those of another style, demands ample clear space if its individuality is to be fully appreciated. Here, with the overall house dimensions 20 feet by 44 feet, a lot of 75 feet by 150 feet well meets the requirements.

Containing 23,000 cubic feet, the cost was approximately $12,000 with hot water heating.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with the Home Building Information Service, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont., who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 312. Copyright, 1928.

SOLID GROUND NECESSARY FOR BUILDING SITES

The foundation of a building is not primarily the basement wall or the footing below, but what is beneath the footing. Many a lot is wholly unfit for home building because the soil on which the footings must rest is not sufficiently strong to support even the comparatively light walls of a house. Depressions filled with tin cans, brush, ashes, and other refuse, topped off with luxuriant turf, and sold as accredited building sites are just as fraudulent as golded bricks sold for gold.

It takes solid, compact earth to support a building uniformly so that one part will not settle the least bit more than another. No one can tell how long it will take swamp land or fills of ashes to become consolidated. The careful buyer learns about these conditions as a matter of course, but even after the best intelligence is used in selecting a site, it not infrequently happens that the excavation discloses conditions that will make wall building difficult.

If the excavation does show forth these conditions footings must be designed accordingly, for these different types of soil have supporting powers of widest variation.

It will be seen how futile it is to build foundation walls for dwellings in a stereotyped manner as though all soils were alike. One has only to inspect a number of older house foundations to see what happens when the special condition of the underlying soils and the loads that come upon them are not given consideration.

Many such a foundation wall reveals prominent diagonal cracks. These indicate that the wall had to act as a beam, that somewhere the supporting soil failed and the wall then had to span from one solid point to another. That made a beam of it. But walls are not designed for beams. They must have uniform and continuous support along their entire length. This may mean spreading the footings, digging away refuse or pools of mud. It may mean that occasional reinforcement must be used in the wall.

No amount of expert planning of the house or of beautiful modeling of the walls and roof planes will save that cracked foundation if the materials below the footings are irregular or poor and the footings have not been designed for these conditions.—Copyright 1927. WEDDING BELLS

GUTHRIE—KILLINBECK.

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday, July 14th, at the Park Street Baptist Parsonage, when Thelma Nureen Killinbeck and Oscar Guthrie were united in matrimony by the Rev. J. L. Harton.

LLOYD—EMPEY

MADOC, July 16.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at eleven o'clock on June 30, at the home of Mrs. Ross, 30 Halloway street, Belleville, when her niece Kathleen Nudell Empey, Eldorado, became the bride of Richard Frederick, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd, of Eldorado.

The bride entered the drawing-room, which was beautifully decorated with peonies, roses, and ferns, on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. McCutcheon of the Tabernacle Church.

The bride looked very charming in a dress of poudre-blue georgette trimmed with gold lace and wore blonde shoes and stocking. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and fern.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold pendant set with turquoise and diamonds.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the Hotel Quinte where the wedding dinner was served. Later in the afternoon the bride and bridegroom left by motor on their honeymoon, to be spent in New York City and the Catskill Mountains.

On their return the young couple will reside in Toronto.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. Melvin Empey, Toronto; Miss Irene Russell, Foxboro; Miss Ada Morrison, Miss Keitha Macdonald, and Mr. C. H. Macdonald of Point Anne.

BIRTH

To Mr. and Mrs. Murray Perrin (nee Lillian Holyman), 513 Weller street, at Nicholls Hospital, Sunday, July 15th, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. T. Boyle, 456 Sherbrooke street, on July 14, 1928, at St. Joseph's Hospital, a daughter.

At Bridgenorth, July 15th, 1928, to Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Conners, a son.

DIED.

DONNELLY—In Peterborough, as the result of an accident, on Saturday, July 14, 1928, William Henry Donnelly, 475 King street.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Tuesday afternoon. Service at the house at two o'clock. Interment, Little Lake Cemetery 2:30.

CHILD THOUGHT MOTHER DEAD

Months Ago, taking Children.

DAUGHTER HURT.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., July 16 (Canadian Press). — Six-year-old Kathleen Smith in a hospital here the last week suffering from burns on her hand which her father, Percy Smith, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Jessie Ellison, are accused of having inflicted, was reunited Saturday with her mother, whom she had believed dead.

The mother, Mrs. Charlotte Belle Smith, 29, of Toronto, Ont., was located and brought here through an investigation conducted by Macomb County authorities into the tortuing of the child. Mrs. Smith also was re-united with her 10-year-old daughter, Marion.

According to the mother's story, Smith deserted her in Toronto seven months ago, taking the two children with him and coming here with Mrs. Ellison, whom he had known in Toronto. Both children said their father had told them their mother was dead.

Mrs. Smith said she had been working as a domestic in a Toronto home and had been searching for her children. She made a statement to Prosecutor James E. Spier, and it is understood she plans to appear next week against her husband and Mrs. Ellison, now in jail awaiting examination of the charge of mayhem and assault with intent to do great bodily harm. They were arrested on the complaint of neighbors who allege that the child's hands were burned with a lighted candle and also were serred on a hot stove to punish her for taking six postcards and a piece of cake.

The child was able to leave the hospital yesterday and with her sister and mother went to the home of Mrs. Mary A. Lierman, County juvenile officer.

Mrs. Smith said she was married to Smith twelve years ago in Toronto. He failed to properly provide for her, she said, and he was arrested for non-support and ordered to pay five dollars a week toward her support. He made only one payment, she said, before deserting her.

EXAMINER LEADS IN SAFETY MOVE

Cornices, though Securely Bolted, are Taken Down to Allay Fears.

Following Saturday"s tragic accident, which resulted in the death of Mr. Donnelly, The Examiner instructed carpenters to remove the ornamental cornices from its building.

Scaffolding was erected this forenoon and two brackets taken down. They were perfectly safe, being bolted with heavy bolts, but it was felt by the management that Saturday's tragedy would make citizens apprehensive and it would be well to allay this fear as far as possible.

FIRE THREATENS BUSINESS SECTION

Destroys Three Large Buildings in Helena, with $1,000,000 Damage.

HELENA, Mont., July 16.—(Canadian Press).—Fire which wiped out a quarter of a block in Helena's business section was brought under control today after burning for more than three hours. Newspapers estimated the loss at least a million dollars. The city's largest department store, two large office buildings and part of a third, with a score of smaller business houses were destroyed.

IN POLICE COURT

Only one case appeared in the local police court this morning when a young man was fined $4.50 for being drunk. The mother of the lad accompanied him and paid the fine, after which the two walked out of the station and continued their business on George street.

THREE SLASHED IN KNIFE FIGHT

Two Niagara Falls Men not Expected to Recover from Wounds.

QUARREL OVER CARDS.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 16.—Two men are likely to die and a third is in a precarious condition, as a result of a fight with knives and staves in and outside a house on Slater Avenue late yesterday afternoon. The three are James Roberto, with extensive cuts and slashes, particularly in the region of the heart and on the scalp Patay Palano, with deep gashes in his neck, head and body; Charles Dester, also with extensive knife wounds.

Slight Hopes for Roberts

Attending physicians, late yesterday evening, believed that perhaps two of the victims will succumb to the terrible injuries sustained in the fracas. There is only the slightest hope for Roberto, who sustained many wounds, particularly a stab in the chest in the region of the hears and a terrible scalp wound.

Another victim of the affray was taken to the hospital last night, Nicol A. Micholo with a bad wound in the hand, gained while he was seeking to flee the scene. He told the police that he was making his escape when one of the men threw a knife at him.

From evidence now in hand, the police believe that the men were playing cards and an accusation of cheating was made, which instantly started a fight. Charlie Dester tried to separate the men and received his wound in that fashion.

22 SWIMMERS DIE IN DANUBE

Thirteen Lives Lost at Vienna, and Nine at Budapest.

DURING HEAT WAVE

VIENNA, July 16. — (Canadian Press). — Thirteen persons were drowned in the Danube over the weekend as thousands of Viennese flocked to bathing resorts for relief from the heat wave which is holding Central Europe in its grip.

Reports from Budapest said that nine persons were drowned there.

PLANE PLUNGES THOUSAND FEET

Selfridge Field Machine Falls into Lake St. Clair this Morning.

FAILS TO FINISH LOOP.

DETROIT, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Lieut. Charles E. Bradshaw, army flier at Selfridge Field, was killed to-day when the plane in which he was practising flying plunged into Lake St. Clair from an altitude of 1,000 feet. When the plane was towed to shore the pilot's crushed body was found in the wreckage.

Witnesses said the plane went into a loop from which it failed to come out.

FINE PROGRAM AT CHAUTAUQUA

of a humorous type, including "Hats of Other Days," illustrated with a number of out-of-date samples of feminine headgear, and her very funny presentation of "The Next Door Neighbor," the gabby lady who took an intense interest in the affairs of her fellow-beings. A hand-saw selection by Miss Grosjean, with piano accompaniment provided another pleasing novelty in the musical line. A setting of rose pink hangings and pretty feminine costumes contributed to the charm of the afternoon program.

Children Pleased.

In the evening, a large number of people witnessed the feats of magic and mystery offered by the Great Laurant, a gentleman of extreme suavity and dexterity, whose skilful presentation of spectacular doings added much to the joy of life for his watchers and especially diverted the youthful portion of his audience, whose cries of excited glee filled the big tent at regular intervals during the first part of the show, given over to their entertainment, with the second portion devoted to the adults. The magician had a very appropriate and fitting setting for his entertainment in a Chinese red background, with Chinese musicians playing stringed instruments.

With the aid of numerous small boys and girls whose mystification was a pleasure to them and their audience alike, the magician produced divers pleasing articles from strange and unexpected places. An astonished child manufactured a rabbit out of thin air and several little patrons contributed rings to the magician's powder horn stunt, with a magic casket revealing the bits of jewellery at a later date.

Phyllis and Harold did a fruit and egg trick which involved the discovery of an egg within a lemon concealed, in turn, inside a big orange, with a lost ring as a central bit of ornament. Harold manfully withstood the jeers of his fellow playmates in the audience while he proudly held aloft a mass of paper which afterwards proved to be minus the central fruit he was set to guard and which later turned into a bright cockerel with crimson wattles and bright orange hackle feathers. Olivers, as the bird was called, remained on the stage, intent on a bright light placed near enough to keep his hypnotized attention on it throughout a great deal of surrounding noise.

Bernard, a child who was described as being so virtuous that he really could not explain his spotless condition, was a platform assistant to a trick by which magical candy in a magical goblet was made to appear with astounding arpidity. Five little boys who impeached his virtue and declared he had taken some of the candy were made to stand on the platform and blow balloons until they burst, with a prize to the "Champion balloon blower of the Universe."

With the aid of a rim of black felt, used in various ways as headgear, Professor Laurant did some clever lightning characterization acts; appearing as a fire-fighter, a Swiss yodeler, a Chinese mandarin, a pirate, an Oxford student with motarboard, a Sister of Mercy, a meditative monk, and an old Guardsman.

One of the most interesting and novel bits in this section was the reproduction of two famous paintings, on request of the audience. In a lighted cabinet, against a blazing white light, the line of Da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" and Christy's "Trees" slowly resolved themselves.

Another interesting bit of magic was the "Sands of the Desert" offering, when the magician mixed three differently colored sands together in a big bowl and then separated each color in turn. As a finale, he produced a series of brightly-tinted batik silks which formed the Canadian flag, spread to the breeze. Much sincere applause greeted the efforts of the performer in his clever stunts. Members of the Grosjean Company provided the musical accompaniment.

A section for the children, beginning at ten o'clock each morning, is being carried on this year as usual.

To-night's entertainment is the always-popular play which forms such an interesting portion of the annual Chautauqua program. "Tommy," a great modern comedy, will be presented by a New York cast.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Mozart Concert Company, a trio of talented young ladies playing the piano, violin and 'cello and giving dramatic readings and costumed sketches, will provide the entertainment, and tomorrow night they will repeat for half an hour, with a following lecture by Herbert Leon Cope, a humorous philosopher who was nicknamed "Kill-the-Blues" Cope during the war, when, as a lecture-entertainer, he made an army laugh.

WIDE INTEREST IN PRIZE LISTS

Exhibition Secretary Receives More Enquiries Than Before.

FROM BIG BREEDERS

More requests than ever before for prize lists of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, coming from farther afield and from bigger breeders than have ever shown stock locally, are reported by Secretary Fred Hall. Men who formerly have confined their exhibits largely to the Toronto, Ottawa and London exhibitions are showing an interest in the Peterborough Fair that augurs well for a fine display of live stock.

LOCAL PLANT IS DESCRIBED

Description of Local Filtration System Given in Trade Publication.

There appears in July's issue of The Canadian Engineer a well-written article on Peterborough's Filtration Plant by Ross Dobbin, manager of the Utilities Commission. This was given as a paper at the annual convention of the American Water Works Association held recently at San Francisco. The article, describing the filtration plant as being of the Rapid Sand type with a capacity of 600,000 gallons of water a day, is complete in every detail as to a working description of the plant.

The British Empire covers about one-fourth of the world's inhabitable land surface.

PROTESTS MERGING OF BANKS

AFRICAN WORK IS DESCRIBED BY ENGINEER

Major J. J. Hill's Experiences in Dark Continent Thrill Large Audience.

AT CHAUTAUQUA.

Clever Three Act Play Presented for Evening Program in Big Tent.

A peep at the aborigines, the diamond mines and the witch doctors of Africa, with a play centreing about domestic complications and the vagaries of love's young dream, was the menu offered at the big Chautauqua tent to patrons of the afternoon and evening performances yesterday. There were good crowds for both entertainments, the tent being filled almost to capacity for the evening show, which was one of those human interest affairs where the onlookers have the comfortable sensation of being able quite easily to imagine themselves in the same circumstances, so closely were the threads of "Main Street" existence interwoven in its clever plotting.

"Tommy" was the title of the three-act play which formed the evening's entertainment, offered against a living-room background, with a cast of six people and a rapid-fire type of acting that kept the interest maintained until the final curtain. "Tommy" is a page from everyday modern life and is essential a story of youthful romance, with older people inserting careless fingers into the machinery and nearly jamming up the whole works.

Marie Thurber is the heroine, a modern lassie with careless hair and enthusiastic appreciation of masculine admiration. Her parents, the Thurbers, are very fond of Tommy Mills, who calls every night for a year and then—bless the advent of a new admirer, Bernard, who doesn't take time to cultivate the father and mother, so busy is he in paying attention to the daughter. The resident uncle, Dave Tuttle, a politician of subtle approach, realises that Marie is in danger of becoming fed up with Tommy's praises and starts in to criticize him at odd moments. Marie becomes Tommy's champion, much to the delight of her parents, but she dangles between him and Bernard in a manner that leads them to exert parental authority and set the date for the engagement. Marie, with proper spirit, revolts at this and departs indignantly with Bernard who has a marriage license in his pocket. However, before the evening is over, she returns a little matter involving a real estate deal is cleared up, and departs again, this time with Tommy, and marries him with the aid of Bernard's license. There is a good deal of humorous outlining to the story, with plenty of fun in the character bits by the older Thurbers.

CHIEF'S CAR IS DAMAGED

Collision on Highway Results in Injury to Mrs. Newhall, Senior.

ON SUNDAY NIGHT

A car belonging to Chief of Police Samuel Newhall was damaged in an accident about four miles down the highway on Sunday night when a coach type car carrying a Toronto license 2-283 cut out from behind a car at a high rate of speed and hit Chief Newhall's car breaking off the front wheel and smashing the left fender. The Toronto car received the worst of the impact, the door on the left hand side being badly dented, the left rear fender being completely broken off and the front left fender pushed flat against the body of the car.

Mrs. Newhall, Sr., an aunt of Chief Newhall and quite an elderly lady, was the only one to suffer injuries in the crash, and the seriousness of her injuries is unknown.

Canoeist Tells of Upset

Accident Occurred when Mast Broke and Waves Filled Canoe.

WATER VERY COLD.

Two Boys Swim Half a Mile with Difficulty Because of Rough Water.

The rumor that two boys were drowned in Clear Lake was proved untrue when C. H. Haines, one of the occupants of the canoe told The Examiner the story of their upset that caused so much consternation in the city shortly after noon yesterday.

The boys were sailing in a stiff breeze with a sixteen foot cedar strip canoe. Mr. Morris said that they were sailing into the wind and had landed once to dump the canoe after which they started out to sail again. The breeze became stiffer and they turned to run with the wind but the waves became bigger and bigger and the canoe began to ship quite a bit of water. The waves soon began to fill the boat. The climax of the whole thing came when the mast broke and the boat became unmanageable, finally filling.

"We held on the canoe for a while until the water became too cold and then we talked over what we should do", said Mr. Morris. "We were not scared but kept our heads and decided that it would be better to swim for it. D. B. Morris, the other occupant of the boat, did not wish to loose his sweat shirt so tied it to the mast, then we struck out.

"We saw the boys from the Rotary Camp start out and pick up the canoe so we waved to them but they did not see us so we kept on swimming. The big waves made it difficult as we seemed to be swimming under water most of the time. Finally we landed on Hamilton's Island and again tried to attract the searchers but failed. We finally hailed the fellow on the next island who was a stone mason and he kindly took us home."

The Examiner met the two boys as they were rowing to Kawartha Park after their canoe and they seemed none the worse for the half mile swim. Phil. Taylor, game warden for that district, went to their cottage soon after the accident to see if anything had been heard of them and he found them enjoying a big chicken dinner and he said that they certainly seemed glad to be home.

The boys in the canoe were C. H. Haines of Philadelphia and D. B. Morris of New York City. The rumor started when their canoe was seen to overturn near Hanna's Rock and the occupants could not be found when a search party composed of Rotary Camp boys headed by Doug. Loomis picked up the canoe.

The party brought the canoe, sail, leeboards and Morris' sweater all intact to Kawartha Park when the rumor spread that there had been a double drowning, the people on the shore being unaware that they had safely made shore after a half mile swim in cold water.

The boys returned to Kawartha Park for their canoe about four o'clock and were glad to find that everything had been saved and in first class condition. They are now enjoying the rest of their vacation at their cottage a mile from Kawartha Park near Mrs. Graham's cottage, across from the lighthouse on Clear Lake.

GIRL PULLED FROM RIVER

Miss Coursey Seized with Cramps while Swimming at Inverlea.

SAVED BY LIFE GUARD.

Ralp Adair, lifeguard at Inverlea Park effected a speedy rescue yesterday at the bathing beach. Miss Coursey had swam to the first pier of the bridge with another girl and was returning. She had just reached the life-lines when she was seized with cramps. Mr. Adair, noticing her condition, immediately pulled her to safety on shore where first aid was administered. She suffered no ill effects from her narrow escape.

Colonies of African white ants often raise mounds of earth as high as 8 or 10 feet.

MANY PERSONS SEEK RELIEF IN OTONABEE

Inverlea Bathing Beach well Patronized during Recent Hot Spell.

350 IN AFTERNOON

Cold Weather of Week-End Causes Great Decline in Number of Bathers.

The warm weather last week brought the swimmers out by the hundreds to enjoy relief from the heat in the cool waters of the Otonabee at Inverlea Park. Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons last week were the high spots in the caretaker's report, with 350 enjoying the park, while Thursday led in the evening swim with 100 bathers taking a dip in the early evening.

There has been a lot of first aid administered by the lifeguard at the park, mostly for minor cuts. Last week there were seven treated who had cuts in their feet.

The caretaker's report for the week is as follows:

	Morn.	After.	Even.
Monday	75	300	50
Tuesday . ..	50	350	75
Wednesday ..	100	350	75
Thursday . ..	75	250	100
Friday	75	300	25
Saturday . ..	0	10	0
Sunday.. ..	10	30	0

This report would indicate that most of the swimming is usually done in the middle of the week and the old story of Saturday night bathing is passing with many other old traditions, but probably the cold weather was to blame.

Manitoba Free Press Uses Opportunity To Attack Hon. Mr. Robb

Declares Complaisance of Government in Amalgamation of the Standard Bank and Bank of Commerce Is a Breach of Trust to Be Condemned

SCORES MINISTER OF FINANCE FOR READINESS TO GIVE HIS BLESSING TO SIMILAR MERGERS

Reason For Merger Is Ability of Standard Shareholders To Gain Money And Desire of Commerce To Expand, Says Western Newspaper

(Special to The Examiner)

WINNIPEG, July 17.—We believe that public opinion and Liberal opinion particularly, from one end of Canada to the other, will regard the compliance of the government in this respect a breach of trust. We suggest that the government reconsider its action and intervene, even in this late hour, to prevent this amalgamation," concludes the Manitoba Free Press in its leading editorial today.

Hon. J. A. Robb is treated none too kindly in the editorial, from which the following exceptions are taken:

"The amalgamation of the Standard Bank and the Bank of Commerce is the most glaring instance yet afforded, in this business of Bank mergering which has been going on in recent years, of the indifference of the Dominion Government to the process of restricting banking facilities by the lessening of competition: or perhaps it would be more accurate to say, this is the most striking instance of the readiness of the minister of finance to co-operate in the business now far advanced, of putting all the credit facilities of the country in the hands of four or five men.

"Mr. Robb, whatever his virtues in other respects, has a very bad record with respect to bank mergers. He has given his blessing and approval to every amalgamation submitted to him.

"The swallowing of the Bank of Hamilton by the Bank of Commerce might have been a good thing for the two banks—giving the shareholders of the one bank a good profit and adding to the prestige of the other—but it was a dis-service to the public, not withstanding all the soft sawder dished up to the public about how its interests could and would be better served by the enlarged institution.

"The absorption of the Standard Bank is another transaction of the same kind, only more deadly to the public interest. With every bank that disappears the injury to the public increases by reason of the additional limitation of credit. The reasons given by the banks for the merger are the most transparent humbug.

"There is no banking reason for the disappearance of the Standard Bank. The reasons for the merger are plain on the face of the statement. The shareholders of the Standard Bank can clean up a bit of money

GIRL'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Jury Returns Verdict in Drowning at Brockville Bathing Beach.

RECOMMENDS ASSISTANT.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 17 (Canadian Press).—Accidental death by drowning was the verdict returned by a Coroner's jury last night after investigating the death of Mets Ferguson, aged 13, whose body was found in the St. Lawrence River some hours after she had been seen bathing with other children. A rider was added to the verdict recommending that assistance be furnished the lifeguard when he is giving swimming instructions to children.

Ogopogo Reported In Okanagan Again

VERNON, B.C, July 17 (Canadian Press).—"Ogopogo," the mysterious monster which inhabits Okanagan Lake, is again in evidence after an absence sinces the summer of 1926.

On Friday, July 13, a patrol of Girl Guides had a good view of the monster, which was disporting itself in Otter Bay. According to the girls and their leader it was between 40 and 50 feet long.

NEW PAINT BRIGHTENS CITY BUSES

Vehicles on Local Routes are Being Made Very Attractive.

RED AND YELLOW.

Jackson Park Bus to be Painted to Correspond with Sister Machines.

Peterborough's buses are undergoing a thorough repainting in order to put them in a more attractive condition, and as one of the men at the garage puts it, "It makes people more happy to ride in them." The ugly scratches and blistered paint have been removed and a fresh coat applied.

The work is being carried out under the supervision of Melvin Overbay, who is here as representative of the Goltredson people. Three of the seven buses have already been finished. The large brown bus that runs on the Jackson Park route will be finished in the same color scheme of dark red and yellow as the rest of the buses in the city to make them all alike.

The cars are all sanded down first and then the red lacquer is applied to the lower parts, after which paper is spread over it in order to prevent the yellow, which is next applied, from dripping on to the finished red. When the yellow is applied on the upper section about the windows, these windows are also all covered with paper to prevent spotting. After the yellow is applied the belt moulding is then given a coat and finally the hood and fenders are finished up.

It takes about forty to forty-five hours to finish one bus, but this is very fast compared with the days spent in the old painting process. Lacquer is used entirely throughout the job, which dries in a very short time, so it is dustproof. In five minutes it is hard enough to sand and ten minutes after the bus can be run on the street.

There is no special room being used to paint these cars, but the work is being done right in the garages of the bus company on Hunter Street West, and those that have been finished have a smart appearance.

Pittsburg Men Like Outing

Day of Sports on Jacob's Island Pleases Visitors from Across Line.

IN TORONTO TO-DAY

Many Expressions of Delight in Treatment Received here Heard on Special.

Pleased to a high degree of enthusiasm at the warmth of the welcome and hospitality extended to them while in the city of Peterborough over Sunday, the seventy or more members of the Pittsburg Automobile Dealers' Association travelled to Bobcaygeon aboard their five-car special train, where on Monday morning, accompanied by the secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, Reeve Moore, of Bobcaygeon, an officer in the Trent Waterway Association, and an Examiner representative, they embarked on the Steamer Stoney Lake for a glorious all-day visit at the summer home of their friend "Eddie" Huff, on Jacob's Island, Pigeon Lake.

Favored with ideal weather, their visit proved one of the most enjoyable ever held in the history of the Association which holds these outings yearly. This year, through the instrumentality of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, the courtesy of railroad officials and the interest of private citizens of both Pittsburgh and Peterborough, the four-day holiday is being spent in the Kawartha Lakes district.

Pleased With Peterborough

Throughout the conversation on the boat, at the island and back in the train again last night, there was heard on all sides, expressions of appreciation for the kindly manner in which the city of Peterborough through His Worship, the Mayor and the officers of the Chamber of Commerce and affiliated bodies, had entertained the Pittsburgh visitors. The number of Peterborough's industries, the beauty of the city and district and the hospitality of its people seemed to have made an unforgettable impression and many were already planning future visits.

At the Island

The visit to "Eddie" Huff's place, nine miles distant from Bobcaygeon surpassed the happiest anticipation of any member of the party. The large, well-kept island, especially that part of it near Mr. Huff's home, was an ideal place for the holding of the sports—for swimming, softball, races and novelty events, with the genial host always seeking to make it more so. A strong, refreshing wind blowing from the west, while making the landing more difficult, was in every other way an asset.

The entire morning was spent by many in deciding the ultimate winner of an exceedingly lengthy softball game in which the one who "called them" enjoyed an Umpire's "dream" of absolutely monarchy. The personnel of the contending aggregations varied with the score, the time and suggestions of counter attractions, and only the sounding of the dinner bell brought the contest to an unceremonious, and quite abrupt conclusion. Others of the party enjoyed journeys of exploration about the island and some seemed even to find contentment in sit-

CAR CROWDED FROM DETOUR

Bright Headlights of Approaching Car Dazzle Driver in Narrow Road.

NO PERSON HURT.

A large sedan car was crowded off the Chemong detour about ten o'clock last night. The car, belonging to H. Dunford, was proceeding slowly down the narrow part of the road at the south end of the bridge, towards Peterborough. A light touring car, with very bright headlights, blinded the driver of the larger car, and forced it into the ditch. The driver of the car with the bright headlights, did not stop to see if there was any damage done. Luckily the car embedded itself in the mud, which prevented it from turning over. A call was sent to Peterborough for an emergency car with a derrick to pull the sedan on to the road as it was so deep in the mud that the numerous willing hands and cars that soon appeared were unable to move it from its position in the ditch. There was no one injured.

NO SCARCITY OF POSITIONS FOR FARMERS

Government Officials Reply to Judge's Attack on Immigration Advertising.

NO FALSE PRETENSES

Only Farm and Domestic Workers Sought—Canadians Coming Back.

OTTAWA, July 17 (Special to The Examiner).—The attack of Judge Choquette on the government, with special reference to two young Scotsmen charged before him with attempting to steal a ride back to Scotland on board the Minnedosa, is the subject of discussion in parliamentary circles to-day.

According to the Department of immigration there is farm work in abundance in Canada and no reason why an able-bodied man need leave Canada for lack of work. There is no report on these specific cases. So far as people being brought to Canada under false pretenses, it is pointed out the government runs no advertising in Great Britain save for farm workers and domestic, and there is ample employment in both fields.

Judge Choquette also complained that nothing is being done to bring Canadians back from the United States, when as a matter of fact, it is claimed, more Canadians are returning than ever before. One of the criticisms of the department last year was against the employment of priests to secure the repatriation of French - Canadians. Judge Choquette's own compatriots, an official stated.

NEWS IN BRIEF

BRACEBRIDGE, July 17.—Douglas Robinson, the 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robinson, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the north branch of the Muskoka River, above the Bracebridge Falls. He, with other little companions, was bathing. The body was recovered shortly afterward. Doctors worked for some time trying to bring back the spark of life.

BRANDON, Man., July 17.—Gordon Harwood, aged 23 years, was drowned in the Souris River near Melita on Sunday. His home was in Woodstock, Ont. An uncle lives in Moose Jaw, and the body will be shipped there for burial.

Drowning Accidental.

MIDLAND, July 16.—The jury empanelled to investigate the death of William H. Logan, whose body was found in the Bay last Wednesday following an all-night party in the freighter Glenbogie decided death was caused by accidental drowning while in the state of intoxication.

Booze figured prominently at the party, witness stated. Logan's body was found the next morning standing upright in just enough water to cover his head near the Great Lakes Foundry docks. The party was followed by the arrest of Jack Hanley, the captain, and the detention of three women. Hanley was later released on $7,000 bail.

Picnickers Poisoned.

IONIA, Mich., July 17.—Eighteen men, woman and children who on Sunday afternoon became ill of ptomaine poisoning after partaking of a picnic dinner during the annual reunion of the Gould and Currier families here were described as being in a serious condition yesterday. Fifty-seven others who felt effects of the poison either had recovered or were out of danger. Attending phyicians expressed the opinion that all would recover, although one of the 18 more seriously ill is not out of danger. She is Mrs. George Gould of Ionia.

All available doctors and nurses in Ionia and surrounding towns and villages worked until far into the night to save the lives of those stricken.

Operator Electrocuted.

TORONTO, July 17.—When electric wires short-circuited last night in a merry-go-round being operated by a carnival in Viaduct Park, Danforth at Broadview Avenue, Benjamin Heiges, married, aged 58, of Burton, Ohio, part owner and operator of the amusement ride, was electrocuted. The wires charged the entire revolving platform, which was holding a score or more of women and small children.

A panic occurred when the women and children received shocks from the brass rods, and they screamed for the operator to stop. Constables Gordon Mills and William Mathews jumped on the platform to rescue them, and in doing so received shocks and were hurled between 10 and 20 feet.

AIMEE M'PHERSON DECLARES THAT HOME LIFE IS TRANQUIL

Stops Plan of Group of Followers to Investigate her Parentage.

CONTRADICTS MOTHER

Takes Exception to Statement that she Handles Large Sums of Money.

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (Canadian Press). — So far as Aimee Semple McPherson is concerned, her family life is as tranquil as the waters of Lake Tahoe, where she is conducting an evangelistic campaign.

Before leaving the Angelus Temple here, she made it known that she had stopped the investigation by a her real parentage. Mrs. McPherson said there was no foundation for the assertion that Mrs. Minnie Kennedy is not her real mother.

Stating that a group of followers had sent to Canada for all the records regarding her birth to determine whether she might not be a daughter of her father by a marriage previous to that of Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs McPherson said: "Of course, I am her daughter. Any other idea is ridiculous.

Mrs. McPherson then took exception to a statement by her mother, published in Seattle, charging that the evangelist was in possession of large sums of money, and that she distributed various sums in a mysterious manner, and was unable to account for it.

Before her marriage Mrs. McPherson was Aimee Kennedy, of Ingersoll, Ontario.

Bright Colors Become More Popular On Fronts Of Peterborough's Stores

What is the reason for the sudden outburst of individuality in Peterborough's store fronts unless it is a taste to be distinctive? Bright awnings of various stripes and colors are not sufficient, but fronts of brilliant hues were noticed as The Examiner passed up the street. The most outstanding was Dixon's Store, with a brilliant pink touched up with black, and not far behind is The Naborhood Shoe Store with a vivid yellow, while James Lynch's drug store appears in a delicate shade of lavender. Others noticed were H. Kingdon's barber shop in yellow, Anthony's fruit store in orange and black, United Cigar store in red, both Hooper's stores in green, Nut-Krust in white, Dominion Stores in red, Woolworth's in red, Downyflake and Laura Secord in white, Lacey's in blue, H. Zack's in blue, and L. Green in a shade of pea green. The liquor store is not to be forgottep with its sombre brown front, but whose stock can conjure before one's eyes colors that have never before been known.

TWO STEAMERS DRIFT ASHORE

Freighter and Pilot Boat Aground in St. Lawrence During Dense Fog.

QUEBEC, July 17 (Canadian Press).—The freight steamer Michael Pembricos and the pilot's tender C. G. S. Jaelbert both went ashore about two miles west of Father Point early this morning. Few details other than that the freighter was laying off Father Point in a dense fog awaiting for the pilot's tender, and both vessels drifted aground were available. There were no fatalities.

150 FORD EMPLOYEES COLLAPSE AT WORK

SOMERVILLE, Mass., July 17 (Canadian Press).—Approximately one hundred and fifty employes of the Ford Motor Company's plant here collapsed at their work yesterday as the result of illness believed to have been caused by food eaten at noon. Ambulances and private vehicles took the sick to hospitals. Work was suspended at the plant.

PLUMBING INSPECTOR REPORTS MANY RECENT INSTALLATIONS

Twenty-Nine Permits Issued During June for Various Pieces of Apparatus.

42 INSPECTIONS.

Thirty-Six Outdoor Closets have been Done Away with in City this Year.

With plumbing permits issued to the number of twenty-nine, the past month of June has surpassed by eleven the same period in 1927, said Plumbing Inspector A. G. Metherall, in discussing the matter with The Examiner. He went on to point out that the twenty-nine permits have provided for installation of eighteen water closets, fifteen baths, nineteen basins, eighteen sinks, four laundry tubs, and nine floor drains, being eight more of the first named than installed in 1927, nine more of the second, four more of the third, nine more of the fourth, three more of the fifth, and eight more of the last named, floor drains.

During the past month forty-two inspections of plumbing have been made by water test, eighteen by smoke tests, seventeen inspections of lay-out, and twenty-two miscellaneous, all resulting in thirty-four certificates of completion. Work has been done in thirty-three new houses.

Another gratifying situation revealed by the plumbing inspector's records that since the start of 1928, thirty-six outdoor closets have been done away with in the city, including five in the past month of June.

SWIMMER DROWNS IN MOIRA RIVER

YOUNG WOMAN LOSES LIFE IN SWIMMING

Cramps Cause Death of Mrs. Madeline Jarvis in Moira River.

NEAR PARENTS' HOME

Belleville Woman Drowned while Bathing North of Tweed.

(Examiner Correspondence).

TWEED, July 17.—Swimming in the Moira River, opposite her parents' home, two miles from here, Mrs. Madeline Jarvis, of Belleville, was seized with cramp and drowned yesterday evening. Mrs. Jarvis was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hobbs, for a short rest after the labors of moving day. Leaving her four-months-old baby with her mother, she went to the river shortly after supper to bathe, and was drowned shortly afterwards. Coroner Dr. Mather of Tweed is investigating, but whether there will be an inquest has not yet been announced.

HERMAN BLODGETT NEW COUNCILLOR

Elected by Acclamation to to Succeed Ernest Timlin in Alnwick.

(Examiner Correspondence).

ROSENEATH, July 17.—Nomination yesterday resulted in Herman Blodgett being elected by acclamation to the vacancy in Alnwick Township Council.

Ernest Timlin, who resigned as Councillor, has accepted the position of road overseer.

LASSWADE PICNIC IS GREAT SUCCESS

Keenly Contested Races Feature Annual Church Outing.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LASSWADE, July 17.—St. Paul's Church, Lasswade, held its annual picnic on Wednesday, and from every standpoint was perhaps the best in its history, the total proceeds amounting to more than $100, and the sports producing more entries than usual. Ideal weather prevailed and the meals served in the fine maple grove on the picnic grounds were well patronized. Results of some of the races were as follows:

Obstacle race—1, Edwin Davis; 2, Fred McColl.

Married women's race—1, Mrs. A. Whitmore; 2, Mrs. T. Post.

Boys' race—1, Everett Whitmore; 2, Roy Hall.

Girls' race—1, Vivian Whitmore; 2, Francis Whitmore.

Tots race—1, Eva Whitmore; 2, Ruby Woodbeck and Jean Youmans.

Small boys—1, J. Reynolds; 2, Irvin Woodbeck.

Barrel tilting contest won by Fred McCall.

Name Omitted.

Apologies are due Mr. Gordon K. Fraser for omitting his name in connection with the sports at the Eden Church Haultain picnic mentioned in Friday's Examiner. Mr. Fraser worked hard in conjunction with Mr. Clink, and his services were deeply appreciated by Rev. W. A. Taylor. The omission of his name in the account given to the correspondent was purely an oversight.

Francis Phillips Fails in air Race Against Time To Regain Possession of Three Million Dollars

MONTREAL, Que., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—In a race through the air to get ahead of the machinery of the law and regain possession of three million dollars, Francis Phillips, son of the late John Phillips, who figured in the New York sewer pipe scandal, lost.

Phillips learned late last night that steps would be taken to-day to get court permission to open a safety deposit box held in his name in the Montreal Safety Deposit Box Company. He made arrangements to leave New York the first thing this morning, but bad weather and uncertain flying conditions delayed him.

PRESENTS CANE TO ORANGEMAN

Alexander Jones Has Been an Orangeman for Seventy-One Years.

AT 51 WALKS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, July 17. — Alexander Jones, of Omemee, was the recipient of a handsome cane donated by Wor. Bro. Fred Kitney at the celebration in Peterborough on Thursday. Mr. Jones, who is ninety years of age, has been seventy-one years an Orangeman. Had Mr. William Magee, of Omemee, been in the parade, he would have carried off second honor. OLD RESIDENT IS ACTIVE AT AGE OF EIGHTY-EIGHT

Mrs. Harry Sisson, Sr., is Mount Pleasant's Oldest Citizen.

LOVES FLOWERS

Uses Glasses Only for Reading Small Print—Can Sew Without Them.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 17.—Mrs. Harry Sisson, Sr., who was eighty-eight years old on the eleventh of April, 1928, is Mount Pleasant's oldest resident.

Mrs. Sisson is quite active for her years; she still grows and attends to the most beautiful flowers, for which she has cultivated a taste since she was but a very young girl when her father would fashion for her a flower bed to plant the seeds.

She uses glasses only for reading small print, being yet able to see the average print and for sewing, for with the exception of her best dresses, she does all her own sewing and still fills in idle moments doing some knitting.

She is growing old gracefully stepping quietly and serenely on to eternity to meet the father and mother, the husband, the brothers and sister who went before her.

The mild, sweet eyes of the one who has accomplished this difficult task of gracefully saluting life's declining milestone's look out from the face of Mrs. Sisson who was born at "Heave's Farm" in Westmorland, England on the 11th of April 1840 and with her parents the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jackson, came to Canada when she was but four years old.

Came In a Sailboat

At that time nothing other than the sail boat was available and six weeks was spent on the water. On arriving in Canada they same to the thirteenth concession of Cavan, to the farm now owned by Mr. Robert Ruth, at that time occupied by the late Mr. Robert Thexton, who built a log house on the south-east corner of the farm close by the road for them. Her father was a mason and did the first mason work in Mount Pleasant.

She can remember, when she was a mere child, of hearing the bears howling in the swamp, along the thirteenth concession of Cavan, now owned by Beatty Fee and a field across the road, now owned by Roy Lough, was called "Bear's Island."

She attended school in Mount Pleasant eighty years ago. Her first teacher was a young man by the name of Richardson, and her last teacher was a Mr. T. Sloan who would send some of the children home with dunce's caps on as punishment for misbehaviour.

The schoolhouse was not a modern building equipped with modern furnishings and a place of beauty, as Mount Pleasant now boasts of, but a little log schoolhouse situated south of the present school. In the school was a long desk up the centre of the room, sloped to either side where the children sat on a long bench. There was also a desk of this type around the hall.

She recalls going to school with Lizzie and Bill McPherson, Lizzie and Mary Ellen Thexton, and two children by names of Laird and Moore, a path was allowed for the six children through the crop, across by Mr. Samuel Best's property, now Mr. James Fee, to save going by the lonely road to school as long as they didn't tramp the grain. The last of her school chums who have gone before her was the late Thomas Best who died about four years ago and they attended Sunday School together with Mr. Best's father, the late Samuel Best, the teacher.

The Sunday school was at that time, held in the schoolhouse and was a Union school, children of all denominations being taught in it.

Has Old Hymn Books

Mrs. Sisson has in her possession one of the Union hymn books used over eighty years ago. She also has a deft toy, a little boy on horse-back that her grandmother gave to her in England when she was but one year old.

Mrs. Sisson has spent all her life since coming to Canada in Cavan township except seven years she lived in Otonabee, where her father died. The two years previous to her father's death, she remembers him not being well enough to work and she, with her brother James, cut the grain with a cradle, raked it with a hand rake into sheaves which they bound by hand. When she was a youngster the grain was cut by a sickle.

After her father died, her mother was left with six children, the young-

WHEAT RIPENING AT DOWNEYVILLE

Strawberries Good Crop This Year—Haying Nearly Finished.

(Examiner Correspondence)

DOWNEYVILLE, July 17.—The fall wheat looks splendid here and is beginning to turn yellow and the fields shining in the sunlight look grand. The alsike looks fine also and promises to be a splendid crop.

The strawberries are a splendid crop on account of so much rain and are selling at 15 cents a quart box or two for 25 cents.

The haying has started and the hum of the mower can be heard on all sides. The weather is good for haying.

Personals.

Mrs. Lillie Lucas and children spent Sunday the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Perdue in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Murphy and Eugene Jr. spent last Friday the guest of friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Donoghue and family of Toronto, spent the week end the guests of the former's sister, Patrick and Mrs. Harrington.

Miss Mary Costello, B.A., of Kingston, is spending the holidays the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Costello.

Miss Marguerite Hoolihan, of Toronto, spent the week-end the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hoolihan.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McAuliffe, of Ennismore spent Sunday the guest of the latter's mother, Mrs. M. Hickey.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herlihey and children, of Lindsay, spent the week-end the guest of the latter's mother, Mrs. Morrissey, in the village.

Miss Marguerite Clancy of Ottawa, is spending her holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Clancy.

Dr. Joseph Carroll, of Columbia, Ohio, is at present the guest of his mother, Mrs. Celia Carroll.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hoolihan spent Sunday the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Roy Carlow in Indian River.

Miss Kathleen Lucas, R.N., of Rochester, N.Y., is at present spending her holiday the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lucas.

Mrs. Rusk of Omemee, is spending a few days with friends here.

Zimbalist's Violin, valued at about $15,000, is Returned After having been Stolen over Eighteen Months Ago

HARTFORD, Conn., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—More than a year and a half after it was stolen, a violin owned by Efrem Zimbalist has arrived at his summer home here. The instrument, valued at from $12,000 to $15,000, was taken from Zimbalist's dressing room in a Los Angeles concert hall.

Several months later the violin was recovered from a man who was attempting to pawn it in Chicago. At that time, Zimbalist was in Australia and the instrument was sent to him there but by the time it arrived he had departed for Java. Since that time the violin has been in transit, finally ending up at the summer home of Zimbalist and his wife, Alma Gluck, the concert singer.

Warsaw Resident's Automobile Somewhat Damaged When Brakes Fail.

SON THROWN OUT

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 17.—Albert McQuaig met with a car mishap when his brakes failed to work going down the hill and around the corner near Percy Bells. He collided with a telephone pole and did considerable damage to his car, broke the windshield, top and several other parts, all of which can be repaired. He got off with only a few bruises. His young son, Kenneth, was thrown out, but he too escaped with a few bruises.

NEW PRINCIPAL IS APPOINTED

J. F. Harvey, of Newmarket, Has Been Appointed Head of Lakefield School.

FOLLOWS FATHER

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, July 17.—J. F. Harvey of Newmarket has been appointed principal of the Lakefield High School replacing J. M. Simpson who has resigned.

By a rather curious coincidence Mr. Harvey's father was principal of the local Continuation School in 1910 and continued to occupy the position for several years.

Celebrates Birthday.

On July 12th Mr. Richard Darling celebrated his ninety-first birthday and received congratulations from many friends on attaining such a great age. Mr. Darling is surprisingly active and goes about as briskly as many who lack a quarter of a century of his age. He has all his faculties and takes a keen interest in local affairs and is regular in his attendance at Regent Street United Church, of which he is a member.

C.G.I.T. Camp

Mrs. (Rev.) S. A. Kemp is in charge of the annual C.G.I.T. camp which is at Ayotte's Landing for a week. These girls are at the camp at present: Vlieta Carveth Merle Crawford, Grace Darling, Jean Galvin, Mildred Purdy, Margaret Richardson, Lula Smith, Edith Spence and Dorothy Sutton.

During the past week a considerable amount of progress has been made at the municipal weed cutting. The effectiveness of this work could be greatly increased if the individual ratepayers would co-operate by keeping their property clear of weeds as far as possible. One person's carelessness can undo the work of a dozen at least of those who are strictly observing the rules.

SCHOOL PICNIC HELD AT BETHEL

Sunday School Teacher and Scholars Enjoy Outing in Grove.

WEATHER BAD

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 17.—A Sunday school picnic was held on Monday afternoon in Chester Hamilton's grove. Bethel Sunday school invited Carmel, Warsaw United, Warsaw Presbyterian, and Cottesloe schools to join them. The date was rather unfortunate with the result that even Bethel was not fully represented and the other schools were barely represented. Many who came did so with the intention of remaining but a short time. However it was a very pleasant picnic. Friends from the various points had nice visits. There were some interesting ball games into which Mr. Herrington entered heartily. There were several races. The boy who won the boot race was Tommy Hawthorne, who had a disabled right hand. The day was delightful and the booth well patronized.

About five o'clock cloths were laid on the grass and all supper supplies laid out. When all was ready those present sat around the table and after grace was sung ample justice was done to the good things provided. Ralph Hamilton, superintendent of Bethel Sunday school and some of his school did what little waiting was necessary and they were the best of hosts.

As each basket had dishes there was no washing up and packing away afterward.

Personals.

Mr. James McIlvena, Toronto, spent a few days with Mrs. Thomas Cooper.

Mrs. Aitken of Arlington, N.J. is visiting her niece, Mrs. Rufus Payne.

Mrs. Elphett (nee Mae MacDonald) and baby are visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson; their daughter, Mrs. Robert Tighe, is there also.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sloan are moving into the rooms lately occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne.

Among the former residents who visited Warsaw on Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tedford and Miss Jean Tedford and Rev. Hugh Brown. Mrs. Brown accompanied her husband.

Mrs. E. R. Hamblin is visiting Mrs. R. W. Payne for a week.

Miss Marion Pogue has returned to Warsaw.

Mrs. John Sargent, a member of the L.O.B.A. walked with the Havelock Lodge, as there is no Warsaw Lodge.

Mrs. Murray (nee Barbara Kidd) left for Belleville where she is now living. She spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. James Hawthorne.

Beg Your Pardon.

The ladies' auxiliary of The Canadian Legion was represented at the decoration service in St. Peter's Cemetery. Three ladies accompanied the veterans in their memorial work. Mrs. R. Bugg placed a wreath on the cenotaph in cemetery. Those present were Mrs. E. Patterson, Mrs. R. Bugg and Mrs. R. Kinstry.

Evening Examiner Fashion

A Distinguished Frock

The frock pictured here is an unusually smart style and would be exceedingly chic if fashioned of satin or woollen material with a contrasting front over which the jacket is lapped. The bodice is slightly gathered to the skirt having four plaits at each side, and the two narrow belts are finished with buckles, while braid makes an effective trimming on the jacket and tight-fitting sleeves. No. 1671 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39-inch, or 2¾ yards 54-inch material; ¾ yard 39-inch contrasting for front; 4 yards braid. Price 20 cents the pattern.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

WOMAN holds in her hand the destiny of the nations, no greater leader can rise who is not born of woman, ministered to and raised by a woman's hand." Thus said Mrs. W. J. Cox, of Memphis, Tenn., president of the Women's Union of the Southern Baptist Convention, when she addressed the Women's meeting at the recent World Congress held in Toronto.

* * *

She admitted that the modern girl may be unconventional, but she added, "I wonder when I think of the trailing skirts, spider waists and high collars of my youth, that I have as much initiative as I have." Mrs. Cox said that she did not know of any Christian girl in skirts that were two short and these girls in short skirts are going to lead the women of other lands to a new vision that will place them on an equality with their husbands.

* * *

This question of short skirts, as I have intimated before, is exercising the minds of some Peterborough people, and it is in an effort to calm their fears that I touch the subject again.

* * *

Anyhow, we could not do very much to lengthen the knee length skirt even if we wanted to, unless fashion took a notion to make skirts a little longer. I wonder what our girls would do then?

* * *

Every day we hear a joke or a sneer centering on the modern girl, but isn't she more able and better equipped in every way for this life than were our ancestors of yesterday?

* * *

The physical constitution of our 1928 Peterborough girls is far superior to that of previous generations, and the cheerful willingness shown by modern youth to give up not only manifold luxuries, but life itself, would seem to indicate that there is little ground for pessimism.

* * *

Don't forget, either, the important place our modern girls took in the Great War, sacrificing their lives, many of them, for their country. And that glorious history would be repeated to-day if the same call came.

* * *

"Oh those rumble seats, I think they're terrible." This is one expression of the rumble seat which was overheard when an elderly lady saw two young people getting the full benefit of the breeze.

* * *

An interesting dark wrap for travelling was noticed recently on George street, being worn by a tourist who had merely stopped for the moment. The material, on momentary inspection, seemed to be of a corded silk nature, with large flowing sleeves which were lined with a light blue silk. A small band of white around the collar and tiny white stars, one on each sleeve at the shoulder and one in the center of the back, were the only trimmings.

THE KING'S HEAD, CHIGWELL

In his "Barnaby Rudge," Charles Dickens calls this ancient inn, the Maypole, but inns like roses with a different name, have the same old look and favor. You can motor out to it from London within the hour and enjoy much of the easy-going Essex countryside enroute. No inn in Dickens plays a more important part than the Maypole in "Barnaby Rudge;" it is the pivot of the story. Joe Willet and, Dolly, Gabriel Varden, Solomon Daisy, John Chester and Geoffrey Haredale all had some relation to this inn. I missed "the wide dismantled staircase" as I climbed up to the Chester Room, but that room occupying the whole depth of the house, is still "the best room," and was almost too vast for comfort, but the bedroom is still what Joe Willet called it, "as warm as a toast in a tankard." It is no longer true that "there are no other inns thereabout," but Joe's boast to the "ragtag and bobtail," "there's an inn which is an inn indeed that you won't see the like of often," is still good gospel. In the old churchyard opposite, perhaps you can find the tomb where Barnaby and his mother sat and ate their frugal meal. Please visit delightful Chigwell.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Bulging buttons of navy blue edged with gold are used in link form to fasten collar and cuffs of the frock indicated in the circle above. Silver ball buttons are used in the gray crepe de chine blouse shown at the right, a large gold button fastens the belt of the beige crepe de chine frock as indicated below and the georgette dinner frock shown at the left is ornamented with two large jeweled buttons.

"Button, button, who's got the button?"

The answer a few seasons ago would not have been very encouraging. You yourself might have searched your entire wardrobe and not have found a single button save a large one at the side of your winter coat—which really wasn't necessary, since you probably held your coat together anyway. Unless you wore mannish shirt blouses for sports wear there probably just weren't any buttons to be found.

Now they say buttons are making their way to the front again. Little danger that they will be revived for lingerie, but there are ever so many ways that ornamental buttons may be used to add distinction to our clothes. Frequently buttons are quite expensive, containing precious or semi-precious stones.

For many months now the French dressmakers have been ransacking the collections of old jeweled buttons contained in the trays of dealers of antique jewelry. A set of gold or jeweled buttons that adorned the waistcoat of some dandy of the eighteenth century might be brought to light to adorn a new frock to be worn by a belle of the twentieth century.

A full set of these old buttons might be hard to find. So the French dressmakers have devised ways in which one or two might be shown to advantage. A single button might be used in place of a buckle on a narrow belt or might be used as the top button on a blouse—with plain gilt or silver buttons following. Two buttons might be used in the manner shown in the dinner frock indicated in the sketch. Two buttons might be joined with a silken shaft to form the closing of a blouse at the neck. If there were four of a sort there might be links for the sleeve openings besides.

Perhaps in your own button box or jewel box you have some old buttons that might be used to advantage in some such way. Or if you like to poke about in the shops of second-hand jewelry dealers you might be able to find a number of old buttons that, until the fad for buttons is established here as it is in Paris, you might be able to get for very small cost.

The Art of Attraction

THE ART OF ATTRACTION.

No. 3.

One of the first things the husband-seeking girl does is to find out a man's chief interest and then ask him to tell her all about it. This may seem like old stuff, but the masculine mind doesn't change. Doubtless, Eve, on the joint expulsion from the Garden of Eden after the unfortunate episode of the apple, deflected Adam's mind from her shortcomings by taking an immense interest in the way in which he handled the first spade, or its equivalent.

Therefore, if your young man likes baseball and is a fan at the game, try and learn all you can about it, even if you have an active dislike for the sport. Or if he is a camera fiend and totes a kodak along on every occasion and spends many hours mounting his snaps, take advantage of that harmless diversion and find out all you can about it. If he likes music, cultivate any talent you may possess along that line. It will pay you, if you are really interested in landing him.

Just a Joke

NATURALLY.

"These are the very latest patterns we have in stock," declared the young salesman in a large draper's. "You'll notice that the edge runs right around the border," he continued smoothly, "and the centre is just in the middle."

"How lovely," exclaimed his rather fussy customer. "I'll have two of those."

SLIPPERS OF DESTINY

By June Watson

Raymond found the package on his table when he went up to dress for the Flemmings' dance. He had thought that he would give up dancing, but this was a particular occasion, Billy Flemming having a birthday and his wife insisting on a real old-time party.

So Raymond had hied him to his favorite shoe shop and been fitted to dancing pumps, and the oblong box testified to their arrival at the last minute. Raymond dressed leisurely, and when he had finished he untied the oblong box and opened it.

There he stopped aghast. Instead of a pair of shiny patent leather pumps, he found nestling in the white tissue paper a tiny pair of high-heeled slippers, frivolous cloth of gold trifles that glistened in the light.

"Hang it all—of course I can't wear these," he told the world in a complaining tone. "Of all the absurd mistakes—well, Mrs. Billy, you can count one dancing man out." He put the little slippers away in his chiffonier, smiling indulgently at them as he did so. Some little fluffy thing might be sighing for those very slippers, but she could not help smiling at sight of his new and shining pumps when they reached her!

"Not dancing?" asked Mrs. Billy, frowning at him.

He told her that, lacking dancing shoes, he had ordered them and been disappointed in their delivery.

"You are like poor Nellie Warren—she says she received an enormous pair of men's shoes instead of her own—she is wearing an old pair and is as cross as can be. Go and find her and dance with her—fellow sufferers should console each other."

Raymond skirted the dancers and found a place comfortable for wallflowers. He wondered which girl would prove to be Nellie Warren. He rather liked her name, simple and unassuming, but she would have been splendid in gold slippers, if—

He fell to watching the dancing feet of the girls, noting the dainty footgear until his eyes were dazzled with the procession of silver slippers and gold slippers and colored ones. Then he started, for tripping along in perfect time to Billy Flemming's ponderous feet, were a tiny pair of shabby gray slippers—they were emergency shoes, he knew, for they were worn with golden hued silk hose and a golden tissue frock.

The girl herself—he caught a glimpse of a dark, bewitching face, golden hued eyes, a flash of rose color in cheeks and lips, and she was gone. She might not be his Cinderella of the slippers, but she was undoubtedly a wonder-girl.

"Hello!" bellowed Flemming's voice beside him. "Do take care of Miss Warren—Raymond, Arch Raymond—you've heard of him, Nellie; can't dance tonight because he hasn't any shoes. I am called away to the 'phone —." He drifted away into the crowd and Raymond smiled down at the wonder-girl whom Fate had sent to him.

"Aren't you going to dance?" she asked as her little feet kept time to the alluring music.

He glanced down at his feet. "I might try—I'm a clumsy beggar at my best," he apologized.

"Such a pity," she said teasingly after awhile as they paused for breath; "if you only had the stunning pair of patent leather pumps that came to me instead of my own darling golden shoes—you couldn't dance a bit better than you do."

"Is that a compliment or otherwise?"

"It isn't otherwise!" she laughed.

Later in the evening they had danced together so often that people were smiling indulgently at Arch Raymond. His appearance at a dance was a mark of signal triumph for his hostess, and that he should be worshipping at the shrine of penniless Nellie Warren was a social triumph for the girl.

They had supper together, and when the huge birthday cake was cut, it was Nellie Warren who found a ring in her slice. "I've had the most delightful time," she sighed as they said good night.

"I shall never forget it," he said gravely, "and perhaps, tomorrow you will let me come and bring Cinderella's slippers."

"You had them?" she gasped.

He nodded. "Mine went to you, and yours to me. If I had not seen you—" he stopped, for he was saying too much for a short acquaintance.

"I may come?" he asked instead.

"Of course—I am staying with the Flemmings."

So he went home—back to his rooms where the golden slippers were locked in his chiffonier. Suppose he did take them out of their wrappings and reverently kiss each bit of glistening gold—were they not the shoes of destiny—had not their owner danced her way into his heart? And she—had not their eyes met?

He put the shoes away, his young eyes dreaming.

He knew that love had come at last.

Prints and lace still lead at the Chantilly races.

The newest pleats are introduced into the skirt all on one side.

The bun and the bob are the two hairdressing styles that are attracting most attention in Paris at the moment, and of these the modern bob is much the more feminine and picturesque for the "bun" is the uncompromising chignon of the 1880's, with hair painfully dragged back from the forehead to reveal the outline of the head.

A Paris correspondent writes—"It almost makes one gasp to find the hats of the immediate future lavishly trimmed with trails of flowers, ribbon bows, or ruchings of tulle. The chic Parisienne has always had a horror of anything that might be described as "Endimanchee," otherwise "dressed up!"

ASK THE BOY WHO'S HAD ONE.

Some twenty-seven happy looking boys left Peterborough yesterday afternoon to join the contingent at Camp Skookum and to replace some of the youngsters who have returned from the Rotary camp after two most enjoyable weeks at Clear Lake.

The camp roster will thus be maintained at full strength, and it is the hope of the Rotary Club that this will be the case for the balance of the summer.

Rotarians believe that a camp where local boys can enjoy a real outing under intelligent supervision and with the necessary facilities for the kind of holiday that every lad appreciates is a necessity, and hence Camp Skookum, where at a nominal price the boys of Peterborough are offered all the advantages of an ideal holiday.

No boys' camp in Canada provides such an outing at such trivial cost to the boy, and in view of this fact, the accommodation at Camp Skookum should be taxed to its utmost until the end of next month.

Parents who have not yet investigated this opportunity for a real holiday for their boys would be well advised to consult members of the Rotary Club in the matter.

THE PITTSBURG VISIT.

The visit to this district of the Pittsburg Automobile Dealers' Association was a thorough success, not only from the viewpoint of enjoyment for the visitors, but because of the splendid publicity Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes will receive as a result of the experience of the Pittsburg delegation.

Every member of the visiting party was thoroughly sold on this section as a tourist's paradise, and many of them are not only determined to come back here for a more extended visit, but also to tell their friends of what Peterborough has to offer.

The local citizens who helped to entertain the Pittsburg men and who supplied motor cars to provide transportation for them contributed a real community service that cannot fail to earn dividends in the future.

They saw to it that the visitors did not miss anything of interest in this district, and the result of it all is that some 75 well-known Pittsburg men are returning home enthusiastic over this city and district and prepared to act as boosters for the Kawarthas whenever automobile trips are being planned by Smoky City residents.

Incidentally, the Pittsburg visitors made a hit with their hosts as thoroughly good fellows whom it was a pleasure to meet.

DOING A GREAT WORK.

Although not now as actively connected with the Dr. Barnardo's Homes as in the days when a home for girls was located here, Peterborough is still interested enough in the work of these institutions to learn in connection with the celebration of Founder's Day recently that the activities of the Barnardo Homes is constantly increasing.

In the Old Country the homes have extended in all directions, and the establishments under the Barnardo direction include model villages for boys and girls, technical schools, naval and mercantile training centres, emigration centres, babies' homes, hospitals, convalescent homes, branches for special cases, and ever open doors all over the country.

In all 176 cottages, households and branches in Great Britain, Canada and Australia (exclusive of hundreds of boarding-out centres in rural districts) comprise the Barnardo Homes.

The great family always numbers about 8,000 children, on an average five are admitted daily, and last week witnessed the admission of the child who bears the proud distinction of being number 106,000.

In this part of Ontario all have seen Barnardo children grow up into useful and successful Canadians, and when the call to arms came in 1914 they were quick to respond, the honor roll of Dr. Barnardo's homes being one of great length.

A WELCOME ALLY.

It is with pleasure that we welcome the Toronto Globe into the ranks of those who believe that the Trent Canal should be completed as soon as possible.

The conversion of the Globe to this view is a very significant event, inasmuch as not so very long ago that splendid newspaper was not very much impressed with the possibilities of the Trent Waterway, and indeed expressed opinions in regard to the canal that were, to say the least, discouraging to the people in the Trent district, who knew the value of the Trent and appreciate the desirability of its completion.

The fact that the Globe has now come out squarely in favor of the finishing of the canal and has pointed out to the Government that the time has come when this work might well be undertaken should have a heartening effect upon the municipalities along the front and prove a stimulus to the campaign that is to be waged for the completion of the Severn section.

Here is what the Globe has to say about the matter:

"Representatives of municipalities along the Trent Waterway made a trip over the Severn River section a few days ago, and at its conclusion drafted a resolution expressing the conviction that the unfinished portion should be completed as soon as possible. This development, designed as a channel for pleasure and business craft between Lake Ontario and the Georgian Bay, was nearing the end of construction when the war interfered. As a result the marine railway being built to carry boats over Ragged Rapids was not finished. The cribwork was done and the lock was partly constructed; now the walls are falling to pieces. The marine railway at Big Chute is operating, but will not accommodate a boat larger than 68 feet and more than 13.6 feet beam. For larger vessels a canal will be needed.

"The value of this work from a commercial standpoint is of importance, without doubt, and as a contribution to Canada's attractions for tourists its value should appreciate yearly. It traverses a picturesque country, with new and interesting vistas at every turn. For a leisurely holiday by boat it offers exceptional advantages, taking the travellers into quiet retreats, yet within reasonable distance of towns and cities at all times.

"The Peterborough Examiner points out that 7,145 pleasure craft passed through the Severn locks in 1927. Some 32,500 tons tons of freight were carried up the river and 25,800 tons down. The statement of the Department of Railways and Canals shows that for the fiscal year ending with March, 1927, the revenue of the Trent system was $95,900,000 and disbursements $513,700. For a waterway which receives little publicity and is still not in proper shape, it is doing well. If put on the map literally and figuratively it would become a much more valuable adjunct to the provincial transportation system.

"This improvement is deserving of the attention of the Government. It will be recalled that during the post-war days interested municipalities refrained from making demands on the Government for its completion, and this regard for the country's finances entitles them to special consideration now that the Government is in a better position to pick up the loose ends of business.

"The municipalities have a good case, and, it is hoped, will receive sympathetic hearing."

HEROISM IN THE ARCTIC.

Many epics of tragedy, heroism and death in the North have been written, but few can equal that associated with the ill-fated Italia. Tragic indeed was the passing of that famous airship. Having made a successful flight to the Pole and returning in triumph to receive the plaudits of the world, it was stricken and fell like a wounded bird into the frozen wastes of the Arctic, never to see the light of civilization again.

As soon as it was known that something had happened to the Italia, calls were made for volunteers to go to the rescue of the gallant crew. It was a hazardous venture fraught with as deadly perils as men ever encounter. Every man who responded to the call took his life in his hands. He gambled with death. He might go north, but there was a possibility that he might never return. But this fearful prospect did not deter the brave men of vessel and plane. There was an instant response to the call for volunteers. One never appeals in vain to the heroism of men.

Nor was the response confined to the nationality of the imperilled crew of the Italia. Men of various countries responded with a common readiness. Bravery is not the heritage of any one race; it belongs to all. No country is so small or so despised that it cannot produce heroes when occasion demands. Russia of late has not stood high in the estimation of other countries. They have regarded it as having forfeited their respect by its plotting against their Governments, and by its defiance of the laws of God and of man. Russia has come to be regarded as the scarlet woman of the nations. But the noble response which scorned Russia has made to the appeal for aid in rescuing the Italia's crew shows that this nation is not composed wholly of cut-throats, murderers, moral degenerates and agnostics.

There are real heroes in that unhappy land, men who count not their own lives dear when they can go to the rescue of others in dire distress, even if they be not of their own flesh and blood No body of men have worked harder to save those Italians wrecked in the Far North than have the Russians. In plane and icebreaker they have toiled incessantly to bring succer to the men of the Italia.

Such tenacity and bravery as theirs deserved to succeed, and it has. Through the combined efforts of a Russian plane and icebreaker, the survivors of the Nobile gondola party and two of the three men who left the airship, after it crashed, in an attempt to reach land and who were for a time thought to have perished, have been rescued. The Russians were unable to save the life of the third, as death got there before they did, but they are bringing in his body.

The treasuring of this body by the two survivors constitutes one of the most thrilling of the many thrilling episodes connected with the wreck of the Italia. Although exhausted, half frozen and starved, and facing what seemed to be certain death, they kept faith with their dead companion and watched over his body until such time as they should lie down beside it and die, or deliver it into the hands of other men. Here was heroism in a glorious, if ghastly, form.

Another of the sublimely heroic acts was the splendid sacrifice of Roald Amundsen. Despite the fact that he had not been on friendly terms with Nobile, having strongly criticized his conduct in a previous flight, he readily consented to take part in the search. He flew away one day, nearly a month ago, and has not been heard of since. He has been given up for dead, but no man can die in a finer cause than in seeking the safety of one who was not regarded as a friend.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A Camp Skookum holiday is an ideal outing. Ask the boy who's had one.

Another long list of accidents over the week-end shows that no relaxation in the safety campaign can be permitted just yet.

Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, is one of Canada's best shots, but Miss Agnes MacPhail should take notice of the fact that he is showing no signs of wanting to shoot anybody.

That heading the other night, "Welcome Detour," must have been a mistake. There are no detours of that kind.

No reports of Premier Ferguson's activities overseas have been received for several days. The press agent must be having a holiday.

And by the same token, there is a strange lack of news from Premier King's farm.

H. G. Q.—What is the Canadian Manufacturers' Association?

A.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has a membership of over 4,000; whereas there were only 132 in 1900. Eight hundred manufacturers act on the executive council and other committees. The association is administered through five divisional offices and four branch offices. There are 65 manufacturers' associations in Canada with a membership of over 10,000, 40% of which are in the C.M.A. and with which many others are affiliated.

GOD'S MINUTE

Let God be magnified.—Ps. 70:4.

* * *

O God our Father, we earnestly desire in these brief moments, to give Thee thanks for all the blessings which enter into our lives, and enable us thus to come to Thee. According to Thy knowledge of us commune with us, and grant us comfort in sadness, guidance in our perplexities, strength for all duty, and preservation from all evil. If in anything—in thought, or word, or deed, we have grieved Thee, forgive us, for His sake Who gave Himself for us; and wherein we have failed, grant us sufficient grace that we may fail no more. May Thy Good Spirit make Thee so real to us this day, and reveal Thee to us as so consciously near, in all that lies before us, that when its hours shall have passed away forever, there may be left no saddening memory of failure. In all these things, hear us, O Father, for others as well as for yourselves; especially for all who are dearest to us, whether close at hand or far away. May there come special blessing to them, even according to all their real need. We beseech Thee to guide and strengthen all who are fighting the good fight on behalf of righteousness, and have pity on all who seem to be content with evil. So do Thou now and ever hear and answer us, beyond all our thought, and abide with us even to the uttermost, for our Saviour's sake. Amen.

A Thought

PATIENCE.

Patience is the ballast of the soul. Without it any passing storm will set the ship tossing and straining. With it the vessel can keep steady and go forward, or, at the worst, lie safely in the biggest tempest that can blow over the seas of life.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, July 17. — One hundred and fifty-five cars were received at the local stock yards over the week-end, comprising 3,200 cattle, 500 calves, 642 hogs, and 802 sheep.

The market opened yesterday morning steady and firm. On all finished butcher offerings the market was firm with choice butcher steers picking up rapidly. There was a good clean-up of quality stuff with no change in price. Cows, except grass stuff, were selling steady. Unfinished grass cattle were subject to a slight cut in price, but yesterday morning the cleaning up was moving along steadily.

Choice baby beef topped last week's price at $13.25. Others graded down under steady prices. Bulls were steady. Springers and milkers were slow, with only local buyers in the market.

Market for lambs was slow and unsettled. No sales were recorded in the early morning, but the prospects are that the market will close at $14.25 to $14.75, with odd lots at $14.15.

Calves were slow, top selling $13.50 to $14.50, off a trifle. Shipments to United States centres are not as heavy as last week, accounting for the deline in price.

Hogs, f.o.b selects, brought 12c.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 17 (Canadian Press). — The demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for grain here yesterday was of a limited character and little business was transacted. There was no further change in prices for cash grain, and the volume of business was small.

Owing to the further weakness in cash wheat situation at Winnipeg, a weaker feeling developed in the local flour market for spring wheat grades and millers generally reduced prices 10c per barrel. All the orders received for flour over the week-end fom foreign buyers were accepted by millers, and a moderate amount of business was done, but there was no improvement in the loal demand.

There was no change in winter wheat flour, prices being maintained on account of the small offerings.

The trade in millfeed was quiet, but as there was no pressure of supplies on the market, the undertone was steady and prices were unchanged. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was slow, but values were firm.

The demand for butter was quiet, with an easy undertone, but no actual change in prices was announced. The receipts were 673 packages.

The export trade in cheese was very quiet owing to the fact that English importers did not respond to all the offers made over the week-end, and only odd sales of Western No. 1 white and colored were made at 118s per cwt., while trading on spot between houses was slow. The receipts were 7,702 boxes.

Largest Air Transport uses this Better Oil

Sky View Lines Limited, operating passenger airplane services over Niagara Falls and to Toronto and other Canadian points, standardizes on Marvelube Motor Oil.

Sky View Lines transports 5,000 passengers monthly in its Ford-Stout tri-motor all metal plane "Niagara"—the plane which flew to the rescue of the Bremen fliers at Greenly Island.

"In the interests of safety and efficiency" says Major J. O. Leach, Director of Operations, "we use Marvelube Motor Oil and Imperial Gasoline exclusively. We carefully analysed samples of Marvelube after protracted service and found it to be in perfect condition.

"We thoroughly check our motors at frequent intervals and these inspections convince us that in Marvelube we have an oil of outstanding quality perfectly suited to the most exacting requirements of our airplane motors."

SWEET CLOVER CUTTING BEGUN

Thomas Sullivan Has Fall Wheat Five Feet High at King's Wharf.

STRAWBERRIES GOOD

(Examiner Correspondence)

KING'S WHARF, July 17.—The haying season is on and the people have started cutting sweet clover which is not so heavy as last year. There are some wonderful fields of alsike and fall wheat here. Thomas Sullivan has fall wheat five and six feet high. It is wonderful to see and a sight worth seeing as he has about 40 acres. The alsike is also good and promises to be a good crop There are a number of patches of strawberries and they are a bumper crop, so large and plentiful. The price is lower than last year. They sell for 12 cents per box lower in price than in a number of years.

Severe Storm.

There was a bad storm in this locality Sunday with heavy hail. It cut off tomato and potato stalks and broke windows. There were three windows broken in Joseph Guiry's house. There was also a bad thunder storm with several trees struck by lightning. The recent rains are doing a large amount of good and if too much don't come the late crops will be splendid.

Trent River

Trent River, July 17.—Three Toronto young men enjoy cruise up the canal route. Messrs. Frank James, E. Hathaway, and Dr. Howard Lloyd left Toronto Tuesday, July 10, by way of Lake Ontario to Trenton and up the Trent Valley Canal in Mr. Frank James' trim little yacht. On reaching Trenton, there was a buoy misplaced somewhere north of that village and the boat ran on a rock and broke off one of the keels—springing a leak, which was temporarily repaired. On reaching Trent River resort, they anchored in front of "Isle of View" (Dr. Lloyd's summer home), and remained over night as guests with Mrs. T. Lloyd and daughter, Mrs. T. Lamphier. This yacht has two keels, and on reaching Peterborough will go into drydock for repairs before resuming their journey to Georgian Bay. Mr. James named his yacht "Mardon" (named for his two children, Margaret and Donald). During the evening of their stopover here they attended the dance at Coral Gables Casino, where Mr. Hathaway played a few popular piano selections for round dancing, which received hearty applause.

Friday morning the journey was continued en route up the canal; they are on a three weeks' vacation.

Garden strawberries are becoming scarce, while raspberries are ripening and the bushes are heavily laden. Fresh cherries are on sale at one of the local groceries.

Mr. Charles Davidson, Campbellford, is having "Sunnyside" repainted.

The following from this school are receiving congratulations for having passed the entrance examinations held at Campbellford Centre: Alice Garneau, Agnes Wight, Bessie Inkster, Charles Wight, and Milton Hawley.

Madoc

MADOC, July 16.—The brethren of Madoc L.O.L. No. 160 attended divine service at the Anglican Church of St. John the Baptist on July 8. The sermon was preached by Rev. W. C. Lansberry.

Celebration.

Madoc Lodge, with the lodges from the surrounding districts celebrated the glorious Twelfth in Stirling this year.

At an early hour cars began to arrive in Madoc filled with Orangemen and their families, and soon a steady stream was wending its way to Stirling. Several fife and drum bands made music for all along the way, and judging from numbers, music and decorations all were prepared to celebrate the day right royally.

AUTHORITIES ARE PROUD OF SHIP'S RECORD

Explorers and Rescuers Saved From Icy Wastes Around Spitzbergen.

FIFTEEN ON BOARD

Further Efforts Are Being Made to Find the Remaining Six Men.

MOSCOW, July 17 (A.P.)—With all refugee explorers and rescuers saved from the barren coasts and icy waters around Spitzbergen, the Soviet rescue expedition is turning its attention towards the forlorn hope that six men carried away in the balloon portion of the dirigible Italia may be found alive and that Roald Amundsen and his missing companions may also be discovered in that vicinity.

The Russian ice breaker Krassin, the 10,000 ton vessel which last week rescued seven survivors of General Umberto Nobile's expedition, yesterday was heading toward Advent Bay to refuel for the attempt to locate trace of the twelve men whose fate is yet in doubt.

The Krassin reported yesterday by radio that late the night before she took aboard the Russian aviator Chukhnovsky and the four men who were with him when he made a forced landing near Cape Platen after discovering Captains Zappi and Mariano on their iceberg. The Krassin also took aboard three Italians and a Norwegian guide of the name of Noiss, who had been put ashore by the Norwegian icebreaker Braganza to bring out the Chuknovsky party. These rescuers arrived at the Cape Platen camp while the Krassin was leading Chukhnovsky's damaged plane.

Delighted With Record

Soviet government circles do not try to conceal their delight at the record made by their big ship made in the Arctic drama now nearing its end. Without disparaging the heroic work of Finnish, Swedish, Norwegian and Italian aviators, they lay emphasis upon the fact that the Krassin has taken fifteen men off the ice against five men rescued by all other expeditions combined.

General Nobile was taken away in a small plane by Lieut. Einar Lundberg. Later Lundberg himself was marooned at the ice camp near Foyn Island until he was rescued in similar fashion by Lieut. Shyberg, a fellow Swedish army airman.

Captain Sora and his dog driver, Van Dongen, were saved from Foyn Island by one Finnish and two Swedish seaplanes. Their comrade, Varming, who had been left behind because of snow blindness at Cape Brun, was taken aboard the Braganza.

All On Krassin

All other known survivors of the Nobile expedition as well as the men picked up yesterday at Cape Platen, found safety aboard the Krassin. Due to her record and the known capabilities of her personnel, the Soviet rescue commission feels certain that she will be able to reach the vicinity about twenty-five miles from where the Italia was wrecked and where it is hoped to find some evidence of what happened after the gondolas were torn loose and spilled General Nobile and his companions on the ice.

All the rescued Italians now aboard the Krassin will be transferred as quickly as possible to the Citta di Milano. This was decided yesterday by the Soviet rescue commission after a request to that effect had been received from General Nobile. The Krassin will coal at Advent Bay and then proceed to some convenient harbor to meet the Citta di Milano and effect the transfer.

OLD RESIDENT IS ACTIVE

est was seventeen months and the oldest 18 years.

She recalls Peterborough, when all south of Charlotte street was swamp land, Charlotte street west of Park was all vacant and called the "Daisy field."

She remembers distinctly the visit of King Edward VII when he came to Canada as the Prince of Wales, seeing him at the station in Ashburnham, an old lady went up to him and shook hands with him and said "God Bless Your Royal Highness."

She recalls hearing her husband's father tell when they came to Canada, they walked all the way from Port Hope to the ninth line of Cavan. Turning west at Cavanville, they had only the blaze marks on the trees to follow.

Married at Twenty-three

Mrs. Sisson was married when she was 23 years of age to the late Harry Sisson, who passed to the great beyond twenty-one years ago on the eighteenth of August, at the age of sixty-seven years. They were married in St. Mary's church, Manvers on the twelfth of February, 1863. The Rev. Noah Disbrowe, who was stationed on the Omemee and Manvers circuit officiated. The bride's maid was Ellen Mason and the groomesman was a brother, William Sisson.

After they were married they lived on the north end of Mr. Archie Kennedy's farm which was at that time belonging to the church and called the Glebe property from whom they had it rented. While she would be milking the cows in the evening on the side of the road, she remembers Mr. Joseph Lowe passing every evening on horseback, coming home from his day's work.

Mr. Lowe is still living and will be eighty-six the seventh of August, 1928.

In those days horses were just coming in and quite common were the oxen and ox-carts passing by. Now, Mrs. Sisson, says, the flying machines are going over her head.

An elderly woman, most commonly called "Granny Robinson," who lived where Mr. Harry Sisson, Jr., now lives, attended the sick for miles around, and nearly every night would get a call and always travelled to the sick on horseback. Doctors were very scarce. Mrs. Sisson can remember a doctor coming from Peterboro.

After the Glebe property was sold, she with her husband, moved to the Sisson homestead on the tenth line of Cavan west, afterwards living on the farm now owned by Roy Lough, across from St. John's church for seven years. From there they moved to the farm now owned by Mr. Harry Bryans where they lived for twenty-fiveyears and where Mr. Sisson died. Afterwards she moved to her present residence where she has lived for the past sixteen years.

Spun This Own Yarn

She recalls spinning of stocking yarn, flannel for dresses and men's shirts, and full cloth for the men's trousers. They would spin enough flannel for a new dress every year and then take their good one to wear every day.

Eggs Five Cents a Dozen

Many a time she walked to Bethany, a distance of nine miles and carried a basket of eggs, for which she received the large sum of five cents a dozen, and would sell tubs of butter—these were fifty and one hundred pound weights—that would bring only ten cents a pound.

They would take their wheat to the grist mill run by the late Thomas Best, which is operated by Hiram G. Best at present and receive their flour. They would take their oats to the oat mill which was situated near Mrs. Brown's home, west of the village and was operated by the late Samuel Best, and get their oatmeal for porridge.

Mrs. Sisson is a member of the Anglican church and for the past sixty-five years has attended St. John's Anglican Church, Ida. She is an honorary member of the W. A. of St. John's church and still takes an active part in the work of the W.A. She cuts all the patches for the quilts that are made and when the blocks are made she sews them together.

Mrs Sisson has one brother, Mr Jas. Jackson living at Bailieboro who is eighty-six on the twentieth of July, 1928, and one sister, Mrs. William Sisson, who resides on Pearl Avenue Peterborough who is seventy-one years of age.

Two brothers and a sister are deceased — Richard, Thomas and Agnes.

She has one son, Mr. James Sisson, who resides in Ida, and one daughter, Miss Annie Sisson, who resides with her mother on the homestead where her grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sisson, Jr., also reside.
